LONDON SLUMS.

What, after all, is the great distinctive feature of the East End to be first noticed is the remarkable way in which these people have clustered together in such numbers in this locality. Right in the heart of the West you will find "slums" as squalid and repulsive as any to be seen in Whitechapel or Shadwell. In the north, in the south, and in the south-west, you can pass through districts resembling in many respects those I am now specially referring to. But there is one essential difference. In the East you use the thing in its most imposing dimensions; in the South or the West you are only looking at a miniature reproduction of it. You soon emerge from the alleys and courts of Drury Lane or Seven Dials into broad, handsome thoroughfares, where fashion and wealth are constantly to be found. You can quickly escape from the poverty of Lambeth and "The Borough" into the respectability of Walworth or Kennington. But in the East, as I have said, it is different. It is possible to walk for a couple of miles or more along the Whitechapel road without encountering anything approaching aristocratic wealth or middle class respectability. You can then turn north and make a circuit of a mile and a half through Bethnal Green and meet with the same result. Or you can wend your way in the opposite direction towards the river and traverse Shadwell and St. George's in the East and you will find yourself in lower depths still. The East End, in fact, is what it is because it is so extensive, and to use a favorite word of Lord Beaconsfield's—so homogeneous.

When this truth is recognized it is easy to understand why in more than one respect it is so distinctly marked off, if I may use the term, from the rest of the metropolis. Between it and the West lies the city as defined by the Corporation boundaries, and strange as it may read, it is no exaggeration to say that the inhabitants of the two contrasted neighbourhoods east and west of these limits live in a state of mutual ignorance of one another's mode life, habits, and circumstances that to the more democratic Canadian or American would be really appalling. The average East ender knows nothing of the surroundings and doings of the "upper ten" beyond what his work, when it happens to lie in that direction, or an occasional excursion on a show day or a public holiday, may enable him to pick up. That knowledge obviously cannot count for much. His "missus" similarly very rarely goes beyond the limits of her own parish. The periodical visits of the middle-class housewife to the west to inspect "the shops" and purchase her stock of Millinery and drapery for the season are quite out of the question for the denizens of Stephney; and lastly, any curiosity in the East-End work-girl might feel in this matter is amply satisfied by the romances of the Family Reader and the kindred publications with which she occupies some of her spare moments, and in the pages of which nothing lower than earls and baronets, town mansions and country houses are allowed to figure. On the other hand, the West ignores the East with equal thoroughness. To all "London Society," except the few members of it who take an interest in philanthropic work, the region beyond Aldgate is a terra incognita. As a general rule, "the nobility, landed gentry, and aristocracy," know nothing, and desire to learn nothing, as to how life is lived in the narrow streets of Whitechapel or the courts of Steppney. They know the East-Enders are very poor, and in some cases there is a tendency, except at many views of a far more serious character. And so in mutual ignorance, and with perhaps a slight feeling of mutual prejudice, the old caste traditions are maintained by the two classes.

A Fine Young Man at a Club.

A Guards' Club has just had an interesting financial experience. A well-dressed young man, with a sufficient swagger, walked into the club, hung up his hat, put his stick in the rack, scanned the play bills and sauntered into the coffee-room, where he sat down and ordered luncheon. While this was being got ready, however, the waiter, who did not recognize his face, consulted with another waiter and then came to him, saying. "I Beg pardon, sir; are you a member of the club, sir?" "Oh, yes," replied the young man, "I am Mr. D——, and have just joined the Coldstream." The doubt being thus allayed, the luncheon was served, after which Mr. D—— asked for a blank cheque and drew a cheque to Guard's Club or bearer for £10, out of which he paid for his luncheon. This was on a Saturday, and on the Sunday he again appeared, dined at the club, drew and got cashed another cheque for £10 and went away—apparently forever. The most earnest and affectionate inquiries have since been made about him by the club, but have only resulted in surrounding him with that mystery which so often hangs over great men in their youth. Meantime, by some strange mischance, both cheques have been contemptuously returned (unpaid) by the baker on whom they were drawn.—Vanity Fair.

A Novel Burglar Trap.

At Norwich, Conn., a most exciting and peculiar sport has successfully been introduced by George Avery, a grocer. Mr. Avery's money-drawer had been repeatedly robbed by thieves. Having a hole in the cellar four feet square [illegible] feet [illegible] the space behind the money drawer, and boarded up the sides until he reached the floor of the store. Then he cut a trap, making the fall of the shaft eighteen feet clear. He rigged up the trap with a spring to draw it back after it had worked. He then left the trap open, and went home. Next morning he found Henry Johnson, an old-time thief, at the bottom of the shaft. Johnson looked sadly from the bottom, and and asked when he was going to be taken out of the cursed hole. Ropes were procured, and he was locked up. On being brought to trial in the Superior Court Johnson, who was lamed by the fall, pleaded guilty, and was sent to the State prison for two years.

WORTH KNOWING.—A Fact Worth Knowing. The best household remedy known for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough and all throat and chest troubles tending toward Pulmonary Consumption is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, to be procured of any druggist.

THE prohibitory amendment to the constitution of Iowa, adopted by the popular vote last June, were declared invalid by the Supreme Court of the state.

HUGH WEBB and Charles Phillips were convicted of manslaughter at the Criminal Assizes in the case of Wm. Long, who died from kicks received in the Kingston-road on the 19th of July last.

WALTER LINTON, of Waterloo, writes that Hagyard's Yellow Oil has done great good in his family, his wife being cured of Callouse lumps that other medicines failed to remove, he he also states that a neighbor was promptly relieved of Rheumatism by the same remedy.

JAMES DUFF, of Little River, Albert county N. B., has lost his entire family of five children by diphtheria within a few days. Senator Hopper has also lost two of his family with this dreadful disease.

GOOD ADVICE.—If our readers will accept proffered advice, they will always keep a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil at hand for use in emergencies, such as Burns, Scalds, Wounds, Lameness, Croup, Chilblains, Rheumatism and all varieties of aches, pains and inflammations. It will ever be found reliable.

AT Tilbury station on Wednesday a team of horses belonging to Peter Sauve were instantly killed by a tree falling upon them. Mr. Sauve was felling a large tree, near which his brother was loading logs with the team.

MR. THOMAS W. RACE, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work. The medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms.

AN unsuccessful attempt at body-snatching was made on Wednesday night at the Napanee cemetery. The grave-robbers stole some tools and endeavoured to effect an entrance into the vault, but the iron door was two much for them.

BEING ENTIRELY VEGETABLE, no particular care is required while using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For sick headache, constipation, impure blood, dizziness, sour eructations from the stomach, bad taste in mouth, billious attacks, pain in region of kidney, internal fever, bloated feeling about stomach, rush of blood to head, take Dr. Pierce's "pellets." By druggists.

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

Oil Lamps.

The use of oil lamps is almost universal in this country, except in large cities, and numerous fires occur principally because few know how to deal with burning oil. The first impulse is to throw water on the flames, the effect of which is to make the fire blaze more fiercely than ever. An English writer, commenting upon the fire in Hampton Court, which occurred in consequence of the upsetting of an oil lamp, says:—"Every landing of every house in which oils are used should be furnished with a scuttle or bucket of sand. Sand if thrown upon burning oil disintegrates it and puts out the flames. Water, [illegible], used in small quantities, tends [illegible]." Ashes are sometimes more handy than sand, and they can be used, but care should be taken that they be cold.—Witness.

God in the Ordinary.

Why does the Master tell us that the hair of our heads are all numbered, if not to assure us that even the smallest things which affect us are within the scope of His watchful care? Hence the little annoyances, the trivial matters of daily, social, family, and business life, should be included in our prayers, especially at the family altar near which those tiny troubles often grow like fungi on a lawn. Horace Bushnell, the noted theological thinker, felt the need of bringing them into his family devotions, as in the following words recorded by one who heard him pray: "Be with us in our smallest concerns, for we are persuaded that it is the skill of life to find Thee in the ordinary, to reach unto things spiritual through things temporal; and we know that anything done well gives great satisfaction to us and to Thee." Would not the spirit of such a prayer, carried into daily life, often transform its little annoyances into precious benedictions?—Zion Herald.

THE
PACIFIC NORTHWEST!
Oregon, Washington, and Idaho,
Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.
NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.
The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.
No failure of crops has ever occurred.
Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.
An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches, in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.
The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Ontario Railways.

The report of the Commissioner of Public Works gives the mileage of completed railway lines in Ontario at 3,744.63 miles. Of these 1,464 miles were completed prior to and 2,280.63 since Confederation. In addition there are at present under construction or contract lines aggregating in all 809 miles, the principal of which are the Ontario and Quebec railway, 215 miles, and the Toronto and Ottawa, the main line of which is 182 miles in length.

Our Champion.

The Lindsayites are longing to see Mr. La-Fayette Carpenter execute his favorite steps in dancing. The Post says:—

> "It is likely that Mr. L. Francois Carpenter, Peterborough's phenomenal terpsichorean prestidigitateur, will give in Lindsay an evening seance, devoted to the exposition of dancing. Mr. Carpenter has cut his name on the pinnacle of fame and letters which shall never be effaced. In Mr. Carpenter's dancing the sharpest critics see nothing to criticise, and the general admiring public hang enraptured on Mr. Carpenter's legs, while the rythmic cadences beaten his accomplished feet are a poem, a sonnet—a revelation. Give us Mr. Carpenter or we degenerate into a race of square-dancing people."

St. Andrew's Church.

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Church congregation was held on Thursday evening. After the opening devotional services, the Rev. Alex. Bell gave a short address, complimenting the congregation on the excellent condition of their financial affairs. At the close of the address, Mr. Geo. Edmison was duly elected chairman. The managers presented their annual report, which showed that there had been raised by the congregation over $2,500 during the year for all purposes. It also showed that the small sum of $15.75 was out-standing as arrears of pew rents. The managers recommended that the pew renting system be abolished in the church, and that the voluntary contribution system be adopted. This recommendation was unanimously adopted by the meeting, so that in future the pews will be free to all.

The New Railway.

The Mail says that the Railway Committee of the Provincial Legislature met on Thursday morning and considered some bills. The first one brought up was that of the Brighton, Warkworth and Norwood Railway Company. The promoters prayed to be incorporated as a company for the constructing, equipping and leasing or operating a railway from the village of Brighton, in the county of Northumberland, to a point on the line of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, at or near the village of Norwood, in the county of Peterborough, and thence in a northerly direction through the county of Peterborough and districts of Haliburton and Nipissing to a point on the main line of the Canada Pacific Railway. The road would be 33 miles in length at the junction with the Ontario and Quebec road. Mr. Ferris has charge of the bill. Mr. B. B. Osler appeared for the promoters, Messrs. C. A. Mallory, W. T. Wiggins, I. Humphries, T. B. Carlow, D. Ewing, J. B. Pearse, W. E. Roxburgh, Thomas Webb, and others. The capital of the company is fixed at $300,000. The bill provides for the construction of ten mile sections, and the issue of bonds and debenture stock not to exceed in all the sum of $15,000 a mile. Some amendments having been inserted, the bill was ordered to be reported.

THE SKATING RINK.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Permit me through your paper to call the attention of the Directors of the Skating Rink to the fact that of late the Rink has been frequented by a number of rowdy boys, who conduct themselves in such a manner that they have become a nuisance to the season ticket holders. Your correspondent was present a few days since when some of these boys, purposely ran into and upset two ladies who were skating on the rink. If for no other reason than that if this unseemly conduct is not at once put a stop to, the rink will not be patronized another year, the management should in their own interest prevent its recurrence. I may add that I know of several ladies who have ceased to go the rink because no effort has been made to put a stop to rowdyism.

Yours truly,

A SKATER.

THE LONG MURDER CASE.

Phillips Found Guilty of Manslaughter—Wise and Cooper Acquitted.

The trial of Hugh D. Wise, Chas. Phillips and Samuel Cooper, charged with being implicated in the murder of Wm. Long, came off at the assizes Thursday. The case is briefly as follows:—On the night of July 12th last Wm. Long after leaving a dance at Gowan's hall was attacked by a gang of roughs, from the effects of whose beating he died on July 19th. The coroner passed the verdict that the deceased had met his end by reason of injuries received at the hands of Samuel Cooper and William Ashby. Ashby afterwards gave evidence which led to the arrest of Hugh D. Wise and Chas. Phillips, he himself being released. Wise and Phillips yesterday were represented by Murphy and Murdock, and Cooper by Mr. Fullerton. Wm. Ashby gave evidence to the effect that on the night of the row he left Crother's hotel about 12 o'clock to get Dr. Carroll to attend to Frank Petersen who had broken his leg in the early part of the evening. On the way he met Wise and Cooper who asked us if we met any one on the way. On being told that we met three men, Wise and Cooper said, "Let's go back and find out their names." He turned back and overtook Long at the corner of Strange street. Cooper went up to him and asked his name. He knocked off Cooper's hat and then ran down Strange street closely followed by Wise, who knocked him down, and then Phillips and Wise commenced to pound him. Cooper said "for God's sake don't kill him." Long's cries brought a woman out of the house, when on requesting the men to leave Long alone, was ordered to go into the house if she did not wish to be served so. They all went back to Gowan's hall, and on the 19th of July learned that Long had died. Mr. Joseph Irwin read the result of the post mortem examination, which showed that by reason of inflammation of the tissues of the brain, caused by a blow from a heavy instrument, deceased had met his death. The jury, after a short deliberation, found Phillips guilty of manslaughter. The others were acquitted. —World.

Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcule which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

DISTRICT INTELLIGENCE

CAMPBELLFORD.

MILLS BURNED.—The Campbellford flouring mills were destroyed by fire on Friday afternoon. Mr. Charles Smith, the proprietor, is a heavy loser. Several thousand bushels of grain were lost. The total loss is $45,000, partly covered by insurance in the Western and Lancashire Companies. The building was of stone.

BOBCAYGEON.

TRUSTEE ELECTION.—The Independent says that on the day appointed for the regular annual meeting for the election of two School Trustees, the Returning Officer, Mr. J. H. Thompson, went to the Hall at the appointed time, and stayed there the legal hour, but the meeting failed to connect, for not a single ratepayer presented himself. Another meeting is now called for Wednesday next, the 24th. It would perhaps be well on this occasion for some two of our live, energetic, and enterprising citizens to brace up a bit, and go to the Hall and elect themselves as Trustees.

BUCKHORN.

T. V. C.—The Bobcaygeon Independent says that Mr. Goodwin, the contractor for the locks here, and at Burleigh, accompanied by Mr. T. D. Belcher, Superintending Engineer of the Trent works, were here last week arranging for the progress of work. Mr. Goodwin is to send his boss timber man from Ottawa, in a few days, who will at once engage a large number of men. In the spring there will probably be as many as three hundred men at these works. Some of the stone will be obtained on the spot, but a good quarry has been secured at Ball Lake.

STIRLING.

LUMBER.—The News Argus says that Irwin & Boyd's great lumber sale took place at Peterborough on the 10th inst. There was a good representative from Stirling, and four gentlemen, Messrs. Faulkner & Church, F. B. Parker and Jas. Boldrick purchased among them not less than half a million feet. It will take nine trains of seven cars each to transport this immense quantity of lumber, and it is expected down as fast as cars can be provided for its shipment. These gentlemen seem to have every faith in the building operations of the coming season, and intend to push their dealings over the whole section. A number of car-loads have already been sold, which will not be unshipped here at all.

True to Her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, and malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world and only cost fifty cents. Sold by all druggists.—4.

GOOD ADVICE.—Keep the head cool, the feet dry and warm, the bowels open and the blood pure by using Hope's Regulating Pills and Fountain of Health. Sold at 10 and 25 cents everywhere.

STEAMSHIP COLLISION.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Cimbria left Hamburg on Thursday with 380 passengers and a crew of 110. She ran aground before leaving the Elbe, but got off with the flood tide, with the assistance of the steamer Hansa, without damage, and put to sea at 2:20 p.m. On Friday morning she came into collision, during a thick fog off Borkum, with the steamer Sultan. The Cimbria sank in a short time. When the boat with the thirty-nine passengers arrived the company sent out the steamer Hansa and the four largest available steamers at Cuxbridge, to search for the Cimbria's other boat. The steamer Bavaria also left during the night with a similar object. The steamer Sultan sustained heavy damages; she has arrived in the Elbe.

AN INFORMER'S STORY.

DUBLIN, Jan. 20.—The twenty-one persons recently arrested were before the court to-day charged with conspiracy to murder officials. The room was crowded though great discrimination was exercised in the admission of citizens, and a large crowd collected outside. An informer swore that several of the prisoners, including Carey, the member of the municipality, attended a Fenian meeting where the informer was asked to join the "inner circle," formed for the assassination of officials. The name the informer is Farrell. He acknowledged having participated in the plot to assassinate a juror. He also gave evidence as to the attack on Judge Lawson and the Phoenix Park murder. He drove the car in which the murderer's rode.

MR. PARNELL'S MISSION.

DUBLIN, Jan. 20.—Mr. Parnell has gone to North Germany to investigate the factories for converting peat into stable litter, which industry he desires to promote in Ireland.

THE CONTROL ABOLISHED.

CAIRO, Jan. 20.—The Khedive has issued a decree abolishing the Anglo-French dual financial control.

INFLAMMATORY NOTICES

LONDON, Jan. 20.—A correspondent says inflammatory notices have been circulated endeavoring to incite the people against Earl Spencer, and urging them to remember that Hynes, Walsh and Joyce were "hung by drunken Castle backs."

A SENSATIONAL MYSTERY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The discovery in an unclaimed box in an express office of the body of a girl, fair-haired, good looking, and about 14 years of age, promises to turn out a sensational metropolitan mystery. There is some suspicion that it is the remains of one of two girls who have been missing for some time, and who the police believed had been carried off to the Continent, whither so many young girls have of late disappeared mysteriously.

A RAILROAD HORROR.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—The overland express bound east yesterday stopped near Tehachapi at midnight to take on the extra engine used to assist in pulling up the grade. While making the change the train started down the grade, 120 feet to the mile. The train consisted of two engines, express, mail, and baggage cars, two sleepers, one coach, and a smoker. It went down the grade at a frightful speed for four miles, when the hindermost sleeper jumped the track, and went over an embankment, carrying with it the other sleeper, and the mail, baggage, and express cars, which were piled and shattered, and the heap then took fire and was consumed. The coach and smoker kept on, and finally stopped without leaving the track two miles further. All on board were injured. A number of persons were jammed amid the ruins, and roasted to death before the eyes of those helpless to save them. It is believed from twelve to fifteen were killed or burned to death.

THE MILWAUKEE FIRE.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 20.—The search in the ruins of the Newhall house was finished to-day. Two more charred remains were found, making 48 of the 177 people said to be in the hotel at the time of the fire. One hundred and seventy-six are now accounted for; identified, 28; non-identified, 46; saved, 102; still missing, 1; making a total loss of life 75. Thursday next has been decided on as the day for the general funeral of the charred remains. No new features have been developed in the Scheller case to-day.

ANXIETY IN EGYPT.

ALEXANDRIA, Jan. 22.—Great anxiety is felt in Trakim, respecting the position of affairs. The Soudan insurgents are reported to have burned the Debit at Karokon.

AMERICAN CONFEDERATION.

PANAMA, Jan. 6.—The establishment of the Central American Confederation is attracting attention in all the five republics. The idea was warmly supported, but cannot be carried out until there is better communication among the States. The New Year was celebrated by a bull fight.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

RENO, Nevada, Jan. 22.—It is reported that Susanville is destroyed by fire.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE TARIFF.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Herald's Washington despatch says the President is reported to have said to several members of Congress of late that he was in earnest in recommending in his annual message a considerable reduction in the taxation, and the revision and simplification of the tariff; that he believes this absolutely necessary to continue the prosperity of the country, and that if the Assembly of the present Congress refuses to do this, he will consider it his duty to call an extra session soon after March 4th.

GEBHARDT FRIGHTENED.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22.—Mrs. Langtry left for Memphis last night. Last night Mayor Cunningham sent Fred. Gebhardt a note, asking to grant an interview, and telling him he was unarmed. Gebhardt, instead of answering Cunningham, placed himself under the protection of the police, and took the train for New York. Cunningham had bought tickets for himself and three friends, intending to follow Gebhardt to Memphis.

A DEFAULTING ARTIST.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—John M. Jalloner, aged sixty three, one of the largest of American etchers and who has been twenty two years Treasurer of the artists funds, is a defaulter to the extent of $8,700. He had resigned his interest of four thousand due the heirs of every member upon death, reversed to the payment of the defalcation. The defaulting has been going on for six or eight years. The Artists' fund is a benevolent institution in a flourishing condition and will not be materially affected by the loss. The members are well known artists. Falconer will not be prosecuted.

A STRANDED STEAMER.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 22.—The steamer Egypt stranded at Baramores Island has been gotten off and brought here.

OVER NIAGARA FALLS.

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 22.—Thos. Hilson, of Philadelphia, expressed a trunk and valuables to New York this morning. He was then driven to Goat Island, when he jumped from Luna Island bridge and was carried over the falls.

THE COLD WAVE.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—The intense cold continues. This morning the thermometer registered 23° below zero. The only persons on the street are those compelled to be out. Many cases of severe frost bites are reported. The wind has packed the snow into solid drifts, which impede the trains. The cold wave is moving east.

A BOILER EXPLODED.

ELKTON, Md., Jan. 22.—This morning a boiler at the Ledger paper mills exploded, wrecking half of the immense building. Patrick McCormick was killed and John Garrett is missing. Eight others were injured, and one will probably die.

A SUNDAY HORROR.

Powder Works in California Blown Up—Forty Workmen Killed.

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 21.—The mixing house and six packing houses of the Giant powder works at Point Clement exploded this afternoon. The shocks of seven explosions were felt here. A white foreman named Conk and between forty and fifty Chinese were blown to atoms. Nearly the entire plant was distroyed by a fire which began immediately after the explosion. The superintendent was thrown a long distance but was unhurt. Physicians went from Berkeley and West Berkeley.

By Telegraph to the Review.

BERKLEY, Cal., Jan. 21.—The number of Chinese killed by the explosion is not as great as first reported. There are not over thirty missing. The fire is still raging and more explosions are expected momentarily. The scene is terrible. Bodies are lying near the fire, but men dare not rescue them. The assistant superintendent is missing and is supposed to be killed. The superintendent was not at the works. Oscar Toranffsky was pulled from the ruins seriously hurt. Seven Chinese were taken from the debris badly hurt. All the houses within a radius of half a mile are completely shattered. The doors and windows of the dwelling houses of the employees on the opposite side of the hill were blown in and the occupants thrown to the floor. The sheds and barns were laid flat. The buildings of the Judson works on the side of the hill, where the blasting powder was manufactured, were thrown over and will probably have to be rebuilt. The cause of the first explosion in the mixing house is unknown. The other explosions followed in a space of two minutes. All the buildings blown up were on the bay side of the hill, but the fire crept rapidly around. The new large magazine is in danger. No attempt has been made to check the fire, owing to the danger. Many workmen escaped miraculously.

To-day is the first Sunday in many months that the works were running full blast. Seventy tons were loaded in the schooners at the wharf. A driver with a team and a load of powder on the wharf jumped when the first explosion was heard into the water and escaped. The wagon load exploded and the wharf has taken fire and is burning rapidly. The hospitals are improvised. The inundated houses and wounded are cared for by physicians who come from Oakland and other towns. This is the most disastrous explosion that ever occurred in these works. Should the Magazine explode all the houses in Berkeley will be damaged. An effort will be made to subdue the flames and avoid this danger.

LATER.

BERKELEY, Jan. 21.—The total loss is one hundred thousand dollars. The Giant powder works damage will amount to sixty thousand dollars and the acid works of Judson & Co. to forty thousand. It is impossible to ascertain the exact loss of life, but it is estimated at thirty or forty. The first explosion occured in the packing house in which were 200 pounds of powder. It is not known whether any one was killed by the first explosion. As soon as the packing house exploded a number of workmen of the other departments fled and reached the open space, when the mixing house exploded killing part of them. It is thought that the Ferlonk Company's superintendent was killed by this explosion. In a minute one of the smaller houses exploded, followed immediately by a fourth explosion, which doubtless killed the surviving employees. The dead workmen are all Chinamen. After each explosion the woodwork of the buildings were burned in several houses. The efforts to prevent the flames reaching the main magzine containing an immense quantity of powder were successful. The consequences of its explosion would have been frightful. Twelve bodies were counted lying in the debris. The coroner's investigation will probably disclose more than double that number. A force is engaged to-night extinguishing the fire and recovering the bodies.

South End Bookstore.

And now that he has done with Christmas cheer,
The honest schoolboy doth begin to appear.
With purse in hand he comes into our store,
Saying, "This is where I should have come before!
"I want some books—they must be good and cheap,
You buy for cash, and I the benefit reap.
A Spelling Book, a Reader and a Copy—
The price of each I know will suit my 'Pappy'—
An Arithmetic, a Grammar and a History,
But how I am to carry them's a mystery.
You say I need a Bag to accommodate
My school-books, pens and pencils and my slate?
Yes! that's the thing, my fears are at an end,
No harm to books from snow or rain or wind.
I'm feeling, now, quite happy and contented,
Well satisfied with what I have expended;
And rest assured, if I want any more,
I'll come right back to the South End Bookstore."

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1883.

A SERIOUS QUESTION.

WE should like to ask those in the town of Peterborough and the western portion of Smith, who are demanding that the Rivers and Streams Bill shall become law, where those of them interested in the creek which flows through the western part of Smith and the town of Peterborough, and empties into the Otonabee river at Spaulding's Bay, would stand if the Rivers and Streams Bill really became the law of the land.

The first section of that Act, as twice passed by the Legislature, provides that "so far as the Legislature of Ontario has authority to enact, all persons shall, subject to the provisions in this Act contained, have, * * * during the spring, summer, and autumn freshets, the right to, and may float and transmit saw-logs and all other timber of every kind, and all rafts and crafts, down ALL rivers, creeks and streams, in respect of which the Legislature of Ontario has authority to give this power; and (we wish the reader to mark these words) in case it may be necessary to remove any obstruction from such river, creek, &c., * * * to facilitate the floating and transmitting such saw-logs and other timber, rafts or crafts (a canoe or old punt is a craft) down the same, it shall be lawful for the person requiring so to float and transmit such saw-logs, &c., * * to remove such obstruction, * * doing no unnecessary damage to the said, river, creek or stream, or banks thereof."

So much for the first section. The second section relates to rivers on which improvements have been made for the purpose of floating down timber, and does not apply to our creek.

The third section declares that "all the rights" given in the previous sections "shall extend and apply to all rivers, creeks and streams mentioned in the first section, * * whether the bed of such river, creek or stream, or the land through which the same runs has been granted by the crown or not, and if granted by the crown, shall be binding upon such grantees, their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns."

And lastly, this precious bill provides that "all persons driving saw-logs or other timber, rafts or crafts down any such river, creek or stream, shall have the right to go along the banks of such river, &c., and to assist the passage of the timber over the same by all means usual amongst lumbermen, doing no unnecessary damage" thereto.

Now we submit, that assuming these provisions to be in full force and effect, it would apply to the creek passing through this town; that, it so applying, it would be within the power of any single individual to begin at Hamilton's Foundry and cause the removal of every building which covers the said creek between there and Spaulding's Bay, and that he would at the same time be authorized to "remove" nearly, if not every bridge across the same either in the township of Smith or the town of Peterborough, and that it practically throws open to everyone, every lot through which this creek passes, to go and come along its banks as they please, and that too notwithstanding that valuable properties have been built and now exist upon this creek, on the faith that their deeds gave the owners the right to do as they have done, and that the law of the land and its courts would protect them in their rights. But if Mr. Mowat is to have his way he is to be allowed to alter all this just as he pleases, none daring to interfere. He or any one else in his position, must be allowed so long as they have a majority of the Legislature at their backs, to change the conditions upon which private proprty is held just as often as they like, and just in whatever way the exigencies of party strife may demand. This in reality is no party; matter it is one of primary importance to the people irrespective of party. It matters not which party is in power—no party should have such a power vested in them be they Reform or Conservative, and no better proof of the unsoundness of Mr. Mowat's position could be afforded than that even he dare not go the legitimate and logical length of his present position and memorialize the Imperial Parliament to repeal the section of the Act of Confederation under which the Rivers and Streams Bill has been disallowed.

A "REFORM" LEADER.

Mr. John Charlton M. P., is a bright and shining light in the Reform ranks, in which his ability to shift his opinions from year to year in pursuance of winding courses of his leader, has given him an excellent position. Mr. Charlton is a Yankee, whose natural sympathies are with the United States, and who, in obedience to the promptings of those sympathies, would apparently delight in a disruption of the provinces forming the Confederation. That at least is the inference to be drawn from his language at the recent Reform Convention, when he described the French-Canadian race as "the hereditary enemies of Ontario," and as "the sworn and mortal foes of Ontario." A year or two ago this same gentleman having occasion to refer to the French-Canadians, politely described them as "lick-spittles." It is only in the Liberal party that a man of this character would be tolerated, and perhaps, after all, he only speaks in plain language the sentiments of his leaders.—Montreal Gazette.

FORESTRY.

We take the following from the report of the committee charged with the oversight of fruit and forest planting at the agricultural college, Guelph:—

FORESTRY.—The several clumps of black walnut, European larch, butternut, sugar maple, and of mixed trees, are doing fairly well, except that the group of larch from some cause did not succeed, probably owing to the dry character of the soil in which they were planted. There is, however, a sufficient number of young larches in the nursery plot to supply all the vacancies. It was found desirable to use the field in which the clump of ash had been planted as an experimental grain plot. On this account they have been taken up and will be set out in another field next spring. The experiment of growing black walnut with and without cultivation is already demonstrating the fact that the growth is much more satisfactory where clean cultivation with occasional stirring of the soil is practiced. The nursery plantations of young trees will supply a considerable portion of the trees required for the proposed enlargement of existing clumps, and by keeping up a constant succession of nursery plantings the required trees for foresting purposes can be always at hand in the best possible condition for transplanting.

THE ARBORETUM.—In attempting to extend the Arboretum the Committee found that it was absolutely necessary to re-arrange the front grounds, and to provide some definite and well arranged plan that harmonized with the grounds and buildings on which to base all future work. Hitherto no such plan had been prepared, hence it was impossible to proceed systematically with the extension of the Arboretum in a manner that would subserve the purposes of education and at the same time adorn the grounds and produce the proper landscape effect.

After some correspondence we were so fortunate as to secure the services of the most eminent landscape gardner in America, Mr. Charles H. Miller, of Fairmount Park, Philadelphia. He visited the college in April last, and examined the grounds thoroughly in company with yourself, the Committee and architect. He has now prepared and placed in our hands a most admirable plan of all that part of the grounds; this plan has been approved of by yourself, and when the planting and grading shall have been completed in accordance therewith, we believe that the college grounds around and in front of the buildings will be all that can be desired. Work has been already begun, and the grounds immediately in front of the main building laid out in conformity with the plan, and the requisite carriage ways to the recently erected residences of the Professor of Agriculture and of the Bursar provided. Already a great improvement in the appearance of the grounds is manifest, a pleasing foreshadowing of the results to be achieved when the whole work is once completed and time enough shall have elapsed to produce the growth necessary to give due effect to the whole. Ample space is now set apart for the planting of an extensive aboretum, which your Committee intend shall be grouped in such a manner as to be convenient for study by the young men and serve as illustrations in teaching, and at the same time these groups will be so placed as to give the best landscape effects.

THE SEED BEDS.—With a view to giving a supply of young trees for future planting, and to afford at the same time instruction in the raising of forest trees from seed, a number of beds were prepared and sown with tree seeds. As was to be expected some of these seeds failed to germinate the first season, and after lying dormant in the ground for a whole year, came up in the second spring. From these beds a goodly number of some varieties of trees and shrubs will be obtained. Some of the kinds sown have apparently failed altogether, thus affording lessons to the students from failure as well as success.

FUTURE OPERATIONS.—We have made arrangements with the Professor of Agriculture for a half acre block in the Experimental Field, which it is our intention to surround with a hedge formed from a variety of hedge plants, for the purpose of showing a sample of hedge formed from each. This will afford both students and visitors an opportunity of seeing the adaptability of each for hedging purposes. The enclosed plot will be devoted to nursery beds for the growing of young trees taken from the seed beds or procured by purchase, until they have attained sufficient size to be removed to permanent situations. It is also intended to set out in the spring two or three additional clumps of forest trees, one of white ash, one of American elm, one of mixed evergreens, also to complete the group of European larch, and extend that of Sugar Maple.

In the orchard all vacancies will be filled up, and the acre of ground recently purchased planted out so as to complete that portion; and such other varieties added as may be desirable for the purpose of testing their adaptation to our climate. Some additions will also be made to the plantation of gooseberries currants, raspberries, and strawberries, in order to furnish a sufficient supply of these fruits for the use of the college, a large part of which will be taken from the existing plantations, particularly of raspberry and strawberry. Some new varieties of these fruits and of grapes will also be set out in the spring together with a few mulberries, so that the work of testing these may keep pace with the progress of horticulture elsewhere.

In conclusion, your committee would say that such progress has been made in the department of fruit culture and forestry during the short time that has elapsed since you confided these to our direction as we trust will be satisfactory to you, both in the amount of work done and in the economical manner in which it has been accomplished. In a work of this kind great results cannot be achieved in a single season, yet, even now some fruit is being gathered, some improvements we think are to be seen, and these, we believe, will increase in progressive ratio as the years roll by until the results shall be seen in an abundant supply of fruits, of all kinds suited to the climate, sufficient to meet all the wants of the college, both for consumption and comparison; and groves of trees, and groups of specimens of every variety of tree and shrub shall give beauty to the landscape, and afford means of instruction in all that a well informed yeoman can wish to know of the character and uses of the forest productions of his native land. On behalf of the Committee, D. W. BEADLE, Secretary.

Durability of Locomotives.

A locomotive boiler, it is calculated, will last until the engine has travelled over 250,000 miles. On some lines, however, the boiler under favorable circumstances, particularly when pure water is used, may travel 400,000 or 500,000 miles before becoming unservicable. Assuming that the life of an engine is determined by the endurance of the boiler, and that if, under favorable circumstances, it will last the 500,000 miles, then during that time it is estimated that the fire-box will probably require to be renewed at least three times, the tires of the wheels five or perhaps six times, the crank axles three or four times, and the tubes from seven to ten times.

BROTHER GARDNER ON LAWYERS.

"Each day as I look ober my paper," said the old man as the light was turned up, "I see a case of embezzlement, wholesale robbery, breach of trust or misuse of odder people's money. One day it am de cashier of a bank; de nex' day it am de city or county treasurer; de nex' it am some confidenshul clerk or a bank president, or the treasurer of some corporation! It is an era of stealin' an' embezzlin' an' fraud. No man who has money in de hands of a friend or employee feels safe. No man who depends upon another knows what a day may bring forth.

"What brung 'bout dis state of affairs? Who profits by it? Who aids de offenders to escape?"

There was a silence throughout the hall as the president paused and looked up and down. Samuel Shin was about to rise up and explain that he hadn't made a dollar out of it yet, and didn't expect to, when Pickles Smith hit him with the big end of a potato, and Brother Gardner continued:

"I arraign de bar of the kentry an' charge de lawyers, big and little, with bein' de direct cause of this reign of knavery. Three men outer five am honest until dere am a chance to make a haul by bein' dishonest. One man outer three will be dishonest on all occashuns whar dar am a chance to escape consequencies. If dar was no law to punish dishonesty, we wouldn't find one man in twenty doin' the honest thing fur principle's sake. It am de fear of consequences which keeps thousands of clerks an' cashiers an' treasurers honest.

"An' what do the lawyers say to ebery man whose fingers itch to make a haul? Dey might as well advertise at reg'lar rates dat dey will guarrantee to clear 'em of de law fur a sartin sum. Let me steal $75,000 in cash an' nine-tenths of the lawyers of Detroit will be eager to defend me—to effect a compromise—to hush it up—to clear me of punishment. About de best legal talent in America makes a specialty of defendin' criminals. Any lawyer am looked upon as good 'nuff fur prosecutin' attorney, while the werry keenest talent am reserved for defense of thieves, burglars and odder lawbreakers.

"Time after time men have stolen or embezzled, an' de lawyers have taken a sheer of de plunder to clear 'em. We've had a half a dozen cases right yere widin two y'ars, an' we am sartin to have mo'. Let me steal a ton of coal, an' up I go. Let me get my claws on $50,000 an' I doun' go up worf shucks. I may be 'rested an' toted off to jail, but inside of a week de case am settled up, an' I walk de streets a hero. De lawyers return $40,000 of de money, pocket $9,975, an' han' me twenty-five as a reward for bringin' 'em a fat case.

"Suppose it war known dat ebery burglar fa'rly convicted would receive twenty years in prison, wid no possibility of pardon, would we have one burglary whar' we now have two? Who makes burglary a payin' purfeshun? De lawyer.

"If a clerk who embezzled was sartin to receive a five or ten y'ar sentence, how many cases of embezzlement would you h'ar of in a yerr? An' who makes embezzlement a paying bizness? De lawyer,

"If dat Rochester bank president am sent to states prison for twenty years, what will be de effeck on odder Rochester bank presidents? But he won't be. De lawyers have gathered to his aid, an' will defeat justice.

"I am spekin' what I believe to be the solemn truf, when I say to you dat law has become a farce, and lawyers de middle-men between robbers an' de robbed. De question am how to break de law—not how to enforce it. It am not how to put a thief into prison, but how keep him out. It am not how to punish dishonest officials, but how to gently squeeze out as much as dey kin restore, an' forgive the remainder. Let us purceed to bizness feelin' dat whatever crimes we commit we stan' two chances ob goin' clear to one ob punishment."

Women's Health.

Primarily all monitions regarding beauty—and one might almost add morals—are condensed in the one word, health. For good health in its perfection has a very positive meaning, and implies far more than merely the freedom from disease or pain. It signifies the glow, the sparkle, the freshness of life; a keen interest in its daily events, the capacity for a zest in enjoyment, and a power, too, of being made happy by simple pleasures. It is hardly extravagant to assert that four-fifths of the number of women do not know by experience what actual good health is. They call themselves well if they are not actually under the care of a physician, whereas there is no possible reason why a woman of 25 should not enjoy that elasticity and freshness that a girl of 10 does, if she lives properly. Nor need one limit this period. Doubtless, for ten years after this, a woman may preserve her elasticity of feeling in every way

A Girl's Advantage in Weight.

A good deal has been said in praise of the young girl, only seventeen or eighteen years old, who captured a burglar recently by simply grasping him by the neck and choking him almost to death. She had fallen asleep while reading in her room, and awoke to find that the gas had been put out. Stretching out her hand toward where the light ought to have been, she encountered a curly head. This was enough. She grasped the locks firmly, drew their owner toward her, and then throttled him. When her father appeared, in response to her call for aid, the burglar—for such he proved to be—was nearly dead. The young lady merits all the praise she has received for her courage, but then the feat was easier for her than it would have been for some girls. She weighs two hundred and seventeen pounds.

ON a farm a short distance north of London East it is said a fine white clay has been found in large quantities, which, at a distance, could not be distinguished from snow. It has been found to burnish metal to the brightest hue. Gentlemen in London are considering whether this clay could not be turned to valuable account in the manufacture of crockery and other wares.

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

The reverse side contains a wreath surrounding a Roman numeral representing the denomination of the coin.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

A Cure for Corns.

A correspondent of the Chicago Medical Times recommends Mr. Gezon's formula as a cure for corns, which is as follows:—R. Salicylic acid, 30 parts, or grs. xxx; extract cannabis indica, 5 parts, or grs. v; collodion, 240 parts, or f. ʒ ss. The Times says:—The collodion fixes the acid on the diseased part, and gives speedy relief by protecting it from friction. The cannibus indica acts as an anodyne, and the acid reduces and loosens the corn, so that it comes off in four or five days, adhering to the collodion. The remedy is applied with a camel's hair pencil, and if the corn is not well cured the application may be repeated. In four or five days the patient should use a warm foot-bath and rub off the collodion. If any portion of the corn remains the acid should be applied again, and continued until the whole of the corn has disappeared. The skin will be soft and smooth, as in the healthy state.

FITS A Leading London Physician establishes an office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS. From Am. Journal of Medicine. Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. THE
PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho,

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

The Weather Probabilities.

On Saturday afternoon the mercury rose, and in place of snow rain began to descend. On Sunday, however, there was a change. The wind blew in gales and the temperature was low. This morning and to-day the wind continued high, and the cold intense. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Fresh to strong westerly winds; fine, very cold weather. The temperature will fall considerably below zero in most localities.

POLICE COURT.

VAGRANCY.

A Deserved Tribute

The commercial travellers have set on foot a movement for the erection of a monument in the cemetery to the memory of the late Mr. Thomas Malloy, who was for two years in the store of Messrs. T. Dolan & Co., Peterborough. Mr. Malloy was for ten years a resident of Napanee being in business in that town, and was well known to all the commercial travellers. The movement originated, we believe, at Kingston, where a few travellers who met there talked the matter over. Mr. T. Dolan is treasurer of the fund, and quite a large amount has already been subscribed.

◆

Complimentary.

The Millbrook Messenger says that at the annual meeting of the East Durham Agricultural Society, the motion for the appointment of Mr. John Carnegie as the representative of this district on the Board of Agricultural and Arts Association, was moved by Messrs. George Campbell and Robert Vance, and that:—

> "Messrs. Johnston Beatty, President, John Foott, Secretary, P. R. Randall, and others, testified to Mr. Carnegie's great abilities and good qualifications for the office, for which he seeks re-election: the gentlemen named, from personal experience, considering Mr. Carnegie the most practical member of the Board."

We may add that Mr. Carnegie's re-election has received the support of every agricultural society in the district, except that of South Victoria, of which his opponent, Col. Deacon, is an active member.

◆

A Lofty Perch.

On Sunday morning about 8 o'clock Mr. T. Cavanagh discovered a man on the roof of the block on George street near the corner of Hunter, over Messrs. McKee & Davidson's store. He was crouched down on the roof, and, while shivering with the cold, was trying to shelter himself from the wind. How he came to be there, and how long he had remained there, are mysteries. It is surmised that he entered the hall on Hunter street, and found his way up the stairs and on the roof through a trap-door. He stated that he he had been drinking, and some believe he was assisted in his ascent by his comrades. The roof was covered with ice, and he had a narrow escape from the double danger of being frozen to death and of falling off the roof. Mr. Cavanagh procured assistance, and with the aid of a ladder, the half-frozen man was brought safely to the ground. He lodged on Sunday night in the police cells.

THE SNOW BY-LAW.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR, At the initial meeting of the Town Council for the current year, one of the new members with an impudence characteristic of a novice, and with an utter ignorance of municipal tactics, ventured to suggest the propriety of carrying out the provisions of the Snow By-law adopted some years ago, which he deemed to be specially necessary during the present season of exceptional snow storms. One of the old members of the Council immediately rebuked his inexperienced and officious confrere, and with a profundity of meteorological observation worthy of that enlightened assembly, remarked that the carrying out of the by-law would be useless now, as "the winter was nearly over"—a Canadian winter "nearly over" on the 15th day of January! It was also sarcastically suggested that "new brooms sweep clean."

Now, sir, considering the disgraceful, not to say dangerous, condition of the sidewalks during the present winter—a winter, even now, not "nearly over"—the mercury last night ran down to 7° below zero—I, for one, am of the opinion that we should be much better off if we had a few more such "new brooms" at our Council Board, and if some of the old scrubby brooms were left at home.

A Modern Fable.

A crane was once bragging to a duck about his long legs, and offered to bet that he could wade out in the water farther than the duck. The duck took the crane's wager, and the crane waded out ten feet while the duck swam out only nine feet and came back to the shore and paid his loss, a pint of fish worms, and then pocketed $10,000. He had sold out the race.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Taylor & Macdonald.

Beecher's Pews.

The pews were sold in Plymouth church tonight by auction. Mr. Beecher said the church had 15,000 persons engaged in its work, and a large sum of money was needed for the missions. His own work, he thought, would not be for a long time. A few might be sorry, but he thought that there would be many to think that a hinderance was out of the way. For the first choice of pews H. B. Claflin paid $725. Duryea took next choice for $8,700, and said he would pay that for seats at the morning service and that they could sell the seats for the evening service for the benefit of the missions. The pews have a fixed rent, which is to be paid in addition to the premium. Mr. Claflin's pew, therefore, cost him $845 for the year, the rental being $120. S. B. Duryea pays, in addition to his premium of $700, a rental of $110. O. White took pew fifty-seven at a premium of $500, the rental being $90. In 1877 Mr. Claflin paid $600 premium, in 1878 $300, and in 1879 $500. The totals for premiums and retails received in the various years since and before the scandal are as follows: 1872, $50,875; 1873, $60,230; 1874, $95,430; 1875, $70,319.50; 1876, 63,680; 1877, $45,825; 1878, $38,068. From 1854 to 1878 the yearly average of receipts was $38,208. The total realized for premiums to-night was $21,209.50. The fixed retails are $12,792, making th receipts from pews for the year $37,001.50. In 1882 the total was $38,284.—New York Special.

A Jacobite Blackbird.

A correspondent of the Brechin Advertiser, writes: Mr. T. McGrail, South Kirriemuir, has in his possession a fine young blackbird that he has taught to whistle the popular Jacobite air, "O'er the Water to Charlie." This is a feat seldom accomplished by the most skilful ornithologist, as the bird in most cases retains a "quiver" of its "native wood notes wild" in whistling a taught time. Not so with "Charlie," the blackbird in question. He rendered his notes with the distinct clearness of a French flagiolette, and as perfect in intonation as if played on a violin on "full shift."

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcule which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

An Indian Always an Indian.

The question whether an Indian who has moved out from the society of his fellow red men, settled down among the pale faces and adopted all their habits so completely as to be regarded by them as one of themselves, is really an Indian in the eyes of the law, is suggested by a case which came before the Police Magistrate this morning. Some time ago a saloon keeper of Lachine named Andre Leger prosecuted a man named Jean Baptiste Poirier for assault. Poirier was condemned, and yesterday adopted retalitory measurers by laying information against Leger for selling liquor to an Indian. The "red man" referred to is a half-breed named Thomo, who several years ago went to Lachine, bought a farm and settled down as an industrious member of society. He has worked his farm steadily ever since, and is now regarded by his neighbors as a thorough French-Canadian. The examination into the case began in the Police Court this morning.—Witness, Jan. 19.

THE CIMBRIA DISASTER.

HAMBURG, Jan. 23.—The officers of the Cimbria say that if the captain of the Sultan had taken the trouble to act humanly he might have saved hundreds of lives. He was only two ship lengths away when the Cimbria's officers were clearing the boat. The latter saw the Sultan's lights a short time, and saw a light lowered and believed that her captain was about to send off boats, but in a few minutes her lights disappeared. She neither signalled nor fired guns, nor answered the lights of distress burned by the Cimbria. The captain of the Sultan neglected to forward the news of the disaster at the earliest moment. A survivor states that though the officers of the Cimbria did their duty nobly, they were unable to maintain order. Men, women and children were mad with fear. Those who had secured places had a violent struggle to keep the boat from being swamped. Six Indians were driven away by the sailors by axe blows on the hands. Men, women and children—whole families—clung together in despair. A young married couple preferred to meet death quicker by cutting each other's veins. The ship's doctor, Herr Felge, some stewards and Stewardess Bauerinn, and some officers distributed the life-saving belts to the last moment, but those thus provided were not benefitted, for most of them died from the severe cold. The survivors who escaped in the boats say that when they rowed away the water was covered with dead bodies, kept up by the life belts. Only a few were alive when they left, and of these as many were taken into the boats as possible. There never was the slightest chance of saving a third of the people on board by means of the boats, even had they all been launched. There will, doubtless, be a searching inquiry as to the duty of the Steamship Company in providing facilities for escape for every passenger on board. From conversations with the passengers from the Cimbria, and from the statements of her officers and an examination of the damage to the Sultan's prow, and from the position in which the Cimbria lies, it seems doubtless that the entire fault of the collision lies with the Sultan. It is believed that both vessels were moving at least slowly at the time of the collision. It is claimed that the Cimbria's whistle was blown constantly, and that no precautions were omitted.

THE STEAMSHIP COLLISION.

HAMBURG, Jan. 23.—According to the statement of a survivor as late as 2 o'clock on Friday morning Captain Hanson received a report of the Cimbria's lights all burning properly. The breach made by the collision was so great that the Cimbria immediately lay right over with a portion of her deck under water. Upon an attempt being made to lower the boats one capsized. The intervening time between the crash and the final sinking of the Cimbria was only a quarter of an hour. Thirty-nine persons were brought in by the Theta. They appear to have been occupants of two boats. Another batch of seventeen were brought in by the Diamant. It is also reported that another lot of eleven were rescued. Thus all the boats that left the Cimbria are accounted for.

UNEASINESS IN PARIS.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—There was a kind of panic on the Bourse yesterday on account of the events following Napoleon's manifesto. The restlessness in the Chamber of Deputies, the fate of the government bills and the newspaper denunciations disturbed the public mind and created a disquietude among the propertied class. The holders of rents and other securities have thrown them on the market from a fear that the revolutionary measures may depreciate them. President Grevy seems affected by the recent scare. A guard has been stationed at the garden entrance to the Elysees. The bulging pouches denote the presence of ball cartridges. A subscription has been opened on behalf of the families of the condemned Anarchists.

EXCOMMUNICATED.

SYRACUSE, Jan. 23.—Ex-Alderman Charles Scholser was publicly excommunicated from St. John's Lutherin church on Sunday, for having called the pastor a liar, which he refused to retract. Scholser participated in the election in that church recently, at which a general fight occurred.

White as councillors, met at Warsaw on January 15th, and took the necessary declarations of office and qualification before the Clerk. It is supposed Mr. Kirk was sick, as he was absent. The Reeve nominated Mr. Snelgrove as Auditor, and the Council appointed Edward McIlvena as their Auditor. The Clerk was instructed to get a statement from the County Treasurer, as to how the Township stood with the County on the 31st of December, 1882, for the use of the Auditors. On motion Jas. Robb was appointed assessor for 1883. At the clerk's request he was authorized to give up the bonds of John Wason and others, David Rose, Chas. Calder, W. Reid and John A. Rose. On motion the printing, &c., for the township is to be done at the Examiner Office for the present year. The Reeve was appointed to attend the adjourned land sale. The Clerk is to authorize the County Treasurer to abate the Statute Labor to S. Pearson, on receipt of certificate that the work is done. The following orders were granted:—

To Wason Bros., for goods furnished to J. Elliott by Order of Council $3 00

To Mark Tools.

Cover the part to be marked with a thin coating of tallow or beeswax. Then, with a sharp instrument, write the name in the tallow, cutting clearly into it. Then fill in the letters with nitric acid. Let it remain from one to ten minutes. Then dip in water and rub off, and you will have the mark etched.—The Sentinel.

A Fenian "Scare"

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 20. No confidence is reposed in the report from the American side, of a contemplated Fenian invasion. If an attempt were made the invaders would meet with a hot reception from the militia. The withdrawal of all naval vessels from the station leaves a great amount of imperial stores totally undefended. Bankers feel some uneasiness at the report, but no official intelligence has been received on the subject.

A Fearful Record

During the year just closed fifty-four persons have been murdered in Chicago by the usual means of bludgeon, knife or pistol, and of all this vast array of murderers only one has been found guilty enough to hang. Light penitentiary sentences have been the rule, and many have escaped without any punishment whatever. Judged by this bloody record, it would seem scarcely necessary that Herr Johann Most should go to Chicago to preach the new and improved gospel of killing which he has just promulgated.—Philadelphia Times.

Wonderful Profits of N. Y. Newspapers

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Except one afternoon journal and a new morning venture, all the New York newspapers are paying handsome profits on the capital invested. The two exceptions are Graphic, which sunk $25,000 in getting established, and Morning Journal, which has only been in the field a month. The Sun will pay a dividend this year of nearly 60 per cent; the Herald and Telegram about 45; the Times about 30; News 40; Statts Zeitung 40; Star, 23; Truth and Mail, 15, and Evening Post about 19. The Tribune has already declared a divided this week of 25 per cent.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1883.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

On Wednesday, January 17th, Mr. Creighton moved:—

That in the opinion of this House it will be in the public interest to have the various Departmental Reports printed as soon as possible after the expiration of the years to which they respectively relate, and to have the same circulated immediately upon being printed, whether the House shall be in session or not.

He pointed out that many of the annual reports became valueless through the late date at which they were issued.

Mr. Meredith and Mr. Morris spoke in support of the motion, and Messrs. Mowat, Harcourt, Hardy and Fraser opposed giving early information to the public, their supporters voting down the resolution by 44 to 26.

Mr. Waters' Public Cemeteries Bill was read a second time after considerable discussion, and was referred to the Municipal Committee.

After a number of bills had received their second reading, Mr. Waters moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Municipal Act. He explained that the effect of the bill would be to extend the franchise.

Mr. Mowat said he could not approve of the bill, and asked that it be allowed to stand.

Mr. S. C. Wood moved a resolution to set apart $50,000 as "The Ontario Tree Planting Fund," to recoup therefrom to municipalities half the amount paid by them for the encouragement of tree planting under the Act for that purpose. The resolution was carried, and a bill founded upon it was read a first time.

The Public Creameries Bill was read a second time, after much discussion as to whether the plan suggested was the best.

On Thursday Mr. Creighton moved in amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply:—

"That all the words in the motion after the word 'that' be struck out and the following substituted: 'The revenues of the province being to a large extent derived from its timber, the supply of which is rapidly decreasing, the public interest demands that greater care should be taken for the preservation of it, and that it should be provided by law that no additional territory shall be placed under license without the consent of the people's representatives in this House.'"

He showed in detail the large sums that had been derived from this species of public property, and the great inroads that had been made upon it, threatening speedy exhaustion.

Mr. Pardee defended the Government policy, and opposed any control being given to the House.

Mr. Meredith showed the bad effects of the present system, and how inconsistent it was with our theories of responsible Government. The power to alienate such a valuable property should not be left in the hands of the administration without check. As long ago as 1872, at the instance of the Opposition, the Government had pledged themselves to consult the House as to future sales, but they had violated their pledge.

Mr. Deroche opposed the amendment, and Mr. Lauder supported it.

On a division Mr. Mowat and his colleagues and supporters refused by a vote of 50 to 23 to allow the people by their representatives to have any voice in the disposal of their most valuable property.

The House went into Committee of Supply, and a number of items were passed.

On Friday a number of measures were advanced a stage.

In Committee of Supply several items were passed.

On the item of $10,000 for expenses re Boundary Award, Mr. Mowat in reply to a question from Mr. Meredith, said "he had already stated his willingness to go to the Privy Council, provided the Province got possession of the territory in the meantime." (Globe report.)

The orders of the Bills in charge of the Hon. Mr. Crooks were discharged.

THE HIDDEN HAND

WE notice Mr. Darling of Dummer is seriously alarmed at the possibility of having to work against "a hidden hand at Ottawa" in the coming contest. Remembering how charry Mr. Darling and his friends were in receiving aid in the June election from the "Hidden hand at Toronto" we are really sorry for him and trust his present alarm will not seriously effect his health. Whatever Sir John may do elsewhere he must keep the hidden hand out of East Peterborough and especially out of Dummer. No License Inspector in East Peterborough would dare, especially in Dummer, to talk politics whoever heard of Inspector Drain doing such a thing? A story is told of a certain chief patron of a cheese factory who last June informed his cheese maker that he must either vote as he voted or leave, and that having voted as his conscience dictated he has had to leave, but of course that could not have occurred in East Peterborough and especially anywhere within ten miles of the Darling neighbourhood in Dummer. Oh, no it is only the wicked Tories who could think of such wicked tactics. Then again we are sure Mr. Darling never heard of Sir Richard Cartwright's famous speech at Kingston shortly after the elections of 1878, in which he said according to the Kingston Whig report:

"The enemy had only captured the out works as it were, the Local Government of the Province was still in our hands. Thank God for it."

Why Mr. Darling would no more think of using the Local Government as a citidel from whence to attack the Dominion Government than the Reeve or Council of Dummer would think of discussing, or allowing party considerations to influence their action as a Council. And finally we are sure Mr. Darling did not hear Mr. Roxburgh's boast at the nomination last June that he had the whole power of the Mowat Government at his back in that contest, as if he had he would certainly have repudiated not the "hidden" but the "open" hand there displayed. The wicked Tories of Dummer might have swallowed such a boast, but the pure Reformers of Dummer—especially the members of the Darling club, never!

Tree Planting.

In the Ontario Legislature Mr. Wood moved that the treasurer of the Province, upon receiving a copy of the inspector's report, certified by the reeve and clerk, shall recoup to the treasurer of the municipality one half of the sum paid by the township under authority of the municipality under the act to encourage tree planting, the said copy to be forwarded on or before the first day of November in each year; that the sum of $50,000 is hereby apportioned and set apart for the object, and shall be known as the Ontario tree planting fund. He declared that the Government had long taken a great interest in the question, and had sent delegates to recent forestry congresses and they had submitted reports and recommendations to the Government. The bill provided that 25 cents would be paid for every tree that had been planted three years, the amount to be handed over by the municipalities and one-half retained by the Government.

Mr. Meredith asked whether the money would be paid at once or three years hence.

Mr. Wood replied only three years hence.

The [illegible] was passed.

The Paris Morgue

The Morgue is an admirable institution, and has repeatedly rendered the greatest services in bringing clews to light for the detection of crimes. All bodies recovered from the Seine, and the bodies of all persons who have met with violent death mysteriously, are conveyed to it and exposed to public view behind a glass screen. When a body cannot be identified it is photographed, and a portrait of it remains on view at the Morgue for months and months after it has been buried. The clothes found on the body are also exhibited, and thus it often happens that a long time after the man has disappeared, somebody, recognizing his photograph or apparel, is enabled to give evidence by which the cause of death are at length ascertained. It must be added that whenever there is a mysterious disappearance in Paris, those who are interested in the missing person go, as a matter of course, to the Morgue, to see if the body is not there. A continual stream of men, women, and even children, passes through this building all day (the guardians having orders to discourage no one from entering,) nor is there the demeanor of the crowds who go to view the dead bodies, whether from curiosity or more serious motive, otherwise than decorous.—London Times.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE

A Halifax Lady Missing—Fears Entertained of an Accident on the Wharves

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 20. This morning the town of Annapolis was thrown into a state of excitement by the reported disappearance of a highly esteemed lady, Mrs. Sarah Dakin, proprietress of a book store there. The missing lady complained all yesterday of a headache, and it being a fine moonlight evening, she told the lady with whom she boarded that she would take a walk to see the ruins and past the rink to hear the band play, thinking the fresh air would do her good. She left her boarding house about half-past eight, and on passing through the hall handed her keys to Mrs. Willett, her boarding mistress, as she had done on several occasions before. On the family returning home Mrs. Willett asked for Mrs. Dakin; no one had seen her in the rink, and a search was at once instituted and kept up all night without success. The missing lady was last seen walking towards St. George's street, apparently on her way home. It is feared she wandered down on one of the wharves, and slipping, has fallen over. An attempt to search the river will be made at low water, but the drift ice will render it very difficult. Friends in Digby have been telegraphed for, and are expected at Anapolis this evening. Mrs. Dakin is a niece of the late Hon. Joseph Howe.

EFFECT OF THE MOON'S RAYS.

"The sun shall not smite thee by day nor the moon by night." This beautiful verse expresses the belief, common in ancient days, that the moon exercises a baleful influence upon those exposed to her direct rays. In modern times the pernicious influence of the moon has been doubted and even denied. But whatever the influence of the moon in temperate zones, within the tropics it is very injurious to sleepers exposed to its rays, especially when at the full. On a voyage to the antipodes, when near the line, a Maltese sailor, who was a most comical fellow, slept for some hours on the boom with his face toward the full moon. On waking in the morning the muscles on the right side of his face were contracted so that every attempt to speak was attended with the most ludicrous contortions. Feeling sure that something was seriously wrong, he spoke to another, who supposing that as usual he was at his old tricks, burst out into laughter. Off he went to another, with exactly the same result. The poor fellow now got into a rage, thereby adding not a little to the ludicrousness of the scene. After a while the truth dawned upon the captain and othcers of the vessel. The doctor gave him some medicine, the muscles relaxed, and in the course of a week our Maltese friend was well again. Some five or six years ago, while sailing from Tahiti to Mangala, a little boy of nine, in perfect health, was thoughtlessly placed by his nurse in his berth, the slanting beams of the moon falling on his face. Next morning he was feverish and ill, and it was two or three days before he was himself again. On the Island of Aitutaki a native woman was watching night after night for the return of her husband from the Island of Atiu. While doing so one night she fell asleep, the moon's rays pouring upon her face. On awakening she felt ill, and her eyes were drawn on one side. Considerable interest was felt by the islanders in her case. Eventually however, her eyes were restored. These facts illustrate the injury done to human beings by the moon in the tropics. Yet I never heard of insanity or death resulting from this cause. It is well known, however, in tropical countries that the moon's rays occasion the rapid decomposition of flesh and fish. A number of benitas having been caught one evening near the line by a friend of mine, the spoil was hung up in the rigging of a ship, and was thus exposed to the moon during the night. Next morning it was cooked for breakfast. Symptoms of poisoning were soon exhibited by all who partook of it—their heads swelling to a great size, etc. Emetics were promptly administered, and, happily, no one died. The natives of the South Pacific are careful never to expose fish—a constant article of diet in many islands—to the moon's rays by any chance. They often sleep by the seashore after fishing, but never with the face uncovered. The aboriginals of Australia do the same as well as they can with their fishing nets, etc. A fire answers the same purpose. May not the injurious influence of the moon (in addition to her beauty and utility), account for the almost universal worship of that orb throughout the heathen world?—Sunday Home.

A Singular Girl.

There is now being exhibited at the Royal Aquarium in London a strange hairy little creature named Krao. Krao is described as a very bright-looking, intelligent girl of about seven years of age. She was caught, according to the account given by her, in the forest near Laos, and brought to England by Mr. Carl Bock, a Norwegian, who, since the expedition described by him in "The Head Hunters of Borneo," has been exploring Siam and the wilder States to the north east. Hearing in various quarters of the existence of a race of hairy tailed men, similar in appearance to a family kept at the Court of Mandalay, he offered a reward for the capture of a specimen. A man was caught, and with him the child now exhibited, and a woman of similar appearance then allowed herself to be taken. When the little one attempted to wander the parents called her back with a plaintiff cry, "Krao," and the call has been adopted as her name. The eyes of the child are large, dark, and lustrous, the nose is flattened, the nostrils scarcely showing; the cheeks are fat and pouch-like, the lower lip only rather thicker than is usual in Europeans; but the chief peculiarity is the strong and abundant hair. On the head it is black, thick and straight, and grows over her forehead down to the heavy eyebrows, and is continued in whisker-like locks down the cheeks. The rest of the face is covered with a fine, dark, downy hair, and the shoulders and arms have a covering of hairs from an inch to an inch and a half long. There is, it is said, a slight lengthening of the lower vertebræ, suggestive of a caudal protuberance, and there are points in this muscular conformation and otherwise which will provoke discussion. Krao has already picked up a few words of English. She is said to be of a frank, affectionate disposition, and shows truly feminine delight in her clothes, jewelry and ribbons. The showman exhibits her as "the missing link."

INDIAN MAGIC

A man is now in Calcutta, hailing from Delhi, of the name of Burah Khan, who says the Indian Mirror has attained a simply wonderful excellence in the magical art. We ourselves had the pleasure of witnessing some astonishing feats achieved by this man a short time ago at the hospitable residence of the Dutt family, of Wellington square. We shall mention only one out of several feats performed by Burah Khan and his company, which consists of three females. One of these, a young woman, was tied most securely. Her hands, feet and body were so fastened that she could only stir, and and no more. She was, in fact, deprived entirely of the power to turn her limbs to any use. She was then placed under a conical-shaped cover. People sat close round the skirts of the cloth which had been thrown over the cover. No means of escape was left to the young woman. But yet, after the lapse of five or ten minutes, the cover was removed and the woman was found to have disappeared altogether. When her name, however, was called out by Burah Khan, her voice was heard from the veranda above. This performance took place in the compound of the family residence of our friends, the Dutts, and the veranda is in the second story, forming a part of the female apartments. She was found there responding to the call of Burah Khan, to the surprise of everybody present. The woman did not and could not know the topography of the house. But how she extracted herself and made her way high above to the veranda from within the cover surprises us to such a degree that we cannot account for the feat on any natural grounds. Even if she was furnished with wings, it is inexplicable how she got out of the covering, unseen an unpercieved, except on the supposition that some supernatural agency had been employed. But she herself asserted that she worked the feat by dum. We are sure that if Burah Khan gives a few performances at the Town Hall, Calcutta, he will draw bumper houses, and astonish the whole Calcutta public, specially the European community. But these people do not, unfortunately, know how to make money, still less how to make themselves acceptable to the European community of the city. Burah Khan holds very valuable certificates from the Prince of Wales, Earl de Grey, the editor of the Pioneer, and many European noblemen and gentlemen who have witnessed his feats in different parts of India.

SMALL BED-CHAMBERS.

There is reason to believe that more cases of dangerous and fatal diseases are gradually engendered annually by the habit of sleeping in small, unventilated rooms, than have occurred from a cholera atmosphere during any year since it made its appearance in this country. Very many persons sleep in eight by ten rooms, that is, rooms the length and breadth of which multiplied together, and this multiplied again by ten for the height of the chamber, would make just eight hundred cubic feet, while the cubic space for each bed, according to the English apportionment for hospitals, is twenty one hundred feet. But more, in order "to give the air of a room the highest degree of freshness," the French hospitals contract for a complete renewal of the air of a room every hour, while the English assert that double the amount or over 4,000 feet an hour is required. Four thousand feet of air every hour! And yet there are multitudes in the city of New York who sleep with closed doors and windows in rooms which do not contain a thousand cubic feet of space, and that thousand feet is to last all night, at least eight hours, except such scanty supplies as may be obtained of any fresh air that may insinuate itself through little crevices by door or window, not an eighth of an inch in thickness. But when it is known that in many cases a man and wife and infant sleep habitually in thousand-feet rooms it is no marvel that multitudes perish prematurely in cities; no wonder that infant children wither away like flowers without water, and that five thousand of them are to die in the city of New York alone during the hundred days which shall include the fifteenth of July, eighteen hundred and [illegible]. Another fact is suggestive, that among the fifty thousand persons who sleep nightly in the lodging houses of London, expressly arranged on the improved principles of space and ventilation already referred to, it has been proved that not one single case of fever has yet been engendered in two years! Let every intelligent reader improve the teachings of this article without an hour's delay.—The Book.

Tobacco as a Medicine.

To illustrate the danger of using tobacco as a medicine, Dr. Mussey says: "A doctor in New Hampshire, a few years ago was consulted by the mother of a girl four years old, who was afflicted with a severe eruption on the face. The mother was anxious, from having heard stories of its efficacy in other cases, to make an application of tobacco; the physician, however, advised to the contrary, and left her to visit her sick neighbor. While prescribing for the latter, he was called back in haste to the child, whom he found senseless and motionless on the floor. The mother informed him that, being still persuaded tabacco would be beneficial, she had, after be retired, taken some from the bowl of a pipe and rubbed it over the child's face; that the child set out to walk across the room immediately after the application, but had not gone half way before it fell in the condition in which he found it. The physician worked over an hour resorting to various means for resuscitating the child, the plue occasionally reviving and then dying away, till, finally animation was restored. For years afterwards the child was subject to alarming nervous symptoms, and is now puny and feeble. Its constitution previous to the experiment, was good but the shock upon the nervous system was so severe that it has never recovered and probably never will.

WILL WONDERS EVER CEASE?

No matter how great one's experience, there is always something yet to be met with which calls forth our astonishment. Newspapers now and then, as well as the public in general, find this to be so. A case in point are the investigations instituted by the Chicago Tribune, Times, Cincinnati Star and other papers in regard to the rather remarkable claims advanced in favor of an article which has been placed before the people by means of the press and otherwise. In every instance these editorial investigations have resulted in a complete triumph for the article referred to.

The claims made regarding it were not only fully sustained, but scores of prominent and influential citizens were everywhere found, who from their personal experience and observations accorded their enthusiastic indorsement. The following extracts from letters of citizens of Fort Wayne, are specimens of testimonials received from all sections of the country.

Under date of January 17th, Mr. John G. Fledderman, the well known Merchant Taylor, in Union Block, writes: "I was a sufferer for many years with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, and found no relief until I tried St. Jacobs Oil. After using two bottles I was entirely cured. I shall always keep it in the house, and will not fail to recommend it to my friends."

Messrs. D. B. Strope & Co., proprietors of the Depot Drug Store, 281 Calhoun Street, made this statement: "Among our customers St. Jacobs Oil is considered the best liniment known. It always gives satisfaction, and never disappoints. It cured Mr. H. C. Ward of severe Rheumatism in three days. We recommend it constantly." The Globe Chop House comes to the front with these remarks by its proprietor, A. Geisman, Esq.: "When about eight years old, I met with a serious accident with a horse, by which my skull was fractured, even since I have been subject to the most excruciating Rheumatic pains. The St. Jacobs Oil which I applied of late has given me almost total relief, and by its use I hope to be entirely cured in a short time." The well known druggist, Mr. Otto Leffler, has this report to make: "I have had a large trade in St. Jacobs Oil, and know of a great many cases where it effected a steady cure of Rheumatism and Neuralgia. It sells on its merits." Messrs Boyer & Campbell, of Waterloo, Indiana, write: "Mr. J. W. Walker, of this town, suffered with Rheumatism for fifteen years. After trying a great many remedies without experiencing even relief he was induced to use St. Jacobs Oil, which completely cured him. He states that he feels like a new man." Among others who have experienced the effects of the Great German Remedy, might be mentioned Mr. Christian Krah, No. 59 Griffith Street, who was suffering so severely from Rheumatism, that he was unable to sleep or work. None of the many remedies he used benefited him, until "The Conqueror of Pain, St. Jacobs Oil" was applied, one bottle of which effected a perfect cure. Mr Rudolph Jasper, 72 W. Washington Street, was likewise made happy by its use. Mr. Rodemann, the druggist, stated: "I must say that it is the best liniment I ever sold." To those wishing to get rid of pains, we would say here is your chance "to strike oil."—Fort Wayne (Ind.) Sentinel.

GINGER COOKIES.—One cup of butter, one cup of sugar, one cup of molasses, one teaspoonful of saleratus dissolved in three tablespoonfuls of water, one teaspoonful of ginger. Roll as soft as possible and bake quickly.

JOHNNY-CAKE.—One egg, a cupful each of sour and sweet milk, a tablespoonful molasses or sugar, a teaspoonful salt, the same of soda; stir quite soft with Indian meal and add a half-cupful of flour. A spoonful of cream or other shortening may be added.

APPLE SHORT CAKE.—Make a short cake as usual, with a teaspoonful of sugar added. When baked, break open crust with a fork knife, and spread with nice fresh butter, then with thick sauce made of stewed sour apples well sweetened. The Editor's Bete Noire.

Everybody knows who is the "Printer's Devil," but there are comparatively few who know how he came to be so dubbed. We may therefore be pardoned for giving a brief account of the origin of so worthy a personage. Printing used to be called the "black art," and the boys assisted the pressmen were called the imps. According to legend, Aldus Manutius, a printer of Venice, took a little negro boy left behind by a merchant vessel, to assist him in the business. It soon got wind that Aldus was assisted by a little black imp, and to dispel the rumour he showed the boy to the assembled crowd and said, "Be it known to Venice that I, Aldus Manutius, printer to the Holy Church, and the Doge, have this day made a public exposure of the 'printer's devil.' All who think he is not flesh and blood may come and pinch him." The people were satisfied, and no longer molested the negro lad.

Surprise Blessings.

God's greatest blessings often come to us in the way of surprises. When the skies are as brass, when the earth is parched, and the flowers are dying, and we bow our heads in despondency, how often does it happen that we are started from our hopelessness by the patter of sudden rain, and looking up, we see the green earth created anew about us. God's mercies in their coming have the freshness of that unexpected rain. When human assistance is impossible, and it seems that even God cannot, or will not, help, there comes a sudden change, and the difficulties disappear, and the heart that scarcely dared to hope is filled with the love that is without tear. "He that believeth in him shall not be confounded;" when his need is direst, he shall find that God is nighest; when his own hand cannot save him, he shall stand still and see the swift salvation of God.—Sunday School Times.

FROM ALL OVER.

THE condition of Mr. Gladstone's health is causing serious alarm.

PRINCE FREDERICK CHARLES, brother of the German Emperor, is dead.

H. R. H. the Princess Louise will sail from Charleston, S. C., for Bermuda on Saturday next.

RANKIN BLACKMORE'S iron foundry at Greenock, Scotland, has been burned. The loss is great.

THE men who murdered two Englishmen at Alexandria, Egypt, in June last, were hanged on Saturday.

WALTER LINTON, of Waterloo, writes that Hagyard's Yellow Oil has done great good in his family, his wife being cured of Callouse lumps that other medicines failed to remove, he he also states that a neighbor was promptly relieved of Rheumatism by the same remedy.

THE New Orleans Picayune says the proposed reciprocity treaty between Mexico and the United States means annexation.

THE strike on the Caledonian railway, in Scotland, has collapsed, owing to dissension among the strikers.

LITTLE BY LITTLE.—The constant dropping of water will wear away even the hardest stone. So the constant irritation of a cough will so wear upon the lungs as to induce incurable Consumption. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will cure the worst cough, speedily and effectually.

WHEN a lady who has been taking music lessons for the past eight years hangs back and blushes and says she really can't play, don't insist on it. The chances are that she can't.

A TREATY pending between the United States and Madagascar recognizes slavery on the island, and provides for the return of slaves upon the demand of their master.

WORTH KNOWING.—A Fact Worth Knowing. The best household remedy known for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough and all throat and chest troubles tending toward Pulmonary Consumption is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, to be procured of any druggist.

A PAMPHLET attacking the ex-Empress Eugenie, purporting to be a recital of scandalous incidents in her life has been confiscated by the police at Berlin.

PEOPLE nowadays are always expressing their pride and satisfaction over modern inventions and discoveries. Do they not frequently exaggerate their importance? For instance, the ancients had gas, only they didn't light it.

GOOD ADVICE.—If our readers will accept proffered advice, they will always keep a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil at hand for use in emergencies, such as Burns, Scalds, Wounds, Lameness, Croup, Chilblains, Rheumatism and all varieties of aches, pains and inflammations. It will ever be found reliable.

THE proposed tunnel under the English channel still agitates the British public. It is believed the work is being secretly carried on, despite the injunction prohibiting its continuance.

MR. THOMAS W. RACE, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent head ache and distress as to often disable him from work. The medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms.

THE cause of death.—It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

Fell in His Own Trap

On Wednesday a number of men were engaged in cutting ice on the bay, above the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway Bridge, Ottawa, and when the storm came on, some of them put up mark to indicate where they had cut holes. A man named Laberge did not, and on the others saying one might get in, he replied, "Let them go." On Thursday morning he went to the ice field and started for his cut alone, and in tramping around fell in. He hung on at the edge by his fingers until Mr. David Denmark happened on the field and found Laberge almost frozen to death and speechless. He pulled him out and sent him home, and at last accounts the careless man was getting better.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. THE NEW NASSAU BRIDGE.

◆

A Bridge that will be a Credit to the County. Wood Replaced with Stone and Iron.

As the old wooden bridge at Nassau was too much decayed for further repair, the County Engineer, Mr. John E. Belcher, recommended the construction of a new iron bridge with stone abutments. Tenders for the stone work were invited and the contract was given to Mr. Charles Wynne.

Learning that the building of the abutments had been completed, a REVIEW reporter paid a visit to the site, which is just below the old bridge and above the mill dam. The abutments present a very satisfactory appearance, being built of heavy rock-faced ashlar masonry in heavy courses. The stone was obtained from quarries on the river Moira, near Belleville, and was brought to the site by the Grand Junction division of the Midland Railway.

These stone after being dressed were laid by machinery in Portland cement, some of them weighing over a ton. On the Douro side the foundation is on the solid bed rock, and on the Smithtown side is composed of heavy timber platforms laid on concrete on a hard-pan bottom.

Owing to the lateness of the shutting down of the Nassau mill, the water could not be drawn off the dam till November 10th, on which day the works were commenced and were pushed forward by Mr. Wynne under trying circumstances owing to the great cold till their satisfactory completion this week. The stones had to be steamed to take out the frost, and the cement had to be mixed with hot water, entailing unlooked for expense upon the contractor.

The work does great credit to the engineer, Mr. John E. Belcher, and to the contractor, Mr. Chas. Wynne. The warden, Mr. Henry Collins, took an active interest in the operations, paying repeated visits with the engineer, as did also the committee, Mr. Michael Sanderson, Reeve of Smith, and Mr. John Moloney, Reeve of Douro, who all express themselves highly pleased with the character of the work.

The contract for the iron superstructure has not yet been let. It is designed by Mr. Belcher to be in one span of nearly 200 feet, and will, we believe, be the longest single span of an iron highway bridge in Canada.

The county will have a fine bridge, which will reflect credit upon the spirit and enterprise of the Council. Their intention of having iron bridges throughout this county is to be commended, and shows progress in the right direction, for if somewhat costly to erect, the endless bills for repairs of wooden bridges will be obviated, and these would grow yearly more onerous as the difficulty of obtaining timber of suitable dimensions and quality in the locality increases.

Tea Meeting and Lecture

The services in connection with the celebration of the anniversary of the Bible Christian Church were continued on Monday evening, when a tea meeting was held in the Sunday School room of the church. There was a fair attendance considering the extremely cold weather the attendance was very large and the edibles were, as usual, of good quality and in abundance. After the tea was served, the Rev. W. J. [illegible] took the chair, and the Rev. John Shaw lead in devotional exercises. The Rev. H. J. Nott [illegible] delivered a lecture on "Astronomy," which was very instructive. The [illegible] and the church funds will be augmented to the extent of [illegible]

The Central School.

The main heating pipe leading from the furnace at the Central School burst at noon to-day, and the school consequently had to be closed. Men are engaged in repairing the damage, and the school will resume as usual to-morrow morning.

◆

The Right Man.

At the meeting of the Directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company, held on Monday afternoon, Mr. John Kelly was again appointed Superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery for another year. We congratulate the Directors on their choice, and feel satisfied the appointment will meet with general satisfaction. Mr. Kelly has proved himself to be a man worthy the position, and a look at the beautiful Cemetery will convince everyone that Mr. Kelly can cope with the first-class men of the United States and Canada, in taking care of and beautifying "God's Acre." Last summer a wonderful change was made in the general appearance of the Cemetery, and we learn that during the coming summer still further improvements will be made. Our Cemetery is a credit both to the town and to the Superintendent who has brought it to assume the picturesque appearance it now presents.

A HINT FROM JAPAN.

A notable instance of the Japanese understanding of the conditions under which [illegible] occurs in the manner of giving security to pagodas, says Dresser's "Japan." Pagodas are of great height, yet many have existed for 700 years, and have withstood successfully the many vibrations of the ground, which must have inevitably achieved their overthrow had they been erections of stone or brick. When I first ascended a pagoda, I was struck with the amount of timber employed in its construction, and I could not help feeling that the material here [illegible] was [illegible] excessive. But what [illegible] my feelings most was the presence of an enormous log of wood in the centre of the structure, which ascended from its base to its apex. At the top this mass of timber was nearly two feet in diameter, and lower down a log equally large was bolted to each of the four sides of the central mass. I was so surprised with this waste of timber that I called the attention of my good friend Sakata to the matter, and especially denounced the use of the central block. To my astonishment he told me that the structure must be strong to support the vast central mass. In my ignorance I replied that the central part was not supported by the sides, but upon reaching the top I found this mass [illegible] suspended like the clapper of a bell; and when I had descended I could, by lying on the ground, see that there was an inch of space intervening between it and the earth which formed the floor of the pagoda. The pagoda is to a Buddhist temple what a spire is to a Christian church, and by its clever construction it is enabled to retain its vertical position even during the continuance of this vast pendulum, the centre of gravity is kept within the base.

How to Prevent the Dampness in Houses

M. Phillipe, a well-known civil engineer and hygienist of Rouen, France, asserts that the most thoroughly sanitary foundation for a building, if the unhealthiness arising from dampness would be avoided, is concrete. He recommends covering the whole level of the future building with a layer four inches thick, composed of two-thirds broken flints, well washed, and one-third mortar made of lime and gravel sand; a layer of well purified clay, eight inches thick, may also be spread over the site of the building and extended for sixteen inches outside of the walls, and carried up with the walls on the outside until the level of the soil is reached. To destroy the porosity of building materials, M. Phillippe says they may be injected with gas refuse, or immersed successively in solutions of soap and alum, the result being to fill the pores of the brick or stone with a fatty substance which opposes the passage of water. The material may also be plunged in a solution of silicate of potash, but long enough for all the air-bubbles to be disengaged, and then laid aside for forty-eight hours before using.—A. Science.

French Statesmen

Some one has called attention to the remarkable fact that, within at least two centuries, no French statesman having reached so high a position as Gambetta died so young. Robespierre, however, must be excepted, though it is added that Robespierre "was only by usurpation supreme ruler of France." M. Casimir Perier, who was Prime Minister in 1832, died at 45, and this is the only instance nearly approaching that of Gambetta, who died at 44. When M. Gambetta became Minister of the Interior, in 1870, he was the one hundred and sixth politician who had filled that office since 1789.

Prince Krapotkine.

"Krapotkine, the Nihilist," says the London World, is a man on whom a great deal of false sentiment and sympathy has been lavished for some time, partly because he was looked upon as an injured and down-trodden man struggling against oppression, and partly because he expressed the wrongs of himself and others so beautifully with his pen. The actual fact is that the man has been a firebrand for years in many countries, and a professional provoker of emeutes and uprisings in France, with which country he could have no concern, as well as in Russia and Poland.

The American Navy.

That new Canadian weather prophet who has notified President Arthur that a terrific storm will play sad havoc with our vessels next March need not feel alarmed for the safety of our Navy. The President having received timely warning, has instructed the Secretary of the Navy to employ a few horses and have our war vessels hauled up into a field and have a shed built over them. This precaution may entail an expense of $500 or $600, but the American Navy must and shall be preserved.—Norristown Herald.

The Queen's Signature.

The Queen has done an act which is of much more importance in the world of art than might be supposed, by granting to the members of the Royal Water-Color Society in Pall Mall the distinction of a diploma signed by her own hand. That society, since its foundation in 1804, has performed services for which all lovers of a form of art which is peculiarly English cannot but be grateful. It has been to all water-colorists, and especially to landscape painters, what the Royal Academy has been to painters in oil color; to be a member of it has practically been the highest honor which a water-color painter, as such, could aspire to. Her Majesty has recognized this fact, and has placed the two institutions, as far as official rank is concerned, on a level with each other. Whatever their legal status may be, it is certain that in the case of either society a national trust has been confided.—London Spectator.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES. There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcule which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent remedy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widely increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly affected with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT. SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

THE DESTROYING ELEMENT.

Mr. Mason's Greenhouse on Fire. Considerable Damage Done.

At about half past three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon Mr. F. Mason's greenhouses were discovered to be on fire. The alarm was sounded, but there was a delay in getting the fire engine to the scene. Coming out of the shed, the wheels of the engine were run into a snow drift and the horses refused to draw. The snow was shovelled away, but the horses could not be forced to proceed, and Councillor Rutherford got a farmer to attach his team to the engine and draw it to the fire. The hose had been stretched and the firemen waited twenty minutes before they got water to work with, and in the meanwhile the fire had got considerable headway and had done great damage.

Two of the greenhouses were totally destroyed, with their contents, and the others were all more or less damaged; and a large number of plants that escaped from the fire were destroyed by the frost. Plants that were carried from the greenhouses into Mr. Mason's dwelling were frost bitten in the transit. The fireman worked well, despite the piercing cold, and the fire was finally subdued. Mr. Mason's loss is heavy. There was about $1,000 worth of flowers and plants destroyed, and his total loss will probably reach $2,000. On this there is an insurance of $800.

The fire is supposed to have originated from the heating apparatus in one of the greenhouses, either through the bursting of a pipe or through the bricks becoming very hot on account of the very warm fires which had to be kept burning because of the extremely cold weather. Two of Mr. Mason's children were in a greenhouse when the fire broke out, and their retreat through the way they had entered being cut off, they had to break through the glass to save their lives. Mr. Mason was at his business house down in the town when the fire broke out. This is not only a loss to Mr. Mason, but also to the town, as he had, through his energy, established an industry that was assuming large proportions.

MANITOBA ELECTIONS.

The Result of the Voting. The Norquay Government Sustained.

Special to the Review.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 24.—The latest despatches indicate that the Government is sustained. It is believed that Glass and Sifton are defeated in Minnedosa, and Brandon, Mountain, Birtle, Turtle Mountain, North Dufferin, South Dufferin, Norfolk and La Verandrye are yet to hear from. Allowing six out of the seven for the Opposition the result will stand as follows:—Eighteen for the Government and twelve for the Opposition. The exact results, however, cannot be ascertained for a day [illegible]

THE FRENCH REPUBLIC.

PARIS, Jan. 24.—There is little doubt that if good statesmen continue to be wanting, the French Republic will go headlong to ruin. That the French people are aware of this is the explanation of the panics caused by the difficulty of Minister Solitte.

THE CAPTAIN LOST.

HAMBURG, Jan. 24.—The rumor that Captain Housen, of the Cimbria, was saved, is unfounded.

DUEL WITH SWORDS.

PARIS, Jan. 24.—A duel with swords was fought between De Lort, painter, and Colonel Pommerance. De Lort was wounded in the breast.

TO FIND SECURITIES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 24.—In court to-day Davitt, Healy and Quinn, charged with inciting to lawlessness, were ordered to find securities for good behaviour, or go to prison for six months. A week's time was allowed them.

BODIES FOUND.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—St. Petersburg newspapers state that the bodies of two members of Chipps party have been found in Chateau Bay. Probably the report has the same origin as the statement of the finding of two corpses of members of the party, published in New York recently and discredited.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—The crisis in France has much disturbed the Berlin Bourse.

FIRE IN RUSSIA.

VIENNA, Jan. 24.—It is reported that the whole central portion of Nicoliga, Russia, was burned with some loss of life.

THE FRENCH CRISIS.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—A Paris correspondent says that the seceding Ministers appear to favor yielding to the demands of the Radicals and Irreconcilables. If this last, DeClere, supported by the ballot and Jourregerberg, may form a new and energetic Cabinet, which if beaten in the Chamber, may dissolve it and appeal to the country. In the event of a general election, so great is the exasperation against those disturbing and agitating France, that a good number of the Deputies of the Left would fail to be returned.

ATTACKED BY A LIONESS.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—Peter Marvin, an animal trainer belonging to a circus wintering here, fell against a cage containing a lioness. The latter was enraged because of attentions shown some young lions, and seized Marvin's arm and tore the flesh from it. It then broke out of the cage. The men outside feared to come to Marvin's assistance. The latter, with an iron bar, boldly attacked the lioness, and goaded her back into the cage.

THE JEWS IN HUNGARY.

PESTH, Jan. 23.—In the Lower House of the Hungarian Diet to-day Herr Jokay energetically advocated placing the Jews on complete equality with the adherents of other creeds. His remarks were cheered. Herr Tisza, President of the Council, said the prejudice against the Jewish race would expire through social influences only. If society showed itself not equal to the task, then exceptional legislation would become necessary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The following steamships are overdue:—The City of Chester from Liverpool, the Main from Bremen, the Devon from Bristol, the Holland from London, the Treja from Havre, the Alvena from the West Indies, the Tower Hill from Liverpool, the Asia from Bordeaux, the St. Olaff from Newcastle, the Thor from Gibraltar, the Rhoda from Marseilles, the Rosina from Newport, England, the St. Ella from Amsterdam, and the Critic from Newcastle. Apprehensions are felt for the safety of some of them. The Asia is two weeks overdue, and the St. Olaff, Thor, and Rhoda ten days.

INSANITY AND MURDER.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 23.—The wife of John Leindrick, labourer, to-day killed her three children, the oldest seven years and the youngest eighteen months, literally cutting them to pieces and disembowelling them. The neighbours attention was attracted by the woman's attempt to hang herself. The murderess has been arrested, and is very calm. She stated that she received a command to sacrifice the children in the Good Book. She is doubtless suffering from religious insanity.

A SPIRITUALIST CRANK.

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—A. A. Southwick, a prominent spiritualist of Charlotte, claiming inspiration from God to kill his family, was about to execute the "divine command" with a gun, when he was prevented and lodged in gaol, and afterwards sent to the asylum at Pontiac, which greatly surprised himself and his followers.

THE MONTREAL CARNIVAL.

Opening of the Festivities Under Auspicious Circumstances.

MONTREAL, Jan. 23.—The weather to-day has been very propitious for the carnival. The severe cold did not prevent the spectators from even going on the river. About one thousand were present at the curling matches. Driving is the sport of the hour. All the streets are perfectly jammed with cutters and hacks. Curling commenced at 2 p.m. The Toronto Granites were pitted against Lindsay, and Toronto against the Hamilton Thistles. The contract drive was the opening event of the day. There was a very large turn-out. Four-in-hands led the procession, followed by a five horse tandem to a small cutter, six double teams and fifty-five single sleighs in line. They drove through the principal streets, starting from the Windsor.

Tobogganing was the principal sport last night. The slide behind Mountain and Peel streets presented an animated appearance. To-night St. James street is one flood of light and life. The principal stores and public buildings on it are lit with electric and calcium lights.

In the curling bonspiels the most vigorous and hotly contested match was that between the Toronto Granite and Lindsay clubs. The latter just won by the skin of its teeth. Another vigorous contest occurred between the Toronto and Hamilton clubs. The latter came out victorious, but had all they could do to triumph. B[illegible]

Cannibalistic Hogs.

It often happens that hogs while in transit on the cars fight among themselves, generally resulting in the death of one or two of the combatants, but it was not thought possible that they would eat their deceased fellow-workers afterwards. This is a fact, however, that was placed beyond a doubt yesterday at the cattle yards. A heavy train load of these animals arrived at the yards to wait sale in Tuesday's market. On unloading one of the cars, several hogs were found to be dead, and two of them partially eaten, the head and forequarters of one of them only remaining. The scene in the car was disgusting. The living animals were covered with blood, and it seemed as if its taste had made them savage, for they snapped at the railway men as they were driven out, and could only be subdued after considerable trouble.—Toronto Guardian.

GIVING UP THE CRY

By a recent statement in the Ontario Legislature Mr. Mowat has completely abandoned the position which he and his followers and organs have hitherto taken as to the Boundary Award. According to the Globe's report, which we presume will be considered a fair one, he said that "He had already stated his willingness to go to the Privy Council, provided the Province got possession of the territory in the meantime." It has been vociferously claimed that every man who favored a reference of this important question to the Privy Council, to the highest Court in this realm, was a robber and a traitor, in spite of the obvious folly of the statement that robbers would invoke the decision of a competent court or that traitors would appeal to the foot of the throne. But now we learn on weighty authority that Mr. Mowat would himself be willing to join the band of robbers and traitors. He would not hesitate to take his share in the theft and in the treason.

It is true that there is a condition, and this is very important, for it confines this much vexed question within such narrow and plainly defined limits that it can be easily understood and considered by the dullest intellect. Mr. Mowat would without compunction turn thief and traitor, if only "the Province (that is Mr. Mowat) got possession of the territory in the meantime." The thanks of the public are due to Mr. Mowat, to whose luminous intellect we are indebted for this clear and close definition to the point that is really at issue between him and the Dominion, which is thus stripped of all the collateral issues, [illegible] the masses of verbiage that have obscured it, till according to the [illegible] leaving [illegible] could not see the wood for the trees.

Sir John Macdonald is anxious now, as he was ten years ago, to submit the matter to the Privy Council; and his colleagues, the Dominion Parliament and the bulk of the people of Canada, including the majority of the representatives and electors of Ontario, support him in this view. Mr. Mowat is now also willing to go to the Privy Council, and we may assume that his followers would endorse his action. His condition then is clearly the only material obstacle at present to an amicable settlement. The sole difficulty is as to who is to have "possession of the territory in the meantime." Sir John Macdonald on the one hand offers joint possession and joint control, with joint accounts to be subsequently settled in accordance with the decision. Mr. Mowat on the other hand wishes to get exclusive possession with the accompanying control.

It is satisfactory to have the difference so plainly put. We could not imagine that Mr. Mowat clamored for an award which gave us, according to himself, less territory than is our due, from a mere wish to defraud his Province of its full rights. But now we have before us from his own mouth the key of the position—the only point for which he cares to contend. He must have "possession of the territory in the meantime." Having materially impaired our real estate capital, he now hungers for an opportunity of selling more of our property to meet out of capital his augmented yearly expenditure. Having filled the older portion of Ontario as full as he well could with his army of placemen, he now yearns for new territory to give him an opportunity of appointing more magistrates, commissioners, inspectors, bailiffs, clerks, etc.

This is the point of difference between the parties. Is it worth Mr. Hay's threatened civil war?

No better proof could be afforded that politics, not the interests of temperance and economy, rules in the appointment of License Commissioners than the fact that while the same gentlemen are deemed competent to discharge the duties of Commissioners for both [illegible] and North Victoria, it [illegible] the [illegible] for [illegible]

[illegible] NEWS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Boat Building.—[illegible] and Cassidy have taken the contract of building a large scow for Mr. Geo. Chalmers, to be ready when navigation opens.

Snow Storms.—Last Thursday and Friday were two of the worst snow storms of the season. The cold has been so intense from Saturday and is still lasting, that traffic on the roads is quiet. Surely we are having Manitoba weather in this part of the country at present.

Trent Valley Canal.—Mr. Goodwin, the contractor for the Burleigh and Buckhorn Locks in connection with the Trent Vally Canal, is on the lookout for timber, &c., around this section. This looks like business.

The Dam.—The old dam is still in the same place. I hear the Local Government has let the contract for the new dam to a good Reformer at Lakefield. The pretence of building the dam will not influence one vote for either of the Mowat candidates around this section; therefore they had better take a note of this piece of information in time.

Lumbering.—I hear from all sources that this winter has been so far an excellent one for the lumbermen, which is a good thing for all concerned, in this part of the country. When it is a bad season we all know it too soon. Success to them.

AN INFANT PHENOMENON.

One of the most remarkable instances of childish precocity known of late years has recently appeared in Paris. The child, which is French, born in the neighborhood of Perigneux, in October, 1877, and thus little more than three years old, is named Berthe Guillebaud. The parents are poor and ignorant vine-dressers, who struck when she was only eighteen months old by the fact that she had extraordinary intelligence and a prodigious memory, took her to the school teacher of this village, and he amused himself by cultivating her astonishing talents. In a year she had made such progress that her parents made up their minds to reap some advantage from it, and brought her to Paris. She knows not only how to read and write, but the four rules of arithmetic, and solves the little problems that are given her without ever making a mistake. Moreover, she knows the whole of the first act of "Athalia," which she repeats in her little silvery voice from end to end without missing a line. And finally, one can ask her for whatever piece he chooses from "Il Trovatore," "Rigoletto," "Faust," and "La Juive." She will sing it to him at once in the most accurate fashion imaginable. Nothing could be funnier than to hear her coo out the "Caro nome" from "Rigoletto" in Italian. And yet, as we have said, she is but a little over three years old. Not only does she not look older, but her certificate of birth, attested by all sorts of authorities each more official than the other, proves the fact beyond question. The child has been carefully examined by physicians for any abnormal development of the brain or skull, but they say that there is nothing of the sort, and that it is simply a very well developed head. We asked her manager what he intended to do when she should be five or six years old, when what is now surprising in her would be no longer extraordinary. "Oh," said he, "I have an engagement with her parents for five years, all the same, and I am quite sure of making a good thing of it. As she grows older I will make her exercises more complicated. She has just recited to you the first act of 'Athalia.' Now I am going to make her learn it backwards. As soon as she is four years old I am going to begin to have her taught mathematics." And the baby, playing with an india rubber doll, listened to all this without appearing in the least frightened by a future thus bristling with cipher, ciphers, with incomprehensible phrases, and even perhaps, with algebraic formula.

This may all be very well for a year, for two years, perhaps for five, but in the end this poor little brain cannot fail of breaking down under such a strain. It simply means meningitis in the more or less remote future. We have a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Why in the world have not we one for childhood as well? Meanwhile, Berthe Guillebaud goes on earning a thousand francs a month for her parents, with many more for her impressario, a sort of Italian Barnum named Pesaro.—[illegible]

THE EDITOR AND THE COBBLER.

One day an editor, hard at work, trying to devise a plan to make his delinquent subscribers pay their dues, was called upon by a shoemaker who dropped in to give the editor some hints on running a newspaper. The editor, pleased at the opportunity, gave the man his best cane-seat chair, honored him with a cigar, and listened attentively to what he had to say. Quoth the shoemaker, as he lit the weed: "Your paper needs a hundred improved features; you don't grasp the topics of the day by the right handle; you don't set the locals in the right type; your telegraph news is too thin, even the paper itself is poorly manufactured, not thick enough, and of too chalky white; you don't run enough matter, and what you do run ain't of the right sort; your idea on Disestablishment is wrong, and in regard to We Colin' you stand bad. I tell you these things because I want to see you succeed. I tell you as a friend. I don't take your paper myself, but I see it once in a while; and as a paper is a public affair, I suppose I have as good a right to criticize it as anybody. If a man wants to give me advice, I let him; I'm glad to have him, in fact."

"That's exactly it," said the editor, kindly; "I always had a dim idea of my shortcomings, but never had them so clearly and convincingly set forth as by you. It is impossible to express my gratitude for the trouble you have taken, not only to find out these facts, but point them out also. Some people, knowing all these things, perhaps nearly as well as you, are mean enough to keep them to themselves. Your suggestions come in a most appropriate time. I have wanted some one to lean on, as it were, for some weeks. Keep your eye on the paper, and when you see a weak spot, come up." The shoemaker left, happy to know that his suggestions had been received with such a Christian spirit.

Next day, just as he was finishing a boot, the editor came in, and picking up the mate, remarked: "I want to tell you how that boot strikes me. In the first place, the leather is poor; the stitches in the sole are wide apart, and in the uppers too near the edge. The uppers will go to pieces in two weeks. It's all wrong, my friend, putting poor leather in the heels, and smoothing it over with grease and lamp black. Everybody complains of your boots; they don't last, the legs are too short, the toes too narrow, and the instep too high. How you can have the 'sauf' to charge 22s for such boots beats me. Now, I tell you this because I like to see you succeed. Of course I don't know any more about shoemaking than you do about a newspaper, but still I take an interest in you because you were so well disposed towards me. In fact I—" Here the shoemaker [illegible] a tap at the editor, and the editor [illegible] the street, followed by [illegible] [illegible] went after [illegible] the [illegible]

A NEW BUILDING MATERIAL.

Tripolith is the name given by its inventor to a new binding material for builders, a substitute for lime, cement and plaster under certain circumstances, and which is composed of sulphate of lime, coke and oxide of iron, [illegible] or other. While tripolith mixed with sand only, sets in 10 to 15 minutes, an addition of slaked lime may easily increase the time required for setting to 60 minutes. The specific gravity of tripolith is lower than that of plaster; the former is 1.678 the latter 1.686. Turning now to the test, we give the mean results in each case of five complete experiments.

The extraordinary increase of tensile strength after a long exposure to the atmosphere air is remarkable; it amounts to 100 per cent from seven to ninety days in mortar B, and to 189 per cent in mortar C for the same time. Compared with the tensile strength of lime and cement, the results obtained with tripolith are highly satisfactory. The compression tests point out for tripolith a position between lime mortar and cement mortar, but since after being fairly set it acquires about the same crushing strength as ordinary bricks, no more would be needed for general use. In setting, tripolith mortar loses in weight, and when placed in water does not absorb the latter so rapidly as ordinary mortar does. Its adhesion to brick, stone and other materials is very considerable, and the tripolith mortar does not either reduce or increase noticeably in volume where setting. For facing and plasterings this material is excellently suited; it is easily handled and smoothed while soft, adheres well to brick, a stone surfaces, and attains far greater hardness than plaster of paris, and [illegible] other [illegible] adhere to it well.

Body Snatching Again

The vault of the Rigaud Cemetery was broken into at an early hour yesterday morning by body snatchers, who succeeded in making off with five bodies, namely, those of the late J. B. Seguin, 56 years old; Louis Poirier, 70; Delie Bertrand, 14; Madame Sabourin, 56; and Collette Lefebvre, 75. The affairs appears to have been well planned and carried out with a great deal of determination. The vault is of stone, and closed with double doors, the outside one being of thick iron. The hinges of these were let into the masonry of the building, and to effect their entrance the ghouls had to break away the stone work all round the door, when it was taken down. The hinges of the inside door being attached to woodwork were pried off with crowbars. When the inhabitants of the country were apprised of the desecration of their dead, shortly after daylight, they found the door of the vault still open, and with grave clothes which had been on the bodies stolen threw about the floor of the vault. The lids of the coffins had been broken in with crowbars. It appears that the resurrectionists had intended taking more of the twelve corpses which were in the vault but had been disturbed. Their crowbars had been left behind, and the body of Madame Lavigne was found partly stripped of her grave clothes, leaning against the door of the vault. The whole of the neighborhood is aroused, and great indignation is felt over the affair. The city police have been notified of the affair, but have not so far been able to get on the track of the robbers.—Montreal Star, Jan. 22.

Nearly Buried Alive

Cardinal Donnett, who recently expired in France at the age of 87, was an excellent man, who won his way to the height he attained by activity, good works, a tolerant spirit and a natural eloquence enlarged by careful study. He was 43 years old when, in 1836, Louis Philippe's Government made him Archbishop of Bordeaux; but he became a Cardinal in 1852, when Louis Napoleon needed respectabilities to fill his Senate. Alike under the elder Bourbons, the house of Orleans, and the third Bonaparte, Donnet was popular and beloved. He also deserves some remembrance on account of a singular adventure which befell him when a young man. During an illness his body assumed all the aspects of death. He was rigid, did not breathe, and his heart ceased to beat. The medical men affirmed that the youth was dead, and, according to French law, he was speedily placed in his coffin, and every preparation made for his funeral. Yet all that time he was alive, heard what was said, knew the loving and eternal folk around him; but he was not, until the very last moment, just as the lid was about to be screwed down on his narrow bed, that, by a desperate effort, he broke the spell and sat up, to the horror of all who were near. Thus was he saved from living entombment. It was in the Senate, when arguing against such rapid burial, that Cardinal Donnet related his own experience to astonished listeners.

A Deadly Mistake

On Friday evening last a corpse arrived at the Union station. The address on the coffin was very illegible, and it was found impossible to ascertain the party to whom it had been sent. Station Constable Graves was struck with the idea that it was the remains of the late Patrick Maloney, who was murdered at Rat Portage. The constable engaged a hack and proceeded immediately to the residence of the deceased's father, near St. Patrick's church. It would not be difficult to imagine the surprise manifested by Mr. Maloney on being informed that his son's body had arrived when he had previously been told that it was interred in Rat Portage. Mr. Maloney drove to the station to bring the body home. Before the corpse was put in the sleigh, they thought the coffin should be opened. This was done, and it was then found that the corpse was that of a woman.—London Free Press.

KEEP WARM.

There is no animal in the world, that I know of, born into the world in a state of greater helplessness than the human infant, and none more dependent upon artificial means to keep up the animal heat. It is not actually born blind, like a dog or cat; at all events, a child's eyes are open from birth, although I doubt much that they are of any intrinsic use to him, for the first month at least. But the human baby would very, very soon succumb to the cold if not protected. This is proved by the fact that a very much larger proportion of children die during the winter than during the summer months, although as regards the mortality of the young and the middle-aged there is very little difference between those seasons. The older a child gets, the better it becomes able to resist cold, but—and I would that mothers would bear this well in mind—not until a boy or girl is well into his or her teens should fostering warmth be looked upon otherwise than as a friend, or cold otherwise than as a deadly foe. Children in the cradle are seldom or never neglected by parents among the middle or upper classes; but it is when a child begins to run about, and is able to go out of doors, that mistakes are made about the clothing, which often lead to speedily fatal illness or sow the seeds of future ailments, which render life a misery and a burden, that can be only laid down at the portals of the tomb. Instead of studying warmth and comfort in the clothing of their children, thousands—nay, millions of mothers study only fashion; I speak advisedly, for I have proof of what I aver every day of my life.

Regarding the young, those who are between the age of ten and twenty, I have to say that, with no desire to advise them to be over-clothed, and thus made hot-house plants of, too much attention cannot be paid to keeping them warmly clad. Cold is so fatal to the young, warmth is life itself; cold retards the building-up of the tissues of bone and muscle, warmth encourages it; cold interferes with the due performance of the functions of the skin, throws work on the liver and kidneys, and blunts the nervous energy of the brain itself; warmth has altogether a contrary effect.

Some parents labor under the erroneous impression that they are making their children hardy by allowing them to expose themselves to the deleterious effects of the absence of warmth. To maintain the animal heat in the young it is not necessary that the clothing should be heaped upon them, nor that they be carefully made prisoners of in-doors, whenever the day is chill or winds blow high. The clothing should be light rather than heavy—light and protective; and materials should be studied, not the amount.

Not only young people but middle-aged as well, to say nothing of those who are old and full of years, should wear some kind of flannel underclothing all the year round; though if I must make an exception of the former, let me advise them that flannel be worn in winter and silk in summer; and this I mean to refer also to a change, in hot weather, from stockings or socks of wool to those made of the softer and thinner, but none the less comfortable material, silk. Those who suffer from cold feet should wear two pairs of light soft socks. Old people should always have their feet thus clothed, for their hearts are not so strong as they were in bygone days, and cannot pump the warm blood to the extremities with the force they were wont to. Few things are more destructive to, or rather I should say, few things tend more to waste the animal heat than cold feet and cold hands. The old among us should protect both, not forgetting that the spring and winter months are particularly fatal to those advanced in life.

The aged ought to wear a flannel rather than a cotton night-dress; it should be of sufficient length, too, to cover the limbs, and bed-socks should also be worn; these should be of the lightest, softest, wool that can be produced. They should have a sufficient quantity of bed-clothes and no more, each blanket being light and soft; but heavy counterpanes should never be slept under, for the weight of them makes sleep fatiguing, instead of refreshing as it ought to be.

The best temperature at which to keep a room for health's sake is about 69° or 70° above the mantel-piece. Less than this is far more agreeable to many, and a greater degree is unwholesome to say nothing of the danger of catching a chill on going out from a room so heated. Elderly people should never put on a cold and unaired great-coat, before going out of doors in winter; it takes but a few moments to warm, so there is no need to run any risk. It does no harm either to warm both fingers and toes before going out; then if a brisk walk be taken there is little fear of any sudden or dangerous lowering of the animal heat. Walking can be done with greater ease and comfort if the clothes be light; and it is a very easy thing to have them made of materials that are both light and warm. The chest in people advanced in years need all the protection you can give it; and here I tell you something worth remembering; the back requires protection from the cold, as much, if not more than the breast, and yet protectors are nearly always worn on the chest only—a mistake that is fatal to thousands. The custom of taking cordials, generally of a vinous nature, to keep up the animal heat, is a very bad one.—Cassell's Magazine.

SECOND GROWTH PINE.

An interesting paper by Mr. Edward Jack, of New Brunswick, appears in the St. John Telegraph. Our readers should peruse it, as it contains some valuable hints relating to the second growth of pine. Mr. Jack is an authority on the subject, and his remarks carry a good deal of weight. He says:

"A few weeks since, just after the railway cars in which I was riding had passed through the Hoosac Tunnel, the news agent handed me a copy of the Springfield Republican of December 9th. As I glanced over it my eye fell upon this passage:

"'The second-growth of white pine sawed in Massachusetts, census year, was worth about $1,000,000.'

"This was an extract from a paper lately read at the State Board of Agriculture in Northampton by Prof. Sargent, of Harvard College. The Professor says that 'a large portion of the neglected farming lands in Central and Southern New England is growing up to white pine, and could that growth be encouraged and protected, Prof. Sargent confidently predicts that its value in Massachusetts, alone, would in a few years exceed the net profits upon half a century of farm crops.'

"This statement attracted my attention, so much that I made it my business, for the rest of the journey through this part of Massachusetts, to notice every growth of second growth pine, as well as every board pile visible from the car windows. The numerous piles of pine board which met my view, as we passed along, were with but few exceptions, sawn from small second growth trees. What I saw convinced me that if Massachusetts could make large profits out of second growth pine New Brunswick could do the same.

"One third of our Province as embraced within the limits of the grey sandstone of the Coal Measures, the meagreness of whose soil is so well described by Prof. Johnston, in his Report on New Brunswick. This soil, although suitable to the growth of little else, is well adapted to that of the White and Norway pine, and clumps and groves of these woods are now springing up all over the burned lands of these districts. Indeed many a good pine log has been cut in New Brunswick on ground swept by the Miramichi fire. Looking across the Nashwaak from the highway near the dam, at Mr. Gibson's mills, one sees on the south side of the river a growth of stout sapling pine, which will soon be fit for timber. It is not many years since the land on which these trees are growing was under crops, and did others exercise the same care that Mr. Gibson has done, in this case, the benefits to accrue to the country would be enormous.

"It is not at present needful for us to plant trees on our waste lands; all that we are required to do, to secure in not very many years an immense return from these lands, would be to protect the trees which nature, herself, has caused to grow upon them. The question arises, How can this be done? Probably the best way to attain this end would be for the Government of the country to offer a prize of, say $200, for the best 40 acres of second growth pine land, which is to be found in the country at the end of ten years, say from the date of making the offer, with second, third and fourth prizes of less value to other tree preservers of like extent. People thus preserving their trees would find that, beside the value of the bonus, there would be a real cash value in the timber which they had protected, and others would be led to follow the good example set them. Of course there would have to be conditions attached to the grant of bonus, and the age of the trees would have to be taken into consideration, as well as the care to be bestowed upon them. This, it seems to me, would be the readiest way of awakening our people to their best interests in this matter. It is almost unnecessary to remark on the destruction of the forests of America, or on the policy of all enlightened European Governments in conserving their forests, and on the innumerable bad economic and climatic results of the wholesale removal of forests, either by fire or the axe of the woodsmen. These facts have just begun, almost too late, to make an impression on the people on this side of the Atlantic."

Patent Medicines.

The quantity of patent medicine used in the Dominion is large. There are so many varieties of patent medicines, each kind being guaranteed to cure all the ills that flesh is heir to, that the sufferers are often at a loss to decide which to be cured by, or killed, as the case may be. No doubt in the unsettled parts of the country, where it is difficult to get either medicine or advice from a regular practitioner, patent medicines have been resorted to with good results. But the safer plan is to go to a regular practitioner wherever it is possible. It does not do to run any risk in taking quantities of medicines into your system. A good authority once said that if all the drugs were poured into the sea it would be a good thing for mankind, but bad for the fish. There can be no doubt that a great deal of the patent medicine disposed of is very poor stuff, and the only thing to hope is that if it does no good, at any rate it does no harm, although this is not always the case. In France there is a regular inspector who analyses all the patent medicine offered for sale. If it is deleterious, it is condemned; if not, it is licensed, and in this way the State derives a large revenue from it.—Toronto Telegram.

The cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Biliousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

The addition of resin to the tallow for belts used in damp or wet places, will be of service and help preserve their strength. Belts which have become hard and dry should have an application of neat's foot or lard oil mixed with a small quantity of resin; this prevents the oil from injuring the belt and helps preserve it. There should be so much resin as to leave the belt sticky.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all Chemists.

The Tennessee Sentinel says that a man in that State has a dog that crows like a rooster. Some two years ago the dog began to practice this art just as he had heard the roosters, and every morning, as regularly as could be, kept up the practice until now he is an expert crower. He goes through all the motions of a rooster, raising his head and bring it lower down as he completes his crow.

Why Called Pig Iron.

When iron is melted it runs off into a channel called a sow; the lateral branches of which are called pigs; here the iron cools, and is called pig iron. This is mere play upon the word sow. Now, sow has nothing whatever to do with swine, but is taken from the Saxon sawan, to scatter, German sausen, to rush; and ought to be written sou (sowe), a word in use still in the expression, "He soused upon him," i. e., swooped or rushed. Having sows or sous for the parent channel, it required no great effort of wit to make the lateral grooves the little pigs.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

JANUARY MEETING OF THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE MUNICIPALITIES

The Assembly Organized. Mr. John Moloney Elected Warden for the Present Year. All the Members Present.

All the members of the Council were present.

Mr. SANDERSON moved, seconded by Mr. CROUGH, That John Moloney be Warden.

Mr. KIDD moved, seconded by Mr. STRICKLAND, That Henry Collins be Warden.

Mr. STRICKLAND, in seconding Mr. Collins' nomination, said that he did so, not from any opposition to the election of Mr. Moloney, but simply because Mr. Collins had only held the position one year, and having discharged the duties satisfactorily, he thought he should be elected for a second term, as had been customary in the past.

A vote was taken on the motions, resulting as follows:

For Mr. MOLONEY: Messrs. Crough, McCliggott, Mansfield, Oliver, Burnham, Lang, Fitzgerald, Elmhirst, Stewart, Sanderson and Moloney.

For Mr. COLLINS: Messrs. Strickland, Kidd, Rorke, Brown, Pearce and Collins.

Mr. Moloney was declared elected as Warden.

Mr. MOLONEY, having taken the oath of office, was conducted to the chair by his mover and seconder, and, on taking his seat, returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him.

The minutes of the last meeting were then read and confirmed.

Letters were read from Mrs. McWilliams, gaol matron, and Mr. Nesbitt, turnkey, asking for an increase of salary, and were referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. JOHN J. HALL was appointed Auditor by the Council, and the Warden appointed Mr. F. J. Bell as his Auditor.

Mr. JOHN CARNEGIE was re-appointed Sessional Clerk on motion of Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald.

Mr. PEARCE moved, seconded by Mr. ROKE, That the following gentlemen be appointed a committee to strike the several standing committees for the current year, viz.: Messrs. Burnham, Strickland, Sanderson, Lang, Collins, Kidd, Pearce and Rork. Carried.

After a desultory discussion as to the right of Douro to a Deputy Reeve,

Mr. BURNHAM moved that the Warden communicate with the Attorney-General with reference to the right of farmers sons to be counted as ratepayers in making up the number of ratepayers entitling a Township to a Deputy Reeve, and to request him to have the doubts which exist removed. Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

WEDNESDAY.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment, John Moloney, Esq., Warden, in the chair, and all the members present.

The minutes of yesterday's session were read and confirmed.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Mr. Pearce presented the report of the committee appointed to strike the Standing Committee, as follows:

The Special Committee appointed to draft the several Standing Committees for the year 1883, beg leave to report, recommending the following appointments:

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. B. PEARCE,
Chairman.

January 23d, 1883.

The Report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. FITZGERALD the several papers in the hands of the Warden and Clerk were referred to the several committees to which they belonged.

THE [illegible] BONUS.

On motion, Mr. E. B. EDWARDS explained the result of the decision recently rendered by the Supreme Court in the matter of this bonus, and stated that the judgment of the Judges of the Supreme Court, though differing somewhat from each other, all expressed opinions that were fatal to the claims of the company, should they attempt to recover from the county by sueing the county for the amount of the bonus, with reference to which he had a letter from Mr. Bethune, in which he expressed the opinion that "unless the Legislature came to Bickford's aid he never can succeed in an action for debt."

The Council then adjourned to allow the committees to go to work.

Correction.

The Blind Vocalist

THORNHILL, Jan. 22.—The blind vocalist, J. B. Fish, who honored Cannington with a visit, also favored Thornhill. Owing to his professed blindness and the names of prominent men on his subscription list, and to his testimonials, notably some from Toronto ministers, he victimized a few here. He promised to send them music in a short time for their money, but none came. He has been heard of in Richmond Hill, in a strain similar in some respects to the Cannington experience.

Letter from Member of Congress.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, D.C., Feb. 19, '82.

GENTLEMEN,—Inclosed find $1, and will you send me some of N. H. Down's Vegetable Balsamic Elixir by express. I have a bad cold, as has almost every one else here, but cannot find the Elixir, which I used frequently at home and consider a most valuable medicine; in fact, the very best remedy for a cold that I ever used.

Very truly yours, WILLIAM W. [illegible]

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. An EXTERNAL MEANS OF CURING SKIN DISEASES. There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferers for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used more and more favourably to its widely increasing reputation. Any one, however deeply and hopelessly affected with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT. SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

A Child With three Tongues and the Mark of a snake down her [illegible]

HELENA, Jan. 19. James W. Blackwell and his wife brought to this place today their 3-year-old girl. It was born near Smithville, Lawrence county, Ark., on January 24, 1880, and two weeks after its birth the mother observed that she cried differently from other children. An examination led to the singular discovery that the child had three distinct tongues. James W. Blackwell, the father, was born near Jasper, Walker county, Ala., and on May 10, 1879, was married to Martha E. Saffel, of Lawrence county, Ark. On December 15, 1882, the mother gave birth to twins, both of which died. No peculiarity was noticed about either of them. The little girl in question is a fine, healthy child, and can speak tolerably well. Besides this deformity the child has the mark of a snake perfectly plain, running from the middle of her back over the left shoulder-blade, nearly to the elbow of the left arm. As soon as the fact was known that the child was marked in this peculiar manner, hundreds of persons from the surrounding neighborhood came to see this wonderful freak of nature. Beneath the tongue proper, which, however, is split near the root, are two small tongues perfectly formed and distinct. She seems to suffer no inconvenience from the surplus tongues, though her mother says she does not talk as plainly as she did a year ago.—New Orleans Times Democrat.

PARIS, Jan. 24. A Cabinet Council was held this morning. The Ministry have not resigned. During the excitement concerning the expulsion of pretenders Prince Napoleon seems to be entirely lost sight of; one would think the Orlean Princes were the only persons affected by the various proposals of the Government.

A CREW MURDERED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Information has been received at Brisbane, Queensland, that a schooner has been lost at the mouth of the Fly river, New Guinea, and the crew of seventeen killed by savages, their heads cut off and distributed among the native villages. The search schooner Pearl was several times attacked by the natives. The Pearl burned several native villages and destroyed canoes.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 24. Princess Louise embarked for Bermuda this afternoon. As she drove through the city she acknowledged the cheers of thousands of spectators by constantly bowing and smiling. Salutes were fired as the Princess embarked.

THE NEWHALL HOUSE FIRE.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 24. Night clerk Delaney, at the inquest in the Newhall House disaster, testified that he thought the fire originated in the bar-room. The hose in the halls was not used or examined for two years. Witness had twenty five minutes between the discovery of the fire and the time before he knew that the hotel was doomed. He could have run through every hall in the hotel and alarmed every guest in that time, but had to attend to saving the papers and valuables, knowing the safe was useless in case of fire.

Tom Thumb.

Tom Thumb celebrated his 46th birthday on Jan. 4th, in Chicago. He said that when first exhibited by Barnum he was only five years old, and so light that a strong man could hold him on the palm of his hand. A fashionable overcoat of those days was like the ulster of the present, and had large side pockets with flaps over them. "Barnum wore one of these," Tom relates, "and I could get in one of the pockets, and by doubling myself up snugly, the lap would conceal me. It was a favorite trick of Barnum's to put me in his pocket, and appear in the hall about the time for opening our entertainment. He would call for me, affecting to be surprised that I was not on the platform, and then I would respond 'here I am sir,' emerging from the pocket. Alas, how I have grown since then."

Presence of Mind in a Child.

Despatches from New Albany, Ind., give an account of a mad dog being choked to death by a young girl twelve years of age. The girl is a daughter of Jacob Hessians, a German farmer living about six miles west of there. She was, it appears, engaged in play at her home, surrounded by some younger members of the family, when she was attacked by a small dog in a way that led her to believe him mad. Seeing that to escape and also preserve the others from danger by other than a bold course would be impossible, she watched her opportunity, and seizing the animal by the naked throat choked it to death. It is believed that she was uninjured, though it is not impossible that she may have received some of the poison into her system through some slight scratches on her hands.

Fire Apparatus.

At the late disastrous conflagration in Milwaukee, those who attempted to catch people jumping from the windows in pieces of canvas, found that the canvas was torn from their hold by the force of the falling bodies. What is required is simply a sheet of strong canvas, with a piece of rope run around its edge after the manner of a bolt rope on a sail. At regular intervals strong loops are made in this rope, forming handles. Twenty men may thus get a hold which cannot well be broken. Every fire company in the country should be provided with two or three of these canvases.—Globe.

A Brazilian Coffee Plantation.

One of the largest coffee plantations in Brazil is the Fazenda Santa Cathrina, 100 miles from Rio Janeiro, belonging to Baron de Monteiro. It covers an area of more than twenty square miles, contains 2,700,000 bearing trees, and employs six hundred slaves, who are subjected to the most rigid discipline, and, in fact, as much like machines as it is possible for human beings to become. They are well taken care of, however, and the Baron maintains a private hospital with a resident physician and assistants for the sick.

THE SETTLERS AND LUMBERMEN.

MR. BLEZARD has evidently some faint idea that his blind following of the Mowat government in the matter of the unlimited reservation of the timber on the free grants, will not prove entirely satisfactory to his northern constituents; and we are inclined to think Mr. Blezard is right for once. Indeed it would be difficult to see how it could be otherwise. The settlers in our free grant townships are naturally anxious to see their townships filled up. Every new settler means another pair of shoulders to help them in carrying their municipal burdens and to aid them in the more expensive and difficult task of providing and supporting schools for the education of their children. Hence every difficulty placed in the way of, and every inducement withdrawn from the intending settler is a direct injury to those who have already located in those townships. Indeed any step taken by the government of the day which is calculated to deter settlement in the townships already opened and partially settled, is in a measure a breach of faith with those who have already located there. By the measure to which we are referring the pine is reserved for the license holder for all time to come. Under the previous law the law under which the Burleigh road settlers were induced to go in—the pine was to pass absolutely to the settler with his patent as soon as he had performed the settlement duties, consequently the inducement to people to settle in the free grant districts has been reduced by the value of the pine timber. At least that was the intention of the Mowat government an intention endorsed by Mr. Blezard by his vote—until they were compelled by the Opposition to agree to return to the settler one third of the dues collected from the timber cut on their lands after the patent issued. True, Mr. Blezard told his hearers at Norwood the other day that "he thought the bill was wrong in principle" when it was introduced, but that Mr. Pardee had told him to "keep cool," and that after hearing the debate, he came to the conclusion that the act was "in the interest of the settlers." Well, we happen to have before us the daily Globe of January 31, 1880, containing a report of the debate on the second reading of the bill in question on the previous evening, and we think it will be interesting to some of our readers to learn the kind of argument which convinced Mr. Blezard on that occasion (when was he ever convinced that the Mowat government did wrong on any occasion ?) ;—

Mr. Peck (the member nominally for North Victoria, but in reality for Dakota), said: "The settlers went upon the free grant lands as pine farmers, rather than as wheat farmers, and when they got their crop they left. * * * The only way to get GOOD settlers upon free grant lands was to hold out no hope that they could make anything out of the timber, for so long as they held such a hope they would leave the land as soon as the timber was gone." Of course Mr. Blezard did not say anything himself, but he voted along with Mr. Peck for the second reading and thereby endorsed his views, and the government's first intention of keeping the timber forever for the lumberman without any compensation whatever to the settler. And after that vote it is impossible for Mr. Blezard to claim any credit for the fact that at a subsequent stage the paltry allowance of twenty-five cents per thousand was provided for the settler. Had he taken the position as, and recorded his vote along with Messrs. Murray and Graham (two government supporters), who voted against the second reading, he might with some consistency have now claimed that he had been the means of modifying the measure in the interest of his constituents, but as it is, he must remain where he placed himself—alongside of the member for Dakota, who in plain English branded the settlers in the free grant townships as timber stealers. It remains for them now to endorse the appellation by voting for Messrs. Blezard and Peck, or to repudiate the charge by voting for their opponents.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

On Monday a number of [illegible] were [illegible].

Mr. [illegible] moved for [illegible] applications for aid to a railway from Muskoka to Sault Ste. Marie, and urged the importance of opening up that district.

Mr. Pardee said the Government was in communication on the subject with the Grand Trunk Railway, which he hoped would build the road.

On Tuesday further steps were taken on various bills.

In connection with the Creameries Bill the Government were forced to confess that their pretended independent board for the choice of sites was composed of two Reform members and one ex-member, the Opposition blaming this abdication of their constitutional responsibility while still retaining the control for their party by this subterfuge.

On the second reading of the Election Bill, Mr. Meredith objected to the attempt to restrict the franchise of the income tax voters. He thought that in place of inserting a clause as to vacant registrarships they should make appointments instead of keeping them dangling before the eyes of their supporters.

Mr. Bell's bill to introduce the ballot into School trustee elections was given a six months' hoist.

Mr. French's bill to restrain License Inspectors and Commissioners from trading upon their position was read a second time, apparently very much against the grain of the Government.

THE VACANT REGISTRARSHIPS

A Confession of Weakness Dangling Prizes Before Expectant Eyes.

IN the debate on the second reading of the Election Bill Mr. Meredith said that with respect to the third section, there were two registrarships now vacant and it seemed strange that it should become necessary to pass a statute to meet cases which would be met by the Government filling the vacant registrarships of Bruce and Peterborough. The Government were in the habit of leaving offices open a considerable length of time to the prejudice of the public service. They should in justice to the people, and in the proper discharge of their duty, till vacant offices within a reasonable time, and not keep them open for political reasons. A friend of the hon. Commissioner of Crown Lands had made a pretty strong demand for the Peterborough office, and mentioned that otherwise there would be trouble in a certain quarter. In the opposing section it was said that unless one of their friends was appointed there would be trouble. It seemed strange that a Government that professed such great strength should be afraid to risk anything even in such a constituency as East Peterborough by filling the vacant position. It did not indicate so much strength as hon. gentlemen opposite were in the habit of boasting that they possessed.

AN "OBSTINATE PAUPER."

The Globe strings together a number of fragmentary sentences from which it makes it appear (as clear as mud) that Ontario is entitled to that portion of land called the disputed territory. If the issue is so plain, if there are so many witnesses, documentary and oral, to confirm the claim, why does Mr. Mowat still refuse to have the whole matter referred to the Privy Council, so that the title of Ontario may be placed beyond all dispute or cavil? While we are told that the Province lies under a grievous wrong in that the territory of rock, swale, muskeg and barren hills is not given to the keeping of the Provincial authorities, still it is Mr. Mowat who blocks the way. If he were willing a case could be prepared and submitted by joint consent, which could be easily decided within the course of six months, once for all. But if that were to be done Mr. Mowat would be deprived of his chief grievance, and could no longer pose as the embodiment of Federal injustice. He puts one in mind of some of those "obstinated paupers" in England, and elsewhere, who manage to keep their sores a-going by rubbing in a little blue stone on the sly. The doctor does all he can to effect a cure, and wonders why the local and constitution treatment he is pursuing does not have the desired effect. The sore is duly cleansed, healing salves judiciously applied, tonics and alteratives administered faithfully, but all in vain. As soon as the doctor has made his rounds, out comes the blue stone from its secret hiding place, and a wound that might be about to show symptoms of healing becomes again an angry sore. Mr. Mowat has been evidently studying the tactics of the "obstinate pauper," and profits by the lesson.—London Free Press.

Indian Journalism.

Here are some curiosities of vernacular journalism in India. Some time ago a native paper of Ahmedabad published one of its issues on yellow paper. Its readers were at a loss to account for transformation when a week afterward it came out on dark green paper, with an editorial note explaining the reason, which was that the stock of white paper had been exhausted. Consequently the proprietor was obliged to use some colored paper which was intended for wrappers. Another native journal in Guzerat disappeared from the scene for two consecutive weeks. On the third week it appeared with an apologetic note stating that readers were not served in consequence of the editor's sister being ill. A third was in a similar way temporarily eclipsed. In this case the editor had to proceed to Bombay as a witness in a small cause court case. This week the Swadesh Bahadur, of Ahmedabad, has hit upon the original idea of printing its first side, heading and all, on the fourth page. It has carried out the singular programme consistently. To read the paper you have to begin from the end and finish at the beginning.

THE TOWN COUNCILLORS

[illegible]

[illegible]

An informal meeting of the Town Councillors was held on Wednesday afternoon, to receive a deputation from South Monaghan regarding the re-building of Ross's bridge. The deputation consisted of Messrs. Riddell and Lightfoot.

Besides the deputation, the following gentlemen were present:—Councillors Rutherford, Sawers, Menzies, Douglas, Denne, Hartley, Kelly and Peterson, and Messrs. J. J. Lundy, George Hilliard, M. P., and John Carnegie.

Mr. LUNDY said that the gentlemen from South Monaghan had requested him to ask the Mayor to call a meeting of the Council, so that they might meet the Town Council on the same day as they came to meet the County Council, and the Mayor being absent, the Councillors had been requested to attend at the present meeting and hear the deputation, whom he introduced.

Mr. RIDDELL regretted the absence of part of the deputation. They thought, he said, that the building of Ross's bridge would be a mutual benefit to the town of Peterborough and the township of South Monaghan. Mr. Belcher estimated the cost of the bridge at $5,500. From a central point in the township to Peterborough by this bridge the distance would be about nine and a half miles, while by the present route it is sixteen miles.

Mr. CARNEGIE—The farthest point of South Monaghan would be nearer Peterborough than Port Hope.

Mr. RIDDELL said that such was the fact. Nine-tenths of the farmers going to Port Hope could only make three trips in a week, which was very slow work. The township from east to west, in the direction of Cobourg, was generally an up grade. If this bridge was built they would have the grade in their favor while coming to Peterborough. More than nine-tenths of the grain raised in South Monaghan would find its way to Peterborough were this bridge constructed, while at present that amount goes to Port Hope. When people go to town and sell their grain they expend the money in the same place. The spirit and enterprise of the merchants of Peterborough was undoubted; goods could be purchased here as cheaply as at any place, and the town and township would be mutually benefitted by the farmers coming here and selling their grain and purchasing their goods. The trade of from sixty to eighty farmers who cultivate from 100 to 400 acres would be brought here, and it might be estimated that each family would spend $300 each year. There were besides many more who worked smaller farms whose trade this town would get. Would not this trade reimburse Peterborough for a liberal grant to the bridge? Coming to Peterborough by Wallace's Point, the present route, a portion of the road was sandy; but the direct road, by the proposed bridge, would be a good one with the exception of one hill, and there would be no difficulty in getting it fixed.

Mr. CARNEGIE said that some time ago the Peterborough County Council offered to pay half the cost of building the bridge if the Northumberland County Council would pay the other half and share the cost of its maintenance. Those who built the bridge would be responsible for its maintenance. If South Monaghan came into this county the Peterborough County Council would, he believed, build the bridge.

Mr. RIDDELL said that he did not expect that the Northumberland County Council would pay half the cost of building the bridge, but with the help they would get from it and from the town and county of Peterborough, they hoped to build it. He had reason to think that the Northumberland and Durham County Council would make a grant.

Mr. MENZIES advised South Monaghan to secede from Northumberland and Durham and come into a good county.

Mr. LIGHTFOOT endorsed what Mr. Riddell had said. The township could not build the bridge alone, yet they would like to come to Peterborough to trade. He was not opposed to joining this county.

Mr. RIDDELL, in answer to Councillor DOUGLAS, said that in the eastern portion of the township from $1,000 to $1,100 had been subscribed towards building the bridge. So long as there was any hope of the County Councils doing the work, the Township Council would not undertake it.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that although this was an informal meeting they were pleased to meet the deputation. This town had before been willing to assist this project, but it had fallen through. It would no doubt be an advantage to Peterborough to secure the trade of South Monaghan. The township was in a peculiar position, through which their own County Council would not assist them. No action could be taken to-day, but they would watch the action of the County Councils.

Mr. CARNEGIE said that the maintenance of the bridge had to be considered, and, as it would have to be a swing bridge, it would be necessary to keep a man there to attend to it. If half of the cost was procured from the other county, he thought there would be no difficulty in getting the other half from this side, as in that case they would have to share the expense of maintaining the bridge. As a ratepayer of the town he would advocate the Town Council making a grant. If the Northumberland and Durham County Councils do not assist them, he thought that the township's best plan would be to unite with Peterborough County. Nearly all the bridges in this county were now of iron and stone, and its expenses under this head would decrease, and its debt was nominal. Another thing that they should consider was that this county always made a grant to the townships for their roads, which the Northumberland County Council did not do.

Councillor HARTLEY did not see that the Town Council could do anything until the matter was settled between the counties. The town would not want to give a grant until they knew by whom the bridge would be supported. If the counties would become responsible for the maintenance of the bridge they could rely on a grant from the town.

Councillor MENZIES said that the Town Council could not legally give the money outside of the town without a vote of the people.

Mr. RIDDELL thought that the town could give the assistance. From a mercantile point of view Peterborough was second to no other town, and with the new through railway line it would take a step in advance. It would be to the interest of the people of the township to trade in Peterborough, and to the interest of the town to have them trade here.

Councillor PATERSON—Suppose we give you $2,000, how do you propose to maintain the bridge afterwards?

Mr. RIDDELL thought that if that was done they could get the Council of Northumberland and Durham to assume it.

Councillor RUTHERFORD, in reply to a remark by Councillor Kelly, said that the town kept up a bridge out of the town at the locks. If the counties would build and maintain the proposed bridge, the town could grant the money to the county.

Mr. RIDDELL thanked the Councillors for the courteous hearing and the encouragement that they had received.

The meeting then broke up.

MACFARLANE WILSON.

THE HEAVENLY WORLD.

Oh, where is the heaven of glory,
The beautiful home of the blest,
Where hearts that are sad with life's story
Find peace and the sweetness of rest?

Do stars that smile on us at even
Hold loved ones who wait for us there?
Will that be the precious home given
When we in their blessedness share?

We look on the sky's perfect azure,
And long with great longing to know
Just where it will be our Lord's pleasure
Our freed, happy spirits shall go.

Sometimes there comes o'er us a shrinking
At thought of the changing of place;
Of breaking the bonds that are linking
Our souls to this narrow earth space.

If only we knew where the spirit
Would dwell when the body doth sleep;
What place in the vastness inherit,
Where God His beloved will keep.

The babe that is peacefully sleeping
The sleep that no waking can know,
In heaven has gained and is keeping,
The knowledge we pant for below.

Oh, poor, troubled heart that is fretting
To know what has not been revealed,
Have faith that our Lord, not forgetting,
Keeps part of the future concealed.

But surely enough has been told thee
To give to the soul perfect peace,
For Christ's arms of love will enfold thee,
And sorrow forever shall cease.

No tears will there darken thy vision,
The parting of friends will be o'er,
While all, in that region elysian,
Shall dwell with the God they adore.

About two weeks ago Joseph A. Hiscock, 683 Queen street west, was seized with a sudden illness, and as he was a member of the Health Reform Society, an institution of a semi-religious and a semi-medical nature, having existence in the west end of the city, the services of Victor B. Hall, were sought after. Mr. Hall has been in constant attendance since, and the sick man was compelled to swallow many a bitter dose of herb teas. Mr. Hiscock continued to grow worse, the alleged drugs having no perceptible effect. Yesterday morning he called his family about him, and, having expressed himself in words which showed that his religious belief had been played upon, he stated that he would soon, to all ocular appearances, die, but in reality he would be in a trance, and would remain in that state for three days and three nights. Shortly afterwards he ceased to breathe. During the hours of the forenoon Dr. John McConnell was sent for, to certify as to the cause of death, he having some four years ago examined Mr. Hiscock for entrance into a Benevolent Association. He found Mr. Hiscock seated in a chair, with all his clothes on, and wrapped in a blanket. A thermometer had been placed on his breast for the purpose of registering the heat of the room, which was being heated to a temperature of 90°. Dr. McConnell said to a Telegram reporter last night:—"Dr. Gowans and myself went over to the house, and at the head of the stairs leading to first landing we met Hall, and went into the room together. I made an ocular examination of Hiscock. His pulse had ceased to beat, and the appearance of the countenance was such as to indicate death. In my long practice I have never met with a case that would be determined easier. Dr. Gowans expressed the same opinion. Hall protested that the man was in a trance. In order to arrive at the cause of death, which I believe to be pneumonia, it would be necessary to make a post mortem examination of the supposed corpse. This Hall objected to until the time is up. The latter nominated two medical gentlemen to be present to represent the family and his doctorines, and, providing the man dies three days and three nights, a post mortem examination will be made at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning, to which examination all the medical profession is invited." Dr. McConnell says if the man be not dead, he intends giving up the business.

Mr. Hall tells the following, as his version of the extraordinary circumstances. When he was called in to attend to Hiscock he found him suffering from what the vita therapeutist calls spasmodic affection of rheumatism and paroxysm of the diaphragm. By degrees his patient grew weaker and was troubled with sleeplessness, not having closed his eyes for ten days previous to his entering the supposed trance.

THE APPEARANCE OF THE BODY.

The reporter was admitted to the room where the man is. He found him as described by Dr. McConnell. The thermometer on his chest registered [illegible]. The features were those of a dead man, the eyelids are wide open, and the vacant stare made one shudder. The lips are partially open, and the mouth is wreathed with a ghastly smile. Not the slightest noise was allowed to be made in the house for fear of waking the slumbering (?) man, before the seventy-two hours have elapsed. Evidence of putrefaction are already making themselves visible and felt, and it is probable that the farce will be brought to a close by the interference of the Health Commissioner.—Toronto Telegram.

A Practical Religion.

We want religion that softens to step and tunes the voice to melody, and checks the impatient exclamation and harsh rebuke; a religion that is polite, deferential to superiors, courteous to inferiors and considerate to friends; a religion that goes into the family and keeps the husband from being cross when dinner is late, and keeps the wife from fretting when the husband tracks the newly-washed floor with his muddy boots, and makes the husband mindful of the scraper and the door-mat; keeps the mother patient when the baby is cross, amuses the children as well as instructs them; cares for the servants besides paying them promptly; projects the honeymoon into the harvestmoon, and makes the happy home like the eastern fig-tree, bearing in its bosom at once the beauty of its tender blossoms and the glory of the ripened fruit. We want a religion that shall interpose between the ruts and gullies and rocks of the highway of life, and the sensitive souls that are travelling over them.

LAKEFIELD

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW ENGINE HOUSE.

The engine house building at Lakefield is just approaching completion. The gang of men employed in its erection under Mr. Liggatt, the foreman, has been pushing the work ahead with remarkable energy, and, considering the difficulties they have had to contend with, considerable success. The recent cold weather has been a great drawback, and the wonder is that the men have stood so well to their post as they have. To judge by appearances, the building will be fully completed next week, when it is expected that Lakefield will have a morning and evening train, which will be a great accomodation to the travelling public, and no doubt will be a great advantage to the Midland Company in the increase of traffic. The new engine house in Lakefield, when completed, painted, &c., will present a very neat and respectable appearance, and be no discredit to the village in which it stands. It is built to accomodate two engines at a time, and will contain a never-failing well of water, which would supply abundance of water for thousands of people. It is close to the station, being on the east side of Robb street.

ENTERTAINMENT.

An entertainment, consisting of an exhibition of Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works or figures, and the amusing farce of "Found in a Four Wheeler," will be given on Tuesday evening next, the 30th inst., in the P.C.A. Hall, Lakefield. The well known Peterborough Orchestra Band will be in attendance, and render a choice selection of music. The doors will be open at 7.30. Performance to begin at 8 o'clock. A treat is expected.

FRATERNAL VISIT.

A number of the members of Washington Temple, I.O.G.T., Lakefield, paid a fraternal visit to Carswell Temple, Peterborough, on Friday evening last. They were well entertained by the members of the visited Temple, and a very pleasant time was spent.

T. V. C.

The T.V.C. wet brigade, under the able command of Captain Lilicrap, are still tugging away making soundings, dips, &c. Major Fuller still declines to go under or to make a horizontal sounding in any case.

MATRIMONIAL.

The following, which we clip from the Grand Forks News, refers to Miss Annie Cox, eldest daughter of Councillor Cox, of Lakefield. She has been away some time, visiting an aunt in Grand Forks, and has been made the happy bride of a wealthy and prominent citizen of that place:—

"Mr. John Budge was married to Miss Annie Cox last evening at 8 o'clock, by the Rev. H. H. Brownlee. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Goheen, and was attended only by the most intimate friends of the bride and groom. After the ceremony a most delicious repast was served, and the company spent the evening in festivities befitting the occasion. The bride, who was charmingly dressed and looked extremely pretty, is a young lady of great accomplishments, and Mr. John Budge is one of the first young men of this city. The presents were numerous and costly, the following being a partial list of them: A $300 parlor set and a lot next Rev. H. H. Brownlee's house on Fifth street, to the bride, from Wm. Budge; easy chair, from Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith; a dozen silver knives from Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Allen; pair of cut glass perfumery bottles from George Budge; linen napkins and table spreads from Colonel and Mrs. E. Smith; photograph album from D. P. McLauren; dressing case from H. H. Eilbert; library lamp from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Budge; silver butter dish from Mr. and Mrs. Goheen; pickle dish from Dr and Mrs. Collins; hanging lamp from George Goheen. The newly married couple have the heartiest congratulations and best wishes of their hosts of friends and acquaintances.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CARNIVAL.—The first Skating Carnival of the season at Keene was held on Friday evening of last week, at which a large number of people attended. The number of persons in dress was forty, and the display was far superior to last year, many new and beautiful costumes appearing on the ice for the first time. The costumes of the ladies were greatly admired, and although many of the gents were finely dressed, the ladies most decidedly carried off the palm. A good string band was in attendance, and the enlivening strains of the violins added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. The following is a list of the masquers and the characters they represented:—

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

Lord Derby, replying to the congratulations of Sir A. T. Galt, High Commissioner for Canada in behalf of the agents for the colonies on Lord Derby's acceptance of the Colonial Secretaryship, said it was difficult to avoid the language of exaggeration in speaking of the future of Canada and Australia.

The Correct Combination of Colours

A little pale woman in flashing diamonds is absurd; the silent pearls, the dull, soft turquoise, the evasive, mysterious opal, even the little inexpensive moonstone, the topaz, the amethyst, all these are ornaments becoming to ninety-nine women where the diamond is becoming to the one hundredth. That a woman with delicate personal charms should utterly extinguish them by the brilliancy of her dress seems like the blind taste of a savage. For most women, a single jewel, if it is handsome, which shall be the key-note of the colour of her dress, is more effective than necklace and bracelets and rings.

True to Her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, and malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world and only cost fifty cents. Sold by all druggists.—4.

THE
PACIFIC NORTHWEST!
Oregon, Washington, and Idaho,

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

JANUARY MEETING OF THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE MUNICIPALITIES.

The Otonabee Bridge at Rosa's—The Report of the Committee on the House of Refuge—The Finances of Burleigh Township.

WEDNESDAY.

The Council resumed.

ROSA'S BRIDGE.

Messrs. Riddell and Lightfoot, of South Monaghan, appeared before the Council with the view of inducing the County of Peterborough to take such action as will secure the early construction of a bridge across the Otonabee river between Otonabee and South Monaghan, where Rosa's bridge formerly stood.

Mr. Riddell spoke first and explained the position of South Monaghan geographically, and stated that the people of that township had already subscribed between ten and eleven hundred dollars for this object. He believed that if this bridge was re-built, the associations which would follow would soon bring about the union of South Monaghan with this county for all purposes. He asked that the Council should renew the resolution which it passed some years ago agreeing to pay one-half of the cost of the same.

Mr. Lightfoot also addressed the Council.

Mr. Lang moved that the matter be referred to the Road and Bridge Committee.

Mr. Collins called attention to the proposition which had been made to South Monaghan some years ago with reference to this bridge, when they were told that if they would come into this county for all purposes, the county would undertake to build this bridge, and he still thought this was the best thing they could do. If they did have their taxes somewhat increased, they would get the benefit of it.

The motion was carried.

The Council then adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment. John Moloney, Esq., Warden, in the chair, and all the members being present.

The minutes of yesterday were read and confirmed.

A HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Mr. Burnham read the following report of the committee on the House of Refuge:

The committee to whom was referred the question of establishing a House of Industry and Refuge for the county, beg leave to report:—

1. That they instructed the Clerk to send a circular letter to each county in the Province, asking for information in reference to such institutions, and their experience as to the working of the same.

2. From the replies received, your committee find that the counties of Elgin, Waterloo and Wellington have established Houses of Industry, and that in several other counties the matter is being favourably considered.

3. Your committee obtained from the several municipalities of the county a return of the sums paid for some years past for charitable purposes, and although the information given was not in all cases so full as might be desired, yet they are satisfied that the aggregate annual amounts so expended by the municipalities represented in this council is at least $1,500.

4. In addition to this sum must be added the actual loss sustained by the county from the necessity of committing to the common gaol so large a number of vagrants, thereby reducing the amount received from the government for administration of justice consequent on not having a proper place to send such vagrants. The County Treasurer is of opinion that $400 will not represent this amount annually.

5. From the information furnished your committee, they find that the average costs per person per week in the Houses of Industry in Elgin, Waterloo and Wellington was as follows in 1881: Elgin, 77 2-3 cents; average number of inmates, 46. Waterloo, 89½ cents; average number of inmates, 85; average cost per person per year, $46,54. Wellington, 86 4-5 cents, or adding interest on capital, $1.25 8-10; average number of inmates, 60.

6. In all the counties where these institutions have been established, they have been found to be of great benefit to the municipalities.

7. By the Revised Statutes of Ontario, Cap. 174, Sec. 436, provision is made to establish Houses of Industry, either by the county alone or in conjunction with a town separated from the county; and power is given by the statutes to commit thereto persons who are vagrants, and also persons who are unable to support themselves and are charges upon the public.

8. After carefully examining all the statistics your committee have obtained, taking into consideration the financial position of the county and the amount paid for charity annually by the several municipalities, the reduced amount of the government grant for the administration of justice, the unprofitable way in which a great amount of municipal charity is expended, and the suffering of many who do obtain a moiety of that charity, your committee most respectfully recommend that a House of Refuge and Industry be established for this county.

9. Your committee are of the opinion that it is not desirable to have a large quantity of land in connection with such an institution, as the labor of inmates thereof would not be profitable, and that they are of the opinion that not more than forty acres would be required for a site. Land suitable for such a purpose could be got in a suitable locality, your committee do not doubt, for from $40 to $60 an acre, and the cost of a building adapted to the present wants of the county would not cost more than $12,000 or $13,000 furnished.

10. In the opinion of your committee the Town of Peterborough should be invited to join with the county in the establishment of this institution, and they would therefore recommend that the matter be brought before the Town Council during this session.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HENRY COLLINS,
Chairman.

Mr. Strickland moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. Burnham moved in amendment that the report be not now adopted, but that the further consideration be deferred until the matter has been brought before the Town Council, and that a copy of the report be sent to the Town Council with a request that they consider the matter and notify the Warden of their decision.

The amendment was carried.

BURLEIGH FINANCES.

Moved by Mr. Elmhirst, seconded by Mr. Lang,—That the County Treasurer be requested to prepare a statement of accounts of the Municipality of Burleigh and Chandos with the county for the last four years, with interest charged on the same, if any, and the total amount of indebtedness on the 31st day of December last, and hand the same to the Finance Committee for their investigation.—Carried.

THE GRAND JUNCTION BONUS.

Moved by Mr. Sanderson, seconded by Mr. King,—That in the event of the suit of the Grand Junction being proceeded with, either by appeal to the Privy Council or by a new suit at law or in equity, that the Warden have full power to defend the same, and also to use the corporate seal of the county in making appointment by any agent as directed by counsel for the county of Peterborough.—Carried.

ROAD CLOSED.

On motion of Mr. King, a by-law of the township of Dummer, closing up a road in parts of lots 12 and 13 in the [illegible] concession of Dummer, was confirmed.

FIRE PROTECTION.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Review.

SIR,—Is it not about time that Peterborough should cease to be the laughing-stock of the country, and that something should be done to save the town from destruction by fire?

A stranger, who was at the fire at the green-house yesterday, said it was amusing, if it had not been so serious a matter for Mr. Mason, to see the exhibition of the Fire Department. After the usual delay, to give the fire a chance, he said a dribble of a stream of a few feet was emptied on the fire. I heard a little boy who was describing it say, "it would not squirt, and the people were all laffin." Another gentleman informed me that the horses could not draw the engine from the engine-house through the snow into the street, and they had to press a farmer's team to accomplish the daring feat. But fortunately in their mad headlong rush to the fire, no one was run over and nobody was killed.

No one will easily forget the magnificent effort made by the Fire Department to extinguish the fire at Mr. Dunsford's Block, and how patiently the firemen waited a quarter of an hour on the ladder with the hose in their hands until the engine could be coaxed to send along a faint stream. In looking up to the corner of the mansard roof they saw a small fire flickering for a long time that a pail of water would have put out, but that would not have given the engine a chance, and the building was burnt down, and if it had been a windy night the operation would have been repeated on many other buildings. There were many strangers in town on that Saturday night, and they had an opportunity of judging how these things were managed in this "handsomest, liveliest, and one of the most enterprising business towns in the Dominion."

I remember another fire on Water street—Mr. Graham's two storey frame building—when they could not throw a stream into the second storey, and this is the THING that people have to depend upon to save the town from destruction. There is no town which has had so many hair-breadth escapes from a great conflagration as Peterborough during the last six months, indeed they appear to have been miraculous, and the people sit down and wait patiently, hoping that something will be done. I suppose some of these days, when it may be too late, the Coucil will lock the stable after the steed is stolen.

Drought in New England

A serious drought has prevailed in New England since midsummer, with the exception of one storm in September. The consequence is that the streams and lakes are dried up, and hundreds of mills and manufacturing establishments are deprived of power to run. The effect of the drought was felt all the fall by the saw-mill interest, especially in New Hampshire and Maine, and, to some extent, in Vermont and northern New York. On account of the frequent recurrence of drought in northern New England, steam is being largely substituted for water power.—Northwestern Lumberman.

A SURE THING!

"Clothing again!" Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, which is of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the outward movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimmings warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and staple to the most elegant. Nothing slighted, except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES. There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT. SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

DISTRICT INTELLIGENCE

LINDSAY.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—The Post says that on Saturday of last week the dwelling house and farm outbuildings owned by Mr. George Staples, of Laxton, were totally destroyed by fire. Mr. Staples and wife returning from Victoria Road, where they had been to buy supplies, and saw the fire when within a mile of the house. The house had been left in charge of the children, who at the time the fire broke out were in the farm-yard watering the stock. A neighbor, Mr. Patterson, came to the rescue and succeeded in saving an organ and the sideboard. Everything else in the house, including all clothing and bedding, was burned. The fire is supposed to have started from some wood under the kitchen stove. Twenty head of stock, owned by Mr. Stables, were fortunately outside the barns and stables and were driven to a neighbor's for shelter.

ACCIDENT AT THE PAPER MILL.—An accident of a very painful, if not fatal, character occurred at the paper mill on Thursday morning by which J. McIntyre, H. Bauldwin and F. Beamish, working at the boiling vats in the mill, were badly scalded. The vats in which the straw is heated before going to the beating engines are supplied with steam by a large pipe connected with the engine boilers, where the men were engaged in removing the straw to one vat, the adjoining one suddenly boiled up furiously, throwing a portion of the heated contents over the unfortunate men. Baldwin was badly scalded about the head, neck and arms. McIntyre even worse, his neck, back, arms and legs being almost boiled. Beamish had his feet and lower part of his legs scalded. The men were as soon as possible taken to their homes. Fears were entertained that McIntyre's injuries would prove fatal, but at a late hour last night he was still living. The man who has charge of that part of the mill, an experienced hand, in which the accident occurred was off duty at the time, having had his feet scalded the day before.

CAMPBELLFORD.

[illegible].—The cold weather, we learn from the Herald, having shut off the flow of water at the paper mill, the proprietors have been compelled to cease work.

INCIPIENT FIRE.—The timely discovery of an incipient fire in the cellar of Mr. McDonald's store on Saturday morning prevented a serious fire.

CURLING CLUB.—A Curling Club has been organized, of which Mr. James Whyte was elected President. Thirty-three members have already been secured.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—Two committees were appointed at the last meeting of the Seymour Agricultural Society, one to arrange for the annual spring show of stallions and the other to negotiate for the purchase of show grounds for the Society. They report the result of their work at the meeting on the 10th of February.

The Porte also requested the Turkish Ministers abroad to call attention to the absolute necessity of a strict observance of the sovereign rights of the Porte. Germany has advised the Sultan to accept the English proposal, as they are in the interest of Turkey itself.

IRISH AFFAIRS

DUBLIN, Jan. 25.—It is reported that important evidence has been obtained regarding the perpetrators of outrages for the last two years in the west of Ireland. The police anticipate capturing all the members of the organization which promoted the crimes; also the persons concerned in the murder of Lord Mountmorris. A man believed to have taken part in the murder of Mr. Blake and his servant, Flynn, near Loughrea, is now in America. If found it is surmised he will turn Queen's evidence, and disclose the names and whereabouts of his associates.

DUBLIN, Jan. 25.—A violent hurricane was experienced in Limerick to-day. Several houses were blown down, and heavy loss resulted.

THE MALLOW ELECTION.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The Times, commenting on the election at Mallow, says the demonstration of prevailing opinion there, which is not likely to be more violent than in the surrounding districts, is a defiance of the government and of all English parties.

RELIEF RECEIVED.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—The president of the German Reichstag has received 42,000 marks from the New York brewers and hop and malt dealers for the relief of the sufferers by the floods.

AMERICAN.

ASSAULT ON A GAOLER.

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—At Big Rapids yesterday morning Turnkey Shaw was summoned, on a plea of sickness, to a part of the gaol containing three desperadoes. The moment he unlocked the door he was attacked with a piece of board, knocked senseless, and the three prisoners made their escape. Shaw is seriously hurt. Two of the gang were a man named Rose, awaiting trial for stabbing, and a prisoner from Wexford county.

MARKET DESTROYED.

BRADFORD, Jan. 25.—A fire broke out this afternoon in the market-house, caused by a defective stove. It burnt the market-house, J. W. Barry's hide and tallow shop, and the fire hall.

JOURNALISTIC.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—The Globe has introduced a new feature in American journalism. While the military ball of the Boston tigers was in progress at the Mechanics' Institute hall, some four or five thousand people being present, the Globe issued a midnight edition with a five column account of the ball, and it sold readily. The entire edition was perfumed, and the delivery clerks appeared at the ball in full dress suits. The venture made a decided hit.

FOUND NOT GUILTY.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 25.—The trial of Mrs. McClelland for the killing of her husband last November, has occupied two days, and created intense interest. The jury retired, and after ten minutes absence brought in a verdict of not guilty.

THE MILWAUKEE FIRE.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 26.—The funeral of the unrecognized victims of the Newhall house disaster occurred this afternoon. Nearly all business was suspended. Twenty-three bodies were awarded to the Protestants and twenty to the Catholics. The Protestant services were held at the Exposition building, which was densely crowded. A steampipe exploded in the gallery, and the crowd made a rush for the exits, but was soon quieted, and nobody was hurt. The Catholic services were held in the cathedral in charge of the Archbishop. After the services the processions formed and joined, forming a line over two miles in length. All the military bodies and most of the societies of the city participated, six thousand being in line. The weather was very cold. The bodies were buried in two different cemeteries. A committee is collecting funds for monuments to the victims.

PROPAGATING REPUBLICANISM.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—In fulfilment of a resolution adopted by the Monroe county, N. Y., Land League, they yesterday sent a large number of copies of the Declaration of Independence and constitution of the United States to Ireland for the purpose of spreading the spirit of republicanism in that country. Copies were also sent to the Liberal papers in Great Britain, Europe, and Australia.

RUN DOWN BY A TRAIN.

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—One o'clock Wednesday morning, as a teamster named Charles Bardwell was driving across the Grand Trunk Railway track at Port Huron, a Detroit passenger train dashed into his wagon, cutting it in two and injuring him so badly that he died in a few moments. He was walking alongside of the wagon, and as the morning was cold he had his head tied up with a large muffler, which drowned the noise of the approaching train. He was 22 years of age, and unmarried. His home is at Eden Mills, Ont. The horses escaped unhurt.

FRENCH CABINET DISUNITED.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—A Paris correspondent says that the Government is so disunited that it does not know what to do.

THE FRENCH PRETENDERS.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—It is reported that the Ministry intend withdrawing their bill against the pretenders.

A HEAVY GALE.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—There is a heavy gale to-day, particularly at Southport and Liverpool. It is causing much damage to shipping and houses. A schooner was lost with all hands at Yarmouth. At Oldham two persons were killed and six injured.

THE REPUBLIC ON TRIAL.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The Times says it seems probable that the Duclerc cabinet will be beaten in the Chamber of Deputies on Monday. The most remarkable feature of the crisis is the rapidity with which the Frenchmen of all conditions begin to despair of the Republic. This discouragement does not yet show itself in the papers, but it is too apparent in private conversation. It would be rash to suppose, because the Republicans are disheartened, that therefore the Republic is doomed. It is on trial, but it has strength to survive many mistakes.

THE CIMBRIA DISASTER.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The crew of the steamer Arg[illegible] stated that three hours before the collision between the Cimbria and the Sultan, they, while on a voyage from London to Bremen, perceived a large mail steamer through fog coming at an angle towards them. They starboarded helm and passed clear. They all declared that she was the Cimbria, and that she was not sounding a whistle. The chief engineer of the Sultan is reported as saying that he was not on duty at the time of the collision. He was on deck an hour and a half afterwards. He heard no cries. Everybody on the Sultan believed that the Cimbria steamed away.

BUTLER'S ENTERPRISE.

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—The session of the Legislature thus far proves the dullest for years, instead of the most exciting, as expected. The Legislature's refusal to print extra copies of its Governor's message created an extraordinary demand for that document, and it will be supplied by the Governor from a private printing press.

THE STAR ROUTE FRAUDS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The Herald's Washington despatch says that the ruling of Judge Wylie, admitting as evidence in the Star Route trial Dorsey's letters to Postmaster Glendenning, is regarded by the government counsel as of the greatest importance in establishing the origin of the conspiracy. The transfer by Brady of his residence to Vail is regarded as significant by those who know the strength of the case of the government.

THE NEW CAPITOL AT ALBANY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The Sun's Albany despatch says it is understood that the Governor will to-day send to the senate a veto of the two hundred and fifty thousand dollars appropriated for continuing the work on the new Capitol. The Governor has been looking into the manner in which the work is done, and it is said that he has put his foot down firmly on the waste of money. He will recommend that immediate measures be taken to finish the structure on a business-like basis, and without unnecessary expense. It is understood that he favors a bill providing for a single commissioner.

UNIFORM TIME.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Mexico, Venezuela, Switzerland and Hawaii have made a proposal to this Government that an international conference be held to fix the common prime meridian for the regulation of time throughout the world. Belgium probably approves of it.

AN OPERA HOUSE BURNED.

DEFIANCE, OHIO, Jan. 26.—The opera house was gutted by fire last night. Loss $15,000.

THE CAVE IN.

WILKESBARRE, Jan. 26.—The cave in the mine affects over a hundred acres. Fifty houses have been vacated. Wilkesbarre is undermined by working collieries. Rumors of the insecurity of the city have been reviewed, but it is claimed that there is no danger. It is estimated that it will cost $500,000 to repair the damage.

CHILIAN CRUELTY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—A Callao letter says that George Herbert, an American aged sixteen, was induced to enlist on a Chilian gunboat. He signed articles for four years, supposing they were only for a year. He was treated badly and finally accused of stealing money. He stated that an English lad on the vessel gave it to him. Notwithstanding this Herbert was given sixty five lashes on the bare back with a tarred rope. He was loaded with chains and sentenced to be whipped every morning until he confessed the theft, of which he asserted he was innocent. The English boy was also whipped. The American Consul hearing of the case secured Herbert's release, and he left for the United States. The English representative also had the English boy discharged.

BRETTON, Jan. 25.—Yesterday as Francis McCarthy was taking out timber near this place, a large tree he was felling lodged in a small one, splintering it, and causing it to fly back and strike him, severing one of his arms, and pinning him to the ground so that the tree had to be chopped away before he could be taken out. He is doing as well as could be expected.

TOWN FINANCES.

If eternal vigilance is the price of liberty there is little danger of this town losing its liberty, and although it may sometimes lead to statements being made and suspicions being entertained which are neither pleasant nor in accordance with the facts, yet it is better that the people should err on the side of vigilance than on that of supineness.

Within the last few weeks some of our ratepayers, as they are apt to do at this time of the year, have been scrutinizing the Collector's roll very carefully, and owing to certain errors which crept into the Finance Committee's report fixing the rates for the current year, [illegible] the report itself was correct enough, not unnaturally imagined they had discovered certain discrepancies, which had they proved founded in fact, could not have been satisfactory to the ratepayers.

As we are in some measure responsible for this misunderstanding, we have deemed it our duty to look into the matter, and in justice to those more immediately interested and whose faithfulness as public servants had, in a measure, been called in question, to state that an examination of the Collector's and Assessment Roll for 1882 reveals the following facts, viz:—

1. That the total amount of the Resident Roll, as finally revised by the Judge, is $2,601,-[illegible].

2. That of this sum $2,22[illegible] is liable for the support of the Public Schools and the payment of School Debentures.

3. That the balance of $378,2[illegible] is responsible for the support of the Separate Schools.

4. That the amount of assessment liable for the special water rate is $726,400.

5. That (1) the amount required per estimates, (2) the amount which the rate struck would produce when levied upon the whole sum liable therefor, and (3) the aggregate on the roll for the same, when made up for each individual ratepayer, was as follows:—

	[illegible]	[illegible] Rate.	Aggregate [illegible]
Administration of Justice	$[illegible] 00	$3,302 42	$3,404 71
Town Rate	[illegible] 00	7,801 [illegible]	[illegible]
Collegiate Institute Rate	[illegible] 00	3,832 10	3,854 [illegible]
Interest on Sinking Fund on Town Debentures	5,5[illegible] 00	5,303 93	5,303 91
Public School Rate	[illegible] 00	[illegible] 24	[illegible]
Interest on Sinking Fund on School Debentures	2,140 00	2,223 [illegible]	2,233 04
Separate School Rate	900 00	1,361 [illegible]	1,361 72
Water Rate	[illegible]	726 [illegible]	726 [illegible]
Totals on Roll Levied by Rates	[illegible]	30,8[illegible]	[illegible]

[illegible] these, however, there are on the Roll Statute Labor $8[illegible], Dog Tax $3[illegible] and Arrears of Taxes $321 [illegible], making the grand total of the estimates $3[illegible],[illegible]0.62, and on the Roll of $31,[illegible].

To enable the reader to test for himself the correctness of these figures we have only to add that the rates struck for the respective rates were as follows:

Administration — A mill and a half
Town Rate — Three mills
Collegiate Institute — A mill and three tenths
Interest and Sinking Fund on Town Debentures — Two mills
Public School Rate — Two mills and six-tenths
Interest and Sinking Fund on School Debentures — One mill
Separate School Rate — Three mills and six tenths
Water Rate — One mill

The rates for the first five rates are levied on the whole assessment, and the others only on the particular assessments liable therefor.

It will be observed that in every instance the rate selected yields the nearest possible amount without going beyond a tenth of a mill to the amount required, and that the fractions of a cent, in which ratepayers in some instances are mulcted, amount to a very small sum in any of the rates, the large increase in the town rate being attributable to the additions which are required to be made to the taxes of those below two dollars, the law requiring that everyone's taxes shall amount to at least that sum. It is also to be noted that the schools and commissioners are paid over not the amounts demanded but those actually received, so that when the rate raises a little more that what is called for this year the same rate should be proportionately reduced next year. With these explanations we think every one will be satisfied with the way in which our taxes are levied and that those charged with this duty have discharged their duty faithfully and satisfactorily.

BREAKING THE SABBATH

What a Policeman saw Last Sunday in the Provincial Government Printing House.

On Sunday evening last one of the Central Station [illegible] was on duty in Jordon street, when he saw lights in one of the upper flats of the Provincial Government Printing House on that street. He tried the side entrance, and found it open, whereupon he mounted the stairs to the flat in question and proceeded to investigate. Arrived there he found some forty printers hard at work at their cases, seemingly indifferent to the fact of its being Sunday or oblivious of the law governing such matters. The constable, after taking the scene at a glance raised his voice and remonstrated. He quoted chapter and verse of the Bill forbidding Sunday work, informing them that the penalty for its infraction was $40 fine for each offence. He did not forget to express his surprise that such conduct should be tolerated in the office where the Government printing was done, and where the Presbyterian had its being. The printers scoffed at his warning, and bluntly refused to quit work, and the clink of the type as it fell into their sticks continued unabated. Of course one constable could not arrest forty men, especially printers, and Ontario Government printers at that. He quietly marched down stairs, and hied himself to the Central Station, where he told his story to the sergeant in charge. That officer accompanied the constable back to the printing office to add the weight of his authority to that of his subordinate. He found the printers still hard at work. The sergeant told them that they were infringing the law, gravely, and would have to be prosecuted. He accordingly took down the names of the forty and went away. Yesterday morning the summonses were written out, and were about to be issued when a gentleman high in the confidence of the Mowat Government rushed into the Central Police Station, and after a lengthy interview with the police authorities, during which he showed his credentials from his chief, succeeded in getting the prosecution quashed. The way this was managed will, no doubt, interest the conservative readers of the Canadian, and it is given below. Mr. C. Blackett Robinson, the proprietor of the Presbyterian, and the gentleman who does the printing for the Government of Ontario, did not know of the raid on his office until Monday morning. His foreman informed him of the intended prosecution by the police, and asked what was to be done under the circumstances. Mr. Robinson at once felt the terrible result of the expose should it come to light that the Ontario Government permitted Sabbath toil. He posted off to Mr. Mowat, and luckily, caught that gentleman at home. The interview between the two was lengthy and anxious. Something had to be done, and that quickly, to prevent matters reaching a head. It would not do for Mr. Mowat to be seen around the Central Police Station, as the lynx-eyed reporters would surely tumble to something. The only thing, therefore, to be done was to send a trusty adherent who could negotiate in his name with the police authorities, and the result of the officials visit is given above. Thus through Mr. Mowat's exertions, the fine of $40 was not imposed upon the 40 offenders, causing a loss to the city of $1,600.—Toronto Evening Canadian.

THE FUTURE OF THE NEGRO

We must again ask the question, What, from this stand point, will the upshot be when the blacks numerically will so far exceed the whites as to overcome the vantage that the superior wealth and intelligence of the latter now give them? The outlook here is no less serious. Whatever civic capability the blacks may have, it is now in germ; whatever governing aptitude the race may possess, it is at present dormant. In the history of nations it has nowhere, as yet, been exhibited. If this race in the United States is improving, its improvement, as was to have been expected, is slow; and in every political virtue it will still be vastly below the whites, when its voting strength its fecundity will have put it vastly beyond them — far beyond as to overcome every counter influence, and give the political reins entirely into its [illegible].

Who can doubt that, when the day comes the blacks will [illegible] a race instinct which all their [illegible] will have powerfully tended to develop, and [illegible] have they done wherever the power existed. Kept, as they are, a distinct and inferior race, [illegible] can [illegible] under the state of affairs [illegible] completely dominating [illegible] the worst [illegible]? The whites would [illegible] while America is a nat[illegible] may times, yet by those who framed the Constitution it was never intended that a race brought here as slaves, an inferior race, once kept distinct by this very inferiority, should, merely through a superior fecundity, become politically extreme, and lord it over the land. They would hold (2) that this political lordship would be ruinous to every interest; that for a short period subsequent to the close of the war it had partially prevailed, and with the unhappiest results; and that, should this lordship become distinctively fastened upon a large section of the Union, the incompetency of the negro to provide legislatively for the manifold and complex interests of an advanced civilization, would arrest its activities, paralyze the trade, and spread a decline throughout the entire country.

These are real and gigantic evils gradually looming up, and they merit the immediate and best attention of American statesmen.—Prof. F. W. Gilbert, in Popular Science Monthly.

True to Her Trust.

[illegible] cannot be said of the ever faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. They are the best and purest medicine in the world and only cost fifty cents. Sold by all Druggists. [illegible]

A Romantic Event

Gananoque is noted for its romantic situation and its romantic maidens. An event filled with romance has just transpired there in the marriage of James H. Stewart, of Brandon, Manitoba, to Martha J. Reid, daughter of Thomas Reid. The bridal pair had never met until he came down two days before the wedding. The acquaintance was brought by James Kenny, who lived a short time in Brandon, and after an exchange of photographs the courtship was all done by letter. They left yesterday for Brandon. Miss Reid's family are quite taken up with their new relative. His manner and appearance indicate that he will never give the bride cause to regret her consent to [illegible] an espousal.—Kingston Whig.

A Long Drama.

Among anecdotes of first nights of new pieces the following deserves a place. It was the first night and morning of "Monte Cristo," a drama which, for its length, might of been of Chinese origin. At a quarter before one in the morning the curtain rose for the last act. Mr. Charles Fechter, in the character of the hero, is discovered seated in a contemplative attitude. Like the ghost in "Alonzo the Brave," "he moved not, he spoke not," but there came from the gallery, in a clear, somewhat sad, but gentle voice, these words: "I hope we are not keeping you up, sir." The effect may be imagined.—London Society.

Femur versus Baton

While Lafontaine, the medical student who was arrested in Montreal last week for body-snatching, was being tried, a lively scene occurred in court. The students of Victoria escorted Lafontaine to court and placed him in the dock amid rousing cheers. They were soon followed by McGill and Laval students, each carrying a human thigh bone. The constable entered and informed them that an enquete was to be carried on, not a public court. A couple of policemen took forcible means to clear the court. The students resented, and batons and bones were used freely. The police drew their revolvers and cleared the court. The conflict was renewed outside. The students got the better of it. Two arrests were made.

The Castle of Hapsburg.

While the house of Hapsburg is commemorating the sixth century of its sovereign rule, it is interesting to remember that a portion of the ancient stronghold in Switzerland, the castle to which the family gave their name, still exists. The castle of Hapsburg is in the canton of Berne, and is splendidly situated on the right bank of the Aar. All that now remains of this historic building is a formidable tower of great antiquity, commanding a view which stands almost alone for extent and loveliness. Many of the ancient fiefs and domains of the house of Austria lie spread out below the tower of Hapsburg. The castle was built in the 11th century by Count Verner, Bishop of Strasburg. After a time the Count Bishop presented the stronghold to his brother, Radbad, whose son, named Verner, like his uncle, was the first of his house to take the name of Count of Hapsburg. His descendants all bore that title, until the elevation of Rudolph to the throne of the Holy Roman Empire. The castle was afterwards given in fief to various nobles, from whom it passed to the canton of Berne, by which it is still owned.—Lancet.

Big Salaries

The German salary list contains some interesting items. Chancellor Bismarck receives an annual stipend of $18,000 and the use of his palace, together with an extra allowance of nearly $7,000 for the maintenance of the furniture, linen and utensils of the palace and the gardens connected therewith. The Secretary of the State for Foreign Affairs, Count Hatzfeldt, is paid $17,000 per annum with certain perquisites. But the ambassadors at London and St. Petersburg take the prize compensation for their services to the Government, getting $50,000 apiece per annum; their colleagues in Paris receive $40,000, he at Constantinople the same, and he at the Vatican $33,000. The Governor of Alsace-Lorraine is paid $60,000 a year, but he is not exactly a public functionary. The Ambassador at Vienna gets $40,300, the one at Pekin $20,000, and the one at Tokio $20,000. From these amounts the salaries shade down to moderate stipends to Consuls, the Consuls Generals, however, being paid from $5,000 to $16,000, the latter amount, the largest on the list, going to the one at New York. Most of the Ambassadors are "found," and those at the Vatican and with the Porte have in their suit official "preachers," paid by the State.

How Dimples are Made.

This is the way dimples are manufactured in Chicago, if a reporter of the Herald of that city tells the truth:

"My arm being bare and the exact spot indicated, he (the operator) placed a small glass tube, the orifice of which was extremely small, upon the spot. This tube had working within it a piston, and was so small that when the handle was drawn up the air was exhausted from the tube and it adhered to the flesh, raising a slight protuberance. Around this raised portion the operator daintily tied a bit of scarlet silk, and then took away his suction machine. The little point of skin that was thus raised he sliced off with a wicked looking knife, bringing the blood. I tried hard not to scream, but it was so unexpected that I had to. Then he bound up the arm, placing over the wound a small silver object like an inverted cone, the point of which was rounded and polished. This little point was adjusted so as to depress the exact center of the [illegible]. Then he told me to go away and not touch the spot until the next day. When I came at that time he dressed my arm again and the operation was repeated for five days, when the wound was healed. The silver cone was removed, and there, sure enough, beneath it was the prettiest dimple in the world. And all I had to pay was $50."

COMMON DEFORMITIES OF CHILDREN

[illegible]

Many children are afflicted by chronic ailments and deformities, which require the most constant attention if the sufferer would have any chance of being restored to health or the perfection of bodily strength. Some of those are congenital, or date from the time of birth, others are the result of accident, or exhibit themselves by degrees while the child is still young. Some of them can be cured, some are incurable, but nearly all can be in some way ameliorated.

Now, as in all cases of chronic disease in children, whether of the bones or muscles or internal organs, the greatest care should be taken that the condition of the little patient is kept up to or as near to health mark as possible.

Particular care should be taken with regard to diet. This ought to be suitable for the age of the child, and the meals should be given with the greatest regularity. Children should never be permitted to fast too long, nor should they be allowed to eat too much at a time. They ought to be taught at a very early age the benefits of eating slowly and masticating well. The clothing should be light, but warm, comfortable, and moderately loose. Flannel, the softest that can be procured, and well shrunk, should be worn next the skin, and there ought to be no tightness in the dress anywhere, neither in feet, legs, waist, arms, or neck. Garters and corsets are injurious to the health. An over amount of coddling is most injudicious. Plenty of exercise in the open air is imperative if health is to be maintained. Many a poor child is positively starved for want of fresh air. Close, stuffy nurseries and badly ventilated bedrooms have to account for a deal of infantile mortality and a vast deal of the unhealthiness that renders life to many at best but a burden and a weariness.

The value of personal cleanliness in children can not be overrated. I know there are many people who think it is quite enough if the little ones are "bathed" once a week. This is a great mistake; face hands and feet should be kept constantly clean, and the bath, cold or tepid, used every night at bed time. This, if the supper has not been a late one, will conduce to sound sleep, without which a child can never be well. Seven o'clock should be bed-time with young children; the bed itself should be a moderately hard mattress, never feathers or down, and the bed clothes ought to be light, for perspiration is most weakening, especially if the child be at all delicate.

Weakness of the ankle-joint in children is very common, and may ultimately lead to distressing deformity. The child is observed to have a tendency to turn the foot either out or in at the ankle-joint, which appears somewhat swollen and deformed. The heels of the boots are not worn on an even keel, and the very wearing of boots or shoes down at the heel at either side tends to increase the deformity. This should therefore be guarded against; they ought to be protected with steel at the side where they are most worn. Meanwhile, attention to the general health is imperative.

Children that are in the slightest degree weakly, flabby in muscle, pale-faced, and small in bone, should never be allowed to walk too much, nor to learn to walk too soon.

There is an affection of the hip-joint usually called hip-disease, which takes a variety of forms, and can only be conducted to a successful termination by a skillful surgeon or physician. It comes on slowly and insidiously; some pain about the knee may perhaps be complained about, a slight degree of limping is observed, and the patient while in bed prefers lying on the opposite side. When anything of the kind is noticed, aid should be procured immediately; all a parent can do is to obey the orders of the family physician, see that no undue strain is ever put on the painful limb, and attend to the general health of the child.

Curvature of the spine is a very distressing affection. Too much stooping, whether in school or at work, may give raise to it. But whatever be the cause, or at whatever age the disease—for disease it is—comes on, medical aid should be resorted to. In young children it is important that the spine should have complete rest. For this purpose the little patient is placed upon cushions, or has a couch especially adapted for his complaint, while everything possible must be done to strengthen his constitution, and much can be accomplished in this way by nutritious diet, tonics, pure air, well ventilated sleeping-apartments, the gentlest carriage exercise, and sea-air.

Some children are very subject to swellings about the throat and neck, and these cases are too often treated at home to the child's detriment. At all events, a medical man's advice should be taken; the home treatment will then consist in strict obedience to his orders, and in being careful to feed and treat the child according to the principles by hygiene.

What are commonly called ruptures are very common among children. They must be seen to by a surgeon, and if he advises it, a properly adjusted truss must be worn.

Most cases of harelip can now be remedied by proper surgical treatment. They ought, however, to be seen to in time.

What is called tongue-tying I merely mention in order to warn the reader against allowing a non-professional person to interfere in the slightest with it.

Let me also in conclusion, warn my readers never to be led away by the pretentions of unqualified quacks, or mischief may result that never can be remedied.

Protection Against Fire in Hotels

The following proposals have been made to the Mayor of Quebec:

1. That there should be a watchman on patrol night and day on each floor of each hotel to watch against fire.
2. That such fire escapes as can be improvised should be provided at once for the hotels.
3. That it should be insisted on that every bath in the hotel should be kept always filled with water.
4. That a row of buckets should hang on pegs in the corridor, as close as possible to the door of each bath-room (London plan).
5. That in each turning of a staircase in a hotel, if the space admits, if not elsewhere there should be two brackets on the wall, on the one a bucket always filled with water, on the other a bucket always filled with sand for special dangers.

THE CARE OF STEAM ENGINES

A contemporary has gathered the following instructions for the care of engines:

Never allow an engine to become dirty.

Never depend entirely on patent oil cups.

Do not allow the packing to become hard and dry in stuffing boxes, as it has a tendency to cut and flute the rods.

Never strike any part of an engine with the face of a hammer or head of monkey wrench.

Never set steam packing, cotton waste, tops or rags, or anything whatever that is to be used around the cylinder, valve, piston rod or bearings of steam engines, on the floor, as they will invariably pick up sand or grit, which injures the rubbing and revolving surfaces with which it comes in contact.

When practicable, piston and valve packing should be applied when the stuffing boxes and rods are cold. The best packing is often destroyed through ignorance or want of skill.

Almost any packing may be improved by being soaked in beeswax, tallow and black lead.

Gum joints that require frequently to be taken apart should be coated with chalk before being placed between the flanges. This prevents the gum adhering to the metal and being destroyed when the joints are taken apart.

All gum joints located in the water space of steam boilers should be coated with lead and tallow before being put together. This has the effect of preventing the sulphur of the gum from attacking the metal and destroying the surfaces.

When it becomes necessary to stop an engine with a heavy fire in the furnace, place a layer of fresh coal on the fire, shut the damper, and start the injector or pump for the purpose of keeping up the circulation in the boiler.

Always see that the cylinder drain cocks are open when the engine is standing still; never close them till after starting.

Never admit the tallow to the cylinder until the engine is fairly under way and the cylinder drain cocks closed.

Always start an engine slowly, and allow it to come up to speed gradually.

Before starting an engine always warm up the cylinder by admitting steam to both ends.

Whenever an engine is stopped for any length of time, examine all its parts and see that they are in good working order.

In case of extreme heating, slack up on the keys and gibs, permit them to run loose for a time; then take up the lost moment gradually.

Examine the piston packing in the cylinder frequently; keep it tight and in good order.

Keep your steam at the same pressure. If the steam is allowed to rise above the working pressure, the engine will increase its speed, which will induce a loss of speed, as every revolution above the speed at which the machinery is geared for the manufacture of different materials is a waste and every revolution the engine falls below the regular speed is a loss of production.

MORNING WORK

Perhaps on the whole, moderately early rising is now a commoner practice in cities than it was forty years ago. It seems strange that the habit of lying in bed hours after the sun is up should ever have obtained a hold on the multitude of brain-workers as undoubtedly it had in times past. Hour for hour the intellectual work done in the early morning, when the atmosphere is as yet unpoisoned by the breath of myriads of actively moving creatures, must be, and as a matter of experience, is, incomparably better than that done at night. The habit of writing and reading late in the day and far into the night, "for the sake of quiet," is one of the most mischievous to which a man of mind can addict himself. When the body is jaded the spirit may seem to be at rest, and not so easily distracted by the surroundings which we think less obtrusive than in the day; but this seeming is a snare. When the body is weary, the brain, which is an integral part of the body and the mind, which is simply brain function, are weary too. If we persist in working one part of the system because some other part is too tired to trouble us, that can not be wise management of self. The feeling of tranquility which comes over the busy and active man about 10.30 or 11 o'clock, ought not to be regarded as an incentive to work. It is in fact, the effect of a lowering of vitality consequent on the exhaustion of the physical sense. Nature wants and calls for physiological rest. Instead of complying with her reasonable demands the night worker hails the "feeling" of mental quiescence, mistakes it for clearness of intellect, and whips the tired organism with the will until it goes on working. What is the result? Immediately the accomplishment of a task fairly well, but not half so well as it would have been performed with the vigor of a refreshed brain working in health from proper sleep. Remotely, or latterly, comes the penalty to be paid for unnatural exertion, that is, energy wrung from exhausted or weary nerve centres under pressure. This penalty takes the form of nervousness, perhaps sleeplessness, almost certainly some loss or depreciation of function in one or more of the great organs concerned in nutrition. To relieve these maladies, springing from this unsuspected cause, the brain-worker very likely has recourse to the use of stimulants, possibly alcholic, or it may be simply tea or coffee. The sequel need not be followed. Night work during student life and in after years is the fruitful cause of much unexplained, though by no means inexplicable suffering, for which it is difficult, if not impossible to find a remedy. Surely morning is the time for work when the whole body is rested, the brain relieved from its tension, and mind power at its best.—Lancet.

Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

Sulphurous Acid in Consumption.

Most readers are aware that sulphurous acid is one of our most important bacillicides, and the more to be recommended as it can be inhaled with impunity. Mr. Julius Kircher, a pupil of Liebig, and owner of a chemical factory in Brooklyn, writes, says the Medical and Surgical Reporter, as follows to the Zeitsch. [illegible] Apoth. Verein:

The observation of Koch has found a brilliant confirmation in my factory, where a large quantity of sulphur is evaporated daily. That in this process a great deal of sulphurous acid is formed, can easily be imagined. During the forty-four years that my factory has existed none of the many laborers have been affected by tubercular consumption, nay, more frequently, enough persons in the beginning stages of this disease applied for admittance and were cured within a few weeks, simply by inhaling the sulphurous acid. If not too far progressed, these individuals become strong, stout and perfectly healthy again.

All diseases zymotic in character, even fevers, stay away from his factory and those working there. Persons affected with bronchial catarrh are rapidly cured.

Phthisical patients should live in rooms where hourly 1 to 2 drachms of sulphur are evaporated daily on a warm stove. First eight or ten days there is increased irritation of cough and expectoration; then these cease, and the individual rapidly improves. [illegible] time sleep [illegible]

THE
PACIFIC NORTHWEST!
Oregon, Washington, and Idaho,

Offers the best field for emigrants, viz: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Fraternal Visit.

The Good Templars appear to have an attack of brotherly love, judging from their interchange of friendly visits. The members of Carswell Lodge, Peterborough, on Thursday night visited their brethren in Mount Pleasant, some thirty members going out from the town. The visitants were generously entertained by the members of Mount Pleasant Lodge, which, together with a good programme of music, readings, etc., and brief speeches by members of both Lodges, made the visit a most enjoyable one.

The following appears in the report of the proceedings before Chancellor Boyd, in the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice of Ontario, on Wednesday, January 24th:—

"SHEHANE V. CLAXTON. Hoyles, for plaintiff, moved for an interlocutory injunction to restrain defendants from trespassing over plaintiff's lot. It appeared by the affidavits that the lot in question was a wild lot, and that the defendant were carrying on lumbering operations in the neighbourhood, and had made a lumber road through plaintiff's lot, that the lot was of small value, and that the plaintiff had in his writ claimed compensation by way of damages for the alleged injury to his land. J. H. Watson for defendant. Injunction refused, there appearing to be no irreparable injury likely to accrue and plaintiff having delayed applying until the road in question had been constructed."

Sunday School Anniversary

Anniversary services in connection with George Street Methodist Sunday School will be held on Sunday and Monday evening next. On Sunday morning the Rev. John Shaw will deliver a sermon especially to the children, and the Rev. Mr. Manning will in the evening address the parents. At the morning service the Sunday School pupils will occupy the centre row of seats and will furnish the singing. On Monday evening a meeting will be held at which the Secretary's annual report will be read, and addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Manning on "What the Sunday School is Doing," by the Rev. Mr. Torrance on "How to Study the Bible," and by Mr. D. W. Dumble. The scholars will provide the music. A collection will be taken up in aid of the school, and the collection at the Sunday services will be devoted to the same purpose.

Railway Notes

The Lindsay Post says that during the last two weeks the snow plow has become a familiar sight on the Midland. Pushed by one of the most powerful engines, the plow has done duty in clearing the track. Many of the trains have had attached to the last car a scraper, to further aid in clearing the line for coming trains.

The same paper says that Mr. J. E. Every is at present on a trip through the Midland counties lumbering section laying railroad ties for Rathbun & Sons, of Deseronto. The firm have contracted to deliver 150,000 ties to be used in repairing the road beds of the Grand Trunk and Midland railways and portions of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, now under construction.

The Bridgewater correspondent of the Intelligencer writes that Mr. Bailey, chief engineer of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, was there a short time since, and he said as soon as the weather permitted, ballasting would be completed between there and Madoc, and a train begin running, and the extension of the road would be resumed in the summer.

The Midland noon train was an hour and fifteen minutes late to-day, having been delayed while waiting for the Grand Trunk [illegible] at Port Hope.

FIRE PROTECTION

[illegible]

[illegible]

I quite agree with the writer that something should be done to save the town from a great calamity, for such it would be if a large fire should happen. I am not one of the large property holders of the town, but that which I have acquired I feel not here too that I should treat it of so little value as not to understand the value of waterworks as a means of preserving, but when the writer in question wants to make out that the Town of Peterborough acted so as to make itself the laughing stock of the county, he assumes that Peterborough people are all fools. This is not my first letter on waterworks, and it has been sufficiently shown by all of them that I am not antagonistic, as all have pointed to how desirable and beneficial such a system would prove to the town, but all I want now, and I think the majority of the ratepayers will agree with me, is that the Waterworks Company should show us that their works are efficient, so that if the hour of need comes we need not deplore having acted as fools to rush into a worthless concern which by the bursting of one pipe would prove of less value than the present fire engine. Will anyone say that the trials exhibited are sufficient to inspire confidence? Put on full pressure of steam as required by the by-law, and show us that your works are what the town is in need of, and if this exhibition will not [illegible] well, then, I [illegible] say [illegible] from the Waterworks Company.

Yours, &c.,

WM. LECH.

A BABY SMOKER

Probably the youngest confirmed smoker of tobacco in New York is Joseph Granger, a chubby four-year-old, who lives at No. 9 Mulberry street. His father, August Granger, is a skilled French glass worker. The other day a reporter saw the youngster toddling about the shop with his lighted pipe in his mouth. He is a four-year-old, of full size. He sturdily resisted all efforts to take away his pipe. He howled dismally when his resistance was overcome and the pipe was forced from his clenched teeth and determined grasp. It was a common wooden pipe he smoked, and the reporter consoled Joe with a cigar. He seized it eagerly. It was a big one, full-flavored, dark and strong. The baby smoker shut his fist tightly upon it, held it jealously against his breast, and clamored for a match. His little teeth were scarcely equal to the task of biting off the end of the cigar, but he nibbled at it until he found that it would draw and then scratched his match. Having secured a good light he smoked away with every air of satisfaction at the change, nodding his head vigorously when asked if he liked the cigar better than the pipe. His pipe he holds firmly in his teeth and scarcely puts his hand to it until it is smoked out. The cigar was too big to close his mouth on comfortably, so he held it between his lips with one hand, never letting go his hold upon it for an instant, and very seldom taking it out of his mouth. The father of this four-year-old is not without concern as to the effect of his indulgence in tobacco. He is a heavy smoker himself. Little Joe has been addicted to the weed since he was eighteen months old. He was weaned at this age. The family don't remember how he came to get hold of a pipe. It never made him sick. When they had got over gratifying his taste for the sake of the oddity and tried to break him of the habit they found that they could not do it. The sight of a pipe was the signal for an outcry that could be stilled only by allowing him to smoke. They gave it up. Joe has since smoked regularly, and calls upon his mother to fill his pipe as soon as he gets up in the morning. He smokes through the day as often as he can prevail upon her to give him a pipeful of tobacco. His health seems to be good, but he is inclined to taciturnity. When he has his pipe in his mouth it is difficult to get a word out of him, and his customary attitude is one of meditation. Whether this is really the outward and visible sign of deep thought or of the stupefying effect of the tobacco, Mr. Granger does not attempt to say. The boy sleeps well, but eats scarcely two solid ounces of food a day, though he is plump as a partridge.—New York Paper.

HAND SEWING.

But it is not the seamtress alone whom it pays to know how to sew well. The teacher, the clerks, the shop-keeper, the book-keeper, all need to know how to take the stitch that oftener saves ninety than nine. The mother of a family, unless she has the purse of Fortunatus, must take countless stitches. It makes no difference what her tastes, culture and talents are, if she has children the stitches must be taken and if she cannot have them done life is twice as easy for her if she can take them in the best and the quickest way. The sewing machine will do much, and every woman ought to make it save all the hand labour it can, but it cannot be well managed by one unused to the needle. The stitching may be perfect, the garment will be a botch. But unless I am very much mistaken the sewing-machine is doing away with the custom of teaching girls in childhood the various branches of the art of handsewing, even among the poorer classes. The young teacher of whom I have spoken told me she did not know how to sew. Out of school she had always busied herself with fancy work, and had no time to learn. I happen to know that her mother had done all her sewing save some of the machine work, and now that poverty has driven her to teach she sends her stockings home by mail to her mother to be mended, when the holes in them are too big to be pleasant. She is a sweet and kindly creature, and will no doubt sometime teach herself to sew in a slow blundering way. There are other tender mothers making the same mistake. Alas, for such mistaken love! To be able to keep her own garments in dainty order is a far more dignified accomplishment for a girl than to be expert at making wax flowers or crewel work. I may be an old fogy, but nice hand sewing always affects me like delicate embroidery, fine carving, lace, or repousse work. No creature of steel and brass and swiftly moving rods and wheels can do it, only that cunning worker, that marvellous mechanism, the human hand. Sewing is as old almost as the race. It is as fine an art as embroidery, and I cannot see why girls should not be as proud to excel in one as in the other.—Evening Commercial.

The Great Mogul

Many years ago says London Society, at the time of a great ceremony, Windsor Castle was honored with the presence of three sovereigns. After breakfast the three potentates walked on the celebrated "Slopes," and were, of course, in "mufti." They were delighted with the grounds, and presently entered into conversation with a gardener who evidently took them for a party of "gentlemen's gentlemen" out for a stroll. After some little affable talk he could not resist the query, "Now who may you gents be?" "Well," said the spokesman, "this gentleman here happens to be the King of Prussia; that one standing by our side is the Emperor of Austria, and, as for myself, I am the Emperor of Russia." This was carrying the joke too far, thought the gardener. "I've seen a lot of queer furrin gents here lately, but this beats me," so he burst out in a rather rude guffaw. "Well, my friend," said the Emperor Nicholas, "you seem amused; perhaps you will tell us who you are." "I, certainly," [illegible] taking up the skirt of his coat [illegible] of a great eagle spread [illegible] his wings and [illegible] on [illegible] said, "If you are all what you say you are, why I am the Great Mogul!" The three Majesties roared with laughter, and returning to the Castle, told the story at the luncheon table to the immense amusement of the Queen and Prince Albert.

Imaginary Ill-Health

Among the papers, says St. James's Gazette, left behind him by a German physician who died a few weeks ago, is one containing notes of certain conclusions he had arrived at during a professional experience of more than forty years. In one of these notes he expresses an opinion that at least a third of the illness of the patients who sought his advice was purely imaginary. He found it not only against his interest, but also against that of the self-alleged sufferers, to destroy the illusion by informing them that there was really no cause for anxiety. Ill health was to them a matter of almost vital importance. To destroy the pleasing belief that they possessed this blessing was an absolute cruelty. In the few instances in which he broke to them the terrible truth that they were quite well, he found that the result was genuine illness. For the patients all interest in life departed with their favorite occupation of nursing themselves, and their health became seriously affected by nervous depression. He also found that, as a rule, [illegible] [illegible] Without going so far as to say that the [illegible] lives are those [illegible] by the [illegible] he thought nevertheless that persons with a [illegible] [illegible] than [illegible] [illegible]

Quinine as a Cause of Insanity.

The father of a Washington lawyer guilty of escapades has recently given the following explanation of the erratic victim: "Thinking it a safe thing to do, my son has been in the habit for months of carrying quinine in his pocket, and taking it in small but frequent doses, and the result is an elated, sanguine state of mind, quite beyond the bounds of reason. His memory is not yet impaired, and the marked improvement already consequent upon being deprived of the drug, gives his friends reason to expect complete restoration in a short time. Meanwhile, let this case be one of many others to teach us all that, excellent as quinine may be in many cases, it is, like chloral or opium or alcohol, exceedingly dangerous to trifle with." The question which naturally arises in the mind of the physician, on reading this is whether quinine has ever been reported as causing insanity. There are, at least, two such cases on record, both of them reported in the Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease, July, 1881. In both, insanity always followed upon the use of quinine, and, from the character of the two reported cases, it seems certain that in some predisposed cases a brief, curable insanity may follow upon the use of quinine.—American Medical Weekly.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES. There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar to itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced; nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widely increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT. SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

A Curious Discovery.

A curious discovery has just been made in St. Giles' Cathedral. In stripping the plaster off the walls in the south transept, the workmen exposed a hole in the thickness of the wall. [illegible] the arches. The hole is about four feet in length, and of an average width of about 12 inches, and was filled to a depth of several inches with small bones, mostly of mice, small birds, and frogs. One or two larger bones were also found, and the remains of an egg shell about the size of a small hen's egg. It is the opinion of several naturalists who have seen the remains that the hole must have been at one time an owl's nest, the bones being the remains of its prey. The hole must have been plastered up during Mr. Burn's work in the church in 1830, and [illegible] far as can be seen no access has been available to it since that time, the bones must date from an early period. The number of frogs' bones would almost point to a date when the Nor' Loch was still in existence, as no other harbor for those animals has existed in the immediate neighborhood since that time. The appearance of the bones seems [illegible] as they are dry and [illegible]. The quantity of them would also prove that their accumulation must have been the work of a great number of years.

MURDERED FOR MONEY

A Plot Carefully Laid Decoyed, Robbed and Killed

DETROIT, Jan. 26.—There was much excitement in Sandwich yesterday over the mysterious death of a man under circumstances which showed he was the victim of foul play. On Tuesday night Superintendent Conely, of the Detroit Metropolitan police, received a telegram which read as follows:

"JACKSON, Jan. 23.

"To the Superintendent of Police, Detroit:

"Look out for Tom Maher, a fifteen year man, who has escaped from Jackson prison.

"WILL. A. HUMPHREY,
"Warden."

The despatch was received in the regular way, and bore all the appearances of being genuine, but a denial was received from Warden Humphrey next day, and the message was found to have been sent by some unauthorized party. At first it was unexplained, but now it appears it was part of a deliberate plan of robbery. Maher is a noted criminal; he was sent to State prison for participating in the robbery of a safe in 1880. His father, John Maher, was an employee of the Peninsular Stove Company, of Detroit. On Wednesday a young man, a stranger to Mr. Maher, went to his house and told him Tom was over in Windsor, and had sent him to get some money and clothes. This of course excited his interest and sympathy, and he set himself about getting the money necessary to assist his boy on the way to permanent safety. He went to his brother-in-law, Michael Keough, and obtained the loan of the money. The two, accompanied by the stranger, then went to Windsor. On the way to the ferry dock they were joined by another stranger, who also claimed to be interested in Tom's welfare. The money which Maher had in his possession amounted to about $100. Arrived in Windsor, the party entered at the International hotel bar-room and took several drinks to fortify themselves against the intense cold. The strangers stated that Tom was concealed in a house two miles below, and proposed, as it was some distance, that they should hire a sleigh. This Maher and Keough consented to. It had by this time got to be late in the evening. No sooner had the four got out on the Sandwich road, away from the vicinity of houses, than the two strangers pushed Keough out on the frozen ground, struck Maher a terrible blow on the head with some weapon, and robbed him of the money, and then drove rapidly away. Coming back by a roundabout way the two men returned the sleigh and horses to the livery stable. Maher was found yesterday morning in an unconscious condition at the side of the road, and Keough, who had been somewhat drunk, was unable to give any very connected account of [illegible]. He was arrested by the Windsor officers and held to await developments. Maher was cared for as well as possible, but died last evening.

THE CREAMERY KITE

ALL will agree that if, by any reasonable expenditure of public money, the quality of the butter generally made in this Province can be materially improved, it will be money well spent. About that there will be no two opinions. But it is one thing to acknowledge that our butter product is not up to that high standard which should be aimed at, and another to devise the means best calculated to raise it to the desired standard. It would seem that the present Ontario Commissioner of Agriculture, Mr. Wood, has suddenly jumped to the conclusion that all that is required to secure the desired improvement is that the same system of making butter should be adopted as has been found to produce such satisfactory results with regard to cheese, and that all that is necessary to bring this about is a supply of persons competent to manage butter factories or in other words creameries, and to this end he has decided upon the erection and maintenance of three creamery schools for the Province. We fear, however, that this is taking but a very superficial view of the whole matter.

In the first place we imagine it may fairly be assumed that those who have not already become patrons of a factory, and who still adhere to the old method of making butter, are either so situated that the factory system is unworkable with them, or that they are convinced that the disadvantages of the factory system counterbalance its advantages. That the latter mode of disposing of milk has its disadvantages cannot be denied. Not only does it render the indiscriminate "deaconing" of calves a necessity, but it is most impoverishing to the farm from which the milk is removed. Only recently we noticed an article from the New England Farmer calling attention to this aspect of the factory system. It asserted that no less than two thirds of all the mineral and nitrogenous substances contained by a cow left the farm with the milk, whereas when butter was made and the rest of the milk product consumed on the farm, no valuable fertilizing element was removed therefrom. As both of the objections to the factory system which we have just mentioned are important ones and cannot be gainsaid, we think they fairly raise the question as to the expediency of expending the public funds for "forcing" a system which possesses [illegible] disadvantages. This is so far as creameries as competitors with home factories are concerned, it should not be forgotten that there have been a few creameries in operation in this Province for some years, and that while cheese factories have multiplied in all directions, butter factories have not. There must be a reason for this. It cannot be too much to conclude that such a result [illegible] strong presumptive evidence that the latter cannot compete financially with the former for the farmer's milk, and if not then the whole plea for their [illegible] unless the [illegible] can be [illegible] such a way [illegible] leave the skim milk on the farm for feeding purposes. This latter method has been attempted in the [illegible] States, but so far as we are aware, not in Canada. It consists in collecting merely the cream, and is known as the Fairlamb system. Could this be satisfactorily done a strong point would be gained by the creamery over the cheese factory, both for the reasons already assigned, and also because it would very materially reduce the cost of collecting the material used in the factory. Evidently before our creamery schools are put in motion, enquiry should be made as to the success which has attended the working of the Fairlamb system in the neighboring states, and if satisfactory it should be adopted.

Another point which should receive attention in these schools, if they are established for practical and not political purposes, is the giving of instruction in the best methods of making butter on a small scale. There is no use denying that [illegible] butter is made by some of our farmers' wives from the milk of but a small number of cows. Now what can be done by a few can be done by the many, if the same means are only adopted. If the [illegible] knowledge is possessed and applied, and as in many parts of the Province [illegible] that [illegible] these parts of it best adopted for dairying purposes, butter, if made at all, must continue to be made in small dairies; attention should consequently be directed to the improvement of the art of butter making on a small scale. In Denmark, according to statements to be found in the report of the agricultural commission, the value of the butter product of the country has been enormously advanced by the establishment of schools for the education of dairy maids, for the manufacture of butter, not in factories, but on the small scale suitable to ordinary farms, and for the reasons already given we are strongly inclined to think this is the direction in which the Ontario butter schools should run.

However, we think we have said enough to show that there is much room for discussion as to the best policy to adopt to secure the object which all have in view, namely, the raising of the general standard of Canadian butter, and also to show that the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association were not very far wrong in declining to commit themselves to any particular scheme without a proper investigation and consideration of the whole subject.

Unfortunately the political necessities of the situation rendered the flying of a political kite of more consequence to Mr. Wood and his colleagues than the real interests of the farmers, and as a consequence, this creamery kite had to be sent up at the present time, irrespective of whether it is, or is not, the best possible scheme which could have been adopted for its nominal object.

A Painful Event.

The Manitoulin Expositor gives the following particulars of a recent painful event:—On Thursday, Dec. 21st, a party of eight men, who had been working on the C.P.R., left Lacloche for Mudge Bay. The ice was very weak and in fact there had been open water in places where they crossed only the day before. Members of the party broke in different times, but had been rescued, until coming near a small island between Lacloche and Little Current, when the ice gave way and six of them were plunged into the water. The remaining two started back for Lacloche where they arrived in safety, while two of those who were left behind sank to rise no more, and the other four made the island. Meantime another party had left the North Shore and picked up the two men at Lacloche and all started for Little Current together. On their arrival at the latter place a relief party was sent out and meeting with a third party from the railway, proceeded to the island, and by means of ropes, canoe, &c., rescued the four men who had taken refuge on the island. Before being reached, however, they had been reduced to great straits, having been from Thursday night to Sunday noon without food save the meat of a dog which they had killed, or shelter, and the only wonder is that they did not perish with cold. The names of the drowned are Robert Fraser, of Mudge Bay, and Beyter, son of the lighthouse keeper, at Gore Bay. One of them had succeeded in getting to within about three yards of the island before he went down.

Anderson of this estate was only a portion of a fortune of £1,000,000, the rest of which was left by the testator to Michael Nagle Anderson, a cousin of Charles W. The whereabouts of the lucky Michael not being known, the news concerning of his sudden accession to wealth was published in the Canadian and American press with a somewhat impressive result. Up to the present time communications have been received from [illegible] Michael Nagles, each of whom claims to be the [illegible] and original one of that name and the heir [illegible] the Conner estate. Two of the claimants [illegible] from Montreal and two from Ottawa.

SELF-MADE MEN.

The frequency with which we read that such and such an eminently successful man has been "self-made" should really suggest serious reflections to all who take an interest in systems of education. In the financial world of this continent to-day hardly more than one or two men of great wealth can be named who were not the architects of their own fortunes. With these very few exceptions they all started in life with almost the minimum of schooling, yet to-day they are for the most part not only men of wealth, but men of no little cultivation. We may, of course, assume that these men started in life with good heads on their shoulders; but many a man has started in life with good natural abilities without securing any notable success in any career. What strikes us in regard to the "self made" men is that very early in life they began to put their knowledge into practice. None of them ever saw the inside of a university; most of them escaped at a very early age from the hands of a common-school teacher. Their heads were not muddled with things they could not understand; their memories were not burdened with thing there was no use in retaining. They gathered a few simple elements of knowledge, and these they began at once to use in the business of life. They consequently acquired the habits of seeing straight; and this, in a world where so many people see crooked, is no small advantage. Far be it from us to disparage education; we only say that, in the process of what is called education, minds are very often weakened rather than strengthened. As Socrates, nearly two thousand three hundred years ago, remarked to the Athenians, "a man who has a colt to break considers very carefully whether the man to whom he proposes to give the job is competent to undertake it; but the man who has a son to educate hands him without misgiving to the first pedagogue that comes along." Education should always keep in view the realities of the world in which we live. It need not, on that account, be sordid or mercenary in its tone, for there is much more in life, as we all know it, than mere self-seeking. What we mean is that all studies in which a boy or girl is asked to engage should be shown to have some direct bearing on human welfare. Whenever symbols are used, the things symbolized should never be long lost sight of. It would take an essay to illustrate our meaning fully; but we hold that such common branches of study as arithmetic, geography and history, might be taught in a much more practical and living manner than they now are. What is needed in the first place, on the part of the teacher, is a strong grasp of the facts of actual life. No recluse, no man who lives his life apart from men, and apart from common human interests, is fit to be a teacher of youth. His influence would all be in the direction of making them weak and unpractical. The idea that any particular study can be an end in itself should be utterly discarded. The youth who begins to dream of the endless felicity of weaving algebraical formulae, and dabbling in the mathematical expressions of utterly impossible and half-contradictory physical operations, is in a fair way of being lost for all practical purposes. The youth who begins to think he could be perfectly happy, and that his life would be nobly filled if he could only acquire facility in writing Greek iambics or hexameters, is likewise in a dangerous case. The great advantage of the education enjoyed by the self made men was that it was adapted to life conceived and understood by them. We do not say that their conception or understanding of life was the highest possible, or the best; but this way we say, that whatever the conception of life adopted, education should be based upon that; it should make the facts of life the purposes, of life, the laws of life its guiding principles.

How many perish for lack of knowledge. Not because they cannot work sums in arithmetic or answer questions in geography or history, but because they do not understand the world they live in, or their relation to that world because their views are distorted, their power of self-control quite undeveloped. We have yet a great deal to learn in this nineteeth century.—Montreal Star.

URSULE'S APPLE SPRIG.

In some parts of France marriageable girls are accustomed to pluck, as they return from midnight mass on Christmas eve, a sprig of apple tree, which they put in a vial full of water; the vial is hung in their bed-chamber, in front of the window; if one bud blossoms before Easter they will be married before the year ends. Among the servants of a chateau near [illegible] was a chambermaid from Brittany. She was gentle, good-natured, quiet, pious—an excellent creature every way—but she was hunchbacked. Her name was Ursule. Taking advantage of the dark night, she, too, plucked a sprig of apple tree, sure that nobody saw her. She was mistaken. A fellow servant saw her, and made the servants' hall ring with peals of laughter at poor Ursule's expense. Still they kept the secret among themselves. They all agreed to play a trick on poor Ursule. Easter eve, one of the journeymen gardeners, removed the old sprig of apple tree from the vial in Ursule's bed-chamber and put in its place a sprig covered with blossoms.

When Ursule went into the bed-chamber she could not believe her eyes. She returned to her servants' hall; her face was radiant with delight as she showed her trophy; but the laughter, jeers and hootings of her comrades revealed the trick put on her. She stood dumb, confounded, trembling, scarcely able to restrain her tears. Just at this moment the mistress entered the servants' hall. The mistress said: "Ursule, the apple tree sprig may be trusted; I believe it; you will be married before Christmas next. You are a virtuous girl; I am sure you will make a virtuous wife. All you want to get a husband with is money; the money wanted I will give you." As she spoke the mistress twined a one thousand franc note around the sprig and returned it to Ursule. A fortnight afterwards the journeyman gardener, who had put the trick on her, asked her in marriage, but she refused him, at which he was greatly jeered, and married another.—P[illegible] Letter.

SMITH MEDICINE Co. Gentlemen—I have made a trial of one box of Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy, with such good effect that I have no hesitation in recommending it to the public as a prompt and reliable medicine. It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

The Spirit of Sectionalism.

We congratulate Manitoba upon rising superior to that miserable spirit of sectionalism which some Canadian politicians cultivate with such assiduity. The outcries against their fellow-countrymen of other provinces, those appeals to religious, race and sectional prejudices with which statesmen of the Mowat-Hardy stamp are in the habit of interlarding their speeches are not [illegible] comprehended. We hope that when the time comes, in the course of a few weeks, the electors of Ontario will prove that they are as patriotic as their Manitoba brethren, and brand with defeat every demagogue who puts his trust in such arts and devices.—T[illegible] E[illegible]

FITS

"A Leading London Physician establishes an office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS."

From Am. Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. MESEROLE, No. 96 John St., New York.

THE

PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants, viz: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by rail roads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

The Proceeding of the Meeting of the Division Grange held recently in Peterborough.

We have received a copy of the minutes of the Northumberland and Durham Division Grange, which was held in Peterborough on January 15th. The Credential Committee's report shows that there was a large attendance. The reports of the Committees on Sociability, Market fees, Home Comforts and the Good of the Order were read. The Committee on Insurance reported the continued success of the Dominion Grange Fire Insurance Association, and stated that its success was now assured beyond question. The Auditors reported that the Secretary had received during the year the sum of $478.12; paid out $265.16, leaving a balance in the Secretary's hands this day of $212.96, after paying off all liabilities of this Grange.

At the evening meeting the following officers were elected:—

W.M.—Bro. Levi VanCamp, Bowmanville.
W.O.—Bro. Ira Brisbin, Baltimore.
W.Sec.—Bro. Joseph E. Gould, Oshawa.
W.Treas.—Bro. B. J. Rogers, Oshawa.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—Bros. T. B. Barlow, Warkworth; Wm. Brisbin, Roseneath; S. Cauldwell, Perrytown; Ezra Hall, Orono; D. D. Henderson, Lang P. O., and John Garbutt, Peterborough.

AUDITORS.—Bros. N. Peters and D. Kennedy.

DELEGATES TO THE PROVINCIAL GRANGE.—Bros. Jesse Trull, L. VanCamp and John Garbutt.

At the session on Tuesday the Committees on Mileage and Claims and Grievances presented their exports. A motion was passed instructing the Delegates from this Division Grange to request the Provincial Grange to memorialize the Ontario Government as to the injustice of the medical doctors' tariff, as they are of the opinion that the tariff is far too high as it now stands. It was decided to hold the next meeting of the Division Grange at Campbellford. The thanks of the Division were tendered to Friendship Temple, I. O. G. T., for their kindness in allowing them the use of their neat and comfortable hall; to the Grand Trunk and Midland Railways for their kindness in granting reduced fares over their respective lines; to S. W. Hill, Esq., of Ridgeville, Ont., for his very able lecture and good advice; also W. N. Harris, General Manager of the Grange Wholesale Supply Store, for explaining the working of the Order.

The Committee on Agricultural Improvements urged the importance of tile draining, and, in considering the improvement of exhausted soils, recommended some system of rotation of crops, in which clover, in connection with land plaster, would be considered a great agent in restoring exhausted soils. The Committee was of opinion that a large saving of fencing could be made in the enlarging of small fields and changing the old snake rail fence into some variety of straight fence and they suggested the use of a portable jack-fence, made from old rails. They believed that tree planting on the road side added greatly to the appearance of the farm, but were of the opinion that tree planting cannot be carried out very successfully until a more stringent law is put in force to keep stock from running at large, or at least until the present laws are better carried out.

The report of the Committee on Seed, Grain and Roots was presented, recommending the use of certain varieties, and also that more attention be paid to the growing of Indian corn as a coarse grain for feeding purposes.

The Committee on Education reported that in their opinion the branches taught or to be taught in our Rural Schools are too numerous, and that to comply with the Departments instructions the very injurious system of cramming is resorted to; that the very best teachers should be employed for the younger pupils; that they were pleased to learn that the Education Department have adopted the Kindergarten system of teaching; that grants given to Public Schools are far too small when compared with those given to the High School and that they regretted farmers did not pay enough attention to the education of their children.

The following Committee on Printing was appointed:—Bros. Levi Van Camp, Jesse Trull, B. J. Rogers, J. E. Gould and John Bartlett.

The Grange adjourned to meet at the call of the Worthy Master.

Cranks.

There appears to be an inundation of cranks in America just now. "Dr." Hall has caused quite an excitement in Toronto, and other hungerers after notoriety have made their appearance there. At Troy, N.Y., Andrew Corman, spike-driver, "the seventh son of a seventh son," reputed to possess marvellous gifts of healing, has been compelled to abandon his accustomed labor and devote himself to the lame, halt and blind. On Thursday Corman's house was thronged with persons on crutches or on limping legs, or with sore eyes, all seeking relief which in some cases was given.

Charles Brady, engaged as a catcher on the Cleveland baseball nine, is at home in Lansingburg, and asserts that he is also "the seventh son of a seventh son." He intends to try to heal the sick after instructions from [illegible]

POLICE COURT.

THE ASSAULT CASE.

SATURDAY, Jan. 27.—John Wilson and Wm. H. Meharry appeared again in Court this morning, on remand, for assaulting Samuel Milligan on the 30th of December.

A certificate was put in by Dr. Burritt and Dr. Halliday, stating that they were of opinion that Samuel Milligan was now, and with proper care would continue, free from danger.

Dr. BURRITT gave further evidence. He said that he had been attending Milligan since he had been wounded. The erysipelas had pursued the usual course of that disease, and he was now free from it. They could not declare him out of danger until now. He and Dr Halliday had been and were yet attending Milligan; they saw him this morning. The erysipelas was the result of the wounds in the head. The certificate they had put in was their opinion of his present state.

Mr. MOORE wished to address the Court on behalf of the prisoners, and the County Attorney not being present, the case was adjourned until Tuesday at 10 a. m.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. AN EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES. There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcula which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar to itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least to give comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its wildly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION. BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT. SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

BRITISH MUNICIPAL POLICY.

In England it is proposed to extend the sphere of domestic self-government, by introducing the municipal system more freely. This, we are told, will be one of the first and foremost measures of the coming session of Parliament. It is noteworthy that while in Old England the tendency is to a wider diffusion of control over local affairs by the municipalities in Ontario, under Grit rule, it is the very opposite. Here the tendency is towards centralization in every branch of public service. In the school system, in the administration of justice, in the granting of victualling licenses, in the seizure of local patronage; in every way, in fact, it is seen how greedy of power the Grit Government has become. One could understand an Administration holding tenaciously to those elements of power which have decended to them from a past age, and yielding them up only under strong pressure of public opinion. But after certain privileges have once been secured and exercised by the municipalities beneficially, is it not a piece of high-handed assumption to take them back again? To do so, is to tell the people that they do not know their own business, that they are too ignorant or corrupt to manage such affairs properly, as concerns their own neighbor*hood* purely. It is claimed on behalf of the Ontario Legislature, which Mr. Macdougall used to describe as but "an enlarged County Council," that it should be supreme over Provincial affairs. But the party which makes the plea deny that the municipalities should have such privilege in their turn within their sphere of action, and would curtail it in every way that is possible.—London Free Press.

INSTANCES OF TYRANNY.

Perhaps the most flagrant and disgraceful instance of abuse of power by license commissioners occurred in 1879, when Mr. Archibald Livingston filled the office of chairman of the board. This individual was undoubtedly appointed to the office for the reason that he was a serviceable instrument when anything was to be done for the party. During the Dominion election campaign of 1878, as we believe was sworn to by Mr. Alexander Gunn, M. P., he went about with the candidate and in certain taverns treated the portion of the electorate which happened to be present, a custom which he seems to have considered quite consonant with the dignity of his office. During the mayoralty contest between Messrs. McIntyre and Gildersleeve he called upon Mr. Thomas Dunn, saloon-keeper, and informed him that unless he voted for the Grit candidate he might expect to lose his license. During the campaign of 1878 he again saw Mr. Dunn and gave him to understand that he would have difficulty in obtaining a license if he did not change his politics. But Mr. Dunn voted and worked for the Conservitave candidate both at the general election and in the contest of June, 1879. Within a few weeks of the latter his name was struck off the list of those who were to receive licenses, the list having been left at the Federal Bank, and shortly afterwards the chairman of the Board of License Commissioners, meeting Mr. Dunn in the street, taunted him with the remark, "See what Mr. Metcalfe and your Conservatives can do for you now."

Will any man of ordinary intelligence deny that Mr. Dunn was deprived of his license as a punishment for his political views? Will any one dare to say that he was not the victim of a miserable, mean and petty persecution carried on by a servant of the government and public official? The extension of popular liberty is the goal towards which civilization has been struggling for centuries; it has been the guiding star of the great historic Liberal party in England; but how vilely has it been perverted, insulted, and degraded by the faction known as Canadian Gritism! A man is punished and persecuted for opinions sake; his neighbours are cowed into suppressing their opinions; and an official who assumes the role of an active wirepuller, is rewarded by appointment to a more lucrative office. This is one case only; we have others to which we shall have occasion to refer shortly.—Kingston Daily News.

STEAMER WRECKED.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The steamer wrecked near Swansea yesterday was the Agnes Jack, from Sardinia, with lead. The witnesses of the disaster were unable to render any assistance. They saw the crew of twelve men swept one by one from the masts. The steamer was out of the reach of rockets, and was unapproachable by boats. All hands perished, including the captain, who it is believed stripped for the purpose of swimming ashore.

A MUTINOUS CREW.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The ship Norwhal, from San Francisco for Queenstown, put into Falmouth, and five of her crew have been arrested for assaulting a sailor suspected of giving information regarding a scuffle on the passage between an officer and a man, during which the latter was wounded. The officers were compelled to carry arms during the voyage.

LOSS OF LIFE AT SEA.

MUMBLESHEAD, Wales, Jan. 27.—The German barque Admiral Prinz Adelbert is ashore here. She is a total wreck, but all of her crew except one were saved. A life-boat in going to the rescue was stove in, and six of her crew were drowned. A large steamer was wrecked to-day near Swansea, and her crew perished.

A COMMERCIAL CRISIS.

Japanese Artists at work.

How a young man made a drawing of a flying duck, and a middle-aged man another of a train of rats, is very clearly described, and with much graphic power, as the following extracts will show:

"A brush of considerable breadth was dipped in water and drawn between the fingers of the artist till nearly dry. It was then dipped in a thin wash of India ink, the central portion of the brush being bent outward, so that the hair of the brush assumed a crescent like form. The convex or centre portion was now hastily dipped into dark India ink, and the brush allowed to straighten itself. Two or three hairs were now separated from one side and dipped into dark ink, but these remained detached from the other part of the brush. By a dexterous movement the artist produced with one stroke the shaded body of the duck and an outline, the few separated hairs making the latter, while the shading resulted from the darker ink of the centre not having fully spread to the sides of the brush. A bill is now drawn, then feet, and then tail feathers. An eye is added, then followed a neck, legs and a few finishing touches, when an admirable sketch of a flying duck is before us."—Dr. Dresser, in Academy, December 9th.

Killing Rats by Electricity.

Ralph Corbit, an ingenious 12-year-old boy of Honeybrook, Chester County, has devised a novel plan of getting rid of the rats which in*fest his father's cellar.* He had constructed out of old fruit jars a battery of three Leyden jars, which he connects and places upon a large iron plate which touches the tin foil on the outside. The bait is so arranged that when the rat steps upon the plate and seizes the bait he at once makes the connection between the outside and inside of the jars and they are discharged through his body, killing him literally as quick as lightning. He charges the jars by means of an electrical machine, also constructed by himself. He ran a couple of wires through the floor to the cellar from the room above, and as soon as he would hear a rat squeak he would immediately recharge the battery. The first time he put the machine in operation he slaughtered twenty-five rats in a space of three hours, and in two days the cellar was entirely cleared of the pests.—West Chester Local.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1883.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

On Wednesday, January 24th, Mr. Pardee moved the second reading of the Rivers and Streams Bill, which he said was precisely similar to that disallowed. He denied that the decision of the Supreme Court affected this bill, and said that it might be reversed by the Privy Council. He contended that tolls fixed by himself and his colleagues was full compensation. He said that the disallowance of the bill would confiscate the property of up-stream limit owners, quite ignoring the act by which any five persons can expropriate such improvements. He owned that the suit of McLaren v. Caldwell was the origin of the bill. In conclusion he made the usual appeal to sectional feeling.

Mr. Meredith showed that the bill declared the law to be and to have always been what an overwhelming majority of the judges declared it was not and had not been. He showed how unconstitutional and unjust was such confiscation of private property, and rebuked Mr. Pardee for threatening Mr. McLaren with the cancellation of his license. He called upon the Mowat administration to take warning by the defeat in Manitoba of the attempt to excite sectional jealousies.

Mr. Morris exposed the unconstitutional nature of the measure and the propriety of its disallowance by the use of the power expressly reserved with the approval of Reformers at confederation, and used by the Reformers themselves when in office.

Mr. Young spoke in favor of the bill, arguing that full compensation in such cases would make the province bankrupt. He repeated the old threat of breaking up the confederation if he and his friends could not get their way.

Messrs. Creighton, Lees, Broder and White continued the discussion in opposition to the bill, and Messrs. Deroche, Caldwell, Sinclair and Badgerow in its support. It was read a second time on a division.

Mr. Meredith, in amendment to go into the Committee of Supply, moved:

"This House, while recognizing the necessity of maintaining the other provisions of the existing liquor license laws and strictly enforcing them, is of opinion that it is not in the public interest, or calculated to promote the cause of temperance, to continue the mode of appointing boards of license commissioners and license inspectors now in force, and is further of opinion that these boards should, in order to remove them as far as possible from the influences of political partisanship, be appointed in counties by the County Councils, and in cities and towns separated from counties by the Councils thereof, and that the power of appointing one or more license inspectors in each license district should be vested in these boards, and this House regrets that legislation providing for this change in the law, and for handing over to the municipalities the whole of the license fees except a sum sufficient to pay the expenses of the license branch of the department of the provincial secretary, has not been proposed for its consideration by the advisers of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor."

He described in vigorous language the manner in which the Government had systematically usurped power from the municipalities and local authorities and had grasped at patronage. In showing how they had abused the License Act for this purpose, he described how they had broken the pledge they had given to appoint a fair proportion of Conservative commissioners.

Mr. Fraser replied by attacking Mr. Meredith and Sir John Macdonald, principally about the Boundary Award, and defended the appointment of political license officials.

In explanation, Mr. Meredith completely turned the tables by showing that it was Mr. Mowat and his colleagues who were inconsistent by threatening even war if the Boundary question were referred to the Privy Council, and now expressing their willingness to have the reference.

The government and their supporters then voted down the proposal to allow municipalities to appoint license officials and to receive the license fees, by 49 to 26.

"MILKING" ONTARIO

It has been repeatedly asserted by the Reformers in furtherance of their unpatriotic efforts to sow dissension between the Provinces composing the Dominion of Canada, that the Quebec Bleus were in league with Sir John Macdonald to "milk the Ontario milch cow." How completely they have falsified the facts may be gathered from the following utterance in the Quebec Legislature by Mr. Mercier, the new leader of the small minority of Liberals in the Province. Mr. Mercier said:—

"There was still the resource of better terms from Ottawa, and he thought the necessity and desirability of insisting upon them should be boldly and squarely met, without further delay. He held, moreover, that, in asking for them we would be soliciting no favor, but claiming a right. * * * There was, or should be, no reason in the world, if we used our influence properly, why we should not ask and obtain an increase of our subsidy to one dollar per head, and upon the basis of the last census too, which would add about $500,000 more to our annual receipts and relieve us of all our present embarrassments."

At considerable length Mr Mercier dwelt upon the injustice that be alleged had been done to Quebec by the more liberal treatment of the other Provinces.

As to this Province he said:—

"Ontario, rich Ontario, had had the liabilities of its Upper Canadian Bank paid, its Northern Railway relieved, its Canada Central favored with a handsome grant, though a purely local road, and its valuable wild lands opened up to settlement and trade by the construction of the Pacific Railway from Lake Nipissing at the common expense."

Mr. Mousseau, the Conservative Premier of Quebec, said:—

"The most important feature of his (Mr. Mercier's) speech was that relating to 'better terms.' He (Mr. Mousseau) thought it was advisable for this Province to be very circumspect in touching this question, as Confederation had been mainly established for its protection."

This shows clearly who is trying to "milk the Ontario cow." It is not the Quebec Conservatives, not Sir John Macdonald's allies, not the people of Quebec, but the small Rouge majority of that Province, the faction who are the allies and supporters of Mr. Blake in Quebec, as Mr. Mowat is in Ontario.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Globe has given us a series "Fact in the the Boundary question." Among other things it says:—

"The Province will also be deprived of a princely revenue from Crown Lands timber dues and sales of timber limits.

With that territory added to Ontario, the day when the Province will have to levy direct taxation would be staved off for several generations."

Is this a clear admission that unless Mr. Mowat gets more of our property to sell—more of our capital to alienate—he will shortly be driven to adopt direct taxation? Is it a healthy state of affairs for an individual or a president to draw upon capital for current expenses?

⁂

The Mail has the following very pertinent query:—

"Mr. Blezard, M. P. P., has not yet given his authority for the statement that Sir John Macdonald proposes that liquors shall be sold as freely as water. Has Mr. Blezard lost the use of his tongue as well as of his conscience?"

⁂

The Hamilton Spectator puts the whole Boundary question very tersely as follows:—

"The simple fact about the boundary is this: There is one way of getting Ontario's territorial rights, and Mr. Mowat refuses to follow that way. Therefore it is the duty of the people to turn Mr. Mowat out of office and put some man in his place who will adopt practical measures for getting justice for Ontario."

⁂

Mr. Mercier, the new Rouge leader, does not agree with Mr. Mowat as to the propriety of treating receipts from the public forests as revenue instead of capital. In the debate on the address in Quebec Legislature he spoke as follows:—

"He said that they had lost their only property in the railway, but he forgot that they had another—their Crown Lands. Now, it was the habit to go into ecstacies whenever the revenue from this source showed an increase. He considered that there was more reason for regret than joy in this connection, as, in disposing of our woods and forests, we were eating up a valuable capital, which we could never replace."

Mr. Mowat appears to be indifferent whether our valuable capital which he is eating up is ever replaced, so long as by using it to meet current expenditure he can maintain himself in office.

SCENERY AT NIAGARA FALLS.

A Monster Ice Bridge—The Cataract in its Winter Dress

A Niagara Falls despatch says:—The picturesque grandeur of the winter scenery at Niagara Falls almost beggars description. Never in the memory of the oldest inhabitant have the Falls presented greater attractions to the tourist and lover of the beautiful in nature.

THE ICE BRIDGE,

which formed a short time ago, has perceptibly increased its noble proportions, until now it is said to be larger than all the ice bridges of the last ten years put together. The vast expanse of ice begins at a point near the Horseshoe falls, and extends down the gorge to the old Maid of the Mist landing, a distance of nearly two miles. Its northern edge is within a few yards of the lower rapids. Since the shifting of the bridge last week the thickness of the ice has increased to nearly fifty feet; its surface is dotted with little hummocks, and an occasional yawning fissure can be seen by the eager explorer. It is from the banks of the river near the foot of the ruined inclined railway that the beauty of the ice king's creations can best be appreciated. A short trip on the ice reveals to visitors a scene that can have no parallel except in the land of the midnight sun. At the foot of the falls

A NOBLE MOUNTAIN OF ICE.

towers half way to the sumit. It is flanked by another magnificent glacial ascent of nearly 150 feet. Provided with creepers and a rubber overcoat one can make the ascent with ease, provided the wind is in the right direction, otherwise the spray will "turn" and drench the adventurous sightseer. One of the prettiest sights of all is the spray congealed upon the trees and shrubs contageous to the cataract; every branch is wrapped in an icy mantle that gives the appearance of but of dazzling whiteness. With the addition of the ice palace lately erected at Montreal, the scene would be a perfect winter paradise. Hundreds of people have already explored all the accessible points of interest. From the foot of the railway a path has been "blazed" across to the Canadian shore by means of evergreens planted where the surface is smooth. It is a common sight on a fair day to see a dozen people crossing the gorge, and clambering the bank beyond to the Queen's possessions. From the Canadian side near the Clifton house the view is unsurpassed. At the sunset hour, when the cloud of mist overhanging the cataract is pierced by the rays of the setting sun, the effect is sublime.

A FOREST OF CORAL.

"The Schools Have Ruined my Child."

So say many thoughtless parents, led by equally thoughtless medical men. So said a sorrowing father recently. "My daughther is completely paralyzed," said he; "she cannot speak plainly; she cannot raise her hand, and I blame the school for it. So does the doctor." Knowing that she had been entirely excused from home work for about two years, that she was 14 years of age and yet only in the junior third book, I knew that her school work could not possibly have injured any healthy child of her years. Enquiry showed clearly that she was born with a nervous system prone to disease, that she had been subject to St. Vitus' dance, that in fact she should never have been sent to public school at all. Notwithstanding these facts the intelligent medical man instead of prescribing open air exercise and proper food, allowed the child to be sent to school, raised no objection when the piano was brought and the poor girl set "to practise," looked helplessly on and drew his fees as family physician while the weak system gradually became unfeebled, and when it finally gave way owing to his neglect or ignorance, he with questionable honesty tried to blame the school. She was undoubtedly one of them. It was a great wrong to allow her to go, and the family physician was responsible for the wrong. He was also guilty of deception and injustice when he tried to shoulder his own responsibility on the school.—Canada School Journal.

A Perilous Journey.

The mail service between Lachine and Caughnawaga is very irregular this winter. The mails are carried by Indians in canoes, who suit their own convenience. Mr. Walbank, C. E., went over to Caughnawaga on Saturday morning to inspect his surveyors who are at work there. This morning, at the time given in the table, Mr. Walbank went to the wharf but found no boat, and having some very important business to attend to in Montreal, it was absolutely necessary to cross. After waiting about an hour in vain Constable Lefort offered to row Mr. Walbank to Lachine, and they both started off. Everything went well until they got within about an acre of the side, when they got completely hemmed in with floating ice. Every attempt to get back was made, but in vain, and they drifted down the river at full speed for about two and a half miles, and had made up their minds that they would be swept into the rapids. A large piece of ice passed and Mr. Walbank jumped on it, and Constable Lefort followed, by which means they managed to reach shore in safety.—Montreal Witness.

SLAIN BY A BEAR.

The Rev. Mr. Mills, a clergyman settled in the district, being in town to-day, we have verbally obtained an account of a sad occurrence that took place on the Madawaska last fall. Mr. John Dennison, trapper, who lived on the Big Opeongo Lake, took his grandson with him one afternoon to examine his traps across the lake. After crossing the water the old man walked ahead of the boy into the woods. They had not gone far when the boy heard his grandfather calling to him not to come further but to go back across the lake. Obeying the warning, the lad took the canoe and paddled the homeward course through a storm so great that it seems miraculous how he ever reached home. His father and a hired man at once returned with the lad to the place where he had parted from the old man. It was night when they arrived on the scene, and there was no response to the shouts and firing of guns with which they tried to apprise the missing man of succor if he was yet within reach of it. They therefore awaited daylight, resting in the bush, when it came they found the body of Mr. Denison lying beside a log, bearing the marks of having been killed by a stroke of the bear's paw. It was also discovered that they had themselves a narrow escape, having in their search of the previous night come within ten feet of the bear's resting place. The thoughtfulness for others exhibited in the man's ordering his grandson away while he was possibly in the death agony himself was worthy of a hero.—Witness.

A Valley of Death.

A valley surpassing in reality of horrors the fabled region of the upas tree, has been discovered in the Island of Java. This island is volcanic, and in one spot the emanations from the interior of the earth are so deadly that the place is called the Valley of Death. As the traveller approaches it he is attacked with nausea and giddiness. He also notices a suffocating smell. As he advances these symtoms disappear, so that, after passing through the belt of fetid air which guards the valley, the visitor is able to examine with less risk the spectacle before him. A recent traveller describes the valley as being an oval of about one mile in circumference, and about thirty to forty feet below the level the surrounding land. The flour of the valley is flat, dry, without any vegetation, and scattered all over it are the skeletons of men, tigers, wild boars, birds and stags, lying among large blocks of stone. No stream or smoke is to be seen, nor any crevice apparent in the earth, which appear to be as hard as rock. The hills which hem in this valley of desolation are clothed from base to summit with healthy trees and bushes. The traveller whom we have quoted descended the side of one hill, with the aid of a bamboo stick, to about eighteen feet from the bottom, and he compelled a dog to go down to the plain. In five seconds the animal fell on its side motionless although it continued to breathe for eighteen minutes. Another dog died in ten minutes; a fowl only resisted the deadly air for a minute and a half, and was dead before he reached the bottom. It is believed that the human skeletons are those of malefactors who have sought refuge here ignorant of the fatal influence of the air they came to breathe. The neighboring mountains are volcanic, but they neither emit sulphurous odors, nor do they present any indication of recent eruption.

Lord Wolseley on Success.

The following letter from Lord Wolseley, addressed to the children of Woodville National School, was read at a children's entertainment:—

Dear Sir,—I hope your children's entertainment will be a complete success. Please tell them from me that I believe success in life is within the reach of all who set before them an aim and an ambition that is not beyond the talents and ambitions that God has bestowed upon them. We should all begin life with a determination to do well whatever we take in hand, and if that determination be adhered to, with the pluck for which Englishmen are renowned, success according to the quality and nature of our brain power, I think, a certainty. Had I begun life as a tinker my earnest endeavor would have been to have made better pots and pans than my neighbors, and I think I may venture to say, without any vanity, that with God's blessing I should have been fairly successful. The first step on the ladder that leads to success is the firm determination to succeed; the next is the possession of that moral and physical courage which will enable one to mount up, rung after rung, until the top is reached. The best men make a false step now and then, and some have even very bad falls. The weak and puling cry over their misfortunes and seek for the sympathy of others, and do nothing further after their first or second failure; but the plucky and courageous pick themselves without a groan over their broken bones or their first failures, and set to work to mount the ladder again, full of confidence in themselves and with faith in the results that always attend upon cheerful perseverence. Please wish the children 'A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.' From yours faithfully, "WOLSELEY."

How to Warm Cold Feet.

People who write or sew all day, or rather those who take but little exercise, may warm their cold feet without going to the fire. All that is necessary is to stand erect and very gradually to lift one's self up upon the tips of the toes, so as to put all the tendons of the foot at full strain. This is not to hop or to jump up or down, but simply to rise—the slower the better—upon tiptoe, and to remain standing on the point of the toes as long as possible, then gradually coming to the natural position. Repeat this several times, and by the amount of work the tips of the toes are made to do, in sustaining the body's weight, a sufficient and lively circulation is set up. Even the half frozen car driver can carry this plan out. It is one rule of the "Swedish movement" system, and, as motion warmth is much better than fire warming, persons who suffer with cold feet at night can try this plan just before retiring to rest.

SMITH MEDICINE CO—Gentlemen.—I have made a trial of one box of Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy, with such good effect that I have no hesitation in recommending it to the public as a prompt and reliable medicine. In fact, those who use it once will always do it. Yours truly J. Harvie, 172 Cadieux street, Montreal.

WITH every bottle of Dr. Carson's Pulmonary Cough Drops, a sample bottle is given free of charge. If, after using the trial bottle, you are not satisfied with its effect, you can return the large bottle to your dealer, who will refund the money. Thousands can testify to its prompt action in curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis etc. If you suffer, try them. Price 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

IT is not generally known, says the Amherstburg Echo, that when Tom Moore, the Irish poet, was in Canada he travelled down the Detroit river and along the northern shore of Lake Erie in his canoe. One time he was overtaken by darkness when opposite Joseph Scratch's farm, Gosfield. He landed, pitched his tent, lit a fire, and remained there all night. Of course Mr. Scratch, Sr., pressed him hospitably to come to his house, but the poet preferred camping out.

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

NEVER GIVE UP. If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a billious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & Macdonald.

Speculation.

"J. S., Jr.," writes to inform us that on the 18th of September last past he was induced by a circular he had received to send twenty-five dollars to a New York stock broker for investment. He received a receipt for the money, but although he has written he has had no word from the broker since. He concludes by asking us what we would advise him to do. Our advice is, that "J. S., Jr.," carefully make a note of the facts in his diary—the almanac will do if he does not keep a diary—paste the circular up in a prominent place in his bedroom, be thankful that he has lost no more than twenty-five dollars, and for the rest of his days give circular-writing New York brokers a very wide berth.—Globe.

FITS A Leading London Physician establishes an office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS.

From Am. Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. MESEROLE, No. 96 John St., New York.

THE
PACIFIC NORTHWEST!
Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R. R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

POLICE COURT.

PRESENTING A REVOLVER.

MONDAY, January 29th, 1883.—Goldwin English, of Warsaw, charged Henry Bell, a County Constable with presenting a revolver at his wife, Margaret English, at Warsaw, on the 9th of January.

Mr. Kidd of Dummer appeared for the defendant.

It appeared from the evidence of the complainant and his wife that the defendant, Bell, was at the house of complainant and for the purpose of serving him with a summons in a liquor case, and meeting with some opposition, and being ordered out of the house, he drew his revolver and said to Mrs. English that he would "blow her d——n brains out," and then left. It also appeared that there had been bad feelings previous to this between the English and Bell families, resulting in several cases before County Magistrates. Mary Jane Wylie, a domestic, employed at English's Hotel, gave unimportant evidence, as she did not hear or see anything that took place.

The Magistrate dismissed the case, as the evidence of the witnesses did not bear out the facts, as alleged in the information. Costs $4.65 to be paid by complainant.

Personal.

The Rev. A. H. Newman, M. A., of the Baptist College, Toronto, occupied the pulpit in the Baptist Church on Sunday, morning and evening, and delivered impressive discourses to large congregations.

Endowment.

Mr. Sandford Fleming, C. E., signalled his re-election to the Chancellorship of Queen's College, Kingston, by making various grants to the new endowment and other funds, amounting probably to $3,000.

The Weather Probabilities.

The weather continues moderate. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Light to moderate winds; generally fair weather; very little change in temperature.

A Heavy Stone.

Some very heavy loads of stone have been weighed lately on the market scales, but the heaviest weight was reached on Saturday, when a solid block of stone, drawn by Mr. T. Dickson's team, was brought in which weighed 8,020 pounds, exclusive of the sleigh on which it was drawn. This stone was brought from the Warsaw quarry for the Ontario and Quebec railway.

BIG FIRE IN HASTINGS.

ANOTHER DESTRUCTIVE CONFLAGRATION VISITS THE VILLAGE.

The Woollen Mill and Cotton Mill Destroyed—The Bridge Slightly Damaged—Loss and Insurance—An Accident.

Before the village of Hastings had recovered from the conflagration that laid waste the village on the 11th of May last, it has again been visited by a very destructive fire. Although the present visitation was not so disastrous in its results as the previous one, it was one that will materially effect the business of the village.

At an early hour on Saturday morning the woollen mill and cotton mill on the south side of the bridge took fire and were totally consumed. The alarm was given by the blowing of whistles at 5.45 o'clock, and the villagers quickly answered the summons, but the fire had gained such headway that all their efforts were futile. The large stone buildings, with all the machinery and stock which they contained, except a few pieces of cloth which were in the office of the woollen mill, were totally consumed.

The efforts of the volunteer fire brigade were directed towards saving the bridge, which was only about five feet from the burning buildings. These efforts were successful, for although the structure became ignited, and was slightly burned, it was not materially damaged.

During the fire, as the wind was blowing from the south east, the embers were carried across the river into the village, and fell on the houses and in the streets in all parts of the village, but the recent snow fall aided in preventing the sparks from doing damage. Had the wind been from the north the elevators would doubtless have been burned. The origin of the fire is not known. The watchman says that he made his usual rounds, and a gentleman who passed the mills a short time before the alarm was given saw no flames. It is, however, supposed that the fire originated through some mishap around the stove in the fulling room.

This fire will be a heavy loss to the village. The mills were the largest industry in Hastings, and Mr. Peters had had the woollen mill fitted up in first-class style. He had expended a large amount of money in it, and was just begining to get some return for the outlay. He had enough orders ahead for goods to keep the mill running for six months, and had $2,500 worth of stock ready to be finished. His loss will amount to about $3,500 on machinery and $4,500 on stock, on which he had an insurance of $2,000 in the Gore Mutual. The buildings were owned by the Fowlds Brothers, and were valued at between $12,000 and $15,000, and insured for $5,500 in the Royal. Fowlds Brothers also had about $2,000 worth of machinery in the mills, on which there was an insurance of $500. The total loss will therefore amount to about $25,000, and this is met by only $8,000 of insurance.

This fire is another evidence of the urgent necessity for every village having adequate fire protections, and with the experience that Hastings has had it is surprising that it has not before this made some provision for protecting the property in the village from the flames.

AN ACCIDENT.

While the fire was in progress on Saturday morning, a serious accident occurred. Mr. T. Sullivan was driving across the bridge, and his horse became frightened at the fire and sped across at a furious rate. Mr. Richard King was driving ahead of him in a cutter, which contained, besides himself, his wife and a man named McCracken. The frightened horse jumped into the cutter in front of it, smashing both vehicles and very seriously injuring Mrs. King. The other occupants of the rigs escaped almost miraculously.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a. m. 30° above zero; at noon 30°, and at 3 p. m., 30° above.

Anniversary Services.

Special sermons were preached in the George Street Methodist Church on Sunday in connection with the anniversary of the Sunday School of that church. At the morning service the Rev. Mr. Shaw preached a sermon especially to the children, and the singing by the pupils was greatly admired. At the evening service the Rev. Mr. Manning delivered a discourse especially to the parents. A meeting will be held this evening, at which addresses will be delivered.

The Blood Stanching Weed.

During the French expedition to Mexico, General Martroy was informed by a native that a plant grew in his district which was largely used in the domestic surgery of the Mexicans, and he advised the General to lay in a stock of it for use in the French camp. It goes by the name of "the blood-stanching weed"—the exact native word has not been placed on record. This plant has the property, when applied, after being chewed or crushed, of almost instantly arresting the flow of blood from a wound. General Martroy brought home some specimens of this plant to France, and cultivated it in his garden at Varsailles, where it has thriven excellently ever since, blossoms every year, and produces a sort of fruit. Meanwhile its transplantation to European soil has not robbed it of the quality for which it was originally recommended to its introducer. Its recognized botanical name is Tradescantian erecta. Although it is quite the reverse of an ornamental plant, and is not distinguished by any beauty of shape or color in its flowers, it fully deserves, if we may trust our informant, to be widely cultivated on account of its rare medical value. The practicability of its acclimatization is now placed beyond all doubt. Its effect in stanching bleeding is said to surpass all means hitherto applied to this purpose, and it is in many cases to be procurred cheapily and easily. Experiments have been made with it in Vienna, and the Neue Freie Presse of that city advises its regular cultivation for medical use.—London Globe.

Mr. LANG presented the following report of the committee on Roads and Bridges:—

The Committee on Roads and Bridges beg leave to report:—

1. That no action be taken with reference to the proposed bridge between Ennismore and Harvey at Gannon's.
2. That Mr. Stewart, Deputy-Reeve of Otonabee, have the approaches to the Wallace Point bridge repaired, and that such work be done, if possible, in conjunction with the Reeve of South Monaghan, as each county is, according to the Act, liable for one-half of the cost of the same.
3. That no action be taken with reference to the proposed bridge across the Otonabee river at Ross's, unless the Municipality of South Monaghan become annexed to the County of Peterborough.
4. That Mr. Griffin be notified by the Clerk to refund to the County Treasurer all moneys of the county in his hands, and to deliver to the County Engineer all county plant in his possession.
5. That Mr. Brown, Reeve of Belmont, be appointed commissioner for the Deer River Bridge in place of Mr. Burgess.
6. That the sum of fifty (50) dollars be granted to the municipalities of Burleigh, Harvey, Belmont and Galway, for expenditure on the roads in these municipalities, and that the Reeves of the several municipalities be the commissioners for the expenditure of the same.
7. With regard to the application of the Reeve of Galway for a special grant on the Bobcaygeon road, your committee cannot recommend that any grant be made.
8. That Mr. Collins be appointed a member of the committee for the Nassau and Locks bridges.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN LANG,
Chairman.

January 26th, 1883.

Mr. LANG moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. MANSFIELD moved, seconded by Mr. OLIVER,—That the report be not adopted, but that it be referred back to the committee with instructions to add one hundred dollars to be spent on the Bobcaygeon road south of Kinmount, on condition that the County of Victoria grant a like amount.

The amendment was lost, and the report adopted.

BY-LAWS.

By-laws were passed confirming the report of the Finance Committee, and the last clause of the report of the Road and Bridge Committee.

MEMORIALS.

On motion of Mr. STEWART, memorials to the Ontario Government were passed with reference to the qualification of school teachers; the supply of the Statutes to local municipalities; and with reference to compelling railways to provide proper crossings; and to the Dominion in favour of the establishment of a railway commission.

THE HOUSE OF REFUGE.

On motion of Mr. STRICKLAND, the committee with reference to the proposed House of Refuge was continued.

COMPLIMENTARY.

Mr. BURNHAM moved, seconded by Mr. STRICKLAND,—That this Council hereby express their appreciation of the very able manner in which the late Warden, Mr. Collins, performed his duties while in office.

After complimentary remarks in support of the motion by Messrs. Burnham, Strickland and Pearce, the motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. COLLINS returned thanks for this expression of the approbation of the manner in which he had discharged the duties of Warden during the past year.

The Council then adjourned.

A SURE THING!

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. Nothing slighted,—except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS OF CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcule which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widely increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

Is a specific remedy for neuralgia, ague, indigestion, fevers of every kind, chest affections, and in wasting diseases, scrofulous tendencies, &c. The whole frame is greatly invigorated by Pepper's Tonic, the mental faculties brightened, the constitution greatly strengthened, and a return to robust health certain. Bottles, 32 doses, 4s. 6d.; next size, 11s. Sold by chemists everywhere. The name of J. Pepper, Bedford Laboratory, London, must be on the label. There is no Tonic so certain in effect as Pepper's Quinine and Iron. It is strongly recommended to residents in India and the Colonies, and should always be kept ready for use in every case of fever or febrile condition.

TARAXACUM and PODOPHYLLIN.—Prepared only by J. Pepper, London. This Fluid combination, extracted from medicinal roots, is now used instead of blue pill and calomel for the cure of dyspepsia, billiousness, and all symptoms of congestion of the liver, which are generally pain beneath the shoulders, head-ache, drowsiness, no appetite, furred tongue, disagreeable taste in the morning, giddiness, disturbance of the stomach, and feeling of general depression. It sets the sluggish liver in motion, very slightly acts on the bowels, giving a sense of health and comfort within 24 hours. It is the safest medicine. Taraxacum and Podophyllin is a fluid made only by J. PEPPER, Bedford Laboratory, London, whose name is on every label. Bottles, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Sold by all Chemists. A most valuable and essential medicine for India, Australia, the Cape, and Colonies generally.

BELLEVILLE.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—The Intelligencer says that shortly after nine o'clock on Friday night John Ganey attempted to traverse the space between earth and eternity by hanging himself. His designs were frustrated, however, and an officer having been sent for, he was taken to the station.

FENELON FALLS.

BLASTING ACCIDENT.—The Gazette says that on Thursday evening, while three employees on the canal were engaged in the dangerous task of enlarging a hole in which the dualin had missed fire, the charge suddenly exploded, and Peter Juneah, a Frenchman who was holding the drill, had both his hands badly burned and lacerated. His two companions and another man were slightly injured.

The Young Men's Vote.

The Toronto Evening Canadian says: "Those journals which, like the Hamilton Times, appeal to the young men of our towns and cities to vote for Mr. Mowat, would be better employed in explaining why Mr. Mowat placed a badge of inferiority upon said young men by so fixing the franchise that they have no voice in public affairs, while farmers' sons have. Any young man who can grow enthusiastic for a party which has treated him thus must be a very young man indeed.

An Extraordinary Family.

A despatch from Buffalo says a Scoharie correspondent reports that a curious human family is living near that place. The family consists of eight or nine children. One of them, aged 14, weighing only fourteen pounds, died a few days ago, and another weighing twenty pounds is sixteen years of age. There are two others in which similar malformation exists. Their heads, hands and feet are enormous in proportion to the rest of the body, and food has to be placed in their mouths when they eat.

Unadulterated "Cheek."

That anyone should ask a gentleman in the care for whom an article of dress was intended, seems almost incredible. Yet some people are even brazen-faced enough for that, as the following despatch from Pittsburg proves: "Freddie Gebhardt passed through here this morning. He said he was on his way to Nashville, where Mrs. Langtry opens on Monday night. Freddie had on the seat beside him a splendid seal-skin sacque, but refused to say for whom it was intended."

A Prediction.

About three years ago a Chicago newspaper printed under flaming headlines a long and detailed account of the burning of the Newhall House the night before, with a frightful loss of life. The article was a hoax, and closed with a sentence explaining that the horrible calamity which it graphically portrayed was liable to occur at any time. E. B. Northrop, a well-known newspaper man, now of St. Paul, was the author of the hoax, and always declared that the time would come when his article would be regarded in the light of a prediction.

A Novel Confidence Game.

A Charlotte despatch says:—For some time there has been a party of gipsies camped near here, among them several fortune tellers. This afternoon an officer from Marshall arrived with a warrant for the arrest of one of them, a woman named Smith, who swindled a Calhoun county farmer out of $2,000. She told him there was a fortune on his farm, and he not believing it she offered to bet him $2,000, the money to be placed in a room and locked up. The bargain being agreed to the money was deposited and she left, to be gone ten days, then to return and show him where the money was buried. At the end of that time, as she had not been heard from, he went to look at the money and found it gone. No trace was found of the thief until she was heard from at Charlotte.

HORSE SENSE.

The three horses connected with engine company No. 12, Bostadd Highlands, are handsome animals and as noted for their remarkable intelligence as for their fine appearance. Under the care of the members, the horses have become very tractable, and are obedient to the slightest word or gesture. A few mornings ago some evidences of their understanding were witnessed, and are well worth detailing. One horse, "Charlie," had received no food since the night previous, and, when he was given his morning's supply of oats, he began eating them with great zest, but the words, "Charlie, come here," spoken in a low tone from the rear of the stable, caused him instantly to stop eating his tempting breakfast, and to back from his stall and walk to the person calling him. Each of the horses did the same thing without hesitancy, and at the command "go back," each trotted to his stall. The harnesses were removed from the horses and each one was told in succession to go put on his collar. The collars were placed on end, so that the heads could go through, and each horse walked deliberately across the floor and wriggled his head into his collar without the slightest aid. After this they poked their heads into their bridles, which were held for them, each horse opening his mouth and taking his bit voluntarily. The main part of the harness can be hung in any part of the room with the assurance that at the word of command the horses will walk to the exact spot and place themselves in such a position that the harnesses can be readily dropped into place. The endeavors of the animals to secure a position favorable to the easy adjustment of the collars almost compels one to believe that they are endowed with reason.—Boston Herald.

An Applicable Omen.

One of the timely papers in the Antiquary for December is Mr. G. B. Leathom's historical article on Christmas, in which he quotes from the Harleian MS. an omen applicable to this year:

If Christmas on a Monday be,
A great winter that year you'll see.
And full of winds both loud and shrill;
But in the summer, truth to tell,
Stern winds shall then be and strong,
Full of tempests lasting long.
While battles they shall multiply,
And great plenty of beasts shall die.
They that be born that day, I ween,
They shall be strong each one and keen;
He shall be found that stealeth ought;
Though thou be sick thou diest not.

THE LAKFIELD DAM—THE RECORD FALSIFIED.

THE annual report of Mr. Blezard's "able" Commissioner of Public Works for the Province for the year 1882, is now before us and contains the following with regard to the Lakefield Dam, and which we have no doubt will prove amusing as well as interesting reading to those of our readers who are familiar with the facts as they are and not as they are put forth in this "able" report:—

"In the early part of present year, the Department was notified that in accordance with an injunction granted by the Court of Chancery, Messrs. R. & G. Strickland intended lowering the dam at Lakefield 32 inches below the height it had been kept for a number of years, unless the Government would purchase the structure for the sum of $3,000, grant them several unreasonable privileges, and assume all responsibility regarding the height at which it had been so maintained. If the dam were lowered as above mentioned, the river between Lakefield and Young's Point would not be navigable, and this would cause serious loss and inconvenience to parties residing or having business above Lakefield, there being no railway communication north of that point. I therefore, pursuant to instructions, at once proceeded to the locality in order to make an examination and report on the probable value of the structure, but, upon my arrival found the water was then too high to admit of such being satisfactorily accomplished. I acquainted Messrs. Strickland of this fact, and made an arrangement for the Department to assume temporary control until an examination could be made, the Government to be responsible in the meantime for the height of water maintained.

The "necessary examination was made later on in the season, and the sum of one thousand dollars and an undertaking on the part of the Province to permanently maintain the dam at the height at which it had previously been kept, were offered Messrs. Strickland for their interest in the structure, but this was refused. It was then decided to assume the dam on behalf of the Province under the "Public Works Act," and proceedings were commenced accordingly. While these proceedings were pending, the Department was informed that the Dominion Government had decided that the dam was required in connection with the Trent Valley Canal scheme, and consequently that the last mentioned Government had made arrangements with Messrs. Strickland, and had taken control of the work. While under the temporary charge of this Department, it was necessary to make several repairs and improvements thereon as follows:—

"The cap-piece of the dam was torn off and carried away by the high water, this was replaced as soon as possible, and in order to keep the river above navigable, the dam for its entire length was bracketted twenty inches in height. The slide was also supplied with one new stop-log, and new windlasses and frames and the stop-log platform repaired.

"In order to make the above repairs, it was necessary to bracket the dam at Young's Point, which, owing to the high water, was not only a dangerous, but also an expensive undertaking.

"A new boom was also constructed and placed in the river to prevent the brackets or dam from being injured by logs, flood-wood or timber. The boom is two feet in width, keyed with oak keys and well bolted together with one inch bolts. It extends from the end of the pier at the slide opening, to a pier which was constructed on the river bank, the total length being 425 feet. It is anchored in four different places, with rocks attached to the ends of chains and is secured to the piers at both ends. The pier constructed on the shore is 8 feet square, and is compactly filled with stone.

"As this work was not contemplated when the Estimates for the present year were being made out, no provision was made for it, and as the appropriation for maintenance was not sufficient to cover the cost, an over expenditure could not be avoided."

Upon the foregoing we have to observe that it was not in the beginning of 1882, but in the beginning of 1880—just two years before—that Mr. Fraser's attention was called to this dam by a joint deputation from the County Council and the village of Lakefield, and we would respectfully remind the same gentleman that he promised that deputation to have the matter examined and reported upon during the season of 1880. An election, however, not coming off in either 1880 or 1881, Mr. Blezard's "able" commissioner, and the "able" representative from East Peterborough allowed the matter to sleep until the Dominion elections of 1882 were on hand. Then, and not till then, could they be brought to see that "serious loss and inconvenience" was being entailed on the people interested in this line of navigation by their criminal neglect. As soon, however, as votes were wanted, this able commissioner, and our able representative, made a show of doing something in the interests of navigation, and did something substantial (with the people's money) in the way of influencing votes in the June elections, but as soon as these were over the humbuging process was re-adopted, no doubt with the view of delaying matters until the elections of 1883 were to the fore, notwithstanding that as a consequence the interests of navigation were thereby seriously interfered with.

Happily these interests are not dependent upon Mr. Blezard and his able commissioner alone; they are now in the hands of a government which takes more thought for the interests of the people than for devising schemes to steal or injure the property of a political opponent, and to gain votes for the party.

Having falsified the record, the reader will not be surprised that this able commissioner shows his teeth against the Messrs. Strickland, because they were not pleased to accept his ipsi dixit with regard to the value of their property, and were not disposed to accept the same compensation, after his electioneering tactics had compelled them to move their mill, as they would have done before. Of course, in the estimation of Mr. Blezard and his able commissioner, Messrs. R. and G. Strickland demanded "several unreasonable privileges" when they expected to be treated in a business fashion by Mr. Fraser and his officials, and at the same time expected to be allowed the very "unreasonable privilege" of voting against Mr. Fraser and his political friends.

New Factory.

The contracts for the erection of a large factory on St. Antoine street for Messrs. George Barrington & Son, the well-known manufacturers of trunks, bags, valises, etc., Notre Dame street, were given out this week from the office of Messrs. Fowler & Bowe, architects, who prepared the plans and specifications. The building throughout will be of the most substantial construction, the walls being of brick with stone foundation. The frontage toward St. Antoine street is divided by stone and brick piers, with horizontal bands of white brick, having an ornamental tower for flag-staff above the main corner. The ground floor contains the offices, which are lighted with plate glass windows. The principal entrance to the main building in rear also is placed on St. Antoine street. The factory in rear is about 200 feet long with a wing about 68 feet long, in the shape of an inverted L, being three floors in height with a basement. Fire escapes are also provided for. When complete the structure will be one of the most convenient in the city for manufacturing purposes, as light is provided for on all sides.—Montreal Witness.

Liability of Church Wardens.

In the latter part of November a statement was published to the effect that Mr. Renshaw, lumber merchant, had taken proceedings to recover the amount of certain promissory notes made by Dr. J. F. T. Jenkins and Mr. G. L. Wight, and signed by them as the church Wardens of St. Judge's Church, that designation being appended to their names. The issue involved was mentioned as an interesting one that had yet to be decided in the courts, being the question as to whether church wardens were personally liable for obligations contracted purely in their official capacity. The church wardens named retained Mr. W. A. Weir, of the firm of Messrs. Quinn & Weir, who gave them an opinion to the effect that they were personally liable for the amounts of the notes signed as described, the addition of their official designation to their signatures not availing to relieve them of their personal responsibility. In accordance with that advice, the wardens have settled with Mr. Renshaw, but will of course, be reimbursed by St. Jude's Church.—Witness.

A Centralizing Policy.

The Toronto Telegram says:—"The Conservatives in the Local Legislature have made their case in regard to centralization of power by the Provincial Government as strong as possible. It is clear that they have some ground for the charge that the Government has taken powers from the municipalities which the municipalities would have preferred to keep, such as the issuing of liquor licenses. The fact that the Government has erred in this direction weakens its own charges against the Dominion Government of encroaching on the rights of the provinces.

Brooklyn Eagle.

AN EX-CONSUL'S STORY.

To the Editor of the Brooklyn Eagle:

A late United States Consul at one of the English inland ports, who is now a private resident of New York, relates the following interesting story. He objects, for private reasons, to having his name published, but authorizes the writer to substantiate his statement, and, if necessary, to refer to him, in his private capacity, any person seeking such reference. Referring to his wishes, I hereby present his statement, in almost the exact language in which he gave it to me.

C. M. FARMER,
1,690 Third Avenue, New York.

"'On my last voyage home from England, some three years ago, in one of the Cunard steamers, I noticed one morning, after a few days out of port, a young man hobbling about on the upper deck, supported by crutches and seeming to move with extreme difficulty and no little pain. He was well dressed and of exceedingly handsome countenance, but his limbs were somewhat emaciated and his face very sallow, and bore the traces of long suffering. As he seemed to have no attendant or companion, he at once attracted my sympathies, and I went up to him as he leaned against the taffrail looking out on the foaming track which the steamer was making.'

"'Excuse me, my young friend,' I said, touching him gently on the shoulder; "you appear to be an invalid and hardly able or strong enough to trust yourself unattended on an ocean voyage; but if you require any assistance, I am a robust and healthy man and shall be glad to help you.'

"'You are very kind,' he replied, in a weak voice; 'but I require no present aid beyond my crutches, which enable me to pass from my state room up here to get the benefit of the sunshine and the sea breeze.'

"'You have been a great sufferer, no doubt,' I said, 'and I judge that you have been afflicted with that most troublesome disease—rheumatism; whose prevalence and intensity seem to be on an alarming increase both in England and America.'

"'You are right,' he answered; 'I have been its victim for more than a year, and after failing to find relief from medical skill have lately tried the Springs of Carlsbad and Vichy. But they have done me no good, and I am now on my return home to Missouri to die, I suppose. I shall be content if life is spared me to reach my mother's presence. She is a widow and I am her only child.'

"There was a pathos in his speech which affected me profoundly and awakened in me a deeper sympathy than I had felt before. I had no words to answer him, and stood silently beside him watching the snowy wake of the ship. While thus standing my thought reverted to a child—a ten-year-old boy—of a neighbor of mine residing near my consulate residence, who had been cured of a stubborn case of rheumatism by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, and I remembered that the steward of the ship had told me the day before that he had cured himself of a very severe attack of the gout in New York just before his last voyage by the use of the same remedy. I at once left my young friend and went below to find the steward. I not only found him off duty, but discovered that he had a bottle of the Oil in his locker, which he had carried across the ocean in case of another attack. He readily parted with it on my representation, and, hurrying up again, I soon persuaded the young man to allow me to take him to his berth and apply the remedy. After doing so I covered him up snugly in bed and requested him not to get up until I should see him again. That evening I returned to his stateroom and found him sleeping peacefully and breathing gently. I roused him and inquired how he felt. 'Like a new man,' he answered, with a grateful smile. 'I feel no pain and am able to stretch my limbs without difficulty. I think I'll get up.' 'No, don't get up to-night,' I said, 'but let me rub you again with the Oil, and in the morning you will be much better able to go about.' 'All right,' he said, laughing. I then applied the Oil again, rubbing his knees, ankles and arms thoroughly, until he said he felt as if he had a mustard poultice all over his body. I then left him. The next morning when I went up on deck for a breezy promenade, according to my custom, I found my patient waiting for me with a smiling face, and without his crutches, although he limped in his movements, but without pain. I don't think I ever felt so happy in my life. To make a long story short, I attended him closely during the rest of our voyage—some four days—applying the Oil every night, and guarding him against too much exposure to the fresh and damp spring breezes, and on landing at New York he was able, without assistance, to mount the hotel omnibus and go to the Astor House. I called on him two days later, and found him actually engaged in packing his trunk, preparatory to starting West for his home, that evening. With a bright and grateful smile he welcomed me, and pointing to a little box, carefully done up in thick brown paper, which stood upon the table, he said: "My good friend, can you guess what that is?' 'A present for your sweetheart,' I answered. 'No,' he laughed—'that is a dozen bottles of St. Jacobs Oil which I have just purchased from Hudnut, the druggist across the way, and I am taking them home to show my good mother what has saved her son's life and restored him to her in health. And with it, I would like to carry you along also, to show her the face of him without whom I should probably never have tried it. If you should ever visit the little village of Sedalia, in Missouri, Charlie Townsend and his mother will welcome you to their little home, with hearts full of gratitude, and they will show you a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil enshrined in a silver and gold casket, which we shall keep as a parlor ornament as well as memento of our meeting on the Cunard steamer.'

"We parted, after an hour's pleasant chat with mutual good-will and esteem, and a few weeks afterward I received a letter from him telling me he was in perfect health and containing many graceful expressions of his affectionate regards.

MACFARLANE WILSON.

A PECULIAR CASE.

A Question of Intervention—A Story of Embezzlement.

An interesting judgment has been rendered in the Court of Appeals in the case of Evans & Riddell, Hannan intervening. The facts of the original case before the Supreme Court are as follows: A young man named Trotter was formerly employed by the firm of Evans & Riddell, in which both the appellant and respondent were partners. One of the partners withdrew and handed over his share to the other. Trotter while in the employ of the firm embezzled five or six thousand dollars and then went to the Cape of Good Hope, where he entered the service of Hannan & Company, the intervening parties. There he forged a number of drafts, and from the money raised upon them he transmitted to a third party in Montreal a sum sufficient to pay what he owed Messrs. Evans and Riddell, and instructed his agent to make restitution of the money. Each of the parties claimed the money for himself, and finally a law suit arose, and the Superior Court decided in favour of the respondent. In argument it appeared that Hannan & Co. were called upon to pay the bills forged by Trotter. They alleged that they had paid these drafts and instituted an action against Trotter, and had seized the money in the hands of Butler. They asked that the money be declared not to belong either to Evans or Riddell, because it was the proceeds of the forged drafts which they had been obliged to pay. They asked to intervene between Evans and Riddell, and petitioned that proceedings be suspended on the appeal and the record transmitted to the Court below, in order that they might have the whole thing decided there. Hannan certainly had interest sufficient to intervene in the Superior Court, but whether it would entitle him to intervene in appeal was another question. In view of the fact, however, that Hannan's interest in the case was large and clearly proved, the Court would grant him permission to intervene and suspend proceedings.—Montreal Witness.

MOHAMMEDAN CONVERTS.

In the Krishnagar district, Bengal, a movement has occurred among the Mohammedans which gives much promise. A respectable Mussulman some time ago professed conversion and was baptized, but he afterwards yielded to the bitter persecution of his friends, and recanted. His fall was a sad blow to the mission, and the triumph of Mohammedans was great. But the spirit of inquiry grew in intensity, and in July last four Mussulmans belonging to the tribe of the man who fell away were baptized. The Rev. A. Clifford, of the Church Missionary Society, writes: "Great efforts were made to prevent them. From the time the converts' intention was made public, all laborers were forbidden to work for them. At the ghat and in the roads ridicule and reproach were heaped upon them, doggerel verses full of law abuse were composed by the village poet, and two nights before the baptisms one of their houses was set on fire. The owner, with three other Christians who were staying with him, managed to extinguish the fire before much damage was done. Although a large crowd of Mohammedans were present and were entreated to assist, only two of them gave a helping hand. Relying upon God, the converts stuck boldly to their purpose.

"The police came to inquire about the origin of the fire, but as all the villagers banded together to give false evidence, and as we did not wish to press the case, nothing resulted from it. A great moral victory, however, was gained in connection with the inquiry. All the leading Mussulmans were called to give their opinion, and they lied so persistently that they disgraced themselves, not only in our eyes but also in their own. As they are men who make some profession of religion, and were at the time keeping the great fast, they felt they the disgrace keenly, and afterwards came to us to ask for pardon. The sincerity of their repentance was proved by their removing the ban which had been laid upon the converts. Within a week after the baptisms laborers were again allowed to work for them, and our brothers had begun to receive from the rest of the villagers the respect which their social position entitled them to."

HOW MUCH SHOULD WE EAT?

How, asked Dr. Nicholls in the Food Reform Magazine, are we to get at the proper quantity of food? Animals living in a state of nature do not over eat themselves. They stop eating when they have enough. There are no prize cattle on the prairies. It is the stalled ox, and the pig in his pen, deprived of exercise, that can be fattened into a diseased obesity. Horses escape this process because men do not, to any great extent, knowingly devour them. The hunter and racer are not over-fed. All animals expected to do their work are carefully fed as to quality and quantity. If human beings were fed as wisely, they would be as healthy.

There are some good rules for feeding as to quantity. When our food is simple and natural in kind and quality and mode of preparation, there is little danger of eating too much. There is little danger, for example, of eating too many grapes, apples, pears, or bananas. Salt, sugar, spices and luxurious cookery tempt to excess. With men, as with animals, a natural diet is self-limited, and we are disposed to stop when we have got enough. The more artificial the food, the more elaborate the feast, the more liability to overload the stomach, overtask the digestive powers, and overweigh the forces of life. Simplicity of food is a condition of health and promotes longevity. The quantity of food which enables a man to do his daily work without loss of weight is precisely what he requires. He supplies the daily waste—no more and no less. It is my opinion that the average quantity of water-free aliment required, say of business and literary men, is twelve ounces. Men of great muscular activity may require sixteen to twenty ounces. I have found myself in a very good condition for sedentary work on eight or ten ounces. When anyone is in good condition for his work and keeps his normal weight, he has food enough. Dr. Nicholl's advice is, find this quantity by experiment, and then habitually keep to it.

Smith Medicine Co.—Gentlemen.—I have made a trial of one box of Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy, with such good effect that I have no hesitation in recommending it to the public as a prompt and reliable medicine. Race, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work. A Romantic Story.

A romantic story is told at a hotel in Florida about a newly married couple that will bear repeating. A wealthy young Englishman, named Henry Clifford, met at Niagara Falls a young English lady, a daughter of a gentleman named Thomas Bell, who had been brought from England to America by her mother and brother to escape the importunities of Mr. Clifford. The mother and father preferred a very wealthy and very aged person for a husband for their daughter. The brother sided with his sister, and when the lover arrived at Niagara, he was taken in hand by the brother. The result was an elopement and marriage. The young pair went on to New York, and thence took the steamer to Florida. Mr. Clifford bought an orange farm on the Indian River. Mrs. Bell, with her son, arrived there recently and found her daughter and son-in-law at the hotel. For a time there was a prospect of a lively scene. But the young man's "What's the use, mother?" made it all right. Daughter and husband were forgiven. All four are going to the orange farm on Indian River next week.

The Methodist Union.

The members of three official boards of the Methodist Church of Canada of the city of Brantford met in the Wellington-street Church last week to consider the basis of union. The Rev. Manly Benson, of Brant-avenue Church, was chosen chairman, and Mr. M. S. Smith secretary. The city churches were well represented, about 50 official members and other leading persons being present. After adopting resolutions approving of the principles of the union the following resolution was unanimously carried:—Moved by D. Plews, seconded by John Mann, "That the Quarterly Boards of the three Methodist circuits in this city having met and examined the basis of union approve of the same. We also beg to tender our thanks to the Union Committee for their pains taking and success in so equitably adjusting the varied difference of the Methodist family in the Dominion."

SENTENCED.

The Wilson-Meharry Assault Case—The Penitentiary and Central Prison.

At the Police Court this morning John Wilson and Wm. H. Meharry were again brought into Court, on the charge of committing an assault upon Samuel Milligan, thereby causing grevious bodily injury.

There was a large number of persons in the court room, the space outside the bar being filled with spectators.

Mr. MOORE addressed the Court on behalf of the prisoners. He contended that there was no evidence to show that the prisoner Wilson was one of the parties who assaulted Milligan. None of the witnesses recognized him, and the evidence of Constable Adams, that some one in the crowd shouted to him to arrest the prisoner as he had nearly killed a man, was only hearsay evidence and should not be considered in giving judgment. As to the case of Meharry, there was no ill-feeling between him and Milligan, and he felt as acutely as anyone for the result. His wife was, he was informed, sick at the present time, and his family of small children depended on him, and he had suffered considerable imprisonment already.

The MAGISTRATE reviewed the evidence in the case, pointing out those parts in it that connected Wilson with the assault. He then sentenced Wilson to two years in the Penitentiary and Meharry to one year and three hundred and sixty-four days in the Central Prison.

There was an attempt at applause in the court room when the Magistrate pronounced the sentence, but it was stopped by a cry of order from the Chief of Police.

An Ottawa correspondent says:—

"The delegates of the Sovereign Sanctuary of the Ancient and Primitive Rites 33° Oriental Right of Mizraim 90°, and the Egyptian Right of Memphis 96°, of the Dominion of Canada, Dr. Ramsay, of Orillia, and E. H. D. Hall, of Peterborough, arrived here last evening from Prescott. On Monday they will institute a chapter of Rose Croix. Many Masons of this city have signified their intention of becoming members of these high and philosophical degrees."

The Lindsay Curlers.

Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, J. W. Wallace and E. Bradburn, of Lindsay, were in town to-day while on their way home from the Montreal carnival, where the Lindsay Curling Club, to which they belong, swept all before them. They played six matches in the Montreal bonspiel and won them all, the final match being with the Hamilton Thistles. They will be given a reception when they reach home this evening and will be presented with a valuable cup by the citizens of Lindsay. A banquet will also be given in their honor to-morrow night.

Sunday School Anniversary.

The anniversary meeting of the George Street Methodist Church Sunday School was held on Monday evening. There was a very large attendance of the pupils of the school, who occupied all the space in the organ loft and in the galleries. The Rev. John Shaw presided, and addresses were delivered by the Mr. D. W. Dumble, on "The Wisdom of Training Children," by the Rev. E. F. Torrance, on "How to Study the Bible," and by the Rev. T. Manning, on "What the Sunday School is Doing." The addresses were interesting and very instructive. Mr. A. H. Clegg, Secretary, read the annual report, which showed that the school was in a prosperous condition. The singing by the school in concert was very pleasing, and enhanced the enjoyment of the meeting.

The Keene Band.

A brass band has been organized at the village of Keene, which gives promise of having a very successful career. It consists of twelve members. The instruments were purchased from the band in Peterborough, and Mr. F. W. Millar has been engaged to give them instructions. Eight or ten members of the Peterborough band went to Keene last night, and Bandmaster Millar says that the Keene musicians are getting along nicely. Dr. Shaw was chiefly instrumental in having this band organized, and it will be quite an acquisition to the village.

A Touching Incident.

At Wigan, in England, there lives a young lady, now dying with consumption, who for several years has desired to make Mr. Gladstone a birthday present, her own birthday occurring on the same day as his own, but she never ventured to do so until last December, when she made a book mark, worked in silk, and bearing the words, "The Bible Our Guide," which some friend of her's forwarded with her explanatory note. Some days afterward she received by rail from Hawarden a box containing a very choice selection of camelias and ferns, and some fine English grapes, with notes from Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone enclosed. Mr. Gladstone's was as follows: "I am greatly touched by your kindness in having worked a bookmark for me under the circumstances at which you glance in such feeling and simple terms. May the guidance which you are good enough to desire on my behalf avail you fully on every step of that journey in which, if I do not precede, I cannot but shortly follow you."

A Bereaved Bride.

HALIFAX COURT HOUSE, Va., Jan. 28.—Last night Mr. James Guthrie, a prosperous young farmer, was present at the wedding, which was solemnized at the residence of the bride's father. Owing to bad weather the guests remained at the mansion all night. This morning when they had assembled at the breakfast table it was remarked that the bride and groom were late coming. Suddenly the shrieks of a woman were heard, and the startled guests hastened into the hall, where they met the bride of a night, who cried, "My husband! oh, my husband!" When she awoke this morning she found her husband dead by her side. She is almost insane from grief. His funeral will take place to-morrow from the house in which he was married. His four groomsmen will act as pall-bearers, and the minister who married them will read the burial service.

Cremation.

The remains of Robert Hehn, aged three years and five months, arrived at Washington, Pa., from New York on Friday for incineration The body was accompanied by Dr. Happel, a friend of the child's parents. The little one died of scarlet fever on the 23rd inst. At the mother's request the corpse was brought to Washington. The lady's father, Dr. Samuel Hehn, was cremated in Le Moyne's furnace in 1880. The crematory was reached at noon, and five minutes later the corpse was in the retort. It took but a short time to reduce the body to ashes. No religious services were held. This is the first child cremated in the United States.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly affected with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

On Thursday various bills were advanced a stage.

Mr. Lauder moved in amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply a resolution condemning the Government for usurping the old powers of the municipalities, and for striking a blow at the principle of local self-government. He showed how in their centralizing policy Mr. Mowat and his colleagues had seized upon power and patronage from the School Boards, the County Judges, the Sheriffs, the Municipal Councils, the University Senate &c.

There was a long discussion, the opposition members giving numerous instances of the seizure of patronage by the Government, and Mr. Mowat's supporters arguing in favour of centralization and declaring the County Judges unfit persons to make appointments.

Centralization was maintained by a vote of 48 to 25.

On Friday the opposition moved several amendments on going into Committee of Supply, thus continuing to lay their policy before the country and to expose the shortcomings of the Mowat Government.

Mr. Creighton moved a resolution censuring the Government for nearly doubling the ordinary expenditure with an almost stationary revenue, and for the rapid dissipation of the surplus, entailing an early resort to direct taxation.

The followers of Mr. Mowat voted down economy by 50 to 25.

Mr. Boulter moved a resolution in favour of the Free Grant settlers, and of a return to the principles of the Free Grant Act of 1868.

After some discussion the "Reformers" rejected justice to the settlers by 50 to 25.

Mr. White moved :—

"That this House is of opinion that justice to large and important portions of the community demands a liberal extension of the parliamentary franchise, particularly in the direction of conferring upon the sons of mechanics and others, not now entrusted with the franchise, the same privileges as are now conferred upon farmers' sons."

Again Mr. Mowat and his illiberal supporters opposed true reform and denied the franchise to the young men of our towns, by a vote of 47 to 25.

On Saturday Mr. Nairn took the somewhat unusual course for a Government supporter of moving an amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply. His motion was a rigmarole adopting the policy of the Conservatives to extend the franchise, but which has been persistently opposed by the self styled Reformers till adopted as an afterthought to add to the already published programme of their late convention. But while driven to countenance this reform the motion showed the hollowness of this death bed conversion by refusing any change this session and postponing the matter till after the general election.

Mr. Meredith and Mr. Morris thoroughly exposed the duplicity of this paltering with the matter, but Mr. Mowat and his friends voted for deferring the extension of the franchise to our young men till a more convenient day.

In Committee of Supply the items for Colonization Roads afforded an opportunity for exposing the manner in which the Mowat Administration had used this vote as a corruption fund, while affording the settlers very little improvement in proportion to the sums expended.

YOUNG'S DAM—MORE HUMBUGGING.

The annual report of the Ontario Commissioner of Public Works for 1882 contains the following with regard to this dam :—

An appropriation of $9,000 (of which $1,500 was a re-vote from the year previous) was granted last session for the re-construction of the dam across the Otonabee river at Young's Point. Immediately after the appropriation was granted, tenders were called for, for the supply and delivery of the necessary timber, but as the lumbering season was then well advanced and the quantity of timber required somewhat large, the prices asked were not satisfactory. In order to enable the work to be proceeded with during the present year, efforts were then made to obtain the timber at reasonable rates by taking it in small quantities from the local mill-owners, but as the quantity required could not be obtained from parties who were willing to supply it for a fair remuneration, and the prices asked by those who could supply it still being, in my opinion, too large, it was decided to again advertise for tenders. The only expenditure out of the appropriation during the present year has been for advertising, consequently a re-vote, merely of the unexpended balance, will require to be taken, to enable the work to be proceeded with and completed in 1883."

Here again we are informed that the delay in rebuilding the dam at Young's has been caused by inability to obtain the timber required therefor at "reasonable rates." Apparently the only "reasonable" men in the country are those belonging to the Ontario Department of Public Works.

They know exactly what is and what is not the "reasonable" value of other men's property. The Messrs. Strickland were "unreasonable" because they did not choose to accept just what they were offered for their dam; the people about Young's Point were and we suppose still are unreasonable because they are not prepared to supply the timber required for this dam at less than cost, in order to leave an unnecessarily large share of the estimate for expenditure in the interest of Mr. Mowat's candidates in the coming campaign. And the Messrs. Gilmour are also unreasonable in protesting against the slashing and smashing of their limits, without compensation, by Mr. Fraser's employees, as is now being done because the people around Young's Point persist in asking one hundred cents for a dollar's worth of timber, although there are men in the same neighborhood who have offered, and would now gladly accept, a contract for the building of this dam for the sum which has been appropriated. But of course they are unreasonable in making such a proposition. Were a contract let for the whole work, where would the crumbs of the hangers-on and electioneers of the Mowat Government come from? Why such a proposition is not only unreasonable but preposterous.

"TOM THUMB'S" PERIL.

His Wife's Story of the Party's Escape from the Burning Newhall House.

Mrs. Stratton, wife of "Gen. Tom Thumb," writes to his friends in Middleboro—where the little couple make their home—cocerning the recent Newhall House fire in Milwaukee (when the Tom Thumb party so narrowly escaped destruction), that it was at 4.05 that the fire alarm was given. Shortly afterwards a policeman broke into the room occupied by the General and herself, and at that time the fire was almost at their very door. They dressed at once, she taking all her jewelry and the family pictures. While dressing, something fell heavily on to the balcony running by their window, and the General called to the policemen to break the sash, which he did and pulled in a woman's body, covered with blood from head to foot. The General looked at the form for an instant, and then exclaimed, "My God, its Mrs. Blecker!" His wife went at once, though the flames were almost upon them, and asked if she could assist her in any way, when the unfortunate woman asked her to straighten her leg, which was doubled and crushed under her body. This Mrs. Stratton was unable to do so, but by that time Mr. Blecker had jumped down from above, and, with the aid of the policeman, endeavored to get help from below, but with poor success. Maj. Newell, who was on the ground below, finally succeeded in getting a fireman to put a ladder to the window, and on that they were saved. Had it not been for the heroic efforts of the Major in getting the ladder placed in position, in all probability the party would have perished. During the time occupied in dressing, before descending the ladder, a stream of water was poured into their room, and before they left they were drenched. Mrs. Blecker's hair and scanty clothing were frozen stiff before the party reached the other hotel, and the sufferings of the poor woman were indescribable. The General had his hands frost bitten while descending the ladder. Mrs. Stratton lost something like $400 and much of her clothing, though she had ample time to have saved everything, had there been any way of getting it to the ground. The father of poor Charles Kelsey, the colored valet of the General, came from his home near by to look for the remains of his son; they could not be found. The company gave a benefit for the sufferers in Milwaukee, and realized $735 from it. A letter received from Mr. Blecker says that he was lowering his wife from the window of his room by means of the bedclothes, which he had tied together, to a balcony beneath, but her strength gave out, and she fell a distance of 20 feet, dislocating her shoulder, breaking her left arm, dislocating her left hip, sustaining a fracture of the right leg, from which a piece of bone three inches long was removed, and covering her head with cuts and bruises. She died after lingering but a few days.

The Danger of Celluloid.

The explosion of a celluloid comb, by which a baby was severely burned in Abington, Mass., is only an example of the dangerous nature of this substance, which, after the usual fashion, we are learning by experience. It is composed of such material as to readily ignite and explode by contact with fire, and a series of accidents has commenced from ignorance of this fact rather than from carelessness that may equal those of the toy pistol in number if not in fatality, before the fashion of ornament is worn out. Its cheapness gives it special vogue for ornament for children, and they are the ones most likely to bring it into danger from careless contact with fire. There should be a warning of the dangerous properties of the substance without requiring that the knowledge should be obtained by the accidents of the blowing off of bracelets beads and such like personal ornaments at the touch of a match or gas jet. Celluloid should be marked as dangerous until some method is found to relieve it of its imprisoned and explosive gases.—Providence Journal.

Curious Chinese Cheese.

The last Chinese steamer which arrived in Marseilles, says a correspondent, brought us specimens of a bean which has long been used by the Chinese and Japanese as an article of food. Not only is it cooked and eaten like other vegetables, but it is made into very excellent cheese. By its composition it more closely resembles animal food than any other vegetable known to us, containing much greasy matter and albumen. A trial will be made to acclimatize it in our southern departments. In the north it would not grow, owing to the unchanging climate and to the temperature being too low. Besides these advantages as an article of human food, the husk serves as a very good fodder for horses and cows. The cheese made from the Japanese bean has a very delicate taste, much like Parmesan.—The California Grocer.

IT made me feel like a "Band of Music," was the rather forcible expression of an individual who was praising "Pectoria," the great remedy for Coughs and Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis. It is safe, pleasant and effectual. If you suffer, try it. For sale by all druggists and general dealers at 25 cents a bottle.

THE MURRAY CANAL.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe, under date Jan. 26th, says:—Mr. John White, M. P., for East Hastings, went west to-night. His visit to the city was in connection with certain alterations which he is anxious to have made in the contract for the Murray canal. He had an interview with the Minister of Railways to-day, and recommended that instead of allowing the Prince Edward Railway Company's bridge to swing from an abutment in the middle of the canal the bridge shall be constructed in two sections swinging from each shore. The bank of the canal is also to be faced with stone, commencing eight feet from the bottom to a height of eight feet. Sir Charles Tupper agreed to adopt Mr. White's suggestions, and has sent for Mr. Rubidge, Chief Engineer of the work, to explain the required changes in the specification. The removal of the abutment from the centre of the canal is to admit of timber cribs from the upper lakes being floated through, thus avoiding the dangerous navigation of the Prince Edward coast. Mr. White states that all reports of difficulties in the way of constructing the canal by the Presqu'Ile route are wholly unfounded. No rock or quicksands have been encountered, and the contractors are well satisfied with the character of the undertaking. The lowest depth of water will be eleven feet, and the average from twelve to sixteen feet. The estimated cost of the entire six miles of canal is $600,000. The canal will be free, as there are no locks. A vote of $200,000 to continue the work will be asked for at the coming session.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 29.—John, brother of Hugh Sutherland, M. P., died last night of congestion of the lungs. He was lost for six days, three of which he was without food, while on the way from Fort Frances. He came here for treatment. THE OSTRICH KICK.

When a farmer goes into a savage bird's camp he takes with him a thorn pole, with a branch or two of the thorny bush left on the end. This is called a "tack," and when the tack is applied to the ostrich's neck or head (his tender points) he is almost invariably subdued, and, after one or two efforts to escape, bolts furiously off to the other side of the camp, where he races up and down to vent his baffled rage. If, however, the bird gets near enough to his opponent to give the so-called kick, he lifts the bony leg as high as his body and throws it forward with demoniac grotesqueness, and brings it down with terrible force. His object is to rip the enemy down with his dangerous claw, but in most cases it is the flat bottom of his foot which strikes, and the kick is dangerous as much from its sheer power as from its lacerating effects. It is a movement of terrible velocity and power, at all events. Several instances may be mentioned of herd-boys being thus either wounded, maimed, or killed outright. One case occurred near Graaf Reinet, in which a horse had his back broken by a single blow. In this case the bird endeavoured to kill the rider, but missed him and struck the horse.

Many persons have been set upon by birds when there was no shelter, not even a tree to run to. In such a case, if the pursued were acquainted with struthious tactics, he would lie down flat on the ground, where the bird finds it impossible to strike him. But even this is no light matter, for some birds in their rage at being baffled of their kick, will roll over their prostrate enemy, bellowing with fury and trampling upon him in the most contemptuous fashion. One man who thus attempted the lying-down plan found that every time he attempted to rise the bird would return and stand sentry over him, till at last, after creeping a distance, he got out only by swimming a pond that bounded one side of the camp.—January Century.

HANDS, BUT NOT CLAWS.

The hand of the finest lady should be able to clasp with the full fervor of friendship, and pull a child out of danger; and a hand upon which no dependence could be placed in an emergency is by no means a credit to man or woman. The notion that any lady's hand should be of this kind is, in the real sense of the word, vulgar. Delicacy is delightful, but weakness must either excite pity or contempt, according as it is self-imposed or not. The Chinese mandarin allows his nails to grow till they resemble claws, priding himself upon this evidence that he never did, and is incapable of doing any manly work; and many ladies cultivate their hands to suggest the same notion. It must be remembered that the longer and more pointed the nails the more they are suggestive of claws. This is increased by the polishing of them. Surely it cannot be in good taste to recall our animal origin at the expense of human capabilities. The Greeks who accentuated all peculiarly and distinctly human characteristics, carefully avoided pointing the nails, though no Darwin had shown them whence the nails came; they also rejected smallness of hand, such as the ideal of modern taste demands. Proportion and fitness were to them ruling principles, outside of which they found no beauty. Hands are no more beautiful for being small than eyes are for being big; but many a modern girl would ask her fairy godmother, if she had one, to give her eyes as big as saucers and hands as small as those of a doll, believing that the first cannot be too large nor the last too small. Tiny feet and hands are terms constantly used by poets and novelists in a most misleading manner. It cannot be possible that they are intended by the writers to express anything but general delicacy and refinement; but a notion is encouraged that results in the destruction of one of the most beautiful of natural objects—the human foot. This unfortunate notion, that the beauty of the foot depends upon its smallness, leads to the crippling of it till it becomes, in many cases, a bunch of crippled deformity. It is a most reprehensible practice, alike revolting to good taste and good sense, to put the foot of the growing girl into a shoe that is not only too short, cramping the toes into a bunch, but, being pointed, turns the great toe inward, producing deformity of general shape and, in the course of time, inevitable bunions, the only wonder being that steadiness in standing or any grace of movement is left at all.—The Nineteenth Century.

A Tale of a Dog.

A Western miner thus describes the manner in which he outwitted a blizzard, with the aid of his dog:—I was in Cheyenne after Jim had got rich and persuaded him to give me that dog of his'n, Bose. I was out huntin' one day near Laramie when one of them hurricanes came up, and I didn't know what to do. It was perrairie all around. I could see the storm a-comin', but two miles off. If I run, it would ketch me. If I stud ther, it was death. So I jes took and shoved ole Bose's nose agin a bank and yelled "rats!" You orter have seen that dog scratch. He throwed the dirt behind him like a breaking plough drawed by twenty yoke of oxen. I held on to his tail and he scratched. We hadn't got in the ground more'n two hundred feet when the storm struck us. But Bose kept scratchin'. I let him go on for a mile or so, but I told him to let up, which he did, the surprisedest dog you ever seed, because he hadn't caught up with the rat. I got back to the top of ground, went to Laramie and started the story that I had found a cave. I made $100,000 by showin' tourists that cave, but lost it all in speculatin' in mines.

The Sandwich Murder.

The inquest on the body of the man Maher, who was murdered near Sandwich last week, has been adjourned to await the result of the chemical analysis of the contents of the stomach. The medical man who attended the deceased during the latter's last moments stated at the inquest that he was inclined to attribute death to over-exposure to cold.

Smith Medicine Co—Gentlemen.—I have made a trial of one box of Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy, with such good effect that I have no hesitation in recommending it to the public as a prompt and reliable medicine. The cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

Never Give Up. If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & Macdonald.

A New Remedy for Snow Blockades.

The Albany Journal states that to remove greater quantities of snow than the engines and plow are able to accomplish, George A. Gunther, of New Utrecht, N. Y., proposes to lay in the snow a number of explosive cartridges connected about six inches apart by wire, the same to be pressed in with a pole or with the sliding bar belonging to the locomotive to the proper depth, and then exploded by means of an electric battery. Large quantities of snow will thus be removed, leaving the snow remaining in a broken up and loosened condition, making it a comparatively easy matter for the plow to remove. Cartridges of suitable character connected by wire and electric apparatus could be carried on trains, and their use in cases of necessity would save much valuable time and labor.

Keeping Grocery.

In a town up the Hudson two farmers had an itching last spring to go into trade, and after canvassing the subject for a spell, they put in $1,000 each and opened a grocery. Trade was dull, both had large families, and they finally concluded to dissolve partnership. In this frame of mind they consulted a lawyer, who asked:—

"What is the value of the stock on hand?"

"About $1,200."

"And how much do you owe?"

"About $400."

"Very well. I see my way clear. Mr. Smith, you will draw on the good will for your share, and I'll throw in a barrel of molasses for your family. Mr. Brown, you take all accounts, and I'll throw in a keg of pickles."

"And what's to become of the store?"

"Oh, you'll assign all the goods to me, for my trouble in paying the debts and giving you legal advice."

Those farmers sometimes stop to think of it, as they lean on their hoes and rest their aching backs, but they cannot make it clear.—Wall Street News.

Married in Haste.

A romantically arranged runaway match, in which a Toronto military gentleman and a bond-head belle were the principal actors, occurred some few days ago. It seems the happy couple were engaged to be married, but the father of the lady insisted on the devoted swain waiting too long a period for the consummation of his happiness. He, in conjunction with a number of his friends, arranged a plan which was crowned with success. The wedding supper and all was arranged in a house on Parliament street which he had prepared for the reception of his wife, and all the requisites for the marriage arranged with the utmost care. The same evening he went to the home of the bride at Bondhead, and after spending a pleasant time and allaying the suspicious of the father, he, in company with a lady, got into a two-horse team which stood waiting for them, and in a few hours they were man and wife, having been joined in the holy bonds immediately on their arrival in the city.

FITS A Leading London Physician establishes an Office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS. From Am. Journal of Medicine. Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. MESEROLE, No. 96 John St., New York.

THE
PACIFIC NORTHWEST!
Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California R.R. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

SYRUP

GUM.

Every one has heard of the wonderful effects of the Spruces and the Pines in cases of Lung Diseases. In France the physicians regularly send their consumptive patients to the pine woods and order them to drink a tea made from the Spruce tops.

In this preparation the Gum never separates, and all its antispasmodic, expectorant, tonic, and balsamic properties are preserved. This Syrup, carefully prepared at a low temperature, contains a large quantity of the finest picked Gum in complete solution.

Its remarkable power in relieving certain forms of Bronchitis, and its almost specific effect in curing obstinate hacking Coughs, is now well known to the public at large.

Sold by all respectable chemists. Price, 25 and 50 cents a bottle.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a. m., 27° above zero; at noon, 25° above and at 3 p. m., 22° above.

Not our Troop.

The promotions and changes that were described by the last Canada Gazette as taking place in the "Peterborough" Troop of Cavalry, should have been given as occurring in the "Loughborough" or No. 3 Troop of the 4th Provisional Regiment of Cavalry, the similarity of the names having evidently led to this mistake.

Carnivals.

No less than three fancy dress carnivals are announced for this week in this district, two to-night and one to-morrow night. Those which take place to-night are at Lakefield and Port Hope. The Peterborough Band are engaged to go to Lakefield, and tickets at reduced rates will be issued to Port Hope and return. To-morrow night's carnival will be at Campbellford.

The Young Men's Christian Association is gathering strength for a special effort in two directions. The first is in accordance with the prime object of the association, namely, to reach the young men of the town, and the second is to secure monetary aid. The association has been doing a large work, principally at the railway construction camps, and it is intended to take steps to let the public know just what it has been doing, and thus solicit sympathy and assistance.

A Cold Bed.

On Tuesday night a tramp betook himself to the stable erected on the river side by Mr. W. E. Chamberlain. He was observed to try the doors, and finding them all locked, he got down on his hands and knees and crawled under the "draw-up," which is, of course, open on both ends. His movements having been noticed by a gentleman, P. C. Pidgeon and Adams were informed of his whereabouts, and betook themselves to the vicinity of said tramp. Mr. Tramp was lying on the broad of his back sleeping the sleep of a man who had imbibed pretty freely of "forty-rod" during the day. He was taken from his bed of turf and provided with more comfortable quarters in the police station. Mr. Tramp can thank his stars that he is alive this morning, for if he had not been seen to enter this "cold-comfort palace," he certainly would have perished during the night from cold and exposure.

A concert, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings, &c., will be given by the members of the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral, under the patronage of His Lordship Bishop Jamot, on the evening of Friday next.

Frozen Up.

The Daily Mail of Brandon, Manitoba, in its issue of January 23rd, says:—

"The safe in the banking house of Wallis, Ramsay, & Co. could not be opened this morning without a six hours' struggle, owing to the frost which collected in the seams."

Railway Notes.

The man Bezina, who was accidentally shot on the Ontario and Quebec Railway, near Tweed, has been taken to Belleville. It is not expected that he will recover.

The noon Grand Junction train was one hour late to-day.

For Kingston.

John Wilson started this morning on a two year's visit to Kingston. He was accompanied by a guard of honor consisting of Gaoler McWilliams and P. C. Adams. He expects to rusticate in the Penitentiary in that city during his two year's sojourn there.

The Icy Sidewalks.

Although we have not heard of any broken limbs being caused by the icy sidewalks, many falls have taken place upon them. This afternoon a lady slipped and came heavily to the boards at the corner of George and Simcoe streets, and there is no question that the walks are in a dangerous condition. Cannot something be done?

Port Hope Assembly

The Port Hope assemblies will close with a grand ball, in the Music Hall of that town, on Monday evening next, the 5th of February. A large number from a distance have signified their intention of being present, and it is expected to be the event of the season. Music will be supplied by the Toronto Italian Orchestra.

The Weather Probabilities.

The weather to-day is cold and inclined to be stormy. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Strong winds and gales from the south-west and north-west; cloudy to fair decidedly colder weather, with local falls of snow.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ON AN "OUT."—One of Peterborough's hotel keepers with a fast young horse started from there on Tuesday, the 23rd Jan., on the hunt for fresh eggs for Tom and Jerry, they being very scarce in Peterborough. He called in at Lakefield and took another landlord with him for company to come up as far as the Point, where he knew he would get some fresh eggs. After doing his business, at 9 p.m. he asked one of our citizens to accompany them as far as Burleigh Falls Hotel, which place they left at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Our citizen wanted to drive home, but our Peterborough friend said he could drive all O. K., and managed to do so bravely for about two miles, when all of a sudden—being all asleep, one of the party said he was wide awake (?)—over goes the cutter, and they were buried in the deep snow. The lines were let go and as a consequence off went the horse at a galop and minus the cutter, etc. It took the shafts along with it, and like a sensible horse, ran into the hotel yard here, where it was last fed. A cutter was lent them to proceed on their journey home. They are going to drive more carefully next time over that road, and keep their weather eyes open.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.—The Trent Valley people are busy taking soundings of the steamboat channel from Lakefield here. They will be around here for some time. There is some talk of cutting the canal at the rear of Mr. Geo. Chalmers' house, that being a more direct route and coming out at the orchard at the foot of Clear Lake. This will save the nasty and dangerous roundabout, especially at high water, where the present canal and locks are built, and will not cost very much more than paying the Local Government for their lock property, which has already cost a considerable sum from first to last.

THE DAM.—The Dominion Government sent two gentlemen here last week to see about the dam property, as they are going to assume it at once. They were also asking Mr. Geo. Chalmers about the timber he took out for the dilly-dallying Local Government at Toronto over a year ago, and agreed to take the same at a valuation. This is a proper way to do business. Mr. Chalmers has been put to a great deal of annoyance in this matter. It is a farce the way the local authorities in Toronto have been dealing with it for the last four years; at the same time they have no business with the dam, it being private property. Their election dodge is now knocked on the head as far as the dam goes.

A TRIP TO THE SHANTIES.—On Tuesday, the 23rd January, at the invitation of Mr. George Chalmers, your correspondent went on a three days trip to his three shanties, to see how the foreman and men were getting along in the woods with the great depth of snow that has fallen this winter, which is almost 3 feet deep on the level. We left on the above date for P. Cassidy's shanty No 1, about 5 miles from the shore of the head of Stony Lake, 30 miles from the Point. After crossing the lake from C. Crow's Landing, in Dummer, we arrived at the shanty and had dinner. We found an old Peterborough boy, who is fond of living away from civilization, acting as cook. This old boy, who is nearly 40 years old now, was at one time a watchmaker with Messrs. Brown & Clark, of Peterborough; he looks hale and hearty, and evidently takes his billet after dinner. We started for Cassidy's shanty No. 2, in the Township of Methuen. This shanty was built a year ago, but Mr. Cassidy has made considerable improvement on it this winter, having made the roof higher and and more comfortable for the men. At the rear he has got a nice little office built, which is occupied by Mr. Flaherty, the clerk, the black smith and the foreman. All the ready made clothing, etc., is kept in this place for safety. Mr. Cassidy took us to where the logs are getting dumped on the banks of Jack's Creek; it is a fine sight to see so many saw logs all heaped together on the ice. They are a fine lot of logs. Up to the time we were there, he had about 25,000 logs out with about 17,000 drawn on the creek. The rest were skidded in the woods. He got 9 saw logs out of one tree last Monday; the top log was 13 inches in diameter at the small end, and altogether they were 117 feet in length. He has 65 men, 12 teams and 2 yoke of oxen in the two shanties. The men are very well behaved, and Cassidy is very much liked by them. He knows the lumbering operations thoroughly, and has been foreman for several large lumbering firms. On Thursday morning after breakfast we left for Apsley, a distance of 20 miles. It was a beautiful morning, but very cold, and splendid sleighing. We passed through some fine woods, thick with pine, belonging to Messrs. Fowlds, of Hastings; Rathbun & Sons, of Deseronto mills, and Ullyott & Sadler. They are all lumbering heavily this winter. We passed three or four shanties in full blast. We reached Apsley at 11, a. m., and after feeding the inner man and horses at A. McIlmoyle's hotel we started for Dugan's camp, in Anstruther, at 1 p. m., distance 17 miles. The miles in this part of the county are all Irish miles, they are so long and full of bends—making straight roads is out of the question. We passed through some beautiful pine limits belonging to Messrs. Ullyott & Sadler; they have four or five shanties in full blast in this section. We reached Dugan's camp about 3 p. m. It appeared a long road through the woods, marshes and small lakes. Arthur was busy at work along with his men in the woods. He has got about 4,000 of the largest pine logs I ever saw cut. He has also got out a large quantity of board timber 20 to 35 feet long, which will on an average measure 80 feet. Arthur has 30 men all told, five teams and two yoke of oxen. Albert Cook is the clerk, and Tom Cassidy cook,—and a first-class shanty cook he is. He is supplied with lots of beef, pork, potatoes, sugar, syrup, and dried-apples, all of the best quality, and his motto is not to waste, but to turn out everything properly cooked to the men in the employ and also for the benefit of his employers. A bad, greasy, wasteful cook is an expensive item in the lumbering business. Dugan's logs and timber goes through Eels Lake, thence by Eels Creek into Stony Lake. It is to be hoped there will be lots of water this spring and summer in the creek so as to allow all the lumbermen's logs to float down. For some seasons past it has been hard work to get these down. All the dams and slides are to be put in good order before spring. We left the camp on Friday morning after breakfast—it was 23° below zero—and got to Apsley at noon. We started for the Point after dinner, very much pleased with our trip; the roads were good, but the weather extremely cold. The total distance travelled to the furthest shanty and back was 134 Irish miles.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly affected with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

It is strongly recommended to residents in India and the Colonies, and should always be kept ready for use in every case of fever or febrile condition.

TARAXACUM and PODOPHYLLIN.—Prepared only by J. Pepper, London. It sets the sluggish liver in motion, very slightly acts on the bowels, giving a sense of health and comfort within 24 hours. It is the safest medicine. Taraxacum and Podophyllin is a fluid made only by J. PEPPER, Bedford Laboratory, London, whose name is on every label. Bottles, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6. Sold by all Chemists. REVIEWS

HARPER'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE.—The February number of Harper has for its frontispiece an exquisite engraving from a picture by G. H. Boughton, A. R. A., of "The Frozen Fountain." An interesting account by West Sykes of "The Wild Welsh Coast" is profusely illustrated, the view of Carreg-Cennin in the morning mist being in particular a perfect gem of art. G. M. White chats in a pleasing manner about "The Local Associations of Whittier's Poems." The second part of "Artist Strolls in Holland," by G. H. Boughton. A. R. A., is equally felicitous in descriptions and illustrations. Herbert Tuttle gives some welcome information as to the "German Political Leaders," with portraits of these celebrities and a few comic sketches. "Maryland and the Far South in the Colonial Period," by J. Fiske, is another valuable contribution to the early history of settlement on this continent, which has become a specialty of this periodical. "Our Birds and their Poets" are gracefully treated by P. Robinson. The serial stories, "Shandon Bells" and "For the Major," are both increasing in interest as they progress. There are several short tales and poems of merit, and the ever excellent editorial miscellanies.

THE SNOW BY-LAW.

To the Editor of The Review.

SIR,—I'm glad to find that you have at last taken notice, editorially, of the disgraceful and dangerous state of our sidewalks. You conclude your article by asking, "cannot something be done?" What can be done? or, rather, what's the use of doing anything, when one of our sage councillors, the old "broom," you know, who not only doesn't "sweep clean," but who doesn't sweep at all, informed us, on the 15th of January, that the winter was even then "nearly over?"

"MISERY LIKES COMPANY."

NALHVILLE, Feb. 1.—The news of Vincent's defalcations was communicated to ex-Treasurer Polk in jail. He sighed, and, saying that misery loves company, hobbled to the far corner of his cell.

ELECTED SENATOR.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 1.—General M. Anderson was yesterday elected United States Senator.

ANOTHER TREASURER SKIPPED.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 1.—Recently some friends were joking Treasurer Vincent about Polk. He facetiously remarked that he could get away, as he had two legs. When Vincent began the third term last November he failed to file his bond. The liability of the old bondsmen ceased when the new term began, but nearly all the defalcation occurred before that time and thus the bondsmen are liable. The Treasurer's bond is required by law to be filed in the Auditor's office and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State. Several weeks ago Vincent borrowed both the original bond and the book of record, to draw up a new bond by them. Now both are missing. He evidently carried them away to shield the old bondsmen. The bonds can be proven, however, and the state is safe. One banker here has ordered his broker in New York to buy one million dollars of Alabama class "A" bonds at 80 cents. The bond fell four cents yesterday, but it is thought that they will soon recover.

A DOCK FIRE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The fire is still burning. It broke out among the cotton. Most of the buildings on the pier and their contents were consumed. The loss is estimated at a million. The damage to the steamer Egypt will amount to $2,000.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The Times' Washington despatch says that the large reduction in the public debt in January was due to the unexpected decrease of pension expenditures.

FAILURE.

BARRE, Mass., Feb. 1.—The Ware River Woollen Company has failed. Liabilities $76,000. The assets exceed the liabilities.

A DOCK BURNED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The Inman line dock was burned this morning. Loss $400,000. The steamship Egypt and sailing vessel Henny caught fire and were towed out into the North River. The rigging of both vessels was damaged. A large quantity of freight on the dock was destroyed. The estimated loss is $2,000,000. A rumor of loss of life is believed to be unfounded. The fire originated in a large gear locker at the end of the pier. It is supposed that a smoker violated the rules and took a quiet whiff, and when he thought he had overstaid the time put the pipe with the embers in it in the locker.

TO STOP WORK.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 1.—Candee & Co., of the rubber works, have decided to stop work to-day on account of the high price of raw rubber, This will throw 1,500 persons out of employment.

A GHASTLY DISCOVERY.

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 31.—A horrible discovery has been made at the State Normal School at Edenborough, a few miles from here. Two lads returning from a hunt observed their dog devouring something in the vicinity of the Ladies' Hall, and upon investigation found the animal tearing the flesh from what bore a resemblance to a baked or roasted child. Making their fearful discovery known to Squire Taylor, the latter with Mr. Vanripon went to the spot, and unearthed the remains of a body that had evidently been burned in a stove to destroy its identity. On the inquest that was immediately instituted statements were made involving a young lady who is a boarding student at the school. The jury required her attendance, and this evening she swore that she knew nothing of the child. The circumstance that gave rise to the suspicion was the fact that a week ago moans as of one in pain were heard coming from her room, and that she refused to admit the doctor when brought by the watchman. The verdict may not be reached until 3 a. m.

LAKEFIELD

From Our Own Correspondent.

ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment consisting of "Found in a Four Wheeler," and Mrs. Jarley's wax work, given on Tuesday evening last in the P. C. A. Hall was not so well attended as was expected, and as the character of the entertainment seemed to warrant. The cause of the slight attendance of the villagers was, no doubt, the result of so many attractions during the last ten days or two weeks. There has lately been a surfeit of socials, skating carnivals, and fraternal visits, &c., and nearly all of them have suffered in consequence, so far as attendance goes. In every other respect the entertainment was a great success. The farce, "Found in a Four Wheeler," was admirably rendered in all the characters by Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Tate and Mr. Hilliard. Considering the smallness of the stage, it was difficult to imagine the parts being better carried out. After the farce, the Peterborough Orchestra Band gave several selections of choice music, which were well received and evidently were considered a treat by the audience. After this an exhibition of Mrs. Jarley's mechanical wax figures was given, which completed a programme of nearly two hours' duration. The programme was well sustained throughout, and the manner in which every part of it was carried out reflects credit on the parties getting it up.

FOX HUNT BRIGADE.

Lakefield can now boast of a fox hunting brigade which bids fair to be the cause of much gossip, as well as sport and amusement. in deeds of daring, toil, hardship and distress. The brigade has been organized a little over a month, but under the able and energetic command of Captain Ash and Lieutenant Casement more than one fox has been taken, either in the chase or from the hole. Some times in a hunt it has been found necessary to use snow shoes and at other times convenient to hang them on a fence. Sometimes the barrel of a gun has been discharged a little too soon and sometimes a little too late. Huntsmen have at times, in a chase, rolled over logs in a style considered by their companions as at least a little indecorous. Many difficulties have been met in the way and many trials made with varying success to overcome them, but try and try again has been the motto until success has been the result of perseverance, either through the rifle or the spade.

SKATING CARNIVAL.

The Lakefield Skating Rink Company held a grand carnival in their rink on Wednesday evening, January 31st. The Peterborough Fire Brigade Band was in attendance. A number of very handsome prizes were awarded. The attendance was good and the carnival was considered in every way a great success.

GOOD TEMPLARS' SOCIAL.

Washington Temple, I.O.G.T., held a social consisting of a tea, readings, recitations and vocal and instrumental music, in Union Hall, Queen street, Lakefield, on Wednesday evening, January 31st. The social was well attended—the hall being well filled, and everything passed off very satisfactorily to those concerned.

ANOTHER FRATERNAL VISIT.

On Monday evening last a 'bus load of the members of Washington Temple, of Lakefield, went to Peterborough to pay a fraternal visit to Peterborough Lodge, I. O. G. T. They were entertained in a most friendly manner, a lunch, readings and music making an excellent programme. A very pleasant time was spent.

FORESTERS' MEETING.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Court Lakefield, No. 43, C. O. Foresters, will be held in the hall on Queen street, Lakefield, on Thursday evening next, the 8th instant, at eight o'clock.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1883.

A GOOD OMEN.

THERE is no longer any doubt of the result of the Manitoba elections. The Conservative Government has been sustained by a majority of two to one. This is a crushing rebuke to the advocates in that Province of sectional jealousies and disruption.

It is also a good omen in regard to the contest in Ontario with the party that has encouraged this disloyalty to Confederation in Manitoba, and which is making the same effort here to set province against province, it is to be hoped with the same result.

POLITICAL OFFICIALS.

A member of Ministers at Port Hope have petitioned the Town Council in regard to the nonenforcement of certain by-laws and of the Statute Law regulating and limiting the traffic in intoxicating liquors. A deputation addressed the Council in support of the petition. The Rev. Dr. O'Meara in the course of his speech said:—

"We have excellent laws in this Province, regulating the sale and use of liquor, but he was sorry to say these laws were entirely disregarded in our town."

The Rev. R. J. Beattie spoke to the same effect, giving details of almost open breaches of the law's, especially in regard to the sale of liquor on Sunday.

Now these gentlemen have no political purpose to serve, but are actuated by a desire for the furtherance of religion, morality and order. When it is found then that they give impartial testimony in favour of the contentions of the Conservative party, it is worse than useless to belittle them. We, like these reverend gentlemen, believe that we have excellent laws but that they are not properly enforced. Therefore we wish like them that the provisions of the law should be maintained, but that a charge should be made in the present inefficient system of enforcing or rather neglecting them. Mr. Meredith and his supporters therefore naturally and logically desire that the license officials should be municipal officers, not political partisans, and that they should give their attention to enforcing the law instead of neglecting their duty to devote their attention to a political propaganda for their patrons and appointers, Mr. Mowat and his colleagues.

OUR FULL RIGHTS.

THE Globe cites Sir George Cartier as a witness that the boundary award gives us our rightful territory. The Globe is mistaken, as the Quebec leader of its party could inform it. Mr. Laurier said in April, 1882, in the House of Commons, that

"Sir George Cartier, in many state papers signed by himself, granted to the Province of Ontario far more territory than is granted to her by this award. In order that there may be no doubt on that point, let me refer them to the despatch signed by Sir George Cartier and his then colleague, the hon. member for Halton (Mr. McDougall) on this very question. As hon. gentlemen remember, when the Dawson route was opened in 1869, strong objection was made by the Hudson's Bay Company against the Canadian Government opening a route through the territory between the Lake of the Woods and Red River, because, they said, it was invading their rights. To this Sir George Cartier and Mr. McDougall made a reply in which they declared that whatever doubt might exist as to the limits of old or French Canada, no impartial investigator could doubt that they extended to and included the country between the Lake of the Woods and Red River."

Again, this Rouge leader in the same debate said;—

"Now, let us suppose that the question is opened anew. The award may be set aside and it may be that Ontario will be increased to the extent claimed by Ontario and granted by Sir George Cartier, namely, to Red River. What then? You will have the Province of Ontario made greater than it is by the award."

The Globe might also learn from one of the arbitrators that it is mistaken as to Sir George Cartier's views. Sir Francis Hincks delivered a public lecture and published a pamphlet in support of the award, and therein stated:—

"The chief opposition to the award of the arbitrators has been raised by the professed admirers of Sir George Cartier, who declared that 'no impartial investigator' would hesitate as to giving Ontario a greater extent of territory than that awarded by the arbitrators."

Now, it may suit the leader of the Quebec wing of Mr. Mowat's allies to urge the ratification of the award because it denies her full rights to Ontario—it may suit Mr. Mowat even to connive at this injustice to his own province, because he thinks he may make political capital out of this betrayal of the interests entrusted to him; but we believe that the people of Ontario will not agree with them. What Ontario demands is the whole of the territory to which she is entitled, not a portion of it, and a clear title to that property, not an invalid award that might always be subject to question.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

ON Monday, to the motion for going into committee of Supply, Mr. Merrick moved an amendment censuring the Government for assuming an attitude of hostility to the National Policy which had been twice approved by the people.

Mr. Mowat and his supporters approved of this disregard of the will of the people by a vote of 44 to 25.

On concurrence Mr. Meredith moved in favor of keeping our educational system free from political partisanship and for the substitution of a Chief Superintendent for a Minister of Education.

Mr. Mowat and his friends rejected the idea of keeping education free from political partisanship by a vote of of 48 to 25.

Mr. Kerr moved to authorise County Boards of Examiners to grant certificates for lower grades than the third class certificates.

Mr. Mowat and his followers declined by a division to give up even this small amount of power.

On Tuesday, on the third reading of the Bill for the better Administration of Justice, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment against the power taken by the Government to subdivide offices and appoint additional officers.

Mr. Mowat, his colleagues and supporters refused to give up this new opportunity of increasing their patronage.

On the third reading of the Election Bill Mr. Meredith mowed in favor of granting the franchise to the sons of mechanics and others.

Mr. Mowat and his followers, with the aid of the Speaker, refused even to consider this act of justice.

Mr. Meredith moved to do away with the present unfair restrictions upon the income franchise.

The Government again called the Speaker to their aid to avoid a direct vote against extending the franchise.

Mr. Meredith moved in favor of reducing the income franchise to $300 in cities, towns and villages, and $200 in townships.

Again a point of order was raised to frustrate this attempt of the Conservatives to give votes to our young men.

On the third reading of the Rivers and Streams Bill Mr. Meredith moved against the House constituting itself a Court of Appeal from the Supreme Court by declaring that to be the law which the Court had decided was not.

Mr. Mowat and his supporters adhered to their pretentions to review the decisions of the Supreme Court by a vote of 52 to 26.

Mr. Meredith moved to condemn the appropriation of private property without adequate compensation.

The "Reform" majority voted in favor of their confiscation of property without further compensation than they might please to give.

In Committee of Supply the supplementary estimates caused a discussion, in which the corrupt use made of the public funds was exposed.

Mr. Meredith moved to entrust the expenditures on colonization roads to the municipalities, but Mr. Mowat and his supporters refused to loosen their hold on this corruption fund.

"A Roland for an Oliver."

When Hugh Elliott was Minister Plenipotentiary at the Court of Berlin in the latter days of Frederick the Great, the relations between Prussia and England were not altogether friendly, and the personal intercourse between Elliott and Frederick was not very much the reverse, Fredrick indulging in gibs and sneers but little disguised, and Elliott in equivocal retorts. A respectable Minister of Frederick's at the Court of St. James was recalled and replaced by a notoriously ill-conditional fellow, merely to spite the English Cabinet. "What do they say of——in London?" asked Frederick one day in a taunting tone. "Worthy representative of your Majesty," replied Elliott, bowing to the ground. This did not mend matters; and the King would not speak to Elliot at several successive levees. Elliott, highly indignant, was longing for an opportunity to be revenged, when, intelligence having arrived that Hyder Ali had made a successful inroad into the Carnatic, the King asked in a wicked way, "Monsieur Elliott, who is this Hyder Ali, who understands so well how to settle your matters in India?" "Sire," replied Elliott, "he is an old despot who has plundered his neighbors shamefully, but who, thank Heaven, is now getting into his dotage." It was clearly time that Mr. Elliott should exercise elsewhere his peculiar gifts in dealing with despots, old or young; and he was almost immediately transferred to Copenhagen.

Submarine Work.

Thanks to the enterprise of an English firm, the submarine diver of the future is likely to have all the advantages which Jules Verne gave to the divers in his wonderful work, "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Sea." Our readers will remember that there the divers are represented by the author as putting on their armor in the usual fashion, and then attaching oxygen reservoirs at the back, going into the water free and independent of air pumps and heavy dragging air-pipes. The new system calls for the manufacture of oxygen, and its compression into tanks, which are strapped upon the armor. The carbonic acid of the breath is removed by means of caustic potash, and the fresh supply of oxygen takes the place of that used up by breathing. The diver is of course entirely independent of the surface, can walk about as much at his ease as it is possible beneath the surface of the water, weighted by the usual amount of lead necessary to keep him submerged.—Journal of Chemistry.

STORMS IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Great Damage to Property in all Parts of the Country.

The gale has been felt severely in many parts of the country. At Salisbury the wind was accompanied by violent rain, and there was much damage to property. The low-lying lands were flooded. The gale has continued with great violence throughout the east and north. At York, on Saturday, the temperature during the day and night was excessively low, and snow fell six inches on the wolds; floods covered the out laying districts; large trees were uprooted; sheep were drowned and strayed, and farm buildings were blown down. The sea defences at Bridlington were much damaged. A huge wall of brick and masonry at Driffield was overturned. A considerable amount of damage was done at Bradford. At Preston walls were blown down, and chimney stacks were blown through the roofs of houses. At Fleetwood, which seemed to be directly in the region of the cyclone disturbance, the gale was felt most severely. A large chimney fell, demolishing a building. At Chorley some buildings sustained great damage, and a chimney thirty yards high was blown down. At Chester the wind had the force of a hurricane. Snow fell during the morning, and chimney stacks were overturned. At Nestor a church tower was damaged and hay stacks blown over.

HASTINGS.

THE FIRE.—The Star says that workmen are engaged clearing away the debris of the burnt factory, and Mr. H. M. Fowlds will at once put up a temporary building to enclose the wheel which drove the elevators.

PRESENTATION.—On Tuesday evening about thirty members of St. James' church, Alnwick, drove to Hastings and presented the Rev. John McCleary, Incumbent of Hastings and Alnwick, with a well filled purse and other articles, and an address. The Rev. Mr. McLeary returned thanks in suitable terms.

Juvenile Smokers.

Probably St. Thomas has more juvenile confirmed smokers than any other city in Canada. It is no uncommon thing to see youngsters of five and six years toddling about the streets with lighted pipes in their mouths, while urchins whose little teeth are scarcely equal to the task of biting off the end of a cigar strut up the thoroughfares with cigar stubs between their teeth, puffing away with every air of satisfaction.—St. Thomas Times.

Is it True?

An alarming report is current that the Indian chief Mahkatawashee, failing to obtain food by hunting in the White Beaver Lake district north of Selkirk, has eaten his wife and family of seven persons. The story is not credited, and lacks confirmation.

THE Prussian decree ordering youths born as Danish subjects now residing in Schleswig to enter the Prussian army or leave their homes causes intense indignation throughout Denmark. That country protests against this fresh breach of treaty obligations.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 19, '82.

GENTLEMEN,—Inclosed find $1, and will you send me some of N. H. Down's Vegetable Balsomic Elixir by express. I have a bad cold, as has almost every one else here, but cannot find the Elixir, which I used frequently at home and consider a most valuable medicine; in fact, the very best remedy for a cold that I ever used.

Very truly yours, WILLIAM W. GROUT.

MACFARLANE WILSON.

A CANADIAN GHOST STORY.

Curious Dreams and Apparitions—How a London Unbeliever was Puzzled.

It is proverbially difficult to prove a negative; but it is not only difficult, it is impossible to disprove the existence of ghosts, or their occasional apparition to mortal eyes. Even if it were possible (which it is not) to prove that no ghosts has ever appeared on earth, science, whether physical or metaphysical, supplies no calculus for the disproof of ghostly apparitions in the future. We may even go further, and say that the progress of physical science has made belief in ghosts easier instead of harder. The most advanced conclusions in regard to the laws of light and sound go to show the possibility of innumerable sights and sounds above us which may be invisible and inaudible, simply because we have no organs sufficiently delicate to apprehend them. It is certain that some of the lower animals far surpass us in that respect; so far, indeed, in some cases, that their superiority, did we not know it as a fact, would seem quite as incredible as ghosts. The microscope has discovered a world of organized existence close to us, of which the naked eye knows nothing. Recent discoveries in the sphere of sound are not less startling. To put an arbitary limit to these discoveries, and declare dogmatically that science has reached the end of its tether in such matters, is not the mark of a scientific, but rather of an arrogantly prejudiced mind. What has science to say against the existance of beings so ethereal as to be incapable of apprehension by human senses, save only under abnormal conditions—either by temporary exaltation of the human faculties, or by such a modification of the normal laws of spiritual substances as shall bring them temporarily within the cognizance of human senses? Absolutely nothing.

We are not arguing in favor of a belief in ghosts, or in the manifestations of so-called spiritualism. We are arguing against the unscientific habit of mind which would forbid, on a priori grounds, any kind of rational investigation. No doubt, the vast majority of ghost stories are myths, and we have never seen any exhibition of "spiritualism" which could not be explained by sleight-of-hand. But the widespread belief in such phenomena is surely a reason for enquiry rather than for a dogmatic tabooing of the whole subject. There is a residuum of stories of a supernatural, or at least preternatural character, which cannot be easily explained away. Take, for instance, the Wynyard ghost story. Two brother officers, who were also intimate friends, by name Sir John Cope Sherbrooke and Lieutenant George Wynyard, were with their regiment, the 33rd, in Canada, toward the end of the present century. As they were sitting in Wynyard's room, in broad daylight, both of them saw a tall and extremely emaciated youth standing for a few moments in the doorway, and then passing through the room into an adjoining bedroom, out of which there was no egress, except back through the sitting room. "Great God, my brother!" exclaimed Wynyard, and both followed the apparition into the bedroom, but saw no more of it. They took notice of the day and hour, which happened, as the event proved, to have been the day and hour of the death of a younger brother of Lieutenant Wynyard, to whom he was fondly attached.

Sir John Sherbrooke, however, was an unbeliever in ghosts, and persisted in hoping that some natural explanation of the apparition might eventually turn up. An incident befell him some years afterwards which promised for a moment to justify his scepticism. After his return to England, he was one day walking along Piccadilly with two friends, when his attention was suddenly arrested by a man who was the fac simile of the mysterious apparition in Canada, except that he did not look so emaciated. Delighted at this opportunity of verifying his scepticism, he crossed the road and, accosting the stranger, told the story of the Canadian apparition, and asked for an explanation. "I have never been in Canada," replied the stranger, "but I am not surprised at your mistaking me for my lamented young friend, poor Wynyard, whose ghost is said to have appeared to yourself and his brother; for we were so like each other that we were constantly mistaken, the one for the other." The point of the story is that Sir John Sherbrooke never saw the Wynyard whose apparition he had seen in Canada. The story is well known, and the present writer once knew an old Peninsular officer who heard the story from Sir John Sherbrooke's own mouth. A story of a different kind but not the less remarkable in its way, was related to the writer of this within the last few weeks. Major—— an officer in the Guards and well known in London society, was some years ago with his regiment in Canada. One day he received a letter from a brother officer, then on leave at home in Scotland, recommending to his good offices a young friend then on his way to Canada. Accordingly Mr. S——, the young gentleman in question, was received hospitably by Major ——, and became a frequent guest at the mess of the regiment. He appeared at breakfast one morning with a look of extreme dejection, and explained, in answer to enquiries, that he had seen in his sleep that night his own tombstone, with his name and the date of his death namely, June 17, 1867. "They have not given you a long time to prepare," remarked Major——, "seeing that this is April." This was said for the purpose of rallying Mr. S—— out of his fit of low spirits, Major—— being then as he is now, an unbeliever in ghostly visitation. Mr. S—— gradually recovered his spirits, and in course of time started for the United States. On taking leave of him Major—— jocularly observed, "Look out, old boy, for the 17th of June." Some weeks afterward Major—— chanced to read in the newspaper an account of his young friend's death. He had landed, together with other passengers, from a river steamer at a place which was infested by Indians. An armed sentry was placed on the bank to prevent a surprise by the Indians. Young Mr. S—— had returned after dark, neglected to answer the challenge of the sentry, and was shot dead. Major——, remembering the dream, was so struck by the coincidence that he made special inquiry into the circumstances, and ascertained that the date of S——'s death was the date on the tombstone of his dream, June 17.

Now, assuming the veracity of Major——, which is, of course, unquestionable, how is this dream to be explained away? And is it not wiser and more in accordance with true science to examine the evidence of every such story on its own merits, than to dismiss the whole subject with supercilious disdain?—London Spectator.

EGGS IN WINTER.

The fact that eggs usually command, during the last six weeks of the year, from 40 to 50 cents a dozen is good evidence that, as a rule, hens do not lay at this season of the year. It being the moulting season with the old hens but few eggs can be expected from them, and the pullets, most of them are not old enough to lay; so with ordinary care few eggs are got when they are most needed.

Those who best understand the business manage to have their hens lay when eggs are at the highest, and secure very large profits. This they accomplish by keeping hens but one year, and raise early chickens so as to get them to laying by the first of October. When this is done the chances are favorable to keep them laying most of the time until February; but, to do this, the hens must have good winter quarters, plenty of air, light and sunshine, and yet warm enough to keep them comfortable both day and night.

Fresh earth should be supplied in abundance, and the food should be in great variety. Grain alone is not sufficient, but they need meat and vegetables, including moistened fine hay or cabbage leaves. In the coldest weather the water should be warmed before being placed before the hens. Ground oyster shells should always be kept where the hens can get them, and wood ashes, with charcoal, should be in one corner of the house.

There is no animal kept on the farm that feels neglect so quickly as laying hens. Sometimes a neglect of a few days will stop a hen from laying several weeks. There is so great difference between the price of eggs in December and in March that it pays to make an effort to get eggs in the first part of winter.

It costs about the same to keep a hen a year that lays most of her eggs when they are the cheapest, as it does when they are the highest price; but there is a great difference in the worth of the eggs. Six dozen of eggs, at 40 cents per dozen, would be $2.40, while six dozen, at 15, cents would be but 90 cents—a difference of $1.50, which would make a good year's profit. Yet the price of eggs is frequently more than 40 cents in December, and less than 15 cents in March.

Those who are the most successful in the production of eggs for profit, make it one of their principal points to have their hens lay the most when eggs are the highest, thus securing a very large profit on what they feed out.—Mass. Ploughman.

He Would Speculate.

Yesterday morning a smartly dressed man stepped into a well-known broker's office, King street, and asked: "How is wheat to-day?"

"Rising; just gone up one cent."

"Indeed. Well, I guess I'll speculate. You buy me 2,500 bushels."

Just then a report came that wheat had advanced a quarter.

"Say," remarked the speculator, "Make that 5,000 bushels. Have you got any blanks cheques?"

"Yes, what bank do you want?"

"Commerce."

He filled out the cheque for $50, a one cent margin, and was leaving when he turned round and said:

"Oh, by the way, don't present that till half-past ten to-morrow."

Soon after his departure the broker sent round to the Bank of Commerce and found that Mr. Speculater was unknown there.

In the afternoon he returned to the broker's office and demanded:

"Well, how's wheat now?"

"Gone up three-eighths," was the answer.

"Oh! then you had better sell. What is your commission?"

"A quarter of a cent."

He figured for a moment and then said:

"Then you owe me $6.25. I'll take that, please."

Of course the broker did not please, and the needy and would-be smart speculator found that some one else was a little bit smarter than he thought him.—Mail.

A Girl Who Spells Words Backward.

In the plantation of Oakfield, Aroostook County, Me., there is a girl who possesses the faculty of spelling difficult words backward without hesitation. Her name is Hattie M. Drew, and she is just past her twelfth birthday and resides with her parents in Oakfield. They are people of moderate education, living upon a farm in a rural community. While this little girl is bright and smart as the average of her mates she never attracted particular attention until, a little more than a year ago, it was discovered that she possessed the singular gift of spelling any word with which she was acquainted backward and without hesitation. At a spelling match recently held in the school which she attends, without any warning, she stood before the audience for some 10 minutes spelling words selected at random, some for their difficulty of combination, but without any previous knowledge of what they were to be, rapidly and correctly, except one or two which she could not spell in the proper way, and when prompted in the correct spelling of these she immediately reversed it. Among the words which she spelled were: Galaxy, syzygy, astronomy, robin, phonography, difficulty, attendance, indivisible, &c. All of these were spelled as rapidly as the eye could follow, without a single misplacement of a letter. Has any other person without training been able to do this or similar feats? In addition, it may be said, upon the testimony of the girl, that "she can see the words in her mind, and knows no reason why she should not read the letters backward as in the usual way."

At McKeesport, Pa., on Monday, John McDonald, a Canadian, aged 28, in the employ of Harris Bros., tripped and fell from the new railroad bridge, a distance of 40 feet, into the river. He made a desperate effort to swim to shore but took cramps and went down in sight of his friends, who were attempting to rescue him.

How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

FITS

A Leading London Physician establishes an office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS. From Am. Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. MESEROLE, No. 96 John St., New York.

THE

PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho,

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

GRAY'S

GUM.

Every one has heard of the wonderful effects of the Spruces and the Pines in cases of Lung Disease.

In France the physicians regularly send their consumptive patients to the pine woods and order them to drink a tea made from the Spruce tops.

In this preparation the Gum never separates, and all its anti-spasmodic, expectorant, tonic, and balsamic properties are preserved.

This Syrup, carefully prepared at a low temperature, contains a large quantity of the finest picked Gum in complete solution.

Its remarkable power in relieving certain forms of Bronchitis, and its almost specific effect in curing obstinate hacking Coughs, is now well known to the public at large.

Sold by all respectable chemists. Price, 25 and 50 cents a bottle.

The words "Syrup of Red Spruce Gum" constitute our Registered Trade Mark, and our wrapper and labels are also registered.

Wedding Bells.

On Wednesday evening the proprietor and staff of the Examiner Printing Office presented their general foreman Mr. F. J. Jameson with a handsome bedroom suite on the occasion of his marriage. Mr. C. J. Ridley read the accompanying address expressive of their good wishes and cordial congratulations. The bride was also the recipient of a large number of handsome presents. Mr. Jameson was for a number of years connected with the Review, and his old associates in this office join heartly in felicitating him, and offering their hopes for the future happinness of himself and his bride.

The Carnival at Port Hope.

A large number went from Peterborough on Wednesday night to attend the fancy dress skating carnival in Port Hope. The carnival was fairly successful, there being a large number of skaters in costume on the ice and a fair attendance of spectators. Several of the finest costumes exhibited were taken from here. The following are the names of those from Peterborough who appeared in costume:—

Miss Mayhew	Countess
Wm. Logan	Dutchman
W. H. Dayman	French Courier
F. Mercer	Turkish Gentleman
J. E. Hawkins	Spanish Grandee
C. McClelland	Gunner H. M. S. Cyrus
A. Stratton	P. Q. Butts
R. Tate	Mussulman
J. R. McCrea	Harlequin
Geo. Dawson	Turk
F. Raphael	Knight of the Red Cross
R. T. Hartley	Turk
A. Sutherland	Chinaman
R. W. Muncaster	Sailor
M. P. Cottingham	Turk

The only prizes that were offered for competition among the gentlemen were for the best skaters in costume, and the first prize was won by Mr. R. T. Hartley. It was a handsome silver-plated alarm clock. A special train left Port Hope at about 12 o'clock with the party from Peterborough.

CURLIANA.

The Thirteen Point Game for the Medal—Result of the First Draw.

If an outsider should visit the Curling Rink and see two solitary lovers of the "roaring game" with their coats off and the Tam O'Shanter standing on five hairs, with perspiration standing out in bold relief on their respective countenances, and the eager, anxious look of each as his opponent delivers his stone, he would know what led our reporter to ask, What was at stake? The answer came readily, "We are playing the thirteen point game for the President and Vice-President's Medal."

Upon further inquiry the following particulars were obtained:—"You see, sir," said one of the participants, "the President and Vice-President presented a medal to be played for by the thirteen point game, and we are the last ones on the first draw. It was open to the whole club, and I can assure you there has been some hair-breadth escapes for the old hands to sustain their reputation as curlers; and as it is I think the greenhorns, as they call us, have obtained the best of it so far. Perhaps you don't know what the thirteen point game is, and for your information I will explain. Each participant provides himself with three pairs of curling stones. He does his own skipping—that is, directing and sweeping; and whoever gets thirteen points first wins the match. It's splendid exercise and all the members seem to enjoy it, from the fact that in the first draw there were twenty-two participants."

The playing in the first draw resulted as follows:—

LOSERS.	WINNERS.
C. McGill,	Henry Read,
M. Millar,	D. W. Dumble,
G. S. Perks,	Andrew McNeil,
J. J. Lundy,	J. McKee,
W. G. Ferguson,	A. Moffat,
J. McClelland,	Dr. R. P. Boucher,
C. A. Conolly,	William Manson,
Bye,	E. Philp,
George Dunsford,	E. J. Hartley,
W. H. Budden,	Miles Hamilton,
A. L. Hogg,	T. P. Attrill,
T. Laplante,	Hon. R. Hamilton.
F. J. Lewis,	Robert Hall,
R. M. Orr,	F. Hilliard,
W. H. Cluxton,	T. B. Braden,
Dr. Clark,	A. St. A. Smith.

The second draw has been made and resulted as follows:—

A. St. A. Smith,	E. Philp,
A. McNeil,	Robert Hall,
Henry Read,	D. W. Dumble,
E. J. Hartley,	John McKee,
A. Moffat,	Dr. Boucher,
T. P. Attrill,	F. Hilliard,
M. Hamilton,	William Manson,
T. B. Braden,	Hon. R. Hamilton.

At the conclusion of this draw, which it is expected will be over by Saturday, the victors will be drawn again, and so on until the remaining hero takes the medal "for keeps."

The Cells.

Peterborough's prison for the pugnacious, barred bastile for the bacchanal and donated domicile for the destitute—the police cells—were empty last night.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—A[illegible] m., 12° above zero; at noon, 20° above a[illegible] 3 p. m., 16° above.

Personal.

Mr. D. V. Gladman, who has been in the post office here for two years, departed on Wednesday for Toronto, where he enters a responsible position with the firm of Bertram & Co., wholesale hardware dealers. The best wishes of his friends go with him.

The Weather Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Brisk to strong westerly to northwesterly winds; cloudy to fair colder weather, with snow flurries.

Accident.

We regret to learn that Mr. Poussette has met with an accident while tobogganing, which resulted in the breaking of his knee cap. The injury is not so severe as has been reported, and he will probably be about again in a few weeks.

The Lakefield Carnival.

Peterborough was well represented at the fancy dress skating carnival held in the village of Lakefield on Wednesday night. The Band was present and won many expressions of praise by their rendition of the musical selections. Several persons from the town appeared on the ice in costume, and Miss Huston brought with her the first prize for the best dressed lady. The attendance at the carnival was large, and those from here who attended state that it was a splended success and that they enjoyed themselves.

Judges "Sold."

One of the prizes given at the Port Hope carnival was for the best dressed little girl under ten years. The judges selected the costume which, in their opinion, merited the prize, and inquired as to the name of the wearer, recording it with the prefix "Miss." When the prizes were being given out the young "Miss" was called up to receive the trophy, and one of the judges, in a fatherly spirit, asked what her name was. "Willie," replied the truthful "maiden," and the astonished judges quickly put the prize back in its place, but the cheers the little fellow received perhaps pleased him as much as the prize would have done.

A Royal Visitor in '83.

During this summer, we have it on reliable authority that Peterborough will be honored with the presence of a right royal visitor. It is true we have not been over-favored by the presence in our midst of royal visitors, and on this occasion, due announcement having been made, many thousands of our neighbors should, and no doubt will, pour into our town. It will be the event of 1883, and will be on the programme early in July. Now our reader, who has followed us thus far, will want to know who is to be our royal visitor? Why, no less a personage than the famed Jumbo and P. T. Barnum. This great showman will visit us sure, and brings a herd of forty elephants, and as they move in procession they will be led by our Queen's favorite old Jumbo, who will have as a companion the baby elephant, born at Bridgeport, Conn., last March. In the cavalcade will be three bands, twenty tableau cars, and over one hundred gaily plumed knights. Everybody has heard of Barnum and Jumbo, and everybody knows that his Great World's Exposition is the largest, most instructive and intelligent show in the world. Independent of the elephants and other rare animals to be seen, the show gives a triple circus—three circus rings under one monster pavillion. Enough; only remember that this big show will come, and we must make the day a holiday. Watch the Review for the day and date.

Answer This Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts., we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. For sale by D. J. Tully

Mr. Thomas W. Rack, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent head-ache and distress as to often disable him from work. The medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms.

A SURE THING!

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. Nothing slighted,—except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

NEXT SESSION'S WORK.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Mr. Chamberlain, president of the Board of Trade, speaking at Swansea, said the next session of Parliament would be interesting, but not exciting. Matters relating to England and Scotland demanded consideration. He believed the recent measures passed would bring about a settled state of affairs in Ireland. The Government have done all they possibly could to legislate for Ireland, and they hoped with success. If a firm hand is required it must be exercised."

DISTRESS IN EGYPT.

ALEXANDRIA, Feb. 1.—Great distress prevails here among the poor Europeans, and many cases of extreme suffering have recently been brought to light. This condition of affairs arises from two causes, first from the heavy losses sustained by all classes in consequence of the bombardment and pillage of the city: and second, from the stagnation of business. One cause of this stagnation is the absolute inability of the fellaheen to pay the debts they contracted last spring to be paid out of the proceeds of the last season's crops, which were in many cases utterly ruined by the operations of the contending armies, or so badly damaged through lack of proper cultivation as to show but a meagre yield. Even those of the fellaheen who are able to pay positively refuse to do so. While they may acknowledge the justice of the claims, they often allege superior orders as a reason for resisting their payments, and as a matter of fact but little assistance can be obtained from the local authorities. The machinery of the mixed tribunal is cumbersome and costly, the recovery of small claims frequently costing fifty per cent. of their amount. The recent decree of the Minister of Justice granting a longer time to the fellaheen in which to pay their debts adds another elements of difficulty to the situation. The bankers, agents, and money-lenders are entirely at a loss, and are anxiously awaiting the promised provincial reforms. Meanwhile the distress increases, and it is evident that the Khedive's Government will be compelled to take some action speedily to prevent widespread destitution.

AMERICAN.

BANK ROBBERY.

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—At Kingsville. Ont., as Alf. Allworth, clerk in Smarts' bank, was locking the bank door at 11 o'clock he was pounced upon by three masked men, gagged and dragged into the bank, the key of the vault taken from him and the safe cleared out. They then locked Allworth up in the vault and left. The amount stolen is supposed to be considerable. The burglars took a northerly direction, and cut the telephone wire so as to prevent their being tracked. Smarts' bank and the post office were together, and both were cleaned out.

DUEL WITH AXES.

SOCORRO, New Mexico, Feb. 1.—Two Mexicans, rivals in love, locked themselves in a room, and fought a duel with axes. One chopped his rival in a horrible menner, servering his head from his body, while he himself is terribly cut, and cannot live.

His house was found to be in a horrible condition of filth.

THE VENDETTA.

ERIE, Feb. 1.—A bloody scene in regular Corsican vendetta style occurred here yesterday. Geo. Riddle was discovered with a terrible gash in his skull above the eye, and upon regaining consciousness made oath that he was set upon by three sons of Jos. Bottolmi, an old Corsican, whom Riddle slew in this city thirty years ago. He says since the killing of the father he has been in constant dread of his life, knowing that by Corsican custom he was condemned to destruction. After striking Riddle to the earth with an axe his assailants got into a buggy and drove off.

THE MILWAUKEE FIRE.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 1.—The inquest on the Newhall house tragedy was finished yesterday. The jury deliberated several hours and then adjourned till to-morrow. The remains of Mrs. John Gilbert have been sent to her father's home at Blood's Station, N. Y. Her husband was unable to accompany the remains.

TURBULENT TIMES.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—There are turbulent times at the Naval Academy. The cadet officers of the battalion of midshipmen have resigned, and none of the first and second classes will accept these positions. The third and fourth classes are either incompetent or afraid to accept them. Most of the first class have been put on board the Santee, under arrest. The trouble arose about some examination papers.

BOBCAYGEON.

CHRIST CHURCH.—The Independent says:—It is understood that the congregation of this church are in favor of having the Rev. Mr. Allen as their pastor. Mr. Allen is a son of Rural-Dean Allen, of Millbrook, and is at present in England.

NORWOOD.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—Mr. Glen, of this village, while chopping wood in the vicinity of Mr. D. Wigmore's, Dummer, on Monday last, had one of his feet badly cut. It appears that while cutting a stick the axe slipped out of his hands and fell with great force on the instep of his right foot, almost severing it.

LINDSAY.

ACCIDENT.—The Post says that on Saturday afternoon while playing "crack the whip" in the skating rink, Stanley Smyth, a little fellow about fifteen years of age, son of Mr. Robert Smyth, merchant, who was at the end of the "lash," was forcibly detatched from the others and thrown with great violence against a piece of scantling at the lower end of the rink. The sharp corner of the scantling struck him on the shin bone a little below the knee and cut a gaping wound about two inches long, and in to the bone. A doctor was sent for and sewed up the wound. He was then driven home and is doing nicely.

LOANING INSTEAD OF GIVING.

"They that would hold help the oppressed and toiling men of their time must go down into the conflicts of their time;" they must see how goes the fight, not from a distance, but from its very midist; thus only can we help people to help themselves. Theories are good things in their way, but facts are better. When we say that the best way to help the poor is not by gifts, but by loans, we state a fact now well tested and proved. The system of loan relief teaches independence and self-respect; every honest man or woman will be glad to receive such help, and dishonest and shiftless people will learn better ways if you insist upon putting the help, you give in form of a loan, to be repaid as soon as possible.

To carry out such a plan you must first have money to lend. Fifteen or twenty dollars will start a loan relief fund, and one hundred dollars will be sufficient, if properly administered, to do very extensive work. We limit our loans to five dollars, as this has been found sufficient to help over a very hard place, which is all we seek to do; often one dollar, or even less will be enough for such a purpose. The first question we ask is, "What security can you give?" It is not usually difficult for those who come to borrow to find some responsible person who will go security for them, but if they cannot do so we will take bank books, tools, or any articles representing the amount of the sum borrowed: but some security we must have. Next: "What time shall we give you to pay in?" We usually limit to six months, and we urge all borrowers to begin to pay in small instalments as soon as possible, that they may not feel the debt a great burden. The loan having been arranged, the borrower and his security (if it be personal) sign a paper, legally prepared, recording the transaction, and when any part of the money is returned the treasurer's receipt is given. A woman came to us last week who had been obliged to pawn her wedding-ring for two dollars; we got it from the pawnbroker, and having found its value to be four dollars, lent her that sum. Some charitable persons may say: "Why did you give it back to her?" She would have pawned it again, and probably have lost it at last.

How Lake Itasca was Named.

Years ago it was discovered that a certain lake which had long been considered the head of the Mississippi, had no claim to the honour. The explorers found a new and similar lake, from which the great river took its rise. A discussion arose as to what name would be appropriate for it. The story is that it was decided in this way:—"Let's make a new name by coining a word," said an old voyageur. "Some of you learned ones tell me what is the Latin for true." "Veritas," answered a scholar. "Well, now, what is the Latin for head?" "Caput." "Now, write the two words together by syllables." The scholar wrote on a strip of birch bark, "Ver-i-tas-ca-put." "Now drop the first and last syllables, and you'll have a good name for the lake. And "Itasca" it was.—Youth's Companion.

Tons of Dynamite.

The steamer York City, which arrived at Halifax on Wednesday from London, brought fifteen tons of dynamite for a consignee in Halifax. The fact that the dangerous explosive is to be landed at one of the city wharves, and thence trucked through the city to a magazine on the North West Arm, a distance of five miles, has caused a considerable exhibition of fear on the part of some of the civic authorities, and strict measures will be taken as far as possible to ensure the safety of the citizens.

CONFISCATION FRUSTRATED.

SOME of Mr. Mowat's supporters complain that it is a great hardship for Mr. Caldwell that he cannot make use of Mr. McLaren's private improvement for the purpose of getting out his logs. Does it ever occur to these critics to consider what would be Mr. Caldwell's position, if Mr. McLaren had not spent his money to make the stream available? The stream was not "floatable" in its natural state and the improvements being on Mr. McLaren's private property Mr. Caldwell could not have entered there to make them himself, so he could not have utilized the stream. If the public convenience requires the use of this or others streams they cannot be monopolized by one proprietor, for, as in the similar case of railway construction, the owner's rights can be bought out in pursuance of a private agreement or in default of this, by an enforced arbitration. The wrong that it was attempted to perpetrate in their case was the confiscation of Mr. McLaren's rights over his private property, instead of the purchase of them in accordance with law and justice.

The wrong doing of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues in giving aid and assistance to Mr. Caldwell in this attempt to infringe upon the rights of his neighbour to his own property is greatly aggravated by the fact that their motive was the wish to reward a political supporter with the confiscated property of a political opponent.

THE ONTARIO BOUNDARY.

The Reformers are certain that Ontario must have that portion of the disputed territory awarded to the Province by the arbitrators, and they are equally certain that it is of enormous value. They estimate the timber on it to be worth $250,000,000, or $2,500 to each square mile, while the timber limits 150 miles from Hamilton are sold at one-fifth that sum. However, the enormous value of the territory is, with them, a matter of certainty. But mark how they depreciate the territory when one suggests that Ontario is entitled to all of it. Hear the Hamilton Evening Times: "No white man has ever been there; nobody knows whether there is rock, soil or water in that strip; the cost of surveying it and marking the boundary would be more than the strip is worth, yet the Tories want to throw up the natural boundary—the Albany river—for the sake of their idea." That refers to the country north of the Albany river, of course. Well, as much is known of that as of the greater part of the country south of the Albany river, and so far as can be know now, it is just as valuable.

But the point is this: If the boundary of Ontario runs to the James bay, then it runs due west from James bay till it intersects the line running north from the Mississippi. If it is important that we should have part of our territory, it is just as important that we should have the whole of it. If it is ours, we want it; if it is not ours, we want none of it. But these precious patriots who are willing to wade in gore knee high to get the portion awarded us by the arbitrators are quite as resolute that we must not have the rest. O, dear, no! That part of it is a wilderness. The cost of surveying it and marking the boundary would be more than it is worth. If no white man has been there, how do they know it is worthless? They don't know anything of the sort. Mr. Bell says there is very good land there. The Reformers are determined not to try to get all of Ontario's territory in any way, and they are determined not to try to get any of it in the right way. The enemies of Ontario in this matter are the members of the Mowat Government.—Hamilton Spectator.

Gen. Skobeleff's Great Speech.

M. Askoff, who was on intimate terms with General Skobeleff, publishes in the last number of his paper, the St. Peterburg Rus, an interesting account of the celebrated speech to the Servian delegation that rang like a war cry through Europe. Is appears that the speech in reality was never delivered, but was concocted by Camille Farcy from statements of students, pierced by all the ingenuity and talent at the command of the Nouvelle Revue. It contained much Skobeleff had said, but it is greatly exaggerated. Gen. Skobeleff allowed himself to be persuaded not to deny its authenticity, and afterwards received the thanks of M. Gambetta, who said the speech had done great good, filled all hearts with patriotic ardor, and aroused the hopes of a Franco-Russian alliance. "Cela a pris comme un trainee de poudre," he said. "Look at the telegrams I have just received from Marseilles. The fleet and the army are wild with enthusiasm." Gambetta further spoke of the value of a Franco-Russian alliance, saying among other things, "Thank God that you have no Parliament; if you had one you would go on talking for over a hundred years without doing anything."

FIRE PROTECTION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—An article appeared in your issue of of Thursday evening's REVIEW regarding our protection against fire. I am glad to see the matter taken up, because as a merchant, our insecurity is such at the present time that no insurance company can cover it.

What is our fire protection? Simply a fire engine very frequently incapable of doing more than an ordinary hand engine, and a team of horses sometimes unmanageable and balky. Now as promptness in getting at the fire before it has made headway is of the greatest importance, a hand engine would certainly have done more of late to save property than our present steam engine. What have been the results of nearly all the fires during the past few months? Complete destruction of the buildings. Suppose such an experience as that in the cities; what a tremendous amount of property would be consumed each day. We know, however, it is otherwise, the cause of the difference being promptness and plenty of water. Now it is absolutely necessary that a change be made sooner or later. If now the cost would be trivial, if later (after some block of stores are burned and some merchants lose not only their goods but their places of doing business, the indirect loss which insurance cannot cover) the cost will be a personal one to some of probably all they have.

Now it seems to me that arrangements might be made through the Council for the use of the hydrants of the Peterborough Water Company on George street, the cost of the same to be met by a tax on the merchants and property holders who derive benefit from them. Of course it is desirable that good fire protection be established all over the town, but if such were done and a general tax made, the merchants on George street would have to pay the "lion's share" as in all other town improvements, but if we have to pay only for such as we are benefitted from, the cost to each will be so small as to hardly cause a consideration. I am sure if some one of our older merchants would take the matter up there would be no trouble in securing the desired protection.

Your truly,
A. L. DAVIS.

ORANGE MEETING.

MASONIC MEETING.

The regular communication of Clementi lodge of A. F. & A. M. will be held in the Masonic hall on Queen street, in Lakefield, on Tuesday evening next at 7:30.

CAURIOUS.—VERY!

A gentleman living not far from Lakefield, one day this week purchased a thremometer and hung it out by the side of his house, and, meeting a friend while in the village shortly after doing so, enquired whether cold weather would damage it, being out of doors, and seemed quite anxious to know if there would be any danger of the instrument being hurt by exposure to the cold. The hearty laughter of his friend brought our amateur meteorologist to a realization of the riduculous position in which he had placed himself.

LINDSAY.

RECEPTION.—A most enthusiastic reception was accorded the successful rinks of the Lindsay Curling Club on their return from the Montreal bonspiel on Tuesday night. Great preparations had been made to give them a grand reception; an energetic committee had been working for days perfecting arrangements; fireworks were purchased, the band engaged, and bonfires piled up ready to set a match to. The rinks arrived in town by the 7:10 train and were met at the station by an immense concourse of people, the whole town turning out to greet them. A procession of over four hundred torch-bearers, headed by the band, was formed at the station and preceded the successful curlers, who were seated in a sleigh. Almost every person in the great crowd carried brooms. As soon as the procession started the bonfires were kindled and the whole town illuminated. Kent street was a blaze of fire, torches and fireworks. The line of march was marked by numbers of rockets, which were set off at points along the route. In the conveyance were Messrs. Flavelle, Wallace, Bradburn, Needler, McDonell, Matthie and Knowlson. Mr. McMurtry, skip of one of the rinks, was detained at Bowmanville. The $250 cup won at Montreal was carried aloft in the midst of the curlers. After the procession had traversed the principal streets it proceeded to the rink, where a meeting was held, which was addressed by the members of the rinks who had been at Montreal. Mr. A. Hudspeth, president of the Curling Club, made a stirring speech, and announced that a citizens' cup would be given for annual competition by the Lindsay Club membership. A grand banquet was given on Wednesday night at the Benson House, at which congratulatory speeches were made of a most complimentary character.

Buried in a Snow Slide.

On Tuesday night one of the most disastrous snow slides ever known in the Rocky Mountain regions occurred near Crested Butte, Colorado. Thirty men employed in Howard Smith's coal mine were startled from their sleep by a rumbling noise, and almost instantly the avalanche was upon them. The building in which they were sleeping was crushed to atoms and the occupants buried down the mountain. A rescuing party started from Crested Butte as soon as the news was received, and after several hours' labour the men were uncovered. Seven of them were dead and eighteen fatally wounded. All the company's expensive machinery was destroyed. A passenger train yesterday, when within six miles of Crested Butte, divided, the engine going ahead to clear the track. When four miles from the coaches the engine was struck by the snow slide and ditched, and is under twenty feet of snow. The wrecking engine could not get nearer than two miles of the coaches, and returned for provisions for the starving passengers.

An Uncommon Kind of Explosion.

On Tuesday afternoon a terrible accident occurred at the Peninsular Car Works, Adrian. Two men were carrying a ladle of molten iron, with which they were going through a covered passage-way that separated to buildings. The passage was icy, and one of the men slipped; the ladle of melted ore was thrown upon the ice, which instantly exploded with terrible force, and the two men were terribly burned. John Ray, a young man, was lifted and thrown by the force of the explosion through a window ten feet from the ground, clear out of doors. His backbone laid bare, the flesh torn away from it, while he is badly burned about the breast and abdomen. Adelbert Smith, the other man, has injuries which will very likely prove fatal. He is horribly burned. The building was set on fire, but the flames were soon extinguished. Another man was also badly burned about the head, but not fatally.

More Resurrectionists.

During Monday night some parties unknown broke into the cemetery vault of the little village of St. Polycarpe, about five miles from Corteau Landing, and stole the bodies of Antoine Martin, 60, Georgina Legault, 23, and and Adelia Legault, 26. The robbery was only discovered some considerable time after it is supposed to have taken place. The relatives of the stolen dead came to town this morning and reported the occurrence to the High Constable, who will at once take steps to discover, if possible, the perpetrators of the outrage. No trace of the resurrectionists, or of the whereabouts of the bodies, has so far been discovered, but it is reasonably supposed, in view of the numerous desecrations of cemeteries which have occurred recently, that they have been brought to Montreal. The residents of St. Polycarpe are greatly excited over the affair, and there is a general feeling of indignation throughout the surrounding districts, and especially in those which have been the scene of these ghoulish depredations during the past few weeks, which bodes ill for any who are caught red-handed at the nefarious work.—Montreal Witness.

Benefit of Laughter.

Probably there is not the remotest corner or inlet of the minute blood vessels (life vessels) of the body that does not feel some wavelet from great convulsion (hearty laughter) shaking the central man. The blood moves more lively—probably its chemical, electric, or vital condition is distinctly modified—it conveys a different impression to all the organs of the body, as it visits them on that particular mystic journey when a man is laughing than what it does at other times. And so, we doubt not, a good laugh may lengthen a man's life, conveying a distinct stimulus to the vital forces. And the time may come when the physicians, attending more closely than at present, unfortunately, they are apt to do, to the innumerable subtle influences which the soul exerts upon its tenement of clay, shall subscribe to torpid patients so many peals of laughter, to be undergone on such and such a time, just as they now do that far more objectionable prescription, a pill or an electric or galvanic shock; and shall study the best and most effective method of producing the required effect in each patient.—Good Health.

Personal! To Men Only!

The Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. N. B.—No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed.

THE CHOLERA IN CHIAPAS.

Frightful Mortality of the Plague—1,000 Deaths in a Town of 6,000.

The Government organ of the State of Chiapas, Mexico, publishes a long article on the cholera, which has scourged the southern part of the State, and which has not yet disappeared. The General Government is implored to render assistance, as the number of victims is immense and the misery is great. The Pueblo Libre says: "Our State of Chiapas has suffered a series of misfortunes. Floods first swept away part of the capital, and, in the hot zone (tierra caliente) crops and fields were destoyed. Then in 1881 the locusts devoured everything that was green and left our farms and forests a perfect desert. Then they returned and played the same havoc in 1882, to be shortly followed by the cholera scourge."

A letter written from the same State early in December says:—"Sanitary cordons were established round the tierra caliente—the hot region—where this sporadic outbreak of cholera raged with fiercest intensity. The cold and temperate regions were not affected. Whole families died in a single night. On some plantations there are only three or four people left alive. Many bodies have been devoured by the dogs, because those who were stricken were at once abandoned. The town of Tuxtla had 8,000 inhabitants, 600 of whome are dead. Of the 6,000 in Tonala, upwards of 1,000 are dead. This town suffered most severely, twenty or thirty persons dying daily. This horrible epidemic broke out in July, 1882, on a farm bordering on the river Chiapas. Thence it extended to San Bartolo, where it worked havoc for a month, and then moved onwards, smiting Chiapas and Tuxtla almost on the same day. It remained in these towns about twelve or fourteen days, and then it went toward Tehuantepec. Thence it penetrated to the Atlantic and caused many deaths in Tabasco and other places. It is certain that it is a disease that only effects the hottest regions, as not a case occurred in San Cristobal, Las Casas, although many moved there from the infected region. Some think the outbreak occurred owing to an immense number of locusts having been burried at the farm near Chiapas river, where the epidemic broke out. They were not sufficiently covered. The hot weather cracked the ground and pestiential exhalations followed, which may have bred the disease."

JAPANESE CRUELTY.

Resting on a large Cutane dish is a mat formed of rounds of glass held together by plaited threads, on which is a living fish with gills and mouth moving regularly; at its back rises a bank of white shreds resembling damp isinglass, but in reality a colored sea weed, while the fish itself rests on green algæ. In front is a pile of small slices of raw fish garnished with a radiating tuft of variegated bamboo leaves. A portion of the raw fish from the pile in front of the living victim is now placed on a saucer and passed to one guest, and so with the rest, till the pile is consumed. Then, to my disgust, the serving girl, not having enough in the pile for all, raised the skin of the upper side of the fish, which I now saw was already loose, and simply picked up slice after slice from the living creature—which, although alive, had been already carved; nay, even the pile of flesh already served consisted of the lower half of the creature's body. There is a refinement of barbaric cruelty in all this which contrasts strangely with the geniality and loving nature of the Japanese, for with consummate skill the fish has been so carved that no vital part has been touched; the heart, the gills, the liver and the stomach are left intact, while the damp algæ on which the fish rests suffice to keep the lungs in action. The miserable object with lustrous eye looks upon us while we consume its own body; and rarely is it given to any creature to put in a living presence at its own entombment; but, if being eaten is to be buried, this most miserable of victims to man's sensual pleasure actually enjoyed that rarest of opportunities. This cruelty is practised only by the rich.—Dresser's Japan.

Two Bears Clear a Supper Table.

Two bears brought to this city on Saturday night by Lorenzo and Michael Petitito, itinerant musicians, created quite a panic in Mrs. Luccarini's boarding-house, last night. The Italians brought the animals to Philadelphia for the purpose of giving street exhibitions. They took up temporary quarters at Mrs. Luccarini's house, and the bears were placed in a shed in the rear part of the yard. The musicians started out yesterday morning for a jaunt through the city, leaving their charges carelessly tied. The appetites of the shaggy denizens of the thickets became considerably sharpened, and when Mrs. Muccarini, forgetting that the bears were there, went out into the shed last night to get some coal they suddenly grasped her about the body and squeezed her affectionately, preparatory to making a meal of the frightened woman. She yelled lustily, and a number of the boarders went to her assistance and dragged her from her perilous position into the house. The animals, however, had become loosened and pursued the party indoors. The human occupants precipitately fled through the front door, leaving the intruders in possession. The bears cleared the supper table in the most approved style and demolished nearly all of Mrs. Luccarini's chinaware, besides breaking several chairs. The owners arrived upon the scene when the excitement was at its height and easily captured the animals. Nobody was injured.—Philadelphia North America Jan. 22.

THE great hotel at Rockaway Beach was sold recently to General Francis E. Barlow for $175,000.

THE Prussian government estimates the cost of the proposed net-work of state railroads at 76,125,000 marks.

THE parliament of Victoria, Australia, has been dissolved owing to the obstructive tactics of the opponents of the colonial land bill.

LET THE UNBELIEVING TRY IT.—One package of Fountain of Health will do more to make the aged and weak feel young and strong than any other medicine at four times the cost. Price 25 cents.

THE New Jersey assembly has passed a bill making four men out of a jury of six and nine out of a jury of twelve competent to render a verdict.

"Barkis is willing." But it's because Barkis can't help himself. He has to believe facts. Churchill's Ointment never fails to cure old sores when all else fails. Twenty-five cents a box.

AN extensive land slide has filled up the West Shore railroad cut at Yankee Hill. It is thought it will delay the completion of the work for a month.

GOOD ADVICE.—Keep the head cool, the feet dry and warm, the bowels open and the blood pure by using Hope's Regulating Pills and Fountain of Health. Sold at 10 and 25 cents everywhere.

THE Marquis de Roys and six subordinates have been committed to trial at Paris for breach of trust, fraud and manslaughter in connection with the attempted colonization of New Ireland.

WILLIAM and Maggie Cooke, who were so dangerously wounded by Mann, the young English labourer, at Little Rideau, have recovered, and are now going about their usual business. They will be the principal witnesses against the murderer.

SMITH MEDICINE CO—Gentlemen.—I have made a trial of one box of Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy, with such good effect that I have no hesitation in recommending it to the public as a prompt and reliable medicine. In fact, those who use it once will always do it. Yours truly J, Harvie, 172 Cadieux street, Montreal.

HIS Excellency the Governor-General and suite returned to Ottawa, Wednesday, and were met by a guard of honor from the Foot Guards and by Sir John Macdonald and the other ministers in town, as well as by many of the prominent citizens.

IT made me feel like a "Band of Music," was the rather forcible expression of an individual who was praising "Pectoria," the great remedy for Coughs and Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis. It is safe, pleasant and effectual. If you suffer, try it. For sale by all druggists and general dealers at 25 cents a bottle.

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.

NEVER GIVE UP. If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & Macdonald.

Predictions.

We believe that a close study of astromony and the relationship of this science to the weather of our earth, will yet lead to the discovery of many very important facts; but that any observer can confidently assert or prognosticate that owing to such and such planetary conjunctions or conditions upon a certain date or dates, a disastrous hurricane, flood or earth quake will result, we cannot for an instant believe. The storm or earthquake may occur on or close to the dates given, but the occurrence will be a mere accident or coincidence which may not again happen in a life-time. We much rather cling to the idea that certain periods in a year are as keys to other periods yet to arrive, and that each month has its ordinary characteristic and its exceptional or extraordinary ones; and that it is quite possible to anticipate which of these are the most likely to occur in any given sections.—Ex.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.
The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

In this preparation the Gum never separates, and all its antispasmodic, expectorant, tonic, and balsamic properties are preserved. This Syrup, carefully prepared at a low temperature, contains a large quantity of the finest picked Gum in complete solution.
Its remarkable power in relieving certain forms of Bronchitis, and its almost specific effect in curing obstinate hacking Coughs, is now well known to the public at large.
Sold by all respectable chemists. Price, 25 and 50 cents a bottle.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1883.

E. Gripton.

The Stencil Cutter, is in town. See advertisement in another column.

Church Concert.

Remember the concert which will be given this evening in Bradburn's Opera House by the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral, under the patronage of His Lordship Bishop Jamot.

The Bible Society.

A public meeting in aid of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held in St. Andrew's Church last night at which an able address was delivered by the Rev. A. A. Drummond. A full report of the meeting is held over until to-morrow.

Entertainment.

On Monday evening, February the 5th, at 7.30 o'clock, one of those popular entertainments held under the auspices of the Ashburnham Parochial Association will be given in the schoolroom. The admission fee is low, ten cents, and the programme is as usual long and interesting.

The Weather Probabilities.

The weather to-day is cold and cloudy. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 10 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh westerly to northerly winds; fair, decidedly cold weather, with snow flurries in some localities.

A Startling Statement.

During his address at the Bible Society meeting on Thursday night, the Rev. Mr. Drummond stated that there were in India sixty thousand widows between the age of six and sixteen. These unfortunate girls, whose marriage ceremony consisted of pledges made by their own parents and the parents of their young husbands, once having been thus promised, are never allowed to marry again, but are made to toil during the remaining years of their lives at the most common drudgery.

A Canine Runaway.

A dog attached to a handsled, on which a boy was riding, while driving on Park street this forenoon, took it into his head to act like some horses which it had most probably seen, and ran away. The sleigh sped along at a rapid rate, and striking the feet of a girl, knocked the boy off the sleigh and dragged the girl some distance before she could extricate herself from her uncomfortable and dangerous position. This habit of riding behind dogs on the sidewalks is not a safe one, and should not be encouraged.

POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY, Feb. 2.—Mr. Brundreth, station master, charged Wm. Morgan and A. Choate with acting in a disorderly manner at the Midland Station and breaking a pane of glass. It appeared from the evidence that through a friendly scuffle the glass had been broken, and the defendants stated that they had offered to pay for it, but Mr. Brundreth said that there had been too much disturbance at the station and he wished to have it checked. The defendants were fined $1 and ordered to pay $1 to the company.

The Cells.

The police cells were again unoccupied last night—no prisoners and no tramps.

Personal.

Mr. T. G. Hallick, general agent for Gorman's Great Irish Comedy Company and Muldoon's Picnic Combination, is at the Oriental Hotel.

Vital Statistics.

The number of births, marriages and deaths in the town of Peterborough for the month of January, as registered, was as follows:—

Births	13
Marriages	14
Deaths	8

Ladies' Hair.

Mr. Dorenwend, of the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, will be at Phelan's Hotel this evening with a large assortment of hair goods. Be sure and call as his goods are first class, and he leaves by first train to-morrow. Unfortunately the notice of his arrival miscarried.

A Deal in Cattle.

Mr. Joseph Trennum sold on Wednesday fourteen head of cattle to Mr. R. Wainwright, the total weight being 15,200 pounds, for $768. A bull calf from the herd of Mr. John Dryden was weighed on the market scales to-day, which was eleven months old, and which weighed 900 pounds. This calf also belonged to Mr. Trennum.

Church Opening

The Rev. E. F. Torrance, of Peterborough, took part in the dedication services of the Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, preaching an able sermon on Sunday afternoon. Mr. D. Galletly led the singing, and at the service on the following evening, the choir was composed of Mr. Galletly and Mrs. Dickson, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Gillespie and Mr. Hawley of Campbellford.

A Sad Story

A private letter from San Francisco conveys the sad intelligence that Mr. German Brooks, formerly of this town, engaged in the woollen manufacture, and who was well known to many of our readers, together with other members of his family, was recently murdered in California. His son, Arthur, has been arrested in connection with the tragedy. Further particulars will probably be received in the course of a few days.

Robins.

Mr. H. Collins, Reeve of North Monaghan, informed us that this morning, Candlemas Day, he saw a number of robins on his crab trees feeding on some frozen fruit. Is not this an unusual occurrence? We have heard that bears are supposed to come out of their dens on this day, and if they fail to see their shadows retreat for another nap, but we never heard before of robins facing the February cold. We learn that Mr. Wm. Aldridge also saw some robins and a bird he could not recognize feeding with some sparrows on grain thrown out for these immigrants.

Valentines.

As the 14th of February draws nigh the bookstore windows become full of those pictures called "valentines." There valentines are of two classes, intended to satisfy two different natures. The one class is for those who derive pleasure from seeing other pleased, and the other is for those who, like the boys who threw stones at the frogs, are pleased with the sufferings of others, although there are those who can smile when they open an envelope in which they may expect to find an invitation or a billet doux and disclose the picture of hideous monster. The assortment this year is varied and the stock large, so the postal department may expect a harvest.

Railway Notes.

The Mail of February 1st says:—Yesterday morning the contractor for the work of making that portion of the Ontario and Quebec railway at Belleville, called at W. A. Shepard's employment agency on King street west and asked if they could have 150 men ready to go to work to-day. The agent at once said yes, and by three o'clock the required number had signed the contract papers and will proceed to work this morning. It was an interesting sight to sit and watch the men as they came in to look after the employment.

Mr. Jos. Haggas having retired from the position of Mechanical Superindent of the Midland Railway, he has been succeeded by Mr. J. D. Barnett, formerly of Stratford.

Material for building a new brick round-house at Uxbridge to replace the one which was burned, has been ordered.

The Post says that on Monday evening Mr. J. G. Macklin, engineer of the Midland, arrived in Lindsay by the night train. On Tuesday morning he went over the road as far as Wick on the Nipissing branch. We believe that Mr. Macklin's visit was in connection with the immediate opening up of the Wick branch. It is understood that the order has been given to clear the snow off the track and to ballast the line where it is practicable in such a way that the line can be used for traffic at once.

IF YOU WANT large fresh oysters dished up in good style, go to T. Darcy's Restaurant and Oyster Parlour.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy.

A marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Head Ache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50 cts. For sale by J. D. Tully

The Temperature.

The lowest reading of the Rev. V. Clementi's thermometer during last night was 9° below zero. The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a. m., 10° above zero; at noon, 18° above and at 3 p. m., 20° above.

Runaway.

Mr. Robert Deyell, of Otonabee, left his horses standing in front of Mr. Paterson's tannery at noon to-day, while he went into a blacksmith shop near there. The horses became frightened and ran to the corner of Hunter street, where the sleigh struck a lamp post and shattered the gas lamp and deposited a load of wood on the sidewalk. They sped on towards George street, but the traces becoming detached, the reins, which were tied to the sleigh, drew them up. The sleigh was not damaged and the horses escaped injury.

Muldoon's Picnic.

Gorman's Irish Comedy Company will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday evening, the 10th of February, in the mirth-provoking comedy, "Muldoon's Picnic." The company received very favorable notices from the press in every place they have been, among them being the following from the North Adams News:—

"Gorman's Great Irish Comedy Company and Muldoon Picnic Combination had an immense house here last night, and there was standing room only at eight o'clock. There were some of the finest things, both musical and eccentric, rendered in the olio ever witnessed here before, with unbounded appreciation, and some of the most laughable scenes which are seen given, and called forth uproarious laughter from the delighted audience from the rise of the curtain until the fall."

Answer This Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts., we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. For sale by D. J. Tully

A SURE THING!

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. Nothing slighted,—except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—AN EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcule which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly affected with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

WEST DURHAM.

The Conservative Convention at Millbrook on Friday unanimously nominated Dr. Brereton as their candidate for East Durham.

THE WRITS.

The nomination has been fixed for February 20th and the poll for February 27th. As there is little more than three weeks, the friends of good government should work hard.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

On Wednesday, January 31st, the Industrial Schools Bill was passed through its remaining stages.

The St. James' Rectory Lands Bill after considerable discussion was withdrawn.

In committee on the Municipal Institutions Bill Mr. Meredith moved an amendment:—

"That the Bill be amended so as to leave to County Councils the power to fix the salaries of gaolers without interference of any Government officer."

Mr. Mowat refused to relinquish this usurped power, and his followers by a vote of 44 to 21 gave their voices in favour of Mr. Mowat being allowed to tell the County Council what amount of money they must pay to the friends whom he selects for office, while the ratepayers have to pay them.

On Thursday the Lieutenant Governor prorogued the House after giving assent to the meagre legislation of the session.

Arthur as a Janitor.

The President performed duty as watchman at the Treasury Department, Washington, for a short time recently. He called at the west door about two o'clock; the watchman did not recognise him, and was about to inform him that the department was closed to visitors when the President remarked that he would like the messenger to see if Secretary Folger was in his office. The watchman believing his visitor to be a high official, volunteered to go to the Secretary's office, if the stranger would stand watch and see that no one got in. The President complied and took the watchman's station till the latter returned.

REVOLUTION IN ECUADOR.

PANAMA, Jan. 24.—The details of the capture of Esmeraldas, Ecuador, by the revolutionists, show that a small force of revolutionists attacked the outposts in three different quarters, and drove them in. The centre division of the assailants reached the square and occupied the houses while the second division reached the first line of the trenches in front of them. The besiegers all threw up earthworks and the garrison in the inner trenches resisted for forty-four hours, the firing being continued. The garrison finally abandoned the position, after sacking the stores and dwelling houses and firing the city in three places. The attacking party had 13 killed and 26 wounded; the garrison 40 killed and an equal number wounded. An American named Terros was among the killed. The defeated government troops left and went to Guayaquil. The revolution is almost a complete success. The Colombian exiles in Obando crossed the river and defeated the government forces at San Luis. The revolutionary Governor will expell the Jesuites and establish restrictions upon the prerogatives of the clergy. In Guayaquil a panic prevails, and the people are fleeing. The seducer is believed to be Seymour Scroford, a village schoolmaster in the neighbourhood, who has fled. The girls will be arrested at daybreak.

A Self-Made Rooster.

YUMA, Cal., has a famous rooster, and this is the way it came about: It is emphatically a self-made bird. A certain firm, amongst other things, sell eggs. It so happened that all the eggs were sold out of a particular can save one. Meantime the sun went on getting hotter and hotter, and pesently the egg began to warm up to the situation The progress of the novel solar gestation was watched with an absorbing curiosity by the store people. About the time the mercury reached one hundred and twenty-four degrees in the shade the chicken began to peck its way out of the shell, and it emerged as defiant and infant rooster as ever wore spurs. It grew apace, and to-day its habits are as eccentric as its manner of birth. It is exceedingly fierce, and will attack a man, a dog, or anything that comes in its way. All a visitor has to do to insure a delivery of battle by this pugnacious rooster is to hold up his foot, and straitway the bird will fly at him viciously. We have heard of many ways of hatching chickens, but a rooster hatched by natural heat in a tin can is a little ahead of our previous experience.

HOW CLOTHES-PINS ARE MADE.

A writer thus describes a clothes-pin factory: The process of making the pins is a very interesting one. The wood used is mainly white birch and beech. The logs are cut and hauled to the shores of the lake or streams emptying into it, whence they are floated down to the mill. As fast as required they are hauled into the mill by a windlass and chain, worked by steam power, and sawed into lengths of sixteen or twenty-two inches, the former to be made into pins, and the latter into boards for the boxes required in packing. The sixteen inch lengths are next sawed into boards of the required thickness by a single machine, then into strips of the proper size by a gang of twelve circular saws, and finally into five-inch lengths by a gang of three saws. The logs have now been cut up into blocks about five inches long and three-fourths of an inch square. Falling as they leave the saws on to an elevator belt, they are carried into an upper story, and, returning to the first floor, are deposited in troughs, whence they are fed to the turning lathes, of which there are several, each being capable of turning eighty pins per minute. They are then passed to the slotting machines, in which a peculiar arrangement of knives inserted in a circular saw gives the slot the proper flange, after which they are automatically carried by elevator belts to the drying bins on the second floor, where they are subjected to a higher temperature, generated by steam pipes, until thoroughly seasoned. There are several of these bins, the largest of which has a capacity of 100 boxes (72,000 pins) and the smaller ones fifty.

The pins are now ready for polishing and packing. The polishing is accomplished by means of perforated cylinders or drums, each capable of holding forty bushels, in which the pins are placed and kept constantly revolving until they become as smooth as if polished by hand with the finest sandpaper. A few minutes before this process is completed a small amount of tallow is thrown in the drums with the pins, after which a few more revolutions gives them a beautiful glossy appearance. The polishing drums are suspended directly over the packing counter on the first floor of the mill, and being thus immediately beneath the ceiling of the floor above, are readily filled through scuttles from the drying bins on the second floor, and as easily empted upon the counter below, where they are sorted into first and second grades and packed in boxes of five gross each. The sorting and packing are done by girls; 250 boxes are packed per day.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1883.

REFUSING THE FRANCHISE.

Politicians could hardly have placed themselves in a more ignominious position than Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have assumed in regard to the extension of the franchise. The tricky manner in which they have paltered with this question is absolutely disgraceful, and shows that they are really averse to a true liberal Reform, and are only guided by the supposed exigencies of their party.

It will be remembered that when these self-styled "Reformers" introduced the farmers' sons'franchise the Conservatives objected to this class legislation not because they wished to refuse the franchise to them, but because they could see no justice in excluding others from the privilege. The Government and their supporters steadily opposed a fair extension of the franchise, thus showing that they were guided solely by party interests, being actuated by the idea, erroneous as we believe, that our young agriculturalists were favourable to them and would vote for them out of gratitude. It was votes not justice at which they were aiming.

Under the pressure of public opinion they granted the income franchise, but even in this they again displayed the narrowness of their views. They were with good reason afraid of the votes of our young and rising men, so they hedged in this niggardly boon with every possible restriction. Its operation was unnecessarily postponed, there were restrictive provisions as to residence, the voter had to abandon his right to exemption from taxation on the small income that might suffice for a bare living, and he was compelled to pay these taxes by a certain date, which was not required of any other class of voters.

In short the object seemed to be, not to facilitate the acquirement of the franchise by our intelligent young men, but to put every possible obstacle in their way.

The Conservative party, the true liberals of our country, condemned this illiberal policy, this shuffling with the question. At the convention at Toronto last year one of the most prominent resolutions in which the platform of the party was then set forth, was in favour of a more liberal and equitable extension of the franchise.

Mr. Mowat and his so-called "Reformers" in their turn met in convention. By means of a committee they elaborated a series of resolutions to formulate their platform, and then had them printed and published for the information of the delegates and others.

In this authoritative exposition of their policy, the reader looked in vain for any foreshadowing of an extention of the franchise or of the removal of the present unjust restrictions. There was not a word, not a hint of such a measure. Conservatives could advocate a liberal extension of the electorate as a chief point of their policy, but the "Reformers" thought it unworthy even of mention.

It occurred, however, to some individual that it would not do to seem less liberal than the Conservatives, so a resolution was hastily drawn up, vaguely promising an extension of the franchise at some indefinite period. This afterthought, this eleventh hour attempt to seem as liberal as their opponents, was entrusted to two gentlemen, as proposer and seconder, who were fair representatives of their party, for according to the report of their organ they had not one word to say in favour of the motion. In all their body they could not find one advocate for the grant of the voting power to our young men.

In the Provincial Legislature the Conservatives introduced and supported a motion in favour of the extension of the franchise. Mr. Mowat and his "liberal" colleagues and supporters curtly refused this boon and voted against it as one man.

Again they were scared at the sight of their own illiberality, and to evade the censure that they felt they deserved, they put up one of their party to move a resolution, which, though refusing any present redress, gave vague promises of a consideration of the matter after the election. Mr. Meredith and the Conservatives voted against this unworthy postponement of a reform which they had thus forced their opponents to admit was required, but Mr. Mowat called upon his followers and they joined with him in giving their voices against any reform at present.

Though defeated, the Conservatives were not disheartened. Mr. Meredith moved in amendment to the Election Bill to confer the franchise on the sons of mechanics and others not now entrusted with it.

Driven to desperation, the Mowat phalanx now resorted to a still meaner trick.

They raised the point of order that the matter had already been decided by the House in favour of a postponement of any reform, and by their votes sustained the Speakers' ruling; thus shirking a further direct refusal of the franchise, though as effectually hindering it by this device.

A Conservative proposition to remove the present unjust restrictions on the income franchise, was treated with the same contumely, even a moments' consideration being refused to it.

A third motion in favour of a reduction in the amount of income necessary for the franchise, found Mr. Mowat and his "Reformers" again in invincible opposition to a liberal reform.

What a glorious position for self-styled "Reformers," for pretended "Liberals." The Conservatives propose to extend the franchise. Mr. Mowat, unwillingly and tardily, is driven to a reluctant acquiescence in the necessity of the change thus advocated, but puts every possible obstacle in its way. Well may he fear making the popular voice more effectual.

ANOTHER RUSH OF IMMIGRANTS.

Canvassing Scandinavia and Denmark—More England Farmers.

It is probable that next year will witness a much larger influx of immigrants than even last year. The steamship companies are already bestirring themselves, and the Government agents on the other side have given in for hard work. Mr. John dyke the Government Immigration Agent at Liverpool, acting under instructions from the Minister of Agriculture, through Sir A. T. Galt, is at present on an extended tour through Denmarck, Norway and Sweden, with a view to inducing an increase of emigration from the countries. Besides ventilating the advantages of Canada through the native newspapers, and the distribution of pamphlets on the Dominion as a place of settlement, Mr. Dyke is appointing agents at the various centres of population to keep the matter before the eyes of the people and to make the necessary arrangement, for the passages of those who may wish to emigrate. So far Mr. Dyke has met with unqualified success, the matter exciting the liveliest interest among the people of the north of Europe, and hundreds of those he has so far met announce their intention of emigrating as soon as they can settle up their affairs at home. In the meantime the emigration hum is being well maintained in Great Britain and Ireland. Several large emigration parties of the more respectable agricultural class have been organized in Yorkshire and other farming districts of both England and Scotland, and will sail early in the spring. Quite a favorable impression has been made among this class by the publication of the report of Mr. John Stephenson, of Cropton, Yorkshire, who was appointed by a committee of the farmers of the county to report on Manitoba and the Northwest as a place of settlement, and who spent most of last summer in the country. This report, published in the shape of notes, is most favorable to the country. Only a limited number of the pamphlets have been published, but the Allan Line is publishing half a million more for gratuitous distribution throughout Britain, and a translation is being made into the Scandinavian tongue. The Canadian Pacific Railway is also distributing some of their pamphlets broadcast throughout the land. The White Cross Line and the Societe Postale Francaise de l'Atlantique are now making arrangements with the Government for bringing over large numbers of French and German emigrants during the coming summer. —Montreal Star.

A Halifax Sensation.

A despatch from Halifax says the talk of the city is the case of a leading barrister of the Province who is reported to have committed a violent assault upon his wife, beating her brutally, and afterwards discharging a gun at her, some of the shot in which entered her legs. It was rumored that she had died from her wounds, but this proved incorrect. The woman refuses to prosecute her husband, hence no legal proceedings have yet been taken, though it is understood the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty are enquiring into the matter with a view to having him arrested. A few years ago the lawyer referred to held a portfolio in the Nova Scotia Government. He was defeated at the elections of 1878, but in June last was returned to the Local House by his old county. A later despatch says that Otto Weeks, Q. C., and a member of the Provincial Parliament for the county of Guysboro', was arrested at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty, on a charge in connection with his recent brutal assault on his wife. He was afterwards released on bail.

A Table of Remnants to select from, astonishingly low at Turnbull's.

THE PROMISED LAND.

How Palestine Came to be Filled With Waste Places.

I was once crossing a series of undulating ranges abutting on Mount Hermon with an English tourist who was making merry at the utterly barren appearance of the "promised land." It turned out, however, that his attempted wit served to sharpen our observation, and we found that all the hill-sides had once been terraced by human hands. A few miles further on we came to Rashelya, where the vineyards still flourish on such terraces, and we had no difficulty in coming to the conclusion that the bare terraces, from which lapse of time had worn away the soil, were once trellised with the vine, the highest emblem of prosperity and joy. Similar terraces were noticed by Drake and Palmer in the Desert of Judea, far from any modern civilization. It is rash to infer that because a place is desolate now it must always have been so, or always remain so. The Arab historian tells us that Salah-ed-Din, before the battle of Hattin, set fire to the forests, and thus encircled the Crusaders with a sea of flame. Now there is scarcely a shrub in the neighbourhood. In wandering through that sacred land, over which the crescent now waves one is amazed at the number of ruins that stud the land scape, and show what must once have been the natural fertility of the country. Whence has come the change? Is the blight natural and permanent, or has it been caused by accidental and artificial circumstances, which may be only temporary? Doubtless, each ruin has its tale of horror, but all trace their destruction to Islamism, and especially to the blighting and desolating presence of the Turk. That short, thick, beetled-browed, bandy-legged, obese man that so many tourists find so charming, is a Turkish official. He and his ancestors have ruled the land since 1517. A Wilberforce is sentiment, he is the representation of "that shadow of shadows for good—Ottoman rule." The Turks, whether in their Pagan or Mohammedan phase, have only appeared on the world's scene to destroy. No social or civilizing art owes anything to the Turk but progressived debasement and decay. That heap of stones, in which you trace the foundations of temples and palaces, where now the owl hoots and the jackal lurks, was once a prosperous Christian village. Granted that the Christianity was pure neither in creed nor ritual; yet it had, even in its debased form, a thew and sinew that brought prosperity to its possessor. The history of that ruin is the history of a thousand such throughout the empire. Its prosperity led to its destruction. The insolent Turk, restrained by no public opinion, and curbed by no law, would wring from the villagers the fruits of their labour. Oppression makes even wise men mad, and the Christians, goaded to madness, turned on their oppressors. Then followed submission on promise of forgiveness. The Christians surrendered their arms, and the flashing cimeter of Islam fell upon the defenceless, and the place became a ruin amid horrors too foul to narrate.—The Contemporary Review.

Dr. J. N. Robinson, Medina, O., says:—"I have used it in a case of indigestion and constipation, with good results. In nervous prostration its results are happy."

FORTUNATELY Valvular disease of the heart is not very common, its disturbed action may be due to indigestion, liver irregularities &c. A Stomach disturbed with wind, or indigestable food will cause pain and fluttering by crowding on the nerves of the heart. Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy all such difficulties.

MR. THOMAS W. RACE, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work. The medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms.

WITH every bottle of Dr. Carson's Pulmonary Cough Drops, a sample bottle is given free of charge. If, after using the trial bottle, you are not satisfied with its effect, you can return the large bottle to your dealer, who will refund the money. Thousands can testify to its prompt action in curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis etc. If you suffer, try them. Price 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

PROF. G. W. HOTCHKIN.

Will visit the following places again:—

PETERBOROUGH—Caisse House, March 3, 4 and 5.
LINDSAY—Benson House, March 6, 7 and 8.
COBOURG—Dunham House, March 9, 10 and 11.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based upon scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Unbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 to 90 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. H. having had 30 years experience has become master of his profession, and DEFIES the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

POINTS OF EXCELLENCE.—1st, Weighs only one ounce, 2d, Perfect ventilation, air circulates freely under pad 3d, Constant pressure. CANADA SLANDERED.

How Her Credit is Injured in England—The Canadian Press to Blame.

The independant Montreal Star has the following well deserved rebuke for leading "Reform" organs with their unpatriotic efforts to injure Canada:—

"It is nothing new to know that Canada is being slandered and misrepresented in Europe, but when it is known that partisan journals in this country, in their injudicious and untruthful attempts to damage the "powers that be," have to a certain extent given a pretext for interested stock jobbing speculators in London and elsewhere to circulate the most unfair and malicious statements regarding the Dominion, all right thinking people will agree that it is time a combined movement was inaugurated by both political parties to protect the interests of their common country, and to refute the libels of interested and unprincipled men. The last issue of the Money Market Review received in this country has a leading article which surpasses anything which has ever appeared in the way of levying gratuitous insults on Canada. After alluding to the Canadian Pacific Railway and its intention of floating its stock on the European market, "the local market, at the best, a narrow one, being exploite," goes on to deprecate the more and more English capitalists not to be "stuck" with the new project of the syndicate, in the following words:—

"It is, in a word, a Political Railway. Fired with the grand idea of wedding together the whole of the British-American continent into the "Canadian Dominion," the Government of Sir John Macdonald has entered into bonds with British Columbia to bridge over the vast and rugged intervening space by an iron road. Hence all these financial struggles; hence the fostering of baneful land-speculation, repellant to the immigrant; hence the growing distress of the Canadian money market; hinc illæ lachrymæ.

"We love the Canadian Dominion and admire its spirit of enterprise, but our love for it is not so great as to blind us to its errors and to their possible consequences. And the instinct of self-preservation bids us prefer our own place and the interests of our home investors to any object of the Canadian Dominion. Did we see Canada following the sound policy of conciliating British interests, both financial and commercial, and thus attracting, in the only durable way, further help from home, we could understand the position; and the feeling of general sympathy on this side would be proportionate. Instead of this, Canada, which has looked on with heartless indifference at the long years of heavy loss borne by those in the Mother-country who endowed her with her existing railways, has actually tacked on to her Pacific Railway scheme projects directly competitive, at various important points, with the present home owned lines. Doing this wilfully, she inevitably repels assistance from the very body of capitalists who have hitherto testified the greatest interest in her progress and welfare. A more short-sighted policy can hardly be conceived. In every direction railway schemes have been on foot. One of the latest instances has reference to the St. Paul and Minneapolis Railway, an utterly dormant concern, which has been purchased by the Syndicate, or by persons indentified with it, and tacked on to the Canadian Pacific."

Numerous extracts are given from the Toronto World, the Ottawa Free Press, the London Advertiser and other Canadian journals, which the London stock jobbing sheet exultingly claims all go to prove that "Canada is at the end of her means."

In the same issue of the Money Market Review, "A Canadian" comes out with an eloquent protest, against "the unfair and malicious statement that have recently been "circulating, in which he says "it is most unfortunate for Canada that some if its leading newspapers have allowed themselves persistently to run down and vilify the country in order to serve some political or personal ends."

CAMPBELLFORD.

ACCIDENT.—The Herald says that a son of Mr. Thomas Dunk, of Seymour east, sustained a serious fracture of the thigh recently. Several hours were spent by the attending physician placing the broken bone in its proper position.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.—Messrs. C. M. Gould, M. D., of Colborne, James O'Reilly, of Warkworth, and Robert Cock, of Campbellford, have been appointed License Commissioners for Northumberland for 1883.

NEW CHURCH.—The new Presbyterian Church was dedicated on Monday, the Rev. Principal Grant and the Rev. E. F. Torrance preaching the dedicatory sermons. The church is large and comfortable with a spacious gallery. It has a seating capacity of about 650. A soiree was held on Monday evening. After the proceeds of the soiree have been computed there will be a debt on the building of about $2,500.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

BUSINESS CHANGE.—Mr. W. H. S. Martin has purchased the business of Mr. Robert Fair, at Centreville, and has commenced trade in a business-like style, having purchased a large stock of goods. Believing that the credit system is detrimental to both the merchant and his customers, Mr. Martin has adopted the cash system and intends to sell at low prices.

Yorkville No More.

The village of Yorkville is no more. It has been united to the city of Toronto, and will hereafter be known as St. Paul's Ward, the bill of annexation having passed through the Legislature and been signed by the Lieutenant Governor.

FITS A Leading London Physician establishes an office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS. From Am. Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. MESEROLE, No. 96 John St., New York.

THE

PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

The Cells.

The cells were again empty last night. This thing is getting monotonous.

Board of Education.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education will take place at the Collegiate Institute building on next Tuesday, at 7.30 o'clock p. m.

Springless Truss.

See Prof. Hotchkin's Springless Truss and Supporter. Advertisement in another column of this paper. Go and see him. He defies the hernia he cannot hold.

The Weather Probabilities.

Another snow fall last night. To-day the weather is moderate and cloudy. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Fresh to strong winds from the south east and north east; milder, cloudy weather, with snow or rain.

The Campaign.

A public meeting in the interest of Mr. Carnegie's candidature in the West Riding will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on the evening of Monday, the 12th of February. A very successful meeting for the town committees was held in Hill's Music Hall on Friday night, at which Mr. Robert Rowe was elected Chairman pro tem. for No. 2 Ward, on account of Mr. Poussette not being able to attend.

Concert and Extracts from Programme.

Mr. Charles W. Ewing's Grand Evening Concert will take place on Tuesday evening next, in Bradburn's Hall, as advertised. Mrs. Caldwell will sing the Grand Aria from Mozart's Magic Flute, and Emmet's Cuckoo Song. Mrs. Chambers will sing Gottschalk's "O Loving Heart, Trust On." The Choir of St. John's Church will sing the celebrated Soldier's Chorus from Gounod's Faust, and the beautiful Subian Volkslied "Come Dorothy, Come." Mr. Chas. W. Ewing will play Beethoven's Funeral March Sonata, and Ascher's humorous Danse Negre. These few extracts from the programme show that an unusually attractive entertainment has been provided. Secure reserved seats early. See advertisement.

MUSICAL.

Concert Given by the Members of the Choir of St. Peter's Cathedral.

A concert was given in Bradburn's Opera House on Friday evening by the members of the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral, under the patronage of His Lordship Bishop Jamot. There was a large number of persons present, and in regard to the attendance, as well as to the programme, the concert was a decided success.

The concert was opened by an instrumental duet by Misses A. Delaney and Leader, followed by a grand chorus, "Magnificat," by the choir, which was composed as follows:—The Misses Delaney, Mrs. J. Delaney, Misses E. Hurley, L. Begley, M. Dunn, M. McFadden and J. Lynch, and Messrs. Geo. Ball and M. McFadden. The following programme was then carried out:—Ballad, "Killarney," Miss Dunn; selection, "Pirates of Penzance," choir; pianoforte solo, Miss A. Delaney; song, "Esmeralda," Miss Begley; chorus, "Vadasi via di qua," choir; reading, "Robert of Sicily," (Longfellow) Mr. J. O'Meara; glee, "Daughter of Error," choir; pianoforte solo, Miss A. Delaney; song, "I Dreampt I Dwelt," Miss Dunn; sacred song, Mr. G. Ball; comic duet, "The Two Cousins," Misses Begley and Dunn; pianoforte solo, Miss Leader; song, "Watching," Miss Delaney; chorus and solo, "Lauda Sion," choir; and "God save the Queen," by the choir, concluded the programme.

The instrumental selections were particularly well executed, and the vocal pieces were all greatly appreciated, and several of them loudly encored. The whole concert showed, as usual, the good musical training given by the Sisters of the Convent. The choir are to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment, a large measure of the credit for which is due to Mr. Ball and to Mr. J. Sheehy, who had principal charge of the business management.

Messrs. Carveth, Griffin and Macdonald were named as a special Committee to provide necessary seating accommodation in the First Ward School, and also to have some of the larger pupils removed to the other schools.

Mr McIlmoyle was empowered to procure a supply of school requisites for the use of pupils.

His Lordship Bishop Jamot being present at the meeting, the following motion was moved by Mr. CAHILL, seconded by Mr. CARVETH,—That this Board desire to express their pleasure at meeting His Lordship Bishop Jamot at the meeting of the Board, and desire to place on record their appreciation of His Lordship's interest in the school.—Carried.

HIS LORDSHIP thanked the Board and stated that he would make it a point to be a frequent visitor at the Board's meetings.

The Board then adjourned.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a. m., 17° above zero; at noon, 21° above and at 3 p. m., 18° above.

The Market.

There was a fair attendance on the market this morning. Prices generally ranged high. The grain market is not much changed except wheat, which is a little higher, from 95 cents to $1.00 having been paid.

Personal.

The Rev. Father Lynch paid a visit to the town and was present at the concert on Friday night. After calling on several of his old parishoners he returned to Lindsay to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Irwin have returned from a trip to the Old country.

Roof Fallen In.

The roof of the bowling alley erected by the Rev. Father Lynch has given way to the heavy pressure of the snow lodged upon it and collapsed. The alley, which has not been used for a few weeks, was just about to be re-opened. It will probably be repaired at once.

A SURE THING!

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. Nothing slighted,—except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—AN EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widely increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

THE Toronto Mail has the following remarks in regard to the late member for the East Riding of Peterborough:—

"It is to be regretted that Mr. Blezard allowed the House to prorogue before he had told his authority for the statement that Sir John Macdonald wants liquor to be sold as freely as water. Perhaps, after all, Mr. Blezard Hardyized when be attributed that sentiment to the Premier. Mr. Blezard has been in bad company lately, and Cabinet communications corrupt legislatorial veracity."

BELLEVILLE.

FALL FROM A LADDER.—The Intelligencer of the 3rd January says:—"Shortly before four o'clock yesterday afternoon, while Albert Wensley was engaged in painting the window sashes of the second story of the Government building, he missed his footing and fell to the pavement, a distance of about sixteen feet. He rose and leaned against the ladder, while blood rushed from cuts on his nose and right eye. He was taken to Dr. Gibson's surgey and properly cared for. He was bitter to-day."

THE BRITISH ARMY.

Commenting upon the improvement of late years in the British army, a writer says that the life of a soldier in former years was hard and oftentimes of terrible privation. Men actually sank gradually into the grave from inadequate food; they were subject to personal chastisement at the will of any stripling ensign, and to be flogged with hundreds of lashes for trival breaches of discipline. All this is now completely changed. The soldier's allowance to-day is three-quarters of a pound of meat—uncooked and including bone—and one pound of bread. Vegetables and groceries must be supplied by the men. An officer attends at meal-time to hear complaints. Thirty years ago the barracks were, for the most part, destitute of lavatories or proper sanitary appliances. Now these are sedulously supplied, and careful attention to these points, due in the first instance to the untiring efforts of Sidney Herbert, has resulted in lessening the average mortality 16 in the 1,000. Aldershot, the Curragh, and other military centres abound with gymnasiums, reading-rooms, bowling-alleys, etc., for the soldier's recreation. At this season of the year concerts and theatrical entertainments are greatly in vogue, and the officers—generally men of some, often of large, private means—contribute time and money to promote the pleasure of the men.

Taking everything into account, the pay of a cavalry soldier amounts to $4.25 a week; of a horse artilleryman to $4.56; royal engineer, $4.65; foot guards, $4.10; linesmen, $3.80. If a recruit selects the infantry he enlists for 7 years with the colours and for 5 with the army reserve. If for the cavalry, he engages to serve 8 years in the regular forces and then to pass for 4 years into the reserve, but he can, if he likes, enlist for 12 years' army service. At the end of 12 years' service he can (whether foot or horse), if a non-commissioned officer, and his commanding officer considers his further services are desirable, re-engage for an additional 9 years with the colours, so as to make a total of 21 years' service, when he becomes entitled for life to a pension of from 16 cents to $1.12 a day.

Worthy of Praise

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach and Liver and Kidney Complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Exch.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Taylor & Macdonald.—6

CETEWAYO AT HOME.

Cetewayo arrived in Zululand on January 13, says a correspondent of the London Standard, and was at once waited upon by Somhola, one of his former chiefs, was deposed under the settlement made by Sir Garnet Wolseley. Somhola had with him a considerable following for so small a chief consisting of about 300 men and women. They greeted the King most enthusiastically, the women kneeling and kissing his hand. The King afterward visited the ladies of the royal house. These latter loudly expressed their joy at the King's return; and Cetewayo, in reply, related his experiences, telling how hospitably he had been treated while absent from Zululand. Somhola said he knew the King would be sorry to hear that during his absence the people had been short of food, but that now he had returned things would be better. The speaker went on to attribute the present promising state of the crops to the King's return. After taking leave of Cetewayo, Somhola's people cheered the soldiers for bringing back their King. The deputation waited on Sir Theophilus Shepstone, who made then a speech on the future of Zululand. The contributions of cattle to Cetewayo since his return amount to 38, and are daily increasing. A great gathering of people is expected to be present on the arrival of the King at Ulundi. Up to the present moment everything has gone well, and Cetewayo and his subjects both appear to be in good and cheerful spirits.

A Rare Bit of Lace.

A piece of lace belonging to Mrs. Cook, of Georgetown, is said by connoisseurs to be actually worth its weight in diamonds. It is like a spider's film, and is woven in a "lost" pattern. The loss of pattern was a severe check to lace-making in France and Brussels, and came about in a curious way. Before the French revolution whole villages supported themselves by lace-making, and patterns were handed down from one generation to another. They were valuable heirlooms, for the most celebrated weavers had as many orders as they could fill in a lifetime, for it was tedious work. But they were bound by an oath, taken on the four gospels, to work only for certain dealers.

When the reign of terror began all business of the sort was interrupted for a time, for the "aristocrats" filled the tumbrils and crowded the guillotine, and the Revolutionists were too busy driving them there to think of purple and fine linen. When the storm subsided the dealers and workers were far apart; some dead, some lost, and some escaped to foreign lands, and such of the women as remained were bound by their oath to work for but one. And this oath, in spite of Robespierre's doctrines, was held by the poorest of them to be binding, and there are instances where they suffered actual want rather than break their word. Some, however, taught their children and their grandchildren, and many patterns were in this way preserved; but some of the daintiest and finest were never recovered, and—to make a long story short—Mrs. Cooke's lace is woven in one of these last named.

A Premonition.

Strangely pathetic, says the St. Thomas Journal, was the premonition of his approaching end to which little Ernest Bond gave expression a week before his decease, when the ruddy hue of health was still upon his cheeks, and no thought that death had marked him for his own had yet entered the minds of his parents. "Mamma," he said one day, "Little Ernie is going to leave you and never come back any more. He is going into a narrow box away in a deep cellar, and you and papa and uncle will be standing around crying, but Ernie will never come up again." No attention was paid to the prattle of the boy, but the words came back with painful vividness to his parents, when on Friday the little fellow was taken seriously ill, as they watched his battle with the king of terrors during three weary days and nights. On Wednesday the child, who prophesied better than he knew, was laid to rest in the narrow box, which some messenger from the unseen world may have whispered to him was so soon to to replace his crib.

SMOKY CEILINGS.—Ceilings that have been smoked by a kerosene lamp should be washed off with soda water.

SCALDS OR BURNS.—Common backing soda is said to be the best remedy for a scald or burn. Spread dry soda over the burned spot. It will relieve the pain very soon.

GERMAN TOAST.—To one egg beaten well, add one cup of sweet milk or cream; season with a little salt and pepper. Cut stale bread in slices, dip in the milk to moisten, and fry on a griddle. This is a nice dish for breakfast.

SPANISH FRITTERS.—Cut slices of stale bread about half an inch thick, and dip each slice at first into milk and then into a batter, and fry them in butter a nice brown. Arrange the slices neatly on a dish, sift sugar and cinnamon over them, and serve with stewed or canned fruit.

ALMOND FROSTING.—Almond frosting makes a delicious addition to a loaf of white cake. Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth—so stiff, in fact, that you could turn the platter upside down if necessary. Stir in half a pound of pulverized sugar and about a quarter of a pound of almonds, blanched and powdered to a paste. Flavor with rose water, and if you choose, a few drops of almond extract.

SCALLOPED POTATOES.—Prepare scalloped potatoes in this proportion:—Two cups of mashed potatoes, two tablespoonfuls of cream or milk and one of melted butter; salt and pepper to taste. Stir the potatoes, butter and cream together, adding one raw egg. If the potatoes seem too moist, beat in a few fine bread crumbs. Bake in a hot oven for ten minutes, taking care to have the top a rich brown.

MUCH OBLIGED.

WE are much obliged to the Cobourg World for its criticism of certain extracts from Hansard anent the Boundary Award and Sir John Macdonald's position with regard to the same, which appeared in a recent issue of the REVIEW, because in the course of the same it gives away the case of its party.

As we understand Mr. Mowat and his friends, they claim that the award WAS TO BE FINAL, and that Sir John Macdonald consented to it being so. Our extracts from Hansard were intended, and we believe proved, that Sir John never approved of the award as being final, but contended that it should be subject to the ratification of the executive and of Parliament, and what does the World now say? It says (putting it in large type) "MR. MACKENZIE MADE PROVISION" for ratification. Now, if he made provision for ratification, surely the award was not final: surely the Dominion executive, and Parliament had a right to say whether the award should or should not be accepted after the same was made; and this is precisely what they have done, and for the doing of which they are charged by the World and its confreres and leaders with a breach of faith, &c.

We need scarcely say that it is not worth our while to waste space in refuting the charge of garbling reports brought against us by the World, when it is so dull-witted as not to see that in order to make such a charge it was giving away the chief plank of its party with regard to the Boundary Award.

MEAGRE RESULTS.

Now that the session of the Ontario Legislature is at an end, and the list of the Acts that have been passed is before the electors, they naturally ask why Mr. Mowat assembled the House at a date, which, however suitable, was one he had persistently declined to adopt at other times. There must be some reason for this change of base. It might have been supposed in advance, that the early date fixed was in order to give time for important legislation to be considered. This idea is however refuted by the fact that never was a session so barren of results. Many therefore fall back upon the theory that this unusual haste was not for the purpose of despatching business, but on the contrary of hindering inconvenient disclosures. By hurrying on the session Mr. Mowat and his friends have prevented a thorough investigation of the public accounts, and careful consideration of returns that have been demanded.

As we do not wish to do the Mowat administration an injustice we may point out two Acts which in some measure conflict with the criticism as to the paucity and insignificance of the work done this session.

We have before us the Bill introduced by Attorney General Mowat to consolidate the Acts respecting Municipal Institutions. This Bill fills no less than 215 foolscap pages, so it will in itself make a respectable volume of the statutes for 1883, which otherwise would have been a very slim pamphlet. It might be supposed that here was work for many laborious days, but we must give Mr. Mowat the credit that he and his clerks did all this work, so that he thought consideration by the House was unnecessary, and forced these 215 pages of legislation through committee in a few minutes.

Then it would not be just to describe as insignificant the re-enacted River and Streams Bills, for it performs two marvellous feats. It revises the decisions of our Supreme Court, which unanimously, like the overwhelming majority of the judges, declared that not to be the law which Mr. Mowat thus declares always to have been the law. It also amends that fundamental constitutional rule which is our heritage in common with our cousins south of the line that no man's property may be taken even for public use without full compensation, and makes it law (till disallowed) that Mr. Mowat may fix what he may please to throw as compensation to an opponent whose property he may wish to confer upon a political friend.

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents a week.

THE BOOK OF BOOKS.

The British and Foreign Bible Society—A Public Meeting.

The annual public meeting in connection with the Bible Society was held in St. Andrew's Church on Thursday evening. Dr. Fife occupied the chair.

After the opening devotional exercises, the chairman, in a brief address, explained the nature of the meeting and remarked on the object of the Society.

Mr. JAMES STRATTON, Secretary, then read the following report of the Committee:—

COMMITTEE'S REPORT FOR 1882.

Mr. President and Christian friends:—

In presenting a report of your Committee for the year just closed, your Committee feel that there has been much for which we should express our thankfulness to Almighty God, especially in our country, and in our own community.

He who sends His rains on the just and on the unjust, has favored our people with an abundant return for their industry and prudence. Peace has reigned in all our borders, and the disposition to acknowledge the right of private judgment in religious matters, deepens and strengthens yearly, and this is no doubt attributable to the teachings of the Holy Scriptures, which this society is endeavouring to disseminate, and we have every reason to believe that the blessings of the Gospel have reached every home in our land, and let us pray, have also reached many hearts, although the book may not have reached every house.

In a nominally Christian country like ours, it is not to be expected, that we will be able to report as free sales or as great demand for copies of the Scriptures as could be reported where they have already reached but comparatively few homes; yet the society has not been unmindful of the fact, that many, very many, of the people of this as of other lands have not sufficient interest in its civilizing and elevating power, and its peace giving doctrines, to go and purchase it. To meet this state of indifference where it exists, and the natural sequence thereof, ignorance, the society has kept calporteurs at work in various parts of the Province, thus bringing within easy access of the careless, and by its cheapness, the power to purchase, of those not able or not willing to spend their money in purchasing a Bible or Testament.

It is very gratifying to all friends of the Bible to know that this society is doing a noble work in aiding missionaries to present the Holy Scriptures, in whole or in parts, to those who are in the region and shadow of death, by printing in the languages of every nation, almost, the blessed book. Everyone who reads the reports of the British and Foreign Bible Society, or the reports of missionaries to heathen lands, must feel that the small sums given to the funds of the society are well spent, and are producing excellent results, where idolatry has hitherto prevailed; and those reports should deepen our interest in Bible society work, and increase the numbers who are willing to give a dollar a year, or less, to promote the spread of the doctrines of "peace on earth and good will among men."

In the year 1881, your committee were able to canvass the town pretty well, through the volunteered services of members of the committee and others. This year, however, they regret having to report their inability to procure any one to solicit subscriptions in some of the Wards. Mr. W. C. Nicholls, an old and tried friend of the Bible Society, has canvassed the Third Ward, and has been very successful. But your committee have not found any collectors for Wards No. 1, 2 and 4. We readily acknowledge the demands on the time of business men, and we make these references to the work only with a view to enlisting the sympathy and activities of lady canvassers, if gentlemen cannot be found who can spare the time to do the work. If four persons in each Ward mentioned would volunteer, two afternoons each, to the work, they would find themselves amply repaid by the consciousness of having done the work for their Heavenly Master, and in the increase to collections of the society, and of the amount they would be able to give to the parent and auxiliary society.

With these observations, your committee leave the matter of collecting for further consideration, awaiting the action of some of the friends of the Bible, who have time to spare, and are willing to spend it in this good work.

Your committee recommend the folliwing gentlemen as officers of the society for the ensuing year:—

PRESIDENT—John Walton, Esq.

The Rev. JOHN SHAW, in a brief address, moved the adoption of the report. The Rev. E. F. Torrance seconded the motion, which, after a short discussion, was carried.

The Rev. A. A. DRUMMOND, of Newcastle, agent of the Society, then addressed the meeting. In an eloquent address he illustrated the fact that "the Word of the Lord endureth forever," described the origin of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and sketched the work which it was doing in France, Italy, India and Africa. At the beginning of the present century there were 5,000,000 printed copies of the Bible extant, and now they were estimated at 300,000,000 copies in 300 languages and dialects. The address was very interesting and instructive.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Drummond on motion of the Rev. E. F. Torrance, seconded by Mr. W. A. Morrow.

The meeting was concluded by the Rev. Mr. Shaw invoking the divine benediction.

Dr. Casper recommends Kendall's Spavin Cure in the highest terms, and thousands of eminent physicians do the same.

A PAINTER'S STORY.

Some landscape but half finished—what's the meaning,
You ask me, of dim wood and waterfall,
And why that canvas has so long been leaning
In desolation against my studio wall?

Is there an older story than vows broken,
Than one heart sore when two friends had to part—
Than words of tenderness so lightly spoken,
Yet burnt forever on one tortured heart?

Painting that wood, a fair face bent above me,
And came between me and the summer sky;
Before that landscape sweet lips vowed to love me,
The vows were broken e'er the paint was dry.

Such good, my patron, is a painter's story,
And here's her portrait taken from the life,
With eyes diviner than a saint's in glory—
Your wife! By jove! Is Isabel your wife?

And you would buy this? In that she was riven
From my side to win you and all your gold,
'Tis yours by right—a marriage present given;
I will not sell her face as she was sold.

PARLOR SOCIAL.—On Friday evening, 26th ult., a very successful parlor social took place at "Salem Grange," the residence of Mr. J. M. Roberts. At an early hour the guests began to arrive and were ushered into the dining room, where a number of well-spread tables invited them to tea. Having done ample justice to the good things there provided, the guests amused themselves by chatting in groups (or in couples), sauntering from room to room, and listening to the music discoursed from the brass band from Chemong. The presence of the band added greatly to the evening's enjoyment. During the evening a programme was presented, Mr. M. E. Sanderson occupying the chair.

The entertainment consisted of readings by Miss Roberts, Miss Monro, Mr. J. M. Roberts, and Mr. J. H. Burrow; recitations by Miss Hattie Pearson and Miss Amelia Higgins, a dialogue by Miss Nina Rosborough and Miss Minnie Higgins, interspersed with a number of choice pieces of music, rendered very effectively by a choir of Indians from Chemong, Miss Benson presiding at the organ. The guests all expressed themselves as delighted with the evening, and separated, unanimously declaring that they had spent a most enjoyable time. The proceeds, amounting to about $9, were in aid of the funds of the Ladies' Missionary Society, in connection with the Baptist Church.

SNOWDEN.

THE IRON MINES.—The Bobcaygeon Independent says that the Iron Works in Snowdon appear to be making steady progress. Messrs. Pusey and Ivatts have got their main shaft down to a considerable depth, and the whole of the distance has been through iron ore of fine quality. The men are now driving a gallery in the ore bed, and bringing up ore in considerable quantities. As Mr. Pusey is likely to obtain the capital needed for the prosecution of the work on a large scale, it is probable that ere long the Pusey mines may become an important factor in the prosperity of the back country.

Messrs. Parry and Mills are likewise pushing on their operations with steadiness and vigour, and the furnace they are constructing is gradually rising in its place. The works for the manufacture of charcoal are also advancing towards completion, and it is expected that during the present year there will be a commencement made to the production of charcoal iron. The quantity of wood consumed in the making of Charcoal will be very large, and this, in addition to the labor employed at the furnace, will give quite a manufacturing character to the neighborhood. The hope that iron works may be permanently established in our back country appears to be reasonable, and there is a fair prospect of the industry assuming large proportions.

SOCIAL.—A social was held in the Town Hall, Keene, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Committee of the Methodist Church, on the evening of Friday, the 3rd of January. The programme consisted of music, recitations, &c. There was a large number in attendance. The proceeds, which were in aid of the church funds, amounted to $30.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WEATHER NOTES.—Having styled December a month of storms, we may style January a moth of frost. Eleven times has the thermometer been below zero at sunrise, ranging from 3° to 31° on the morning of the 26th, being the coldest as yet. On the 23rd of January, 1882, it stood at 23°, and on the 24th it fell to 34°, being 3° lower than the 26th inst., and on eight nights at sundown it ranged from 2° to 10° below zero, while Juanuary, 1882, had only six days below zero. In 1883 we had an average temperature at sunrise and sunset of 10° .17 above zero, when January of 1882 averaged 17° .7. Our highest temperature was on the evening of the 20th, namely, 34° above. Snow fell on 12 days to the depth of 15 9-16 inches. Rain fell on three days to the depth of 11-100 of an inch, giving a total depth of water of 1 60-100 of an inch. In January of 1881 the coldest day was on the 14th, when at sunrise the thermometer fell to 14° below zero. Sleighing is now getting disagreeable and heavy owing to the large accumulation of unpacked snow.

FITS "A Leading London Physician establishes an office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS."

From Am. Journal of Medicine.

Dr. [illegible] (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over [illegible] years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. [illegible], No. 96 John St., New York.

THE

PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's system. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1883.

The Auburn Mills.

The mechanical power in the Auburn Woollen Mills has been augmented lately by the addition of two car loads of machinery, a sign of increasing business and enterprise.

Peterborough Curlers.

The International, of Emerson, Manitoba, in its issue of January 27th, says :—

> A curling match is to be played between a rink composed of one from Peterborough and any other rink that can be selected from all sizes, sects, classes, callings, ages, creeds and nationalities in Emerson.

Good Work.

We have received from the office of the Lindsay Post a number of excellent specimens of fine card printing recently turned out of that office. All the jobs show good judgment and taste in their typographic arrangment, as well as in the selection of the stock and colour, and the press work is well done.

Personal.

The Rev. Mr. Dack, of McMaster Hall, Toronto, occupied the pulpit in the Baptist Church on Sunday.

We are pleased to see that Mr. Thos. Esterbrook has recovered from his recent illness and is now able to attend to his business personally.

Mr. R. Jaffray, Toronto, of the Midland Railway, is registered at the Oriental Hotel.

Draughts.

Mr. R. McLaurin has written a letter from Peterborough to the Mail offering to play a match of draughts with Mr. James Labadie, of Chatham, for $100 aside and the championship of the Dominion. He suggests that the match be commenced on the 3rd of April next, and offers to give Mr. Labadie $20 to defray his expenses in coming to Peterborough.

Concert and Extracts from Programme.

Mr. Charles W. Ewing's Grand Evening Concert will take place to-morrow evening, in Bradburn's Hall, as advertised. Mrs. Caldwell will sing the Grand Aria from Mozart's Magic Flute, and Emmet's Cuckoo Song. Mrs. Chambers will sing Gottschalk's "O Loving Heart, Trust On." The Choir of St. John's Church will sing the celebrated Soldier's Chorus from Gounod's Faust, and the beautiful Suabian Volkslied "Come Dorothy, Come." Mr. Chas. W. Ewing will play Beethoven's Funeral March Sonata, and Ascher's humorous Danse Nagre. These few extracts from the programme show that an unusually attractive entertainment has been provided. Secure reserved seats early. See advertisement.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

MONDAY, Feb. 5.—Henry Campbell was charged by Chief Johnston with having been found drunk on Saturday evening. The prisoner had evidently been on a long spree, and was on the verge of an attack of delerium tremens. He said he lived in Toronto, but had been working on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway near Sharbot Lake. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and was fined $2, or in default of payment to be confined twenty days in gaol. Not having the money to pay the fine he was committed to gaol.

Board of Education.

A regular meeting of the Board of Edcation will be held at 7.45 o'clock on Tuesday evening in the Collegiate Institute building.

Curliana.

The Peterborough curlers play a match at Port Hope to-morrow forenoon with the club of that town, and in the afternoon at Cobourg with the Cobourg curlers.

The Opposition Leader.

Mr. Meredith will address the electors at Lindsay on Saturday, the 10th of February, and at Campbellford on Monday, the 12th of February.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day :— At 8 a.m., 10° above zero; ot noon, 16° above, and at 3 p.m. 17° above. Just after noon it went up to 20° above, but gradually lowered again.

The Cells.

One prisoner and one tramp shared the cells on Saturday and Sunday nights. The prisoner was on Sunday found to be threatened with an attack of delerium tremens and the attentions paid to him by the constables barely saved him from the threatened danger.

The Weather Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows :—Moderate to fresh north westerly to south westerly winds; fair to clear, cold weather, with light snow in some localities.

The Late Mrs. Whyte.

It is with regret that we learn of the death of Mrs. John Whyte, which sad event ocurred on Sunday, the 4th of January. Mrs. Whyte, who was in her 63rd year, was a daughter of the late Col. Crawford. The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. W. H. Moore, London street, on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Storm.

The storm of snow and wind has affected both railway and telegraphic communication. The noon Midland train was very little behind time, but it was found more difficult to clear the Junction line and traffic on that road was suspended this forenoon. The snow plough has been at work on the line all day. The telegraph wires between Toronto and Buffalo were deranged by the storm, and cut off the press despatches.

The Opera House.

The new scenery in the Opera House was exhibited to the audience at concert on Friday night, Mr. Hill having made several changes in the scenes during the evening in order that it might be viewed. The new scenes are well conceived and the work is well executed, and they will add to the attraction of the Opera House and will assist the dramatic troupes in presenting their dramas with effect.

Fire Bells.

The three fire bells ordered by the Council, on the recommendation of the Fire Committee, have arrived. They are large bells, and have a loud, clear tone. They stand about two feet high and are twenty-seven inches in diameter at the mouth. They will be put up, one in the North Ward, one in the west part of the town, and the other in the South Ward. The one in the West Ward will be put up on the corner of George and Dublin streets.

S. S. Teachers' Association.

The sixth annual convention of the East Peterborough Sunday School Teachers' Association will be held in the Methodist Church, Hastings, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 13th and 14th of February. Each school in the Riding is expected to send delegates, and all delegates are requested to send their names to H. Fowlds, Jr., who will assign them billets on their arrival. The convention will open at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon and adjourn on Thursday after the evening session. Among those who will address the convention on appropriate subjects, are the following : The Rev. D. Sutherland, Warkworth ; the Rev. Mr. Bennett, Peterborough ; the Rev. John Tozeland ; the Rev. Wm. Buchannan, Warkworth ; the Rev. E. D. Lewis, Hastings ; the Rev. J. Carmichael and the Rev. J. E. Sanderson, Norwood ; Sheriff Hall, Peterborough ; Dr. Harrison, Keene ; and Messrs. K. Mark, Lang ; W. E. Roxburgh, Norwood ; and J. H. Scriver, Hastings.

UNSEASONABLE VISITANTS.

To the Editor of The Review.

DEAR SIR,—I saw this morning, on the Mountain Ash tree in Mr. Stevenson's garden, feeding on the dried berries, a number of Purple Finches, erythrospiza purpurea. These are migratory birds and do not usually return northward from the United States until the month of April. They are handsome birds, but very mischievous in gardens.

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

Springless Truss and Supporters

PROF. G. W. HOTCHKIN.

Will visit the following places again:—

PORT HOPE—Queen's Hotel.
PETERBOROUGH—Caisse House, March 3, 4 and 5.
LINDSAY—Benson House, March 6, 7 and 8.
COBOURG—Dunham House, March 9, 10 and 11.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based upon scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Variocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 to 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. H. having had 30 years experience has become master of his profession, and DEFIES the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

THE WRITS.

ON Monday the writs for the election of members to represent the County of Peterborough in the Provincial Legislature were received, that for the West Riding by the Sheriff, and that for the East Riding by Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, of Norwood, who has been appointed Returning Officer, owing to the vacancy in the Registry office. As there are only three weeks before the polling day, Conservatives should be on the alert.

CAMPAIGN MEETINGS.

YOUNG'S POINT.

THE first public meeting of the campaign was held at Young's Point on Monday evening by Mr. Carnegie. The attendance was not very large, as was to be expected from the state of the weather and the roads. Mr. Campbell did not put in a personal appearance, but was represented by Mr. W. R. Preston, of Port Hope. The usual routine was followed, Mr. Carnegie opening the meeting, Mr. Campbell's representative following for an hour, and Mr. Carnegie closing the meeting. Young's Point promises to give a good account of itself on polling day.

POLICE COURT.

VAGRANCY.

TUESDAY, Feb. 6.—Barnard McCormack was charged by P. C. Adams with being idle and having no visible means of support. The prisoner said that he was from Chatham, New Brunswick, and had come to Peterborough from Toronto. He did not think he should be committed to gaol, as he did not consider that he had committed any crime and was only looking for work. The Magistrate said that he could go this time, and as there was plenty of employment to be found, he had better go to work at once and not appear before him again.

THE PHŒNIX PARK MURDER.

DUBLIN, Feb. 5.—After hearing the evidence against the prisoners accused of the attempt to kill Field, the two Careys, the two Mullits, Whelan, Brady, Kelly, and Kavanagh were charged with the murder of Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke. The identification of Kavanagh by Ellen Brophy was particularly complete. She says she asked him who he was waiting for. She saw him when going on messages three times in half an hour. After her return the third time she heard cries of "murder," and ran to the door. There were then two men besides the driver on the car; the third was just mounting. She was only able to identify Kavanagh. She was severly cross-examined, but never faltered. When Kavanagh was identified he blushed and smiled uneasily. Brady entered the dock swaggering; Kelly was pale and defiant-looking; James Mullit laughed when the charge concerning the Phœnix park murder was read, but none of his companions joined him.

STARVATION IN GALWAY.

LOUGHREA, Feb. 5.—A man has been found starved to death, and a poor law guardian says the case was only one of many. A crowd of hungry people gathered in front of the residence of Rev. Patrick Dugan, Catholic Bishop of Clonfert, on Sunday. The Bishop informed them that he and his priests had distributed every shilling available, and the opening of relief works was the only resource left to relieve the sufferers.

ULTIMATUM TO THE CZAR.

VIENNA, Feb. 5.—A solemn warning, printed on fine vellum, has reached the Czar and the members of the Russian Cabinet claiming universal suffrage, the right of the people to their own land, freedom of conscience and of the press, public meeting, etc. If these be not granted before the coronation of the Czar, the revolutionary committee sending the warning threaten to revert to intimidation.

The Ukase orders the attendance at Moscow on the occasion of the coronation of all the Marshals of nobility and Prefects of provincial capitals, except those of Siberia, whose attendance is excused on account of distance, and the presidents of the rural and urban administrations.

RUSSIAN AGGRESSION.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Teheran advices state that the son of one of the principal Merv chiefs lately dead, has been succeeded by a Russian nominee from Khiva. A St. Petersburg correspondent says it is evident an uneasy feeling exists regarding possible complications in Merv in Kuldja.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The first meeting of the Council elect for 1883 was held in the Town Hall, on the 15th of January. The members having taken the required declarations of qualification and office, took their seats, the Reeve, Henry Collins, Esq., in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. The Reeve re-appointed Mr. James Edwards auditor on his behalf, and on motion of Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Dunlop, Mr. Joseph L. Walton was appointed auditor on behalf of the Council. A by-law confirming the appointments received its several readings, was passed, signed and sealed. A by-law to appoint certain township officers was read a first time. On motion of Mr. Brownscombe, seconded by Mr. Forster, it was ordered that the sum of twenty-five dollars be paid to Mr. R. B. Rogers, P. L. S., for services rendered in connection with the "Dobbin fence." On motion of Mr. Dunlop, seconded by Mr. Forster, Joseph Garrett was granted four dollars as charity. The Council adjourned to the 29th of January.

SECOND MEETING.—The Council met again on Monday, January 29th, pursuant to adjournment, all the members present, except Mr. Brownscombe, the Reeve. H. Collins, Esq., in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. A by-law appointing certain township officers was read a second and third time and passed. The following accounts were presented and, on motion, ordered to be paid:—Mr. D. W. Dumble, costs in the Dobbin suit, $227.04; Dennistoun & Hall, on account of Dobbin suit, $100.00; Joseph Bennet, Jr., repairing culvert, $1.00. A by-law to appoint pound-keepers, fence-viewers, and pathmasters was read a first time. On motion, the Council adjourned to the 2nd day of April.

Not the Least.

Great news from Consul-General Merritt at London, formerly Collector of New York. In his first offical report he announces that in 1881 more vessels entered British ports under the American flag than under the flags either of Greece or of Portugal. Johnny soon began to show his disgust by fearful howls and imprecations.

"Is it bitter, sonny?" asked Judge Waite, in an anxious tone of voice.

"Oh, I am not crying about that," replied Johnny.

"What are you crying about then?"

"I'se crying because I drank it all up, and I am so sorry there is none left for poor little brother Bill."—Texas Siftings.

MOWAT AND BLEZARD VOTES.

As out of the four candidates who are now running in this County for seats in the Provincial Legislature there is only one who was in the House last session, namely Mr. Blezard, our readers will find it interesting to trace his votes.

1. On January 10th Mr. Meredith on motion to go into Committee of Supply moved an amendment regretting that no steps had been taken by the Ontario Government for a final determination of the Boundary by a reference to the Privy Council in spite of the urgency of the question.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat against a speedy and final settlement.

2. On January 16th, Mr. Morris moved in amendment to Supply that Provincial legislation providing for the taking of private property and applying it to public uses without making full compensation is contrary to natural justice and the fundamental principles of legislation in civilized communities and prejudicial to the interests of the Dominion.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat in favour of the confiscation of private property.

3. On January 17th, Mr. Creighton moved that the Departmental Reports should be printed as soon as possible after the expiration of the years to which they relate and should be circulated immediately.

Mr. Balfour and Mr. Neelon, though strong supporters of the Administration, saw the justice of this demand and voted for it, but Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat to withhold timely information for the people.

4. On January 19th, Mr. Creighton moved that the public interest demands that greater care should be taken for the preservation of our timber on account of its rapid diminution and that it should be provided by law that no additional territory be placed under license without the consent of the people's representatives.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat to allow the latter to sell the people's property at his pleasure and without their consent.

5. On January 23rd Mr. Merrick moved to make the fee payable to issuers of marriages licenses $1 instead of $2.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat to take the larger sum from the young couple about to marry.

6. On the same day Mr. Bell moved the second reading of the Bill to extend the system of voting by ballot to school trustee elections.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mowat against the ballot.

7. On January 24th, Mr. Meredith moved that while the present provisions for restricting the sale of liquors should be maintained and should be strictly enforced, the license officials to remove them from the influences of political partisanship should be appointed by the municipal authorities, to whom also the fees should go, less the necessary expenses.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat in favour of retaining partisan officials and of still depriving the municipalities both of the appointments and the fees.

8. On January 25th, Mr. Lauder moved that the centralizing policy of the Government and their usurpation of the powers of the municipalities and judiciary struck a blow at local self-government and threatened the rights and liberties of the people.

Mr. Blezard with Mr. Mowat voted for centralization and the usurpation of municipal rights.

9. On January 26th, Mr. Creighton moved that the rapid increase in our annual ordinary expenditure, which had nearly doubled between 1871 and 1882 with an almost stationary revenue largely derived from receipts on capital accounts, threatened us with a speedy resort to direct taxation.

Mr. Blezard with Mr. Mowat voted for doubled expenditure and the dissipation of our capital.

10. On the same day Mr. Boulter moved in favour of the promotion of settlement in free grant districts by a liberal expenditure to develop the resources of the country and by returning to the principles of the Free Grant Act of 1868.

Mr. Blezard with Mr. Mowat voted against doing justice to our settlers.

11. On the same day Mr. White moved in favour of a liberal extension of the franchise particularly as to conferring it upon the sons of mechanics and others not now entrusted with it.

Mr. Blezard with Mr. Mowat refused the franchise to our young men and others now deprived of it.

12. On January 29th, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment in favour of leaving the appointment of the commissioners of public parks in the hands of the Council.

Messrs. Balfour, Drury, Hawley, Neelon and Waters, though all supporters of the administration, could vote with the leader of the opposition for his amendment, but Mr. Blezard, even in this comparatively unimportant matter, was of course bound to vote with Mr. Mowat.

13. On the same day Mr. Merrick moved that the National Policy having been twice endorsed and approved at the polls should be regard as the settled policy of the country and that neither the Government nor Legislature of the Province should assume an attitude of hostility towards it.

Mr. Neelon, a good Reformer and supporter of the administration, could vote in accordance with the national will, but Mr. Blezard must needs vote with Mr. Mowat to thwart it.

14. On the same day Mr. Meredith moved that our educational system should be free from political partisanship, and that as instead of a Minister of Education we should have a chief superintendent with a Council.

Mr. Blezard with Mr. Mowat voted for making even our educational system subservient to politics.

15. On the same day Mr. Kerr moved that County Boards of Examiners should be authorized to grant certificates of lower grade than third class, in view of the scarcity of qualified teachers.

Mr. Blezard with Mr. Mowat denied this boon to remote school sections.

16. On January 30th, Mr. Meredith moved to strike out from the Bill for the Administration of Justice the clause authorizing the Government to sub-divide offices and appoint additional officials instead of adhering to the principle of letting the surplus fees go to the municipalities or the Province.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat to make more places for political partisans at the expense at the people.

17. On the same day Mr. Meredith moved in favour of conferring the franchise upon the sons of mechanics and others not now entrusted with it.

Mr. Blezard joined with Mr. Mowat in refusing even to consider this act of justice, taking refuge in a technical objection.

18. Mr. Meredith then moved to do away with the unjust restrictions to which voters on the income franchise are specially subjected.

Mr. Blezard again voted with Mr. Mowat to refuse even the consideration of the injustice complained of.

19. On the same day Mr. Meredith moved, on the third reading of the River and Streams Bill, that constituting the House a court of appeal from the Supreme Court, by declaring that to be the law which the Supreme Court unanimously declared not to be, and never to have been the law, was objectionable and dangerous.

Mr. Blezard, with Mr. Mowat, voted for the House overriding the law courts and reversing their decisions by legislation.

20. Mr. Meredith then moved, that it was a dangerous precedent to interfere with private interests without making adequate compensation.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat for confiscation.

21. On the same day Mr. Meredith moved, that the expenditure for colonization roads should be entrusted to the municipalities where practicable.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat against municipal control, and in favour of partisan officials.

22. On January 31, Mr. Meredith moved, to allow county councils to fix the salaries of gaolers without interference by any government officer.

Mr. Blezard voted with Mr. Mowat to give county councils no voice in fixing the salaries which the ratepayers have to pay to Mr Mowat's proteges.

We have now followed Mr. Blezard through his 22 votes and we find that on every occasion, without regard to right or wrong, without consideration for the interests of the country or of his constituents, he contented himself with being a mere echo of Mr. Mowat. Do the electors of the East Riding of Peterborough want such a representative? A voting machine of wood and iron would be as useful a delegate and representative for this practically disfranchised constituency.

Other strong Reformers might think for themselves or for their constituency, but not so with Mr. Blezard, who could merely pose as a well-trained poll-parrot echoing its lesson mechanically.

And look at the record! How was the voice of the East Riding given? Mr. Blezard opposed the legal acquisition of our rightful territory; he favoured the confiscation of private property; he refused timely information to the people; he denied to our representatives a voice as to the sale of our property; he was against cheap marriage licenses; he did not (on this occasion) like the ballot; he would strip the municipalities of power, patronage and fees; he would centralize all public power in Toronto; he believes in doubling our expenditure and dissipating our capital; he refuses justice and consideration to our free grant settlers; he would not only deny the franchise to our young men, but even a consideration of their claims; he believes in thwarting the will of the people as to our tariff policy; he refuses to keep our educational system free from politics, or to cheapen education in the poorer school sections; he favours making new places for partisans with salaries taken from the municipalities; he would override the decisions of our law courts; he believes the municipalities unworthy of handling the colonization road funds; and finally he thinks that Mr. Mowat should have the power to appoint gaolers (usurped from the sheriffs) and to fix their salaries (usurped from the county councils), leaving, however, to the ratepayers to disburse whatever sums Mr. Mowat may like to have paid to his pets.

Do the electors of the East Riding wish to have such a member to misrepresent them?

Do they wish to send any one to support Mr. Mowat, who gave the same unworthy votes?

To the Free and Independent Electors of the

WEST RIDING

OF THE

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor having seen fit to dissolve the Legislature of this Province and to issue writs for the election of a new Legislature on the shortest possible notice, I beg respectfully to solicit your votes to return me as your representative in the Assembly about to be elected.

In doing so I beg to state:—

That I am opposed to the policy of the Mowat Government whereby we are being kept out of our just territorial rights, and that, if elected, I shall do all in my power to secure for the Province the boundaries assigned to it at Confederation.

I am opposed to all ex post facto legislation and I am convinced that it is contrary to sound policy as well as justice that any man's property should be taken from him without full and adequate compensation, to be ascertained by an independent and fairly constituted tribunal.

I believe there is now on the Statute Book of this Province all or nearly all the legislation required to protect the public interests and to provide for the acquisition of non-floatable streams and improvements which may have been made thereon upon terms at once just to the lumbermen and to the owners thereof.

I am opposed to the unnecessary centralization of patronage where it can be used to influence the electorate, believing that such centralization is dangerous to the freedom of the people and calculated to produce the same evils in Canada as it has already produced in the neighboring States.

I am opposed to any Government using the power vested in them for the time being by the people to prevent a free expression of public opinion upon any subject, and especially upon a subject with which they as a Government have nothing to do, as was done by the Mowat Government and their officials in the last Dominion election in regard to the tariff policy adopted by the people.

I am opposed to the reckless and unnecessary extravagance of the Mowat Government whereby the capital of the Province is being rapidly dissipated and its ordinary expenditure increased to a point which cannot be maintained without a resort to direct taxation in one form or another.

With a view to bringing the ordinary expenditure within the ordinary income of the Province, without curtailing those expenditures which have a direct bearing upon local taxation, I shall advocate a substantial reduction in the number of the representatives of the Assembly, greater economy in the departments and generally such reforms as may be calculated to reduce those expenditures from which the people are deriving no direct advantage, believing that they are entitled to and desire the cheapest Government that suffices to regulate their affairs.

I am opposed to making the liquor traffic the shuttlecock of any political party, and will advocate and support every measure calculated to place the issue of licenses and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto in the hands of these least likely to be influenced by political considerations.

I am in favor of such a readjustment of the franchise as will give to all classes of the community that voice in the government of the country to which they are entitled and of which certain classes are now unjustly deprived by the present Government, notwithstanding that they have had ample opportunities of remedying this injustice.

The educational department under a political head not having proved a success, I shall favor a return to the non-political position which the department occupied when under the able management of the late Dr. Ryerson.

I believe that too much attention and too much money has been spent on what is called higher education and upon educational theorizing to the neglect of the three R's; that the cost of maintaining public schools—especially in the outlying districts—has been unnecessarily increased thereby, and that the people are not deriving the advantages which they should do from the large amounts annually expended nominally for educational purposes, but in too many instances to little practical advantage.

There are, no doubt, several other questions to which allusion might be made, but this address is already too long, and as my views on the public questions of the day are already pretty well known to most of you, and especially as I hope to have the opportunity, between this and polling day, of discussing the issues of the campaign with my opponent in your presence, I shall conclude by expressing the hope that my long and active connection with the public affairs of the Town and County of Peterborough, my practical knowledge of its agricultural and manufacturing interests and the manner in which I have hitherto discharged the public duties with which I have from time to time been entrusted have been such as to secure for me the hearty and active support of not only those who agree with me, but also of those electors who believe it to be the duty of a representative to try and impress his views upon his party leaders and not simply to vote as directed by them.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

A PANIC AT THE DELAVAN HOUSE LAST NIGHT.

The usual quietness of the Delavan House was broken in upon last night in a strange manner, and for an hour or more the guests/of that hitherto orderly and first-class hostelrie were in a ferment of excitement. At precisely 5 minutes past 10 o'clock, according to Senator Grady's chronometer, an individual was seen to enter hurriedly by the main entrance on Broadway and rush in an excited manner to the desk. His appearance was somewhat startling, and the swaying motion of his long body, coupled to the wildly gesticulating manner with which he stood and and questioned the clerk, would lead a beholder at once to know that there was something of import in connection with his mighty visit. We approached the desk, or rather we were pushed thither with the crowd eager to hear his question propounded. He spoke in a husky voice, and in that peculiar key akin to stage whispers, so that his question was lost to our ears, as well as the answer of the attentive night clerk, Mr. Leland Simons, who appeared to share in the anxiety of the nocturnal visitor. Having received an answer, however, he turned towards the elevator in the same hurried manner which had characterised his entrance, and pulling the door shut after him, he again, in husky tones, gave his order to the youth in charge of that pedal relieving automaton, and as a result, and before we could gather our senses, which had gone wool gathering, he was rapidly ascending. Our journalistic ear however, had caught the words "fourth floor" as they fell from the lips of the long-legged, long-haired and excited individual and in a moment more we were mounting the stairs. We were not long in reaching the floor adverted to, and just as we gained it we saw the coat-tails of the excited personage just turning the corner in the southeast end of the building. We hurried after the receding figure and gained the corner just in time to see our "chase" bolt into the room of Col. M. C. Murphy, representative of the first New York district. Here he remained closeted for some time, during which we were joined by several others who had mounted the stairs out of curiosity like ourselves and who now stood open-mouthed around the door. Of course we all listened, but not even our journalistic news hunting tact, backed by all the ingenuity present, could devise a plan by which we could hear. One reckless individual, thinking probably of a former occasion, suggested a step-ladder, and muttered something about the transom. Another, whose ear was glued to the keyhole, remarked that after all may it not be a platt—or plot—or something of that sort; for his remark was also lost to us. A third suggested that the timely use of a chambermaid be brought into requisition. But before either plan was made use of, the man glowering on the group, made his way through the doorway and crowd and started off again. He entered another room on the same floor, and again the listeners followed, but it was of no avail; not a sound could be overheard save indistinct mutterings. On leaving the room he descended to the floor beneath, and entered the room of a well-known military gentleman, who bears the distinguished title of general, and who arrived a day or two ago; here the tones were somewhat louder, but still not loud enough to be clearly overheard. For an hour this continued. The excited individual with the elongated hirsute appendage and the faber fortified ear, flew around the hotel. At last he decended to the ground floor, where he stood for a moment and looked about him. Soon his eyes rested on Mr. Ed. C. Sheehy, the representative of the twenty-second district of New York, and a most instantaneous change came over him. He no longer glared savagely, he approached the honorable gentleman with the air of an Adonis, smiling as sweetly as a love-sick swain. He apparently met with an old friend in the person of Mr. Sheehy, judging by the way that gentleman thrust forth his extended, and somewhat extensive palm. A light burst upon us at this moment; we remembered that Oscar Wilde had proved to be an Irishman. Was this Oscar in disguise, and speaking to a Milesian friend? We had not long to wait for an answer. The crowd, which had momentarily accumulated, pushed us forward, and we caught the following remarks from Mr. Sheehy:

"Why, to be sure, I found St. Jacobs Oil an excellent remedy! Excellent, sir. I would not be without it. I am a great admirer of St. Jacobs Oil. I—."

The cat was out of the bag. Our sensation had taken wings. Our Oscar had "bursted." We had been following one of the many press agents of St. Jacobs Oil, who was simply hurrying around among the notables to "do" them for the column of the newspapers. Later investigations proved this, and we have learned from the lips of several of our senators and assemblymen and others that were subjected to the repertorial pump. Let our readers look out for some excellent testimonials for St. Jacobs Oil soon.

POLISHING WOODS.

A correspondent of the Scientific American asks: 1. For the best way to polish fancy woods? A. Soft woods may be turned so smooth as to require no other polishing than that produced by holding it against a few fine turnings or shavings of the same wood while revolving. Mahogany, walnut, and some other woods may be polished by the use of a mixture as follows: Dissolve by heat so much beeswax in spirits of turpentine that the mixture, when cold, shall be about the thickness of honey. This may be applied to furniture or to work running in the lathe by means of a piece of clean cloth, and as much as possible should be rubbed off by using a clean flannel or other cloth. Hard woods may be readily turned very smooth; fine glass paper will suffice to give them a very perfect surface; a little linseed oil may then be rubbed on, and a portion of the turnings of the wood to be polished may then be held against the article, while it turns rapidly around, which will in general give it a fine gloss. You may also try alcoholic shellac varnish, 2 parts; boiled linseed oil, 1 part; shake well before using. Apply a small quantity with a cloth, and rub vigorously until the polish is secured. 2. To make paper-hanger's paste? A. First heat water to boiling, then add flour with constant stirring. To prevent the formation of lumps the flour may be passed through a sieve, so as to insure its most equable distribution; agitation is continued until the heat has rendered the mass of the desired consistency, and, after a few moments further boiling, it is ready for use. In order to increase its strength, powdered resin in the proportion of one-sixth to one-fourth of the weight of the flour is added. To prevent its souring, oil of cloves, or few drops of carbolic acid is added.

A Distressing Case of Lost Diamonds.

They had been married only six weeks, when he came home from the store one evening and found her in tears. She had lost one of her diamond ear-rings.

"Well, crying won't restore it, dear," he remarked, as he kissed her on the chin.

"N—no, but you see what an embarrassing position I am placed in."

"Certainly; we will advertise the loss in all the city papers."

"And offer a liberal reward?"

"Yes."

"The finder will expect at least $25?"

"That's what makes me feels so—so sad!" she cried, as she laid her beatiful head on his shoulder. "Those diamonds were a wedding present from f—ather, and he got 'em at the d—dollar store, and I don't want to see you swindled out of twenty-four dollars!"—Prairie Farmer.

THE Montreal police state that a trade is carried on across the line by Canadian body-snatchers, who sell corpses to a medical college in Vermont.

WORTH KNOWING.—A Fact Worth Knowing. The best household remedy known for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough and all throat and chest troubles tending toward Pulmonary Consumption is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, to be procured of any druggist.

WALTER LINTON, of Waterloo, writes that Hagyard's Yellow Oil has done great good in his family, his wife being cured of Callouse lumps that other medicines failed to remove, he he also states that a neighbor was promptly relieved of Rheumatism by the same remedy.

IT made me feel like a "Band of Music," was the rather forcible expression of an individual who was praising "Pectoria," the great remedy for Coughs and Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis. It is safe, pleasant and effectual. If you suffer, try it. For sale by all druggists and general dealers at 25 cents a bottle.

MR. THOMAS W. RACE, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work. The medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms.

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Camping out in the pine woods has been recommended to consumptive patients, and the Rev. Mr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, mentions a remarkable cure from treatment in this manner. Every one afflicted with pulmonary disease cannot make it convenient to camp out, nor is it necessary, when all the benefits of the treatment are procurable by using Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum, a scientific preparation, which presents, in a concentrated and agreeable form, all the virtue of this nature medicine gum. As a cure for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat and Hoarseness it is invaluable. Sold by all chemists. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Worthy of Praise.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Billiousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach and Liver and Kidney Complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Arch.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Taylor & Macdonald.—6

FITS "A Leading London Physician establishes an Office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS."

From Am. Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address

THE

PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Concert To-Night.

Do not forget the grand concert in Bradburn's Opera House this evening, by Mr. Chas. W. Ewing, assisted by the choir of St. John's Church. It promises to be a rare musical treat. Besides the regular choir of the church, the names of Mrs. Caldwell, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Chambers, formerly of Peterborough, appear on the programme, and should be an attraction of of themselves, as both these ladies are well known as superior soprano singers. The choir is composed of good vocalists, and Mr. Chas. W. Ewing, the organist, will play several of his matchless pianoforte solos. There should, and doubtless will, be a large attendance.

IF YOU WANT large fresh oysters dished up in good style, go to T. Darcy's Restuarant and Oyster Parlour.

METHODIST UNION.

The Basis Approved of by the Canada Methodists of Peterborough.

The basis of union adopted by the Joint Committee representing Methodist Church of Canada, the Methodist the Episcopal Church and the Bible Christian and Primitive Methodist Churches, was considered at the regular quarterly meeting of the Official Board of the Peterborough Circuit held in the George Street Methodist Church on Monday night.

Some discussion took place upon the proposed basis, which showed that there was a unanimous feeling in favour of the principle of union, the only difference being on some of the proposed changes.

The following resolution was moved and seconded:—

That our judgment and our sympathies both lead us to desire a union of the several Methodist Churches now existing in Canada.

That there appear to be fewer difficulties in the way of consummating this union now than there would be at any future time.

That the basis of union as submitted for our consideration commends itself to our judgment as a fairly equitable and practical basis upon which the union may be consummated now.

That such difficulties as may show themselves in the practical working of the new constitution may be dealt with by the new church, and amendments made until it is found to work smoothly and equitably.

Therefore this Quarterly Meeting recommends the adoption of the basis of union as submitted.

This resolution was adopted by a vote of seventeen to one, showing that while there is a unanimous feeling in favor of union, the proposed basis meets with almost unanimous approval.

The result of the vote in twenty-six Official Boards in other places have been reported, and in every case the basis of union was approved of, in many of them without a dissentient voice.

Mr. Carnegie's Committee.

Mr. Carnegie's Committee will meet this evening. A full attendance is requested.

Picturesque Canada.

Mr. Dodd is at the Oriental delivering the fifteenth and sixteenth parts of Picturesque Canada to the town subscribers.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:— At 8 a.m., 10° above zero; at noon, 16° above, and at 3 p.m. 19° above. The lowest reading of the Rev. V. Clementi's thermometer during last night was 10° below zero.

Concert and Extracts from Programme.

Mr. Charles W. Ewing's Grand Evening Concert will take place this Tuesday evening, in Bradburn's Hall, as advertised. Mrs. Caldwell will sing the Grand Aria from Mozart's Magic Flute, and Emmet's Cuckoo Song. Mrs. Chambers will sing Gottschalk's "O Loving Heart, Trust On." The Choir of St. John's Church will sing the celebrated Soldier's Chorus from Gounod's Faust, and the beautiful Suabian Volkslied "Come Dorothy, Come." Mr. Chas. W. Ewing will play Beethoven's Funeral March Sonata, and Ascher's humorous Danse Negre. These few extracts from the programme show that an unusually attractive entertainment has been provided. Secure reserved seats early. See advertisement.

Muldoon's Pic-nic.

Gorman's Great Irish Comedy Company will present "Muldoon's Pic-nic," said to be the most laughable comedy-play ever written, in Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday evening next. Among the attractions announced are Sam. J. Ryan and Jas. K. Gibson, the Irish comedians, supported by a cluster of comedy stars, and the trick donkey "Paudheen." The Waterville Journal says of the play:—

> "Muldoon's Pic-nic given by Gorman's Comedy Co. last Tuesday evening at the Opera House, was one of the best and most enjoyable entertainments given here this winter, and was undoubtedly appreciated by the large and fashionable audience present. Some of the most ridiculous scenes were seen and each one would bring down the house. In fact we witnessed more solid fun and laughter than ever before in the Opera House. We hope the company will visit us soon again."

Railway Notes.

The ten o'clock train of Monday night did not arrive until half-past two this morning. It was delayed by waiting for the through Midland train, which was late owing to an accident to the engine.

A new arrangement has been made at the Midland station, by which the porters and hack-drivers stand at the corner of the building, instead of crowding close to the cars, as the passengers alight. This is a good rule. But would it not still further improve matters to have the porters stand in front of the station building, because when the passengers alight from the north end of the cars near the centre of the building, the porters have to exert their lungs vigorously in order to make their presence known?

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commences to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 7.—Henry Smith was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having been drunk and disorderly. He had nothing to say in answer to the charge, and was fined $2, or twenty days in gaol. He was committed.

THEFT.

Edward Swanbruch was charged with stealing an overcoat, the property of one Lucas, from M. Halpin's hotel on Tuesday.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty.

M. HALPIN, having been sworn, stated that he found the coat in Mr. Belleghem's yard, hidden between two lumber piles.

C. ROBINSON deposed that he saw the prisoner pass down the hall in the hotel and go out with the coat on his arm. He was out a few minutes and came in again without it. The witness then spoke to Mr. Halpin about it, and they, in company with another, found the coat hidden in the lumber piles.

S. SHAUGHNESSY deposed that he was standing on the street opposite the hotel and saw the prisoner come out with the coat and go into Mr. Belleghem's yard and hide it in the lumber piles. The witness went over and told Mr. Halpin and Mr. Robinson where it was, and went with them when they found it.

The prisoner elected to be tried sumarily by the Magistrate.

The MAGISTRATE sentenced the prisoner to six months in gaol at hard labor.

IN A CUL DE SAC.

Mr. Mowat is largely depending on his manipulation of the boundary question to secure for himself another lease of power in Ontario. But he does not appear to advantage in connection with that question. He fairly gave himself away thereon in a late debate on subject in the Ontario Legislature. Sir John, after the refusal of Parliament, in the unquestionable exercise of its just rights, to ratify the award, had suggested that the legal question involved should be placed for settlement in the hands of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. No quibbling or squirming or legal hair splitting could make out a plausible case before the tribunal of common sense for the rejection of this proposal. But Mr. Mowat rejected it nevertheless. Why? Manifestly, because the proposal would lead to an early and amicable settlement of a question which he desired to keep open to help him at the polls with ignorant or prejudiced people. Well, in the course of debate on this matter a few days ago in the Ontario Assembly, Mr. Mowat, driven into a cul de sac, was reduced to taking shelter at the last behind the paltry defence that the proposal was not accompanied with an offer of a plan for meanwhile managing the affairs of the territory in dispute. His poor little defence, however, was levelled on the instant by the showing that Sir John had in express terms stated his willingness to come to an understanding for the pro tem. government of the territory. To this Mr. Mowat could only reply that it meant nothing in particular, was not specific, and so forth. He was reduced to a miserable plight in his so-called strong position. In the fight to come on it he should be beaten hip and thigh.—St. John, N. B., News.

HOW SLATE PENCILS ARE MADE.

Broken slate from the quarries is put into a mortar run by steam and pounded into small particles. Thence it goes into the hopper of a mill, which runs it into a bolting machine, such as is used in flouring mills, where it is bolted, the fine, almost impalpable flour that results being taken into mixing-tub, where a small quantity of steatite flour manufactured in a similar manner is added, and the whole is then made into a stiff dough. This dough is thoroughly kneaded by passing it several times between iron rollers. Thence it is carried to a table, where it is made into charges—that is, short cylinders, four or five inches thick, and containing from eight to ten pounds each. Four of these are placed in a strong iron chamber or retort, with a changeable nozzle, so as to regulate the size of the pencil, and subjected to tremendous hydraulic pressure under which the composition is pushed through the nozzle in a long cord like a slender snake sliding out of a hole, and passes over a sloping table slit at right angles with the cords to give passage, with a knife which cuts them into lengths. They are then laid on boards to dry, and after a few hours are removed to sheets of corrugated zinc, the corrugations serving to prevent the pencils from warping during the process of baking, to which they are next subjected in a kiln, into which superheated steam is introduced in pipes, the temperature being regulated according to the requirements of the article exposed to its influence. From the kiln the articles go to the finishing and packing room, where the ends are thrust for a second under rapidly-revolving emery wheels, and withdrawn neatly and smoothly pointed ready for use. They are then packed in pasteboard boxes, each containing 100 pencils; and these boxes in turn are packed for shipment in wooden boxes containing 100 each, or 10,000 pencils in a shipping box. Nearly all the work is done by boys, and the cost therefore is light.

A Joker and an Elephant.

The Rev. Mr. Watson gives a very curious story in illustration of this animal's wonderful long memory of a wrong suffered. One of these pests of society, "a practical joker," visited a caravan in a West of England fair and tried his stupid tricks upon an elephant there. He first doled out to it, one by one, some gingerbread nuts, and when the grateful animal was thrown off its guard he suddenly proffered it a large parcel wrapped in paper. The unsuspicious creature accepted and swallowed the lump, but immediately began to exhibit signs of intense suffering, and snatching up a bucket handed it to the keeper for water. This being given to it, it eagerly swallowed quantities of the fluid. "Ha!" exclaimed the delighted joker, "I guess those nuts were a trifle hot, old fellow." "You had better be off," exclaimed the keeper, "unless you wish a bucket at your head." The fool took the hint only just in time, for the enraged animal having finished the sixth bucketful, hurled the bucket after its tormentor with such force that had he lingered a moment longer his life might have been forfeited. The affair had, not, however, yet concluded. The following year the show revisited the same town, and the foolish joker, like men of his genus, unable to profit by experience, thought to repeat his stupid trick on the elephant. He took two lots of nuts into the show with him—sweet nuts in one pocket and hot in the other. The elephant had not forgotten the jest played upon him, and therefore accepted the cakes very cautiously. At last the joker proffered a hot one; but no sooner had the injured creature discovered its pungency than it seized hold of its persecutor by the coat-tails, hoisted him up by them, and held him until they gave way, when he fell to the ground. The elephant now inspected the severed coat-tails, which, after he had discovered and eaten all the sweet nuts, he tore to rage and flung after their discomfited owner.—Chambers Journal.

Bad Memories.

Failure of memory is apt to be attended with very embarrassing results sometimes in social life. The sister of an eminent clergyman, accompanying her brother to a dinner-party entirely forgot that she was not at her own table, and apologized for the abominably bad dinner. She was "quite ashamed" to see such dishes sent to table. The lady of the house did not enjoy the blunder quite as much as the other guests. Lately, in New York, a distinguished English gentleman called on a big merchant who had entertained him two years ago. "How d'ye do, Mr. ——?" he said, expecting a cordial clasp. "Who are you?" rejoined the merchant, whose manners are at times brusque; "I don't know you." "Sir G.C.," replied the other. "I had the pleasure of dining with you two years ago." "A mistake, sir; I never saw you before," and poor Sir G.C. retired.

REGISTRARS AND RETURNING OFFICERS.

THE appointment of Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, of Norwood, as Returning Officer for East Peterborough, is exciting some comment. Now we have not a word of criticism to utter as to this selection from a personal point of view, for we believe Mr. Roxburgh is a gentleman who is thoroughly competent to perform the duties of the office in an efficient and satisfactory manner. But there are other aspects of the matter to which we must allude.

As is well known, the Registrars and Sheriffs are ex-officio Returning Officers. During the session just past Mr. Mowat took power by statute to appoint Returning Officers wherever there is a vacancy in the office of Registrar or Sheriff. What is the meaning of this provision? There can be very few such vacancies—indeed we only know of one other case besides our own. Can anyone pretend that there is more difficulty in appointing a Registrar than in legislating on the subject and then appointing a Returning Officer? Would it not have been as easy to appoint a Registrar for the County of Peterborough as a Returning officer for East Peterborough?

But that straightforward course would not have suited the purpose of Mr. Mowat. The truth is that Mr. Mowat is practising a measure which is as corrupt as if he had sent down to Peterborough a number of bank bills for the direct purchase of votes. Having promised the Registrarship to a gentleman in the East Riding, he is now dangling the prize before gentlemen on this side of the river in order to influence votes by the fallacious prospect of an office which he has already given away.

Mr. Mowat is short is being guilty of conduct which is not only corrupt but meanly deceptive. In pursuance of the well-developed system of his administration he is using the Provincial patronage and the public money to bolster up his political career.

DANGLING PRIZES.

IT is not only in Peterborough that Mr. Mowat is dangling prizes before the eyes of expectants of office, only to disappoint the majority of them. The independent Toronto Telegram says:—

"The Ontario Government goes to the country with two men short. Whatever changes are to be made in the Cabinet should be made without delay, so that the people may know who compose the concern. It would strengthen the prospective ministers if they were able to announce in their constituencies that they were about to be taken into the Cabinet; but perhaps Mr. Mowat intends to keep the prizes dangling before half a dozen aspirants, each one hoping that one of them may fall to him."

REFORMERS VETO.

THE Brantford Telegram says:—

"We do not charge the Reform Government at Ottawa with exercising the veto power recklessly and thoughtlessly, but we do say it is monstrously absurd and inconsistent for a party who used the veto power 18 times in four years and ten month, to find fault with a Conservative Government, which, though ten years and a-half in power, only exercised the veto 17 times. Such facts ought to shut the blatant mouths of those Grits, who are prepetually denouncing the constitutional exercise of the power of disallowance."

THE Toronto Evening Canadian draws the following fair deduction which is worthy of the attention of all who are disirous of promoting temperance. Our contemporary says:—

"The Port Hope clergy declare that the liquor law is totally disregarded in that town. This comes of having partisan license officials."

The Princess Louise's Absence.

It is officially stated that Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise was exceedingly desirous of returning to Canada with her husband at the conclusion of their British Columbia tour, but at the advice of her London physician and express command of Her Majesty she was obliged to go to Bermuda, there to remain until the latter part of March or first week in April. The chief object of her trip to Bermuda is to avoid the severity of the Canadian winter, which might have the effect of inducing those troublesome neuralgic symptoms which followed her severe accident of three years ago. Her Royal Highness recently expressed herself as very much attached to Canada, and it is a matter of regret that her forced absence from the country should be due to injuries sustained when on the way to discharge an important public duty. The Princess arrived in Bermuda on Monday, the 30th of January, and received an enthusiastic welcome.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

THE RULERS OF THE SCHOOLS ASSEMBLE AND ORGANIZE FOR THE YEAR.

Mr. James Stevenson Re-appointed Chairman and Mr. Stratton Inspector—The Standing Committees—Mr. Dixon's Illness—Collegiate Institute Fees—A Change Required in the School Law—Communications, Accounts, Etc.

The first meeting of the Board of Education of the year 1883 was held on Tuesday evening.

PRESENT—Messrs. Stevenson, Stratton Robinson, Sproule, Dumble, McClelland, Wrighton, Denne, Kendry, Sawers and Rutherford.

Mr. W. A. MORROW, Secretary of the Board, took the chair. He said that he had received intimation from the Town Council that Messrs. D. W. Dumble, James Kendry and Arthur Rutherford had been elected High School Trustees, and returns from the Deputy-Returning Officers showing that Mr. J. R. Stratton was re-elected Public School Trustee for the First Ward, Mr. W. H. Wrighton for the Second Ward, Dr. Burnham for the Third Ward, and John Sawers for the Fourth Ward. Those of these gentlemen who were present had filed the necessary papers. He then asked the Board to elect a chairman.

Mr. MCCLELLAND moved, seconded by Mr. SPROULE,—That Jas. Stevenson, Esq., be appointed Chairman for the present year.—Carried.

Mr. STEVENSON, upon taking his seat, returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him. He looked upon this year as an important one, and he believed that changes, important changes, would have to be made during the year. He regretted the illness of the Principal, who was not able to attend to his duties. The Principal had endeavored to secure some one to fill his place, and the Inspector, Dr. McLellan, had been applied to and recommended a gentleman of Owen Sound. Several subjects would come before them, and he hoped they would receive the earnest consideration of the Board, and one of these was the heating furnace. There was a deficit last year, which was caused by the increased expense for wood, but their financial affairs were in a good condition.

THE STANDING COMMITTEES.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. MCCLELLAND,—That the following be a committee to strike the Standing Committees for 1883:—Messrs. Wrighton, Stratton, McClelland, Sawers, Denne and the mover.—Carried.

The Committee then retired for consultation, and having returned presented their report, recommending that the committees be composed as follows:—

APPOINTMENTS — Messrs. Dumble, Denne, Cox, Wrighton, McClelland, Sawers and Rutherford.

FINANCE—Messrs. Dumble, Kendry, Burnham, Wrighton, Stratton and Sproule.

PROPERTY—Messrs. Wrighton, McClelland, Sawers, Weir, Robinson and Rutherford.

SCHOOL SUPERVISION — Messrs. Burnham, Kendry, Stratton, Denne, Robinson, Weir and Sproule.

The report was adopted.

The minutes of the last meeting were then read and confirmed.

PUBLIC SCHOOL INSPECTOR.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. ROBINSON,—That Mr. James Stratton be re-appointed Inspector for the current year, at the same salary as last year.

Mr. MCCLELLAND moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. RUTHERFORD,—That Mr. J. C. Brown be appointed Public School Inspector.

Mr. MCCLELLAND explained that he had no personal feeling in moving the amendment, and gave several reasons why he did so, among them being that Mr. Stratton had not sufficient time to devote to the duties of the office, and that as he had been appointed town auditor, he was disqualified for the position.

Mr. RUTHERFORD, in seconding the nomination, disclaimed any personal feeling, and gave his reasons for acting as he did. Mr. Brown devoted all his time to school matters.

The CHAIRMAN, in reply to Mr. SPROULE, said that the fact of Mr. Stratton being a town auditor did not disqualify him for the office.

After some discussion, Mr. McClelland's amendment was put and lost.

The yeas and nays were asked for and recorded as follows:—

YEAS.—Messrs. McClelland, Rutherford, Denne and Kendry.

NAYS.—Messrs. Dumble, Sproule, Wrighton, Sawers, Robinson and Stratton.

The motion for the appointment of Mr. Stratton was carried on the same vote.

REPORTS.

The CHAIRMAN said that the committee appointed to wait on the County Council had done so, without succeeding in securing a grant for the High School.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were read and ordered to be paid:—

A. Hall	$ 3 80
M. Miller	11 32
G. Tighe, repairing well	2 00

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Chas. D. Macdonald, Town Clerk, reporting the election of High School Trustees.

From John Dixon, Principal of the High School, asking for leave of absence for two or three months, on condition that he found a suitable substitute.

From J. A. McLellan, Inspector of High School, giving the name of a gentleman who would fill the position.

On motion Mr. Dixon was granted leave of absence, and the matter of securing a substitute was left in the hands of the Chairman of the Committee on Appointments.

A communication was read, in accordance with a motion passed at the last meeting, stating that there were thirty-nine non-resident pupils attending the public schools.

ATTENDANCE AT THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Principal's report of attendance at the public schools during January was read as follows:—

	On Reg.	Av. Att.
Central School	590	494
South Ward School	215	177
West Ward School	160	126
Total	965	797

A BY-LAW.

A By-law was introduced authorizing the Chairman and Secretary-Treasurer to borrow money to pay the expenses of the schools. The By-law was read a first, second and third times and passed.

SCHOOL DEBENTURES.

The CHAIRMAN, in reply to Mr. DENNE, said that they were not paying off the school debentures, but that the interest had been reduced from 7 per cent. to 5 per cent.

After further discussion,

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. MCCLELLAND,—That the Secretary be required to ask the Town Auditors as to the amount raised by taxes for the purpose of a sinking fund to pay off school debentures during the last twenty years, and as to the appropriation of such moneys, and how much the school debenture debt had been reduced.—Carried.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE FEES.

Mr. RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Mr. DENNE,—That the Board regret the action of the County Council in refusing to make a grant to the Collegiate Institute, and that the fees for pupils from the County attending the Institute be $5 a month, except for those from Ashburnham, who will be admitted on the same terms as last year.

After a lengthy discussion, Mr. STRATTON moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. KENDRY,—That the matter be referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Dumble McCelland, Wrighton, Cox, Denne, Rutherford and the Chairman, to examine the matter of fees and report to the Board.

The amendment was carried.

Mr. RUTHERFORD asked for yeas and nays, and they were taken as follows:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Stratton, Dumble, McCelland, Wrighton, Robinson and Kendry.

NAYS.—Messrs. Rutherford, Denne, Sproule and Sawers.

SUPPLIES.

On motion of Mr. STRATTON, the Chairman of the Committee on School Supervision was authorized to advertise for school supplies.

A CHARGE OF PARTIALITY.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said that there were charges of partiality made against the teachers, in that all the book sellers were not notified when a change was make in books.

The CHAIRMAN said that the teachers had nothing to do with it, but he thought that the principals should see to the matter.

The INSPECTOR said that there had been no change in the books used in the public schools for some years.

THE INSPECTOR'S DUTIES.

Mr. SAWERS moved, seconded by Mr. WRIGHTON,—That the Inspector shall hereafter visit each school at least once a month and report the result of the visits to the Board not less often than quarterly.—Carried.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Mr. SAWERS moved, seconded by Mr. SPROULE,—That the head masters of both the Public and High schools be authorized to furnish a list in detail of all pupils attending and the sums paid by them, and from what part of the county they are from, for the year 1882.—Carried.

THE SCHOOL LAW.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. WRIGHTON,—That the Chairman, Mr. Denne and the mover be a committee to wait upon the Attorney-General and the Minister of Education with a view to getting in the Consolidated School Act a clause making towns separated from counties a part of the county for high school purposes.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

CHAIRMEN OF COMMITTEES.

Immediately after the adjournment of the Board, the committees assembled and elected their chairmen, as follows:—Appointments, Mr. Dumble; Finance, Mr. Stratton; School Property, Mr. Wrighton; School Supervision, Dr. Burnham.

"LORD" COURTNEY DENISON.

The recent death of a notorious adventurer named Denison has brought to light the fact that the young man was actually related to the aristocratic family whose patronymic he always bore, but also revives a whole host of stories which reflect nothing but discredit upon the scion of nobility. It appears that he was a son of Lord Londesborough. His father was a member of the Cunningham family, but changed his name to Denison on receiving a legacy. When Lord Londesborough died, young Denison's mother married Lord Fitzgerald, between whom and his step-children much ill-feeling existed. At 18 years of age the young man was required by his step-father to enter the army, but this he refused to do, and ran away to Belgium. Here he was reduced to such straits that he was compelled to dispose of all his personal property, and so, as a last resort, he shipped on a vessel to Philadelphia as a cabin boy. He landed there penniless, and accepted employment at picking strawberries, making from 10 to 25 cents a day. This means of livelihood could not last long of course, and he was compelled to write to his stepfather for assistance, and was granted an annuity of £100 until he became of age. Then followed the methods of existance which gave him such an unenviable notoriety in Canada and the States, where he visited most of the principal cities, and reaped a rich harvest everywhere until at length in each he was discovered as a dead beat. In 1881 he returned to England and obtained some of the private fortune that belonged to him. While on this visit he received a document from a Welsh lady recommending him to all patriotic Welshmen, which afterward proved of great value to him. Shortly after his return to this continent his means again became exhausted, and in "roughing it" in the Western States he contracted a pulmonary disease that eventually took him off. Arriving at Denver he secured a situation as an express driver, but afterward worked on a sheep ranch. About a year ago, being taken suddenly ill, he went to board with a Welshman named Jones, who cared for him until his death.

"Barkis is willing." But it's because Barkis can't help himself. He has to believe facts. Churchill's Ointment never fails to cure old sores when all else fails. Twenty-five cents a box.

GOOD ADVICE.—Keep the head cool, the feet dry and warm, the bowels open and the blood pure by using Hope's Regulating Pills and Fountain of Health. Sold at 10 and 25 cents everywhere.

Worthy of Praise.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach and Liver and Kidney Complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Exch.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Taylor & Macdonald.—6

A REMARKABLE CASE.

An Elderly Woman Becomes Somnolent for Years—Physicians Baffled.

There is in this city a case that has baffled the best medical skill. It is one of somnolency. The patient is a married lady, between 50 and 60 years of age. We are not warranted in making use of her name, but in describing her we will call her Brown. To ascertain the facts a Whig reporter called upon a prominent physician. The doctor willingly gave all the information he could. He said that [illegible] years ago Mrs. Brown, who had hitherto been apparently healthy, took ill with a sort of nervous weakness resulting in loss of strength. Thence she passed into somnolency and partook of little nourishment, principally liquids, and could not speak nor move. Her pulse was regular and the doctor judged that she was free from pain. She was conscious and could indicate whenever she desired anything. For years she lay in bed or reclined in a chair near the window. Finally she rallied and regained her wonted strength and health. Her recovery to activity was very rapid, and soon she performed her household duties as though nothing had happened. She showed no signs of mental weakness, but attended the markets and did her own buying. She was a regular attendant at church, and for a long time continued to be perfectly well, strong and healthy. Again, about 1880, she showed symptoms of another nervous attack. She was indisposed during the winter and gradually passed into a state of lethargy. She suffers in no particular way. Again she lies perfectly still, sleeps and takes little nourishment. The functions of the body seem to be naturally performed. As in years gone by she hints to her attendants when anything is desired. The physician attending her has made a study of the case, as it is the only one of such a character of which he has ever heard or read about. There is no coma, nothing to indicate disease of the brain. Secretion is regular, the pulse normal. She has a cool skin, a natural temperature and rests well at night. "There she lies," said the doctor, "as calm and placid as an infant." Her face is without pallor. She is a remarkably neat and clean person, and unless kept in that condition intimates that something is wrong. The doctor can only attribute the state of lethargy to an utter prostration of the nervous system. He thinks she is conscious, but he believes that if the brain were examined the cerebellum would be found undergoing a change. Mrs. Brown is the mother of several children. Her husband is remarkably attentive and handles her like a child. It may be that she will remain in her present condition for the rest of her life, or as before she may suddenly come out of the state of lethargy. The probabilities are, though, that at her present advanced age she will never recover. The case is certainly a very peculiar one. Mrs. Brown's father died of softening of the brain.—Kingston Whig.

THE ADIRONDACK WILDERNESS.

The need of saving the woodlands of the Adirondack wilderness, out of which flow the Hudson River and other streams of great commercial, manufacturing and sanitary value to the State, has long been recognized by observing and thoughtful citizens. The outer and more accessible portions of the original forest region have long been stripped of their timber, and vast areas of little use for agriculture have thus been made treeless and barren. So long as the forests of Maine and Michigan and other wooded regions in the North and West were able to supply timber at a less cost for transportation to market, the remaining Adirondack forests were practically protected from the inroads of lumber men. That protection they are rapidly losing, and quite recently vast tracts of heavily wooded lands in that region have passed into the hands of timber cutters.

There is no question that the general clearing of the Adirondack region of its protecting forests would produce effects of the most disastrous character to the valleys of the streams flowing therefrom, effects like those which, during the past few months, have brought death and desolation to so many European river valleys. The rainfall of the Adirondack region is great, the drainage slopes steep, and without the controlling and restraining influence of the existing swamps and forests about their sources, the rivers which drain this northern wilderness would show only great and sudden alterations flooded and empty channels, destructive at once to the agriculture of their valleys, to the manufacturing interests which cluster along their banks, and to the commerce of the Hudson, the channel of which has already been seriously obstructed by the detritus washed in from unprotected hill slopes and other spaces stripped of their original forests.

It is gratifying to note that the State Legislature, or rather the Senate, has taken ground against the further invasion of the Adirondack forests, at least for that part of the region under State control; and it is much to be hoped that the Assembly will do as well. Senator Frederick Lansing's bill, forbidding the sale of 600,000 acres owned by the State in the Adirondack region, was passed by a vote of 24 to 5, January 23. It is a good indication of increasing public appreciation of the need of preserving the wooded character of that part of the State. The timber there, if cut at all, should be cut only under rigid control, and with the most careful provisions for immediate rewooding of the cleared ground.

Wood and Coal.

The relative value of wood and coal has been made the subject of scientific investigation. It is stated as safe to assume that two and a quarter pounds of dry wood are equal to one pound of average quality of soft coal; and that the fuel value of the same weight of different woods is nearly the same, when dry: that is, a pound of pine is equal to a pound of hickory. The different woods weigh as follows, per cord: Hickory or hard maple, 4,500 pounds; white oak, 3,850 pounds; beech, red and black oak, 3,250 pounds; popular, chestnut and elm, 2,350 pounds; average of pine, 2,000 pounds. The value of these woods for fuel, as compared with coal, is given as follows: One cord of hickory or hard maple equals a ton of coal; white oak, 1,715 pounds; beech and red and black oak, 1,050 pounds; average pine, 925 pounds.—Northwestern Lumberman.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the

WEST RIDING

OF THE

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor having seen fit to dissolve the Legislature of this Province and to issue writs for the election of a new Legislature on the shortest possible notice, I beg respectfully to solicit your votes to return me as your representative to the Assembly about to be elected.

In doing so I beg to state:—

That I am opposed to the policy of the Mowat Government whereby we are being kept out of our just territorial rights, and that, if elected, I shall do all in my power to secure for the Province the boundaries assigned to it at Confederation.

I am opposed to all ex post facto legislation and I am convinced that it is contrary to sound policy as well as justice that any man's property should be taken from him without full and adequate compensation, to be ascertained by an independent and fairly constituted tribunal.

I believe there is now on the Statute Book of this Province all or nearly all the legislation required to protect the public interests and to provide for the acquisition of non-floatable streams and improvements which may have been made thereon upon terms at once just to the lumbermen and to the owners thereof.

I am opposed to the unnecessary centralization of patronage where it can be used to influence the electorate, believing that such centralization is dangerous to the freedom of the people and calculated to produce the same evils in Canada as it has already produced in the neighboring States.

I am opposed to any Government using the power vested in them for the time being by the people to prevent a free expression of public opinion upon any subject, and especially upon a subject with which they as a Government have nothing to do, as was done by the Mowat Government and their officials in the last Dominion election in regard to the tariff policy adopted by the people.

I am opposed to the reckless and unnecessary extravagance of the Mowat Government whereby the capital of the Province is being rapidly dissipated and its ordinary expenditure increased to a point which cannot be maintained without a resort to direct taxation in one form or another.

With a view to bringing the ordinary expenditure within the ordinary income of the Province, without curtailing those expenditures which have a direct bearing upon local taxation, I shall advocate a substantial reduction in the number of the representatives of the Assembly, greater economy in the departments and generally such reforms as may be calculated to reduce those expenditures from which the people are deriving no direct advantage, believing that they are entitled to and desire the cheapest Government that suffices to regulate their affairs.

I am opposed to making the liquor traffic the shuttlecock of any political party, and will advocate and support every measure calculated to place the issue of licenses and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto in the hands of those least likely to be influenced by political considerations.

I am in favor of such a readjustment of the franchise as will give to all classes of the community that voice in the government of the country to which they are entitled and of which certain classes are now unjustly deprived by the present Government, notwithstanding that they have had ample opportunities of remedying this injustice.

The educational department under a political head not having proved a success, I shall favor a return to the non-political position which the department occupied when under the able management of the late Dr. Ryerson.

I believe that too much attention and too much money has been spent on what is called higher education and upon educational theorising to the neglect of the three R's; that the cost of maintaining public schools—especially in the outlying districts—has been unnecessarily increased thereby, and that the people are not deriving the advantages which they should do from the large amounts annually expended nominally for educational purposes, but in too many instances to little practical advantage.

There are, no doubt, several other questions to which allusion might be made, but this address is already too long, and as my views on the public questions of the day are already pretty well known to most of you, and especially as I hope to have the opportunity, between this and polling day, of discussing the issues of the campaign with my opponent in your presence, I shall conclude by expressing the hope that my long and active connection with the public affairs of the Town and County of Peterborough, my practical knowledge of its agricultural and manufacturing interests and the manner in which I have hitherto discharged the public duties with which I have from time to time been entrusted have been such as to secure for me the confidence and active support of not only those who agree with me, but also of those electors who believe it to be the duty of a representative to try and impress his views upon his party leaders and not simply to vote as directed by them.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

Peterborough, February 5th, 1883.

LET THE UNBELIEVING TRY IT.—One package of Fountain of Health will do more to make the aged and weak feel young and strong than any other medicine at four times the cost. Price 25 cents.

FROM ALL OVER.

OVER a hundred firemen were injured at a fire at Havana on Monday night.

FOUR persons convicted of murder at Tantah were hanged on Monday.

THE Comte de Chambord is reported to be suffering from an attack of quinsy, which is causing his friends considerable uneasiness.

SLIGHT shocks of earthquakes were felt in Illinois, New York and New Hampshire on Sunday and Monday. Hungary and Spain have also been visited by earthquakes.

GRANULATED EYE LIDS.—There is a chronic inflamed hot surface of the lids, continually irritating to the eye, otherwise healthy. One box of Churchill's Climax Eye Salve will cure this trouble. Price 25 cents.

IT is reported that York house, at Twickenham, formerly the residence of the Comte de Paris, is being put in order for the reception of a member of the Orleans family.

DURING the year just closed in England there were reported 29 mining explosions, 15 of which were fatal, the number of deaths reaching 241, exactly the average for the past 32 years.

IN DRY FORM.—The contents of a package costing 25 cents will make a quart of medicine called Fountain of Health, unequalled for purifying the blood and toning up a debilitated system.

THERE is a panic through the south-western counties of Virginia owing to smallpox. The scourge has abated at Salem, but has appeared at Bristol and several other towns.

SALLOWNESS AND WRINKLES.—The former gives place to the bloom of youth, the latter are smoothed out and depart when the Fountain of Health is used. Twenty-five cents per package.

THE magistrate before whom Prince Jeromes' case came has made an order sending the prisoner for trial on an indictment for attempting to overthrow the existing regime. The case will be decided within a week.

SMITH'S GERMAN WORM REMEDY.—R. Morrison, of the Dominion Electrotype Foundry, 597 Craig Street, Montreal, says one dose of Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy removed 13 large worms from his child 4 years old.

A MAN named Luke Ryan, aged 42, was found dead at two o'clock on Monday morning in a house where he was boarding at Belleville. He had been on a prolonged spree, and to this his death was attributed. An inquest was not considered necessary.

IT made me feel like a "Band of Music," was the rather forcible expression of an individual who was praising "Pectoria," the great remedy for Coughs and Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis. It is safe, pleasant and effectual. If you suffer, try it. For sale by all druggists and general dealers at 25 cents a bottle.

MISS PAULINE ROSE, daughter of Mr. C. H. Rose, of Chatham, Ont., recently sent to her Majesty a collection of Canadian autumn leaves and ferns worked up in beautiful designs. The handsome present, which was forwarded through Sir Alex. Galt, has been acknowledged by the Queen's private secretary. Miss Pauline is only twelve years of age.

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Biliousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Camping out in the pine woods has been recommended to consumptive patients, and the Rev. Dr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, mentions a remarkable cure from treatment of this nature. Every one afflicted with pulmonary disease cannot make it convenient to camp out, nor is it necessary, when all the benefits of the treatment are procurable by using Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum, a scientific preparation, which presents, in a concentrated and agreeable form, all the virtue of this native medicine gum. As a cure for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat and Hoarseness it is invaluable. Sold by all chemists. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

An Inhuman Monster.

A recent case of horrible brutality has been unearthed at Protrolia. Last June a man named Thos. R. Strange obtained two children from the Guthrie Home, London, named Emily Tranter aged five years, and George Underhill aged six years. It appears that ever since Strange obtained possession of the little creatures he has not only starved them but abused them in a most inhuman manner. The boy was kept in the open air recently till both his feet were frozen, necessitating the amputation of two toes. These facts becoming known, the man was arrested and tried for assault and cruelty before Mayor Hammond. For the first offence he was sent for 60 days to jail without the option of a fine, and for the latter offence he was committed to stand his trial at the Spring Assizes. During the investigation it was proved that Strange on different occasions suspended the children by the thumbs, dashed them on the floor, and inflicted other brutual injuries. The children are now at the Guthrie House, London, undergoing medical treatment.

An Automatic Flutist and Piper.

Vaucanson, a mechanical genius, made an automaton flute-player and piper in 1738, which were the wonders of their times. The flutist was a figure five feet high, standing on a pedestal, within which were nine pairs of bellows worked by clock-work. The motion of the fingers, lips and tongue were all imitated by this figure, which by various arrangements of valves, tubes, levers, and wheels, is said to have produced music little inferior to the performance of a skilled flute-player. The piper was constructed much on the same principle. The bellows of his instrument required a 56-pound weight to produce the highest note. As the fatigue of playing the pipes usually causes the performer, when playing rapidly, to slur over some of the notes, the mimic piper, impervious alike to weariness and shortness of breath, is accredited with having excelled a living one in the clearness of the notes.

FITS A Leading London Physician establishes an office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS. From Am. Journal of Medicine. Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. MESEROLE, No. 96 John St., New York.

THE

PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred. Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1883.

The Cells.

Two prisoners, one arrested for drunkenness and the other for larceny, occupied the cells last night.

The Market.

The attendance on the market this morning was not large, probably owing to the snow storm.

The Weather Probabilities.

More snow this morning. To-day is clear and cold. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Northeasterly shifting to fresh to strong northwesterly winds; clouds, mild weather, with snow or rain, followed by fair, colder weather.

The School Board.

The Board of Education for the year 1883 met for organization on Tuesday night, but the composition of the Board is very little changed from that of last year. The four Public School Trustees who had to go to their constituents were all returned, and the only new members are Messrs. Kendry and Dumble, who were appointed by the Town Council as High School Trustees. Mr. Dumble, however, although not on the Board last year, is an old member, and Mr. Kendry is the only member who is really new to the Board, but he promises to be useful there.

Election of Officers.

L. O. County Lodge of West Peterborough, held their annual meeting in the District Orange Hall, Peterborough, on Tuesday evening the 6th instant, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:—

W Bro Robert Weir, (re-elected)	County Master
W Bro R Warram, (re-elected)	Dep C M
W Bro J H Campbell	C Chap
W Bro D Arnott	C Sec'y
W Bro W J Sanders	C Treas
W Bro Geo W Hall	C D of C
W Bro W King	C Lecturer

The semi-annual meeting will be held in the Orange Hall, Lakefield, on the 2nd Tuesday in in June, 1883.

IF YOU WANT large fresh oysters dished up in good style, go to T. Darcy's Restaurant and Oyster Parlour.

The East Riding.

A meeting of the supporters of Mr. Read was held in Ashburnham on Tuesday night, at which they organized for the campaign.

Personal.

We regret to learn that Mr. J. Dixon, M. A., Principal of the Collegiate Institute, is prostrated by illness and is unable to attend to his duties.

Among the names of those who passed the profession examination as teachers at the Normal School is that of Mr. Allingham, who pursued his studies at the Collegiate Institute in this town.

A Bye-Election.

The building committee of the Roman Catholic Church of Ennismore take pleasure in announcing to the public of the Town and County of Peterborough, that a gold headed cane will be offered for competition to be presented to the candidate for the West Riding of Peterborough who secures the largest number of monetary votes. The votes cast will be counted prior to the 27th of February. Further particulars will be given, and, in the meantime, the gentlemen of the committee, Messrs. Wm. Crough, Daniel Costello, John O'Donoghue, Alex. Pope and Wm. Sullivan, will be happy to receive votes in the form of subscriptions in favor of either candidate. A similar vote during the last Dominion election campaign foreshadowed the result of the election for the Commons, and in view of this fact a lively interest will probably be taken in this election.

St. John's Church Concert.

The concert in Bradburn's Hall on Shrove Tuesday evening under the auspices of Mr. Ewing and the choir of St. John's Church attracted a large and appreciative audience, who appeared well satisfied, as they had every reason to be. Those who had already heard Mrs. Caldwell of Hamilton were delighted to have this opportunity of hearing her singing again, and those who only knew her by reputation had evidence that report had not exaggerated her merits. With a soprano voice of great compass and power, and notes "as sweet as a nightingale's," and the flexibility of her voice enhanced by thorough training, she could not fail to please. The aria from Mozart's "Magic Flute" though admirably given was hardy received with the warmth of enthusiasm it deserved, but the "Cuckoo Song" was irresistible and called forth prolonged applause and an encore to which she responded by singing "I'm talking in my sleep" with an arch playfulness which added to the effect of her voice. No. seven in the second part had been left a blank on the programme, and the appreciation of Mrs. Caldwell was shown by her greeting when her appearance on the stage proved that she was to fill this hiatus about which there had been some curiosity. Her song, "No Sir," was so charmingly given that it was in vain that she acknowledge the applause by signs alone, and in compliance with the persistent demand for an encore she sang "Tit for Tat" with the same favourable acceptance. Mrs. Chambers, a great favourite while residing here, sang "O loving heart trust on," in such a manner as to secure an encore, when she gave "A Bird in the Hand" with great spirit. Their due quota of praise must also be given to Messrs. N. D. Beck and A. Elliott for their duet from "I Puritani" which was encored, and to the latter gentleman for his solo. The singing of the part songs and choruses by the choir was deserving of the highest praise and spoke volumes in favour of the painstaking and efficient training of Mr. Ewing, the organist and choir master. "The Chough and the Crow" with solos by Mrs. J. Chambers, Mrs. G. B. Sproule and Mr. C. Shaw, was admirably rendered, as were the Soldier's Chorus, from "Faust" and the Tyrolean Chorus from "William Tell," and the Swabian Volkslied "Come, Dorothy, Come." Mr. Ewing has been best known in Peterborough as an organist of great ability and taste, but his performance on this occasion showed that he has an equal mastery of the piano. His rendering of Beethoven's "Funeral March Sonata" showed cultivated taste and artistic feeling, and it was a feat in another respect that it was played for twenty minutes' duration without note, a considerable effort of memory. His performance of Chopin's "Impromptu," gave even better evidence of his musical talent, though his brilliant execution in Ascher's "Danse Negre," seemed still more to the taste of his audience, calling for an enthusiastic encore to which he responded by giving Sydney Smith's "Le jet d'eau" with equal command of his instrument. We must not omit metioning that Mr. Ewing played all the accompaniments both for the solos and choruses with the judgment and taste of a thorough musician. We are sure all lovers of music in Peterborough will unite with us in hoping that Mr. Ewing will ere long favor us with another such concert, and also with a repetition of the organ recital which was so much enjoyed.

Friday a Lucky Day.

When anything distressing occur on Monday, or Thursday, or Sunday, no account is made of its happening on that particular day. Let the mishap occur on Friday, and behold the head waggers! "There may be nothing it it," they croak; "it may be all a weak superstition, but Friday is an unlucky day; there is no denying it." Of the great blessings and happy events that fall on Friday they take no note. American old women, sailors and other superstition-ridden folk do not remember that on Friday Columbus sailed on his voyage of discovery; that on Friday, ten weeks after, he discovered America; that on Friday the Mayflower, with the Pilgrims, arrived at Plymouth; and on Friday they signed that august compact, the forerunner of the present constitution; that on Friday George Washington was born; that on Friday Buncker Hill was seized and fortified; that on Friday the surrender of Saratoga was made, and on Friday Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown.—Exchange.

Oh, What A Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will Cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup, and Whooping Cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. For sale by J. D. Tully.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—AN EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practial, rational and ecomical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based upon scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 to 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. H. having had 30 years experience has become master of his profession, and DEFIES the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

A REMARKABLE ARTICLE.

Moscow, Feb. 7.—M. Katkoff, one of the most influential men in Russia, whose change of opinion with respect to Germany attracted so much attention a few weeks ago, has published a remarkable article in the Moscow Gazette denouncing all attempts to envenom public opinion against Germany, and maintaining that Prince Gortschakoff and not Prince Bismarck is to be blamed if Russia was unnecessarily sacrificed and robbed of the fruits of the Turkish war at the Berlin congress. He points out that long before, namely, at the Imperial interview at Reichstaght, in Bohemia, Austria's wish to occupy Bosnia and the Herzegovina had been granted by Russia, which later on gave up by secret agreement with Lord Beaconsfield most of the advantages it had secured by the treaty of San Stefano, so that the Berlin congress had little more to do than to sanction settlement already concluded. The writer proceeds to state that Russia's sacrifices might have been much less if Prince Gortschakoff had only been willing to treat Germany with consideration and to ask for Bismarck's assistance.

DOURO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Hymenial.—Something to be remembered and never to be forgotten, was the marriage on Tuesday evening, January 30th, of Mr. M. D. Sullivan, of the Township of Douro, son of John Sullivan, Esq., of "Poplar Grove," to one of Douro's fairest daughters, Miss Kate McCue, only daughter of Wilfred McCue, Esq., of the same place. After the couple were united in marriage they returned to Mr. McCue's residence, where a grand spread was prepared for them. Mr. John Sullivan, father of the groom, occupied the chair, and after ample justice was done to the good things provided, he proposed the health of the "Happly Couple," which the groom responded to in a few appropriate remarks. Squire O'Donnell was called upon and dwelt for a considerable time in speaking of the good qualities of the happy pair and concluded by wishing them all prosperity in their journey through life. After supper was over the party adjourned to the dancing hall where Prof. Martin's quadrille band furnished grand music, and where Squire Sullivan was kept busy serving "refreshments" during the night to keep the "dust washed down," and when the old blood of Squire O'Donnell, Dennis Delaney, Thomas Russell, P. Hogan and several others commenced to stir up, they had to call upon Jim Hefferan to play them a good "Irish reel," and Tim is the boy that can handle the bow. To see Squire O'Donnell and Dennis Delaney tripping the light fantastic would gladden the heart of an Irishman, but the Squire and his lady were declared the best dancers. There were about 200 guests present. The party broke up about four o'clock in the morning, wishing the couple a long and prosperous life.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Carnegie's Meeting.—The opening meeting of the campaign of the West Riding of the Local Legislature took place here in the school house on Monday evening last. Mr. P. Young, J.P., was called to the chair, and after a few remarks called upon Mr. Carnegie to address the meeting. Mr. Carnegie commenced his address by saying that it did not look like as if the Campbells were coming tonight, although he had invited Mr. Campbell both by letter and in his bills, but that gentleman had declined seemingly to attend. Mr. Carnegie was just opening his speech, by dealing with the Boundary question, when three fur coats appeared, and after removing them, out came Mr. Preston, from Port Hope; Mr. J. R. Stratton, of the Examiner, and another young gentleman. Mr. Carnegie proceeded with his speech, and handled the Boundary Award question thoroughly, also the Mowat & Co., Streams Confiscation Bill. He condemned the wasteful expenditure that has been going on for the last 12 years, and spoke in favour of a reduction of the number of members. He promised, if elected, to support all good measures for the benefit of the Province. After speaking an hour, he invited Mr. Stratton to address the meeting for one hour, allowing him the right to reply. Mr. Stratton gave way to Mr. Preston, who denied being employed by the Reform party; only doing it for love. After reading from Hansard and other papers containing speeches from members of the House of Commons as to the Boundary Award, he dealt with the Streams Bill as passed by Mr. Mowat. He wound up his harangue at the expiration of the hour, but forgot to ask the audience to cast their votes for Mr. Campbell. I presume he thought it was no use as all here are for Mr. Carnegie and a change of Government. Mr. Carnegie spoke for another hour, completely mastering his opponent by reading extracts and facts and figures that Mr. Preston had ignored. There was a good attendance at the meeting, but owing to the boisterous weather many of the farmers did not turn out. There were three supporters of Mr. Mowat among the audience. The meeting broke up at 11 o'clock p.m., after three hearty cheers had been given for the Queen and for Mr. Carnegie.

Trent Valley Canal.—Mr. Bingham, the head foreman of the contractor, Mr. Goodwin, along with Mr. T. D. Croly, of Peterborough, was up here last Monday and Tuesday seeing about the timber, &c., that Mr. Chalmers is taking out in his Methuen shanty for the locks at Burleigh. The plant is on the way from Grenville for the locks for both Buckhorn and Burleigh. Mr. Chalmers is also to supply the lumber for the building of the workshops, some of which will be 70 feet in length, also a large boarding house for the men. They are to be built at once, so there will be good times for some time to come in this section of the country.

Admission One Dollar.—One of the trustees being opposed to having the wicked Tories holding any meeting in the school house, told the schoolmaster when he gave up the key to Mr. Nugent, the last elected trustee, to get $1.00 for the use of the school. Such conduct will not be tolerated by the ratepayers. There is no other place to hold public meetings, and everyone on both sides of politics should be welcome, and is, to come at any time. Mr. Nugent very properly told Mr. Schoolmaster to hand him the key, and the rest was his business. This one dollar school trustee will be allowed to keep company with the last defeated trustee when his term of office expires, and one with less inclination for grabbing will be put in his place.

HOW NOT TO DO IT.

The Examiner begins the present election campaign with a liberal amount of childish abuse, silly nicknames and unfounded, and false assertions, but with that utter absence of argument which makes its political friends lament that they are so wretchedly served in a journalistic point of view.

We decline to be led into following this bad example, as we believe the important matter for the electors to consider is whether they will support the policy of Mr. Meredith and his friends or that of Mr. Mowat and his friends, a grave question which may well be discussed without ill-feeling, vulgar vituperation, or schoolboy personalities.

THE ISSUES OF THE CONTEST.

THE electors of both Ridings of the County have now, in common with the other constituencies of this Province, the duty and the privilege, for it is both, of choosing their representatives in the Local Legislature, and therefore indirectly of determining which party is to shape our policy.

It behoves each elector to consider well the points at issue, and we will point them out briefly, reserving matters of detail for future consideration.

We have to determine whether with Mr. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues we will adopt the system of centralising all possible power and patronage in Toronto, or whether with Mr. Meredith and his supporters we will maintain our old municipal rights, and our time-honored plan of local self-government.

Whether with Mr. Mowat we will make the control of the liquor traffic, and even our educational system subservient to party exigencies, or whether with Mr. Meredith we will free these important matters from any connection with politics.

Whether with Mr. Mowat we will increase our annual expenditure until it is doubled, with a stationary revenue and a much slower increase of population, or whether with Mr. Meredith we will practice retrenchment and judicious economy such as prevailed under the late Mr. J. S. Macdonald.

Whether with Mr. Mowat we will clamor for less than our rightful territory by an irregular award, or with Mr. Meredith will obtain from a competent court a clear title to our full territory.

Whether with Mr. Mowat we will set at naught the rights of property, or whether with Mr. Meredith we will hold sacred our constitutional right to hold our property inviolate unless after adequate compensation it is taken for the public use.

Whether with Mr. Mowat we will as a Province thwart the will of the people as to the tariff policy, or whether with Mr. Meredith we will abstain from antagonism to the wise decision of the people of Canada including this Province.

Whether with Mr. Mowat we will refuse the franchise to those who are now unjustly and unwisely deprived of it, or whether with Mr. Meredith we will extend the franchise to other classes equally capable of using it intelligently, and as well entitled to a voice in their own government.

Whether with Mr. Mowat we will override by legislation the decisions of the law courts, or whether with Mr. Meredith we will leave their proper authority to the judiciary of which we are proud.

Whether with Mr. Mowat we will allow the executive to sell the property of the people of Ontario without consulting our representative, or whether with Mr. Meredith we will revert to the constitutional system of legislative control of the public property whether in money or real estate.

These are in brief the more salient points of contrast. Consider well, electors, which policy you will support?

A COUNCIL OF PHYSICIANS

A Joint Meeting of Medical Practitioners From Four Districts.

A joint meeting of the Newcastle and Trent Medicial Association and the Quinte and Cataraqui Medical Association was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Day, of Trenton, President of the Quinte and Cataraqui Association, occupied the chair, and Dr. Douglas, of Castleton, acted as Secretary.

The following gentlemen were present:—Dr. Day and Dr. McLellan, of Trenton, Dr. Douglas, of Castleton, Dr. Bell, Dr. Fife, Dr. Halliday, Dr. Fraser, Dr. Boucher, Dr. O'Shea, Dr. McCrea, and Dr. Clarke, of Peterborough; Dr. Massie, of Norwood; Dr. J. McCrea, of Campbellford; Dr. Ruttan, of Napanee; Dr. Farley, Dr. Gibson, and Dr. Murphy, of Belleville; Dr. O'Gorman, of Hastings, and Dr. Turner of Millbrook.

The minutes of the last joint meeting, held at the Sand Banks, in Prince Edward County, and also the minutes of the last meeting of the Newcastle and Trent Association, were read and confirmed.

Letters were read from Dr. Burritt, of Toronto, and Dr. Hamilton, of Port Hope, expressing regret because they were not able to be present.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected for the Newcastle and Trent Association:—

PRESIDENT—Dr. H. C. Burritt, Toronto ex officio.

VICE-PRESIDENT—(Trent Division) Dr. Ruttan, of Napanee.

VICE-PRESIDENT—(Newcastle Division) Dr. J. McCrea, of Campbellford.

SECRETARY-TREASURER—Dr. Douglas, of Castleton.

LOCAL-SECRETARIES—Dr. Bell, of Peterborough, Dr. Willoughby, of Cobourg, and Dr. Leonard, of Napanee.

EXECUTIVE-COMMITTEE—Drs. Douglas, Bell, Willoughby and Leonard.

The members of the Quinte and Cataraqui Association elected the following officers:—

PRESIDENT—Dr. Day, of Trenton, ex officio.

1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—Dr. Wright, of Picton.

2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—Dr. Murphy, of Belleville.

3RD VICE-PRESIDENT—Dr. K. N. Fenwick, of Kingston.

4TH VICE-PRESIDENT—Dr. Beemin, of Centreville.

SECRETARY-TREASURER—Dr. Bowerman, of Picton.

LOCAL-SECRETARIES—Dr. Farley, of Belleville, and Dr. Henderson, of Kingston.

EXECUTIVE-COMMITTEE—Drs. Bowerman, Farley, and Henderson.

It was, on motion, resolved that each member of the Executive Committees see to it that one paper is prepared to be read at the meetings of the Associations.

DISCUSSION ON DISEASES.

Dr. MCCREA, of Campbellford, read a paper on "the Bites of Rabid Animals." He related his experience in the cases of three persons who had been bitten by rabid dogs and whom he had attended. In the first case symptoms of hydrophobia had appeared before he was called upon to attend the victim, and the result was fatal. In the other two cases the treatment was successful, although animals attacked by the same dog as bit the persons had to be killed. In both these cases the victims applied to him soon after they had been bitten, and the formation of the parts were such that he could not see his way clear to excision. He therefore washed out the wound freely, using a finely pointed male syringe and very warm water, continuing the operation for a long time. He then shaved rods of zinc into very fine points and introduced one into each tooth mark, being more particular that the points were sufficiently long to reach the bottom than as to their circumference. He ordered warm linseed poultices to be frequently applied and left opium powders to allay the pain and pressure sleep. The treatment was successful in both cases, the persons having been bitten some twenty years ago and they are still alive and have never shown and symptoms of hydrophobia. The conclusion he came to was, therefore, that if he were even bitten by a rabid animal he would request to be treated by caustics, and that caustic the chloride of zinc, and he would feel the utmost confidence in being finally and forever free from danger from the bite.

The paper was a very interesting and valuable one, and we may give it in full in a future issue.

Dr. RUTTAN moved a vote of thanks to Dr. McCrea. It had been argued, he said, that hydrophobia was as much a mental as physical disease, and he believed that it would have a good effect if unlimited confidence was felt in the remedy applied. Excision, the free use of caustics, and steam baths (if symptoms had shown themselves) were the only modes of treatment that had been made known.

Dr. MCLELLAN seconded the vote of thanks, as the paper contained valuable suggestions, but he would have been pleased if Dr. McCrea had had gone further and considered the treatment to be used in cases when symptoms of hydrophobia had been manifested.

Dr. MCCREA said that his belief was that there was no remedy known for the cure of hydrophobia after the symptoms of the disease had been manifested. He believed, however, that the application of the caustic any time before the symptoms were exhibited would be effectual.

Dr. FIFE approved of Dr. McCrea's choice of chloride of zinc.

The motion tendering a vote of thanks to Dr. Crea was carried.

Dr. RUTTAN then discussed "the Approved Medical Treatment of Empyema." He referred to the treatment in Germany, in cases of empyema, and illustrated his subject by describing a case in his experience, that of a child. The child's lips and ears were blue and his breathing was quick. An aspirator was used to draw off a quantity of pus. A few days after he made an incision in his side and inserted a silver draining tube. He then described the manner of drawing off the pus and of dressing with bandages.

The address was attentively listened to, and a discussion followed, in which Dr. McLellar and Dr. Massie took part.

Dr. HALLIDAY read a paper written by Dr. HAMILTON, (who was unable to be present) on "Thrombosis." The subject was illustrated by cases which the writer had observed, and had evidently been carefully studied.

After remarks by Dr. MCLELLAN and Dr. MASSIE, a motion was passed tendering the thanks of the meeting to Dr. Hamilton.

Dr. DAY then opened a discussion on "Unlicensed Practitioners," which was participated in by several physicians present.

THE NEXT MEETING.

Dr. BELL moved, seconded by Dr. FARLEY,—That a joint meeting of the Associations be held in Belleville in August next.—Carried.

The usual practice had been to hold the meeting in June, but as the Medical Council is to meet in that month the meeting was postponed until August.

The meeting then adjourned.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

IN CONSTIPATION.

Dr. J. N. Robinson, Medina, O., says:—"I have used it in a case of indigestion and constipation, with good results. In nervous prostration its results are happy."

Methodist Union.

Reports from all over the country show that the basis of union formulated by the Joint Committee of the various branches of the Methodist Church has been almost unanimously accepted at the quarterly meetings of the boards. Forty-one of the official boards of the Methodist Church of Canada have already reported the vote on union to the general secretary of the conference, showing forty boards in favor and one against the basis. The dissentient board is that of Victoria Road. The aggregate of votes cast at these 41 board meetings was 539, of which there were 493 for and 46 against the basis. Enough has already been seen to show that the great mass of the Methodist people go heartily in for the union under the terms of the Joint Committee's basis. Perfect unanimity could not have been expected, and so near an approach to it must astonish as well as delight those who have labored so long and so assiduously in promoting the union.—Mail.

Worthy of Praise.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach and Liver and Kidney Complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Exch.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Taylor & Macdonald.—6

IT made me feel like a "Band of Music," was the rather forcible expression of an individual who was praising "Pectoria," the great remedy for Coughs and Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis. It is safe, pleasant and effectual. If you suffer, try it. For sale by all druggists and general dealers at 25 cents a bottle.

FORTUNATELY Valvular disease of the heart is not very common, its disturbed action may be due to indigestion, liver irregularities &c. A Stomach disturbed with wind, or indigestable food will cause pain and fluttering by crowding on the nerves of the heart. Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy all such difficulties.

AN INTERNATIONAL EPISODE.

An English Steamship Riddled by Spanish Bullets.

The English steamship "Tangier" arrived in this city yesterday, her hull riddled with Spanish bullets, and one of her crew wounded by a shot from a Spanish musket, on the voyage from London to Philadelphia. Captain Neats, himself, the master of the steamer, was captured by the Spanish authorities and imprisoned in a Spanish gunboat at Carthagena. The thrilling encounter of the "Tangier" with the Spanish gunboats threatens to lead to serious trouble between Spain and England. The steamer was chartered to come to this city by way of Carthagena and Valencia, on the south coast of Spain, having a cargo for those two cities. After discharging a cargo at Carthagena, the captain cleared for Valencia, where he was to ship a cargo for Philadelphia. It was a beautiful moonlight night when the steamer left the dock at Carthagena. He had not taken a pilot as there is no compulsory pilotage law in force at the port, and the "Tangier's" papers were all in ship shape. When the vessel had gotten but a short distance from the port, the captain was hailed by the crew of a Spanish man-of-war, who had been sent out by the commander to overhaul the "Tangier" because she had failed to take a pilot. Captain Neats could not understand the hail, and called his Spanish steward to the ship's bridge. The steamer had not stopped, and as soon as the steward asked the pursuing Spaniards what the matter was, they replied by a volley of musketry, one of the bullets striking the steward in the head. The captain then ran behind the wheel-house in order to escape the flying bullets, and ran his vessel out to sea, the Spanish marines firing volley after volley into the ship's hull. The stewart had been badly, but not fatally wounded. As the steamer passed the Spanish fort at the mouth of the river, the captain expected every moment to be fired upon, although he could not tell why he had been pursued. After arriving at Valencia a Spanish gunboat was ordered to keep the "Tangier" in range, and the ship was escorted back to Carthagena by a man-of-war. Here Captain Neats was seized by orders from the Spanish commander and sentenced to three months' imprisonment in the frigate "Blanco," then at Carthagena, upon a charge of having violated the pilotage laws. Up to this point the Spanish gunboat people had things all their own way, but the facts were presented to the English Consul at Madrid, who at once ordered Captain Neats' release, threatening to send an English ironclad to Carthagena and blow the town to atoms if his commands were not obeyed. The captain was therefore released, and proceeded on his voyage to this city without further adventure. The affair is being investigated by the English Government.—Philadelphia Record.

THE CIRCUS HOLOCAUST.

A Dreadful Fire in which Hundreds of Persons were Burned to Death.

The Vienna correspondent of the London Chronicle gives the following account of the circus fire at Berditscheff: "The performance had reached the fifth item in the programme, some clowns being in the ring, when another clown in acting costume rushed in shouting 'Fire!' At first the people thought this was part of the performance and laughed; but immediately afterward the ringmaster rushed in and gave the alarm. The scene of horror that ensued was indescribable. The audience were so closely packed that motion was almost impossible. Some in despair flung themselves from the galleries, and parents unable to save themselves made a desperate attempt to save their children by throwing them down into the ring. Some of the men wearing the long coats of the Russian Jews, were entangled on spikes and remained hanging in the air, while the whole building resounded with heartrending cries. In the ring, where the clowns had been performing, there was a carpet, and for a little while the children were safe in the centre of this; but when the grown up people in their despair began jumping from the dress circle and galleries the whole ring became one inextricable mass, in which the children were trampled to death or suffocated before the flames reached them. But even this was not the worst. The horses soon became unmanageable and about a dozen of them, driven mad with pain and terror, broke into the ring, trampling to death the people huddled together there. All this occurred in less time than it takes to describe, and in twenty minutes all was over—at least half the people who had been in the building being burned to death or suffocated. At the windows and various exits scenes of the most horrible description were enacted, some of the strongest in the efforts to extricate themselves from the struggling mass forcing others weaker than themselves into the flames. The fire brigade was summoned, but the engine was delayed by falling through the ice, and when it arrived the water in the tank was frozen. The doors of the circus opened inward, and the side entrances were nailed up. Efforts were begun on Sunday to recover the bodies. At the main entrance to the circus lay the burned and blackened bodies of a heap of victims, their heads fairly outside the door, while their bodies were held as though in a vise by those who had crushed upon them from behind. Further inside the ruins many of the bodies were burned to a cinder. The total loss of life has been ascertained to be 268."

A Wild Cat Riding a Deer.

One night recently a hunter residing near Carter, Minnesota, was aroused by an unusual noise near his cabin. Taking his gun he went out to see what the trouble was, and noticed a deer at full speed with a wild cat perched on its back, and making frantic efforts to cut the deer's throat with its sharp teeth. The hunter raised his gun and fired. The wild cat instantly jumped off the deer's back and made for its assailant. The man reloaded his rifle, and when the animal was within twelve or fifteen feet of him he again fired and killed the brute. Just as he fired the last shot the deer fell dead but a few paces from where the hunter first saw it. Examination revealed that the man's first shot had wounded the wild cat in the belly, while the second hit it squarely in the head, and that the deer had died from the effects of the biting recieved from the strange rider.

CATARRH is the seed of Consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. For sale by John McKee, druggist.

THE Grand Trunk yardmen's strike at Stratford has terminated, an amicable settlement having been effected with the authorities of the road.

MRS. WILBOURNE, a resident of Windsor, has commenced a suit against the city of Detroit for $25,000 damages for injuries received by a fall through a defective crosswalk.

LITTLE BY LITTLE.—The constant dropping of water will wear away even the hardest stone. So the constant irritation of a cough will so wear upon the lungs as to induce incurable Consumption. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will cure the worst cough, speedily and effectually.

THE ice harvest on the Hudson at Troy has been completed. There is a crop of three million tons, the largest ever gathered, and the quality was never surpassed.

WORTH KNOWING.—A Fact Worth Knowing. The best household remedy known for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough and all throat and chest troubles tending toward Pulmonary Consumption is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, to be procured of any druggist.

SUBSCRIPTIONS have been opened in County Wicklow for the purpose of presenting Mr. Parnell with a testimonial, which will take the form of a sum of money sufficient to clear off the mortgage on his estate.

WALTER LINTON, of Waterloo, writes that Hagyard's Yellow Oil has done great good in his family, his wife being cured of Callouse lumps that other medicines failed to remove, he he also states that a neighbor was promptly relieved of Rheumatism by the same remedy.

AT Central Depot, Va., five coloured men were sick in a box-car for some time with smallpox. They had no attendance, and two died. The bodies were left to decompose, and a physician who finally entered the car contracted the disease, and gave it to others. Much excitement prevails.

MR. THOMAS W. RACE, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work. The medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms.

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. How wise then is the effort to maintain a perfect state of health? Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are a veritable "Health Giver." They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Camping out in the pine woods has been recommended to consumptive patients, and the Rev. Dr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, mentions a remarkable cure from treatment of this nature. Every one afflicted with pulmonary disease cannot make it convenient to camp out, nor is it necessary, when all the benefits of the treatment are procurable by using Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum, a scientific preparation, which presents, in a concentrated and agreeable form, all the virtue of this nature medicine gum. As a cure for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat and Hoarseness it is invaluable. Sold by all chemists. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Amusements for Evenings at Home.

To apparently burn water, fill a glass lamp with water and put into it for a wick a piece of gum camphor. The lamp should not be quite full, and the camphor may be left to float upon the surface of the water. On touching a lighted match to the camphor it shoots up in a clear, steady flame, and seems to sink below the surface of the water, so that the flame is surrounded by the liquid. It will burn for a long time. If the camphor be ignited in a large dish of water it will commonly float about while it burns.

Wet a piece of thick wrapping paper, then dry by the stove; while warm lay it down upon a varnished table or dry wollen cloth and rub it briskly with a piece of India rubber. It will become strongly electrified, and if tossed against the wall or the looking glass will stick some time. Tear tissue paper into bits one-eighth inch square, and this piece of paper, electrified, will draw them. Or take a smooth tea tray and put it on three dry tumblers. Lay the electric paper on it; and, on touching the tray you will get a little spark; lift the paper out of the tray and on touching the tray again you will get another spark, but of the opposite kind of electricity; replace the paper and you get another, and so on.—Illustrated Weekly.

A Peculiar Breed of Sheep.

A breed of sheep is kept in Northamptonshire, England, called "Westerns," which have the peculiarity of not growing any wool on the back. But, notwithstanding this, they are in such repute for producing large, fat, early lambs, that they are considered superior even to the famous Dorset for this purpose. Their lambs are usually ready for market at or before Christmas and then bring a very extravagant price in the London shambles. The sheep are pure white, have horns, and full-grown, fatted, dress from 80 to 120 pounds. This is much larger than an ordinary Dorset. As the tender, early, luscious meat brings a considerably higher price than wool, of course it is more profitable to grow the former than the latter. It is supposed if the sheep produced wool, it would be at the expense of the lambs, so their breeders do not want it.—Live Stock Journal.

THE
PACIFIC NORTHWEST!
Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches, in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1883.

Long Service.

It is worthy of note that Mr. Jas. Stratton at the first meeting of the newly organized Board of Education was appointed Public School Inspector for the Town for the eighteenth consecutive time.

Call Accepted.

The Belleville Ontario says that the Rev. E. J. Stobo has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Baptist Church of that city. He has rented a brick house on Moira street west, and will remove to Belleville in a few days.

Credit Sale.

On Tuesday, February 15th, Mr. Stapleton will sell on the premises of Mr. Nathan Taylor, Lot 3, in the 11th con. of Douro, near Curtis' brick yard, a collection of farm stock, implements, dairy utensils, poultry and household furniture. Sale to commence at 11 o'clock, and no reserve.

Midland Railway Traffic Returns.

The traffic of the above railway for the week ending Feb. 3rd, 1883, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $4,820.23; freight, $9,085.78; total, $13,906.01, as compared with $14,162.61 for the corresponding week of 1882, being a decrease of $256.60; and the aggregate traffic to date is $68,296.62, being an increase of $7,113.34 over 1882.

Sale of Farm Stock.

There will be an extensive sale of farm stock and implements on Tuesday, February 20th, the property of Mr. Richard Harrison, on the Harvey-Pierson farm, lot 29, in the 17 concession, Township of Smith, adjoining Montgomery's school house. The whole of the stock is in A 1 order, and there is no reserve whatever. C. Stapleton is the auctioneer. Sale to commence at 10 a. m.

The Weather Probabilities.

The weather last night was very cold, and this morning, up to noon unchanged. We are promised milder weather by "probs.," however, and it will be welcomed by everyone. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Lakes and upper St. Lawrence, fresh to strong south-westerly to southerly winds; milder weather with light snow in some localities.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a.m., 16° above zero; at noon, 18° above, and at 3 p.m. 19° above.

Charitable.

The Rev. Father Conway will preach a charity sermon in St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday evening next, at which a collection will be taken up in aid of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of Peterborough. The service will commence at 7 o'clock.

"Trying the Line, Thanks!"

This was the answer received by the customers of the Bell Telephone Company on Wednesday as they answered with a "hallo" the ring of the bell. The reason was that the central office had been removed to the rooms over Mr. J. W. Flavelle's, and after the change was made the lines were tested to see that all was right. The work of moving was speedily accomplished, and communication was interrupted only a short time.

Personal.

Mr. Thomas Raphael, who had become a favorite in his capacity as book-keeper and manager in Mr. H. J. Beemer's office, left on Wednesday evening for the east. He intends to return next week for a short call, and then proceed on an extended journey to California, combining in this tour business and pleasure. The trip will be of about six month's duration. Mr. Raphael has made many friends during his residence here, and they, while regretting his departure, wish him all success.

Methodist Union.

The members of the Bible Christian Church in Peterborough voted on the proposed basis of the Methodist union on Wednesday night last. Last week a meeting was held, at which the basis proposed by the Joint Committee was laid before the members, and discussed, so that the matter was thoroughly understood. Then on Wednesday night, after having a week for consideration, the vote was taken with the following result:—For the adoption of the basis of union submitted, 71; against its adoption, 13; majority for, 58. This showed a decided feeling in favor of union, and even those who voted against it did not do so as much from opposition to the principle of union, as from a reluctance to sever connections which they had learned to love.

The London Lottery

The Masonic lottery drawing at London, which has been looked forward to with considerable interest, was commenced at London on Wednesday. The chief anxiety on the part of ticket holders was to learn who was the fortunate person to whom would fall the chief prize. This prize, amounting to the snug little sum of $15,000, was drawn by No. 34,258, held by Mr. J. C. Williamson, of Ballyduff, Manvers township, in the County of Durham. It is estimated that there are about two hundred tickets held in Peterborough. The full results of the drawing are not yet known, but so far as heard from $150 in prizes have fallen to the lot of persons in this town. Several companies or syndicates were formed, and a number of tickets purchased by them. The following are the prizes won by Peterborough ticket holders, so far as reported:—

C. A. Connolly & Co., 25 tickets	$100
H. LeBrun & Co., 25 tickets	25
A. Hall, one ticket	10
G. Minorgan, six tickets	10
J. Alexander, one ticket	5

Curliana.

On Tuesday forenoon a curling match was played at Port Hope between the Peterborough at Port Pope Clubs, and in the afternoon at Cobourg between the Peterborough and Cobourg Clubs. The matches resulted unfavourably to the Peterborough players, so far as victory was concerned, but the majority against them in each case was small. The following are the scores:—

"That Boy's Sister."

The Rev. Dr. Vincent, who, on the occasion of his last visit here, described so ably the character of "That Boy," and how he should be trained and educated, will pay another visit to Peterborough on Wednesday, the 21st of February, and deliver his lecture on "That Boy's Sister," in the Methodist Church. This lecture is also highly spoken of, and judging from the rev. lecturer's reputation and the reception he received here before, this will no doubt be pleasant news to many of our readers.

A SURE THING!

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. Nothing slighted,—except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—AN EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcule which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

Springless Truss and Supporters

PROF. G. W. HOTCHKIN.

Will visit the following places again:—

PORT HOPE—Queen's Hotel.
PETERBOROUGH—Caisse House, March 3, 4 and 5.
LINDSAY—Benson House, March 6, 7 and 8.
COBOURG—Dunham House, March 9, 10 and 11.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practial, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based upon scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 to 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. H. having had 20 years experience has become master of his profession, and DEFIES the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

NORWOOD.

REUNION.—The Register says that the reunion held under the auspices of the Norwood Mechanics' Institute on Tuesday evening was a decided success. The hall was comfortably filled and the programme gave good satisfaction.

FIRES IN DUMMER.—On Friday morning about 10 o'clock, Mr. Wm. Pegg's house, situated on lot 2, in the 10th concession of Dummer, took fire and would have been destroyed but for the plucky action of a little girl who resides at his place. As soon as she discovered the fire she proceeded to extinguish it, single-handed, and succeded admirably. Cause of the fire unknown. Loss about $50; covered by insurance. On Monday afternoon Mr. Thos. McQuiggs' residence, situated north of Buck's mill, Dummer, was totally destroyed by fire. Furniture, etc., all consumed. No insurance.

SHEDS COLLAPSE.—The sheds of the Norwood House collapsed on Saturday evening last, smashing four cutters, injuring a horse belonging to Mr. Rork, and killing a number of hens. There were four horses in the shed at the time, all escaping uninjured except Mr. Rork's. The accident was caused by the heavy weight of snow resting on the roof. All the horses would undoubtedly have been killed had it not been that the cutters sustained the roof until they were rescued.

Attacked by Muskrats.

An extraordinary battle occurred in Charlotte the other night between a citizen, aided by two policemen, and a gang of muskrats. Charlie Fox was going to his home, and, when feeling for the gate in the dark, something jumped at his leg and nabbed his breeches. Looking down, he saw a number of small eyes sparkling like diamonds. He could not imagine what they were, and kicking them from his legs, hopped over the fence, hurried to the house and came back with a lighted lamp and a stick. Hardly had he reached the spot before the hungry animals once more attacked his legs. He knocked one, and as he did so his light went out, and he beat a hasty retreat and hunted for the police. The officers got a lamp and proceeded to the scene, and when they reached the place they had to do battle. One big fellow, who was evidently president of the body, as his immense size would indicate, made a jump at officer Blackweldee, who struck at him with his club, but missed his aim. The same one then jumped on officer Boyle, who was more successful in the use of his club, and killed it by a blow on the head. The officers knocked right and left, and finally the rats, for some cause or another, ceased fighting and scampered off, taking refuge under the culvert near. A careful search of the field failed to show but one dead rat, a remarkably large one that weighed ten pounds. Mr. Fox saw only three when he came out with the lamp, but ten or fifteen in all attacked the police. They were exceedingly voracious in their attack on Mr. Fox, as the torn condition of his pants about the ankles indicated.—Charlotte (N.C.) Observer.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE OPENING OF THE FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT.

Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick Elected Speaker of the House of Commons—The Speech from the Throne.

The members of the fifth Parliament of Canada assembled on Thursday and took the oath of allegiance and signed the test roll.

Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick, M.P. for Frontenac, was proposed as Speaker of the House of Commons, by John Macdonald, seconded by Sir Hector Langevin.

After remarks by the Hon. E. Blake and the Hon. A. Mackenzie, the motion was carried without a dissentient voice. Mr. Kirkpatrick was then installed in the Speaker's chair.

This afternoon the members of the House of Commons were summoned to the Senate, when the Governor-General delivered the following

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE:

Honorable Gentleman of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

It is my pleasing duty on the opening of a new Parliament to congratulate you on the auspicious circumstances under which you will begin your labors. Canada is in the enjoyment of peace and prosperity, and all her industries, agricultural, manufacturing and commercial, are in a healthy and improving condition.

Following the example of my distinguished predecessor, I paid a visit of some length to British Columbia last season. The great natural resources of that Province promise that as soon as the Pacific Railway is completed an impulse to prosperity commensurate with the progress made elsewhere will be assured. Meanwhile the disposal of the lands set aside in aid of the railway to actual settlers will add to the importance and wealth of the Province.

While passing through the United States I was rejoiced to observe many evidences of regard for the empire of which this country forms so large a portion. May this friendship, which is so fully returned by us, be as enduring as it is natural and advantageous to the mutual interests of both the great nations.

The steady flow of settlers into Manitoba and the Northwest Territory last year, and the assurances received of an increased immigration during the coming season promise well for the early development of those fertile and salubrious regions.

It is important that the laws relating to the representation of the people in Parliament should be amended and the electoral franchises existing in the several provinces assimilated. A measure for this purpose will be submitted for your consideration.

I am advised that the judgment of the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council delivered last June on the appeal of Russell vs the Queen, goes to show that in order to prevent the unrestrained sale of intoxicating liquors, and for that purpose to regulate the granting of shop, saloon and tavern licenses, legislation by the Dominion Parliament will be necessary. Your earnest consideration of this important subject is desired.

Your attention is specially invited to a measure regulating factory labour and the protection of the working man and his family.

Bills for the consolidation and amendment of the laws relating to the customs, the militia and the public lands will be laid before you.

Among other measures, bills will be presented to you respecting the civil service; the acts relating to banking, and the examination of masters and mates of vessels navigating our inland waters.

I am glad to be able to inform you that the progress of the Canadian Pacific Railway has been quite unprecedented. Traffic can now be carried on the main line from Thunder Bay to within fifty miles of the crossing of the South Saskatchewan, a distance of over one thousand miles. It is confidently expected that the Rocky Mountains will be reached during the present year, and that within the same period substantial progress will be made on the Lake Superior section of the railway, and the track laid upon a large portion of the road now under construction in British Columbia. I have also pleasure in stating that the traffic on the Canada Central is largely in excess of any former year, and that the balance in favour of the road shows a gratifying increase.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts of the last fiscal year will be laid before you. You will be pleased to learn that notwithstanding the expenditure on capital account amounted to more than seven millions of dollars, the surplus of the consolidated revenue, together with the proceeds of the sales of the lands in the North West during last year, were more than sufficient to cover that expenditure, and that the net debt at the close of the year and the amount of interest paid thereon was less than for the year previous.

The estimates for the ensuing year will also be submitted. They have been prepared with all due economy, consistent with the necessary development of the varied resources of the Dominion.

On the first of January, 1885, the large five per cent loan will mature. A bill will be submitted authorizing the issue of debentures bearing a rate of interest not exceeding four per cent. for the redemption of this loan.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The subjects I have mentioned to you are of much importance and I commend them to your consideration with full confidence in your discretion and patriotism.

Given Away.

We cannot help noticing the liberal offer made to all invalids and sufferers by Dr. Kings New Discovery for Consumption. You are requested to call at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle free of cost, if you are suffering with Consumption, Severe Cough, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay fever. Loss of Voice, Hoarseness, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs. It will positively cure you. 6

A GOOD THING TO KNOW.—That a single box of Churchill's Climax Eye salve and Ointment will cure the worst case of sore eyes in six weeks. Why let such trouble terminate in loss of sight?

HOPE.—There is yet hope so long as you appeal to nature to repair an outraged stomach. For indigestion use the Fountain of Health, the great herbal tonic. Price 25 cents.

SCIENCE FOR THE YOUNG.

Girls, as well as boys, need to understand about kerosene explosions. A great many fatal accidents happen from trying to pour a little kerosene on the fire to make it kindle better; also by pouring oil into a lamp while it is lighted. Most persons suppose that it is the kerosene itself which explodes, and that if they are very careful to keep the oil itself from being touched by the fire or the light there will be no danger. But this is not so. If a can or lamp is left about half full of kerosene oil the oil will dry up—that is, "evaporate"—a little and will form, by mingling with the air in the upper part, a very explosive gas. You cannot see this gas any mor than you see air. But if it is disturbed and driven out, and a blaze reaches it, there will be a terrible explosion, although the blaze did not touch the oil. There are several other liquids used in houses and workshops which will produce an explosive vapor in this way. Benzine is one; burning fluid is another; and naphtha, alcohol, ether, chloroform may do the same thing.

In a New York workshop lately there was a can of benzine, or gasoline, standing on the floor. A boy sixteen years old lighted a cigarette, and threw the burning match on the floor close to the can. He did not dream there was any danger, because the liquid was corked up in the can. But there was a great explosion, and he was badly hurt. This seems very mysterious. The probability is that the can had been standing there a good while and a good deal of vaper had formed, some of which had leaked out around the stopper and was hanging in a sort of invisable cloud over and around the can; and this cloud, when the match struck it, exploded.

Suppose a girl tries to fill a kerosene-lamp without first blowing it out. Of course the lamp is nearly empty or she would not care to fill it. This empty space is filled with a cloud of explosive vapor arising from the oil in the lamp. When she pushes the nozzle of the can into the lamp at the top, and begins to pour, the oil running into the lamp fills the empty space and pushes the cloud of explosive vapor up; the vapor is obliged to pour over the edges of the lamp, at the top, into the room outside. The blaze of the wick sets the invisible cloud or vapor afire, and there is an explosion which ignites the oil and scatters it over her clothes and over the furniture of the room. This is the way in which a kerosene-lamp bursts. The same thing may happen when a girl pours the oil over the fire in the range or stove, if there is a cloud of explosive vapor in the upper part of the can, or if the stove is hot enough to vaporise quickly some of the oil as it falls. Remember that it is not the oil, but the invisible vapor which explodes. Taking care of the oil will not protect you. There is no safety except in the rule: Never pour oil on a lighted fire or into a lighted lamp. Never fill up a lamp near a fire or a light. It may be half full of gas which will flow over and may reach the fire or light and explode.—N. Y. Witness.

A Jumping Blanket.

George R. Stillman, Captain of the Philadelphia Fire Insurance Patrol, some years ago contrived what he calls a jumping blanket, which the Press of that city thinks is probably the best method at present devised to further the escape of imprisoned inmates from a burning building when ladders are not available or cannot reach them. Yesterday Captain Stillman showed the appliance to a reporter and explained its use. It consists of a square of strong canvas, measuring sixteen feet each way. Beneath the sheet are stitched twenty-four bands of strong three-inch webbing, extending from side to side and crossing one another at regular intervals. Forty-eight loops of double webbing afford holdings for as many men, and the chief thinks that a person could jump with safety from a fourth story when the sheet is fully manned. "We always carry this sheet with us," said Captain Stillman, "although we have as yet never had to use it. I have thoroughly tested it though, and I am satisfied that ten men could hold it and catch any one jumping from a second story. You see these bands of webbing give both strength and elasticity to the sheet. Without them of course the canvas would in all probability give way under the weight of a man jumping into it from a height of ten or twelve feet. I cannot see at present how my idea could be so improved upon that a person might jump from any height in safety. A net stretched upon the principle of those used by flying trapeze artists would doubtless answer well enough, but fixing these arrangements is a work of time, and the idea appears impracticable. One end ought to be prominently attached to a ring or staple in the wall, and the coil could lie in a box or casket beneath. Ropes are little or no use. It is all very well to talk about going down a rope hand over hand, but any one unused to the business would find their arms give out before they had decended twenty feet. Then, if they attempted to slide down, the rope would cut or burn their hands. This webbing is rough in surface and three inches wide, and would slide through the hands without causing any particular inconvenience, and enable the man or woman to reach the ground rapidly and in safety.

How Bears Hibernate.

Many bears are winter sleepers, and are often captured by well known marks upon the snow, recognized by the sportsman. Like the hedgehog, the bear depends entirely upon its accumulation of fat, and during the fall is in prime condition, when, in October or November, it enters upon its winter home. One of these nests of the black bear, found by the writer several miles from Lake Utowana, in the Adirondacks, was beneath a huge tree, four or five of whose great roots branched out on each side. The earth had been removed on the south side. The interior lined with leaves, twigs and other refuse matter that would make a comfortable bed; and covered with snow in a dense jungle, the animal had perfect security. Soon after the bear has retired the intestines shrink and becomes clogged or hardened with a substance known as tappan, in reality pine leave and the bark of fir trees that they eat immediately prior to entering upon the state of hibernation, that remains in position until spring, and so slow is the exhaustion of fat, that is now the food-supply, that the animals have been found five month after their involuntary entombment as fat as when they went in. During the sleep the skin upon the balls of the feet is renewed. The males of the polar bear do not hibernate, a fact proven by the late polar expedition of the yacht "Eira." According to Mr. Leigh Smith, they did not see a female bear from October to March 13. The winter home is merely a shelter in the lee of some rock, the bear allowing herself to be snowed in. Here the young are born before spring, their additional respiration serving to enlarge the snow house, from which they emerge in early spring, the mother well worn by her attempts at sustaining a family under what would appear exceedingly adverse circumstances.

MR. BLEZARD'S RECORD.

MR. BLEZARD is very unfortunate in his parliamentary record, but he is even more unfortunate in having a most indiscreet and incapable advocate. In the discharge of our duty we have given a plain and unvarnished account of Mr. Blezard's manner of misrepresenting his constituency in the last session, not selecting a few of his votes to criticise, but giving the whole of them, 22 in number, as far as we could gather them from the newspaper reports, for up to this date we have received no official papers later than February 17th, in accordance with the plan, which Mr. Blezard endorsed by his vote, of withholding information from the public as long as possible.

The publication of this record is not very palatable to Mr. Blezard and his friends, as may well be the case when it is so discreditable to him. We are thereupon treated by our contemporary to a torrent of childish abuse, without one attempt to show that we are wrong in any particular point. The only effort at defending Mr. Blezard is the assertion that some of the votes were on amendments to the motion to go into Committee of Supply, coupled with the information that :—

"It is a part of parliamentary procedure that every amendment offered to a motion that the House go into Supply is in itself a motion of want of confidence in the Government, and must therefore, regardless of its nature, be opposed by supporters of the Administration."

We are used to seeing our contemporary showing a want of knowledge in political matters that would disgrace a schoolboy, but we were hardly prepared for such a display of ignorance as this. If "every" such amendment implies want of confidence, then Mr. Mowat, his colleagues and his most subservient supporters, Mr. Blezard of course among them, all voted want of confidence in Mr. Mowat in the very same session, for they voted "aye" on Mr. Nairn's amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply on February 27th. If every such amendment means want of confidence, then Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues voted want of confidence in themselves when they voted for Mr. Plumb's amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply last session, and Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues voted want of confidence in themselves last year on a similar occasion.

But even if the rule were invariably as our contemporary states, is Mr. Blezard absolutely compelled to vote confidence in his leader at all costs, on all occasions, and without the slightest check from his own conscience? Is there no line to be drawn beyond which this blind confidence would not carry him? Was Mr. Blezard obliged to advocate centralization and the usurpation of our municipal rights rather than show want of confidence in Mr. Mowat? Was he bound to assent to the confiscation of private property, the sacrifice of our rightful territory, the refusal of the franchise, the doubling of our expenditure, the dissipation of our capital, the selling of our property without our consent through our representatives, the denial of justice to our Free Grants settlers, the introduction of political partisanship into our educational matters and into the liquor license system, with sundry other abuses, rather than vote want of confidence in Mr. Mowat? Was he compelled to show his confidence in Mr. Mowat by abetting him in thwarting the will of the people as to their fiscal policy, when even a staunch Reformer like Mr. Neelon could prefer the good of his country to his party allegiance?

We must admit, however, that Mr. Blezard does draw the line somewhere. He can vote want of confidence in Mr. Mowat, according to this theory, but only when Mr. Mowat is his fugleman in so doing. Perhaps, however, he had another inducement to vote as he did on this occasion, for thereby he had another opportunity of refusing an extension of the franchise, which seems such a terror to the Reformers dreading a reform.

Would not East Peterborough have been as well represented if Mr. Blezard had been asleep all the session till galvanized into action when required to vote for Mr. Mowat? Do the electors of the East Riding wish to have a thinking man to represent them or a patent Mowat voting machine?

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

DISHONEST attempts are being persistently made to misrepresent the policy of Mr. Meredith and his supporters in regard to the liquor traffic. One favorite trick of this kind is to parade a resolution passed at the Methodist General Conference which declares among other things that the Crooks Act is the best instrument for the suppression of the evil that we have ever had, and that the control of the license system should not be given to the municipalities. Then it is falsely asserted or still more dishonestly implied that the Conservative position is hostile to these two propositions.

Now we have two authoritative declarations of the policy of Mr. Meredith and his supporters. A resolution was passed at the Conservative Convention at Toronto last year, and a motion was made in the recent session which make clear the Conservative policy without a doubt.

By these two documents the Conservatives are pledged not to interfere with the provisions of this excellent instruments for the maintenance of the present restrictions upon the traffic and upon the number of licensees. This promised explicitly. No control of the license system is to be given to the municipalities.

As to the other question of the manner of enforcing the law, the two resolutions are equally plain. It is proposed that the municipalities shall have no voice in giving or withholding licenses but that they should have the appointment of the officers to carry out the law, instead of their being appointed as political partisans.

Now we put it to any reasonable man to decide by which system the law is more likely to be efficiently administered. Take the case of our own town for example. Our Council appoints the constables; if these officers were to neglect to preserve order because they were two busily engaged in a political propaganda to attend to their duties, how long would they remain in office? If the Council did not dismiss them forthwith, the ratepayers would soon see to it. So it would be if the License Inspector was appointed by the Council; but what would be the result if the ratepayers complained to Mr. Mowat that the political inspector he had appointed was working as a politician to the neglect of his duties. We are not left to conjecture; the Mowat Administration has admitted in an official circular that the License Inspectors have very generally neglected to enforce the law, and has called upon them to do better in the future, after being driven to this step by the exposures in the Conservative press. But has any Inspector been removed for this neglect of duty, and is there any perceptible change?

The true friends of temperance cannot fail to see that Mr. Meredith's policy is the better.

DEATH OF JUDGE MACKENZIE.

Kenneth Mackenzie, senior judge of the York and judge of the maritime court of Ontario, died at 2.30 on Wednesday afternoon, of apoplexy, at his residence, No. 26 John street. The deceased judge has been on leave of absence for about six months, most of which time he has been under the care of Dr. John Hall, sr. Last August he was seized with a stroke of apoplexy, but soon recovered. Since then he has taken frequent walks in the streets and was thought to be getting on nicely. Last Monday morning however he was stricken down again, and remained in a low state until Wednesday morning. From that time till his death in the evening he remained unconscious.

The judge was a native of Scotland, and probably over 80 years of age. He must have come to Canada from his native Scotland shortly after 1830. He was for years in business being called to the bar about 1837. He practised in Kingston. An active Free churchman, he always opposed Queen's college. When he had attained considerable reputation as a lawyer he was made judge of the county of Frontenac and filled that position with ability for years. Then he resigned and came to Toronto, where he opened a law office, and was again appointed county judge, this time of York, and also judge of the maritime court, had considerable weight with a jury in pleading a cause, and as a consequence was employed in a number of prominent trials. The American government employed him to defend the fenians who were tried here after the raid of 1866. In politics he was a reformer, and and was twice a defeated candidate in East Northumberland, where he had been a business man in his younger days. His judgeship he got from Sir John Macdonald. He leaves a widow and one daughter.—Toronto World.

MACFARLANE WILSON, IMPORTER.

DANIEL WEBSTER'S ONLY POEM.

Webster, it is said, during his whole literary life, wrote one poem and that was upon the death of his infant son. This son was born on Summer street, in Boston, December 31, 1822, and died in December, 1824. The poem has not appeared in print for some years. It bears the title—

LINES ON CHARLES' DEATH.

My son, thou wast my heart's delight;
Thy morn of life was gay and cheery;
That morn has rushed to sudden night;
Thy father's house is sad and dreary.

I held thee on my knees, my son,
And kissed thee laughing, kissed thee weeping
But, ah! thy little life is done;
Thou'rt with thy angel sister sleeping.

The staff on which my years should lean
Is broken ere those years come o'er me;
My funeral rites thou shouldest have seen,
But thou art in the grave before me.

Thou rear'st to me no filial stone,
No parent's grave with tears beholdest;
Thou art my ancestor, my son,
And standest in heaven's account the oldest.

On earth my lot was soonest cast,
Thy generation after mine;
Thou hast thy predecessor's part—
Earlier eternity is thine.

I shall have set before thine eyes
The road to heaven, and showed it clear;
But thou, untaught, springest to the skies,
And leav'st thy teacher lingering here.

Sweet seraph, I would learn of thee,
And hasten to partake thy bliss;
And, ah, to thy world welcome me
As first I welcomed thee to this.

Thy father, I beheld thee born,
And led thy tottering steps with care;
Before me risen to heaven's bright morn,
My son, my father, guide me there.

DUPED BY "GRAIN BROKERS."

How Belleville Gentlemen were "Taken In" by Chicago Frauds.

There are several in this city who regret having dipped into Chicago grain deals, and their experience will prevent them from engaging in like transactions in the future, as the results have been too costly to warrant a repetition. It was thought their misfortune would prove a deterrent to others from interesting themselves in "Chicago schemes" where the chances are very largely against them, but such has not turned out correct. Lotteries, Mutual Benefit Associations and co-operative companies have from time to time established themselves in the large American cities, and by means of neatly printed devices, taught many of the unwary that a fool and his money can soon part.

"Fund W." was the creation of the fertile brains of a firm known as Flemming & Merriam, who had their head-quarters in a building on the corner of La Salle and Madison Streets, Chicago. They represented that moneys sent them were invested on grain and stock speculations, and showed, in printed statements, a well paying return. Dividend forms, printed in red and black ink, cunningly worded and informing the gullible that money entrusted to them realized seven, eight and ten per cent. a week, were distributed with a liberality and lavishness only equalled by a circus agent. The hook was well baited and it took hugely. Investors living in various parts of the north-western states, poured out their surplus wealth and heralded the glad tidings their returns gave them, near and far. The circulars were sent through this Province, and agencies eventually established in a number of towns. The scheme was first heard of here in March, and one investor "went in alone" for two months. His dividends came regularly, and as he showed the returns, and they panned out well, his friends and acquaintances, though dubious at first about the soundness of the affair, after a time bought shares themselves. Dividends were wont to reach here on Monday and the contributors to "Fund W." would watch the opening of the post office on that day, even more eagerly that the average Alderman is supposed to guard the city's interest. And when the mails were distributed, consultations would take place, congratulations be extended, and they would cheer one another and their friends too, by their announcements of the receipts of seven, eight and ten per cent. per week. Everyone who possessed the desire to speculate went into it, and the number of shares owned here increased very largely. A gentleman of sporting inclinations was the first resident of this city to embark in the "enterprise" and he contributed $200. He subsequently drew out $50—the privilege of withdrawing his contribution from the "fund" being allowed each depositor. About a month since he was going to draw another $100, but unfortunately delayed too long. All classes of people are represented among this locality's shareholders; there are farmers, hotel men, jewellers, clerks, grain buyers, railroad men, bartenders, cigar men, sailors and even laborers, and these investments were from $200, which was the largest, to $10, the lowest limit the scheme allowed.

Monday, January 29th, proved an eventful and disconsolate day for those citizens of Belleville and vicinity who were interested in "Fund W." No returns came on that day; neither were there any on Tuesday; nor have any come here since. The victims at first blamed the mails and the railroads for the non-appearance of the dividends, but all were full of expectations, nevertheless. At length, some began to "give it up" and had the temerity to assert that there were something "crooked" about the "fund." Yet many "hoped" and their hopes were only fully dispelled when, on Saturday last, it was announced that "Fund W." had collapsed.

The old adage that it's a cold day and a dark night that a Chicago sharp gets left" was again exemplified. A copy of Chicago Tribune, dated February 1st, reached here two days afterwards. Three of its columns were devoted to the exposure of such funds as Flemming & Merriam, and the exposition, which was entitled "Gulled Grangers" created a great sensation. Subsequent copies of that journal continued to deal with such schemes as that noted, and the United States postal service interferred to prevent a continuance of the swindle. Money cannot be sent through the post hereafter to any engaged in such business. Many in this city will long regret the day they invested in "Fund W."

The victims residents here will meet in solemn conclave to-night to discuss the situation.

A CATASTROPHY AVERTED.

The Heroic Calmness of a Young Lady Saves Seven Hundred Lives.

Great preparations had been made for the concert at Iroquois, Ont., on Monday evening, in aid of the funds of the Roman Catholic Congregation at that place, and at 7 o'clock, an hour before the time for commencing, the Town Hall, the audience room of which is in the second story, was well filled. From this time the crush for admittance continued until every seat had been filled, together with temporary seats in the passages, and the open space near the entrance was held by those who stood, unable to obtain seats. At ten minutes before eight at least 700 persons occupied the hall, which is calculated to seat 350. For some time those below heard ominous sounds, and the partitions began to waver under the heavy weight above. The janitor, Mr. Thomas Dillon, considered the situation alarming, and just as Miss Florence Mills was passing up the stairway he noticed the flooring above his head parting from the brick work at the side of the building. He exclaimed to Miss Mills: "Good God, do you see that!" and hastened upstairs and quietly informed those near the door that the pressure was too great for the strength of the building. Those who heard him at once began to make their exit. Meanwhile, Miss Mills, having obtained the aid of two ushers, had made her way through the crowd to the stage where she knew her father, Mr. Cephas Mills (who was to take the chair), was to be found, and taking him into one of the dressing rooms, privately informed him of the terrible position of the audience. All this took but a few seconds, and it is well she lost no time, for the audience, noticing the retreating masses near the door, were beginning to be panic struck, and there was great danger of a general rush for entrance, which was at the part of the building showing the greatest signs of weakness, and the result would, in all probability, have been a loss of life too terrible to contemplate. Mr. Mills at once went upon the stage, and in a calm manner assured the audience that there was no immediate danger if they would retain their seats. He then quietly requested his daughter to seat herself at the piano (which was on the stage) which she did, and commenced to perform with the greatest composure. The audience was at once quieted, and the great danger of a rush for the entrance (which would probably have brought down that part of the building) was averted. Although 20 minutes elapsed before the crowd was dispersed, yet no accident of any kind occurred. The roof of the building rested entirely on the walls, and had the walls given way, the roof would have fallen, crushing in the ruins hundreds of human beings. The coolness and bravery of Miss Mills is highly commended. The hall is now in a very unsafe condition, and no audience could be got to enter it. A troupe which had engaged it for three nights will have to cancel their engagement.—Star.

Camping out in the pine woods has been recommended to consumptive patients, and the Rev. Dr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, mentions a remarkable cure from treatment of this nature. Every one afflicted with pulmonary disease cannot make it convenient to camp out, nor is it necessary, when all the benefits of the treatment are procurable by using Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum, a scientific preparation, which presents, in a concentrated and agreeable form, all the virtue of this nature medicine gum. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. THE

PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1883.

Campaign Meeting.

Mr. John Carnegie will address the electors of the West Riding of Peterborough on the issues of the campaign, in Bradburn's Opera House, on the evening of Monday next. Mr. Campbell is invited to be present and take part in the discussion.

Social.

The first of a series of socials which will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the George Street Methodist Church, was held on Thursday evening. There was a fair attendance present, and the entertainment was one of unusual excellence. The programme consisted of music, vocal and instrumental, and readings, and if the standard of the entertainment at the succeeding socials is as high as at this one—and we have no doubt that it will be—they should be well patronized.

How the Mighty have Fallen!

History gives many examples of men who have for a time dazzled and delighted the world, and then have been forsaken and allowed to fall into obscurity, but their names have been preserved and their actions transmitted to succeeding generations that posterity might judge of them. The mighty Napoleon, who reigned over Europe, was stripped of his power and imprisoned, and who does not remember the history of Wolsey, who, from a height not lower that the King himself, was reduced to the lowest position? And who has not read of—but why search the pages of history when there is an example of how the mighty have fallen so much nearer home? At his concert last night Prof. Lafeyette Carpenter, the champion dancer of the world, was forced to dance on the public stage to the music of a mouth organ! How Terpsichore must shed "tears such as goddesses weep" as she beheld this exhibition! Where, Oh Apollo! was thy harp, that thou didst not furnish music for one so favored by the graceful muse? and where, oh rows of empty seats!] were the ardent admirers of the "light fantastic?" Have they so far degenerated that they cannot appreciate an artistic exhibition, and so far forgotten themselves as to neglect the one who alone can satisfy the longings of the lovers of the dance? To such a pass apparently have things come, as at the concert last night the attendance was so meagre that we fear the professor, who endeavored to entertain the public, only succeeded in lessening the contents of his purse. And yet, what a reception was once accorded him! Sic transit gloria mundi.

The Cells.

Two weary travellers inhabited the police cells last night. There was a blank at the Police Court this morning.

Committee Meeting To-night.

Mr. Carnegie's committees will meet this evening in Hill's Music Hall. A full attendance is particularly requested for this evening.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a.m., 21° above zero; at noon, 32° above, and at 3 p.m., 24° above.

The Weather Probabilities.

The weather to-day is cold and stormy. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North-western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh winds from the south-east and west; fair, clear weather; nor much change in temperature.

Examinations in Law.

At the recent examination of the Law Society in Toronto Mr. J. Henry, of Mr. D. W. Dumble's office, passed the examination and was admitted as a Barrister, ranking six in a long list. Mr. J. Shelton, of Mr. E. B. Edward's office, passed the first intermediate examination without an oral, and Mr. F. T. Henry, who pursued his studies at the Collegiate Institute here, was admitted as a student at law, standing third in a long list of successful candidates. We congratulate these young gentlemen on their success.

A Snow Blockade.

The high wind having drifted the snow on the railway lines, traffic has been greatly interfered with. The Grand Trunk express from the east last night was bulletined six hours late, and the Midland train, which is due here at 10 p. m., having been blocked by the snow between Port Hope and Garden Hill, was cancelled. The noon Midland train to-day was nearly two hours late, and travel on the Grand Junction has being suspended since yesterday. Efforts are been made to clear the tracks and to have the trains run on regular time as soon as possible. The storm has also affected telegraph communication, the lines being out of order between Toronto and Buffalo, which cuts off the press despatches.

"Muldoon's Pic-Nic."

Gorman's Great Irish Comedy Company will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday evening in the comic play, "Muldoon's Picnic." Of the play and the actors the Norwich Semi-Weekly Telegraph says:—

"The Entertainment given by Gorman's Specialty Company last Monday evening at Burrs Opera House, was a thoroughly enjoyable affair. All the seats in the house were taken long before the Company arrived and all who were so thoughtful in securing their seats so early and attended the Pic-nic are not sorry, we'll vouch. The Company abounds in fun, in fact more solid fun to the square inch than anything we ever saw at the Opera House and at the same time chaste, and nothing to offend the most fastidious. Gibson and Ryan, as Muldoon and Mulcahey, were simply immense and their eccentricities never failed to bring down the House. "Ellwood," the Female Impersonator, was pleasing and artistic while Miss Isabel Ward, in her Zelophonic Musicials and Steel Chimes, received several encore. They will be well received here if they ever come again."

Railway Notes.

"Mr. J. D. Barnett, for the past three years mechanical superintendent of the western division of the Grand Trunk Railway, with headquarters at Stratford, had resigned that position to accept the general mechanical superintendency of the Midland Railway system, with headquarters at Port Hope. Mr. Barnett's position in Stratford will be taken by Robert Roag, of Battle Creek, Mich., late assistant mechanical superintendent of the Chicago and Grand Trunk railway. As a lad Mr. Barnett entered the service of the G. W. R. of England under Mr. Joseph Armstrong, and worked in the shops for nearly three years. He then entered the drawing office of that company, where his abilities soon placed him in the position of chief draughtsman. Sixteen years ago Mr. Barnett came to Canada. He began his trade over again in the shops of the G. T. R. at Montreal. In the short period of eight years he was appointed as assistant mechanical superintendent, and has since kept that position, though with each succeeding appointment he was transferred to a more important place. Such talents as Mr. B. possesses could not but be noticed by other railway magnates, and he was offered, and accepted, the highly responsible position of general mechanical superintendent of the Midland system, a system which, when completed, will be over 1,500 miles in length. Mr. Barnett is a member of the Aungerville Society of Scotland, and the Folk-lore Society of Africa. He is also a member of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers of England, and a member and past vice-president of the American Railway Master Mechanics' Association."

It is to be hoped and expected that Mr. Barnett will soon take up his residence in Peterborough, as when the "Missing Link" is completed this will be the most central point for the Midland car shops.

Men are continually going north to work on the Ontario and Quebec Railway. Twenty more went from Belleville to Bridgewater for that purpose this week.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—AN EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcula which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

There is no Tonic so certain in effect as Pepper's Quinine and Iron. It is strongly recommended to residents in India and the Colonies, and should always be kept ready for use in every case of fever or febrile condition.

TARAXACUM and PODOPHYLLIN.—Prepared only by J. Pepper, London. This fluid combination, extensively used in medical practice, is now used instead of blue pill and calomel for the cure of dyspepsia, biliousness, and all symptoms of congestion of the liver, which are generally pain beneath the shoulders, head-ache, drowsiness, no appetite, furred tongue, disagreeable taste in the morning, giddiness, disturbance of the stomach, and feeling of general depression. It sets the sluggish liver in motion, and slightly acts on the bowels, giving a sense of health and comfort within 24 hours. It is the safest medicine. Taraxacum and Podophyllin is a fluid made only by J. PEPPER, Bedford Laboratory, London, whose name is on every label. Bottles, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Sold by all Chemists. PETERBOROUGH—Calsse House, March 3, 4 and 5.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based upon scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 to 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. H. having had 30 years experience has become master of his profession, and DEFIES the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

The Result of Disinterring August Dieffenthal from a Pauper's Grave.

August Dieffenthal arrived in New York from Germany three months ago with the intention of joining his brother, a farmer in California. He spent a week in New York, and on the day fixed for his departure he died of heart disease in a lodging house in Greenwich street. The Public Administrator took possession of his effects, consisting of two trunks, but found nothing in them but articles of rough clothing. The body was taken to the Weehawken Cemetery, where, after lying in a vault for a few days, it was buried in a pauper's grave. When the brother in California was notified of what had happened he wrote to the Public Administrator that August had with him a large sum of money. Another search of the trunks was made, but without revealing any trace of the treasure.

The brother then employed a lawyer in this city to investigate the matter. Yesterday the latter visited the cemetery, and caused the remains to be disinterred. Three undershirts were found upon the body. In the under one, on the inside, was discovered a secret pocket, which contained $2,000 in current notes. The money was taken by the lawyer, and the body was deposited in the dead house.

A question has been raised as to whether the money should not have been delivered to the Surrogate of Hudson county, N.J., in which the cemetery is situated, and it is thought that complications may arise in regard to it.—Evening Canadian.

A Litle Mixed on the Question of Sides.

Dennis Sullivan tells a story on Colonel Clint Reed, the well-known jurist, that will bear repeating. He says Colonel Reed was the guest of Congressman Belford in Washington, and was returning to his hotel late one night when he lost his way. While browsing about in an aimless, insane sort of a manner, he encountered a policeman.

"Scuse me, my frien'," said Colonel Reed, "but can you tell me which izzee opposite side o'ze street?"

"Why," exclaimed the policeman, "it's over there—the other side."

"Zat's what I thought," said Colonel Reed "but while I was walking over there a few minutes ago I asked a man an' he told me zis wazzee opposite side!"

A Jewish Marriage in Spain.

The first Jewish marriage which has taken place in Madrid since the expulsion of the Jews from Spain two centuries ago, was celebrated a few days since. The bride, who was wedded to her first cousin, is daughter to Mr. Jones, a foreign merchant long established in the Spainish capital. More than fifty persons, including members of the very best society in Madrid, were present at the ceremony, and Rabbi Hermann Salzedo travelled expressly from France to celebrate the marriage.—London Life, Jan. 11.

Opera House Burned

At an early hour on Thursday morning the Royal Opera house, Toronto, was destroyed by fire, and nothing now remains of the building but a few yards of smoke-blackened brick wall. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. The cost of the Royal Opera house at its completion was $64,500. Since that time additional outlays have been made in improving the property. A new set of dressing rooms were added costing $6,000, and an extra scene room costing $2,000. The apparatus for the calcium light was recently purchased, and involved an additional expenditure of $400. Altogether the total loss of the building is put down by the manager, including the properties and improvements, at $80,000. As the insurance was only for $15,500, Mr. French's loss will be heavy. The Ravel Humpty Dumpty Company also lost heavily by the fire.

POLITICAL DISHONESTY.

MR. MOWAT is often held up to view as being so especially honest that no man should oppose him. Now, we are quite willing to allow to Mr. Mowat the most exemplary honesty in private life, and as a judge before he descended from the bench, but we venture to submit that as a politician he is utterly dishonest.

The point upon which he is most vehemently insisting now that he has let the National Policy drop into the backgr nd on account of his terrible check last June, are two: namely, that an award of arbitrators should be ratified, even though the submission had not been made by parliament, and that the Provincial Cabinet and Legislature should control matters within their jurisdiction without being subject to disallowance by the Dominion authorities. Such an honest politician should, of course, have his own record perfectly clear in these respects which he considers of so great importance. Let us see if he has?

So many cities were competing for the dignity of being the Canadian capital that it was found impossible to choose any one of them against the combined resistance of the others. In this position of affairs, the decision by a formal resolution of parliament was submitted to the arbitrament of Our Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria. Our sovereign, in answer to this appeal, named Ottawa as the capital. Mr. Mowat, however, voted, and with others of his party to violate the good faith of our country solemnly pledged by its parliament, and to throw back in the royal face the award that had been craved. This disloyal attempt was successful, and Mr. Mowat took office for the first time as a direct consequence of his own want of loyalty, honesty and good faith. So much for that point.

The Orangemen of Ontario were seeking incorporation. Mr. Mowat voted for the Bill, which, with his assistance, was passed. He then, in defiance of the theory and practice of our constitution, recommended the Lieutenant-Governor to reserve the Bill, thus absolutely inviting its disallowance by the Dominion authorities, although it was within the Provincial jurisdiction. By this miserable shuffling he hoped to trick both parties into supporting him; the Orangemen, by pleading that he had voted for it and procured its passage; the Roman Catholics, by alleging that he had prevented it from becoming law. Thus he showed his regard at once for common honesty, for our constitution of responsible government, and for Provincial autonomy free from Dominion interference.

And it is this disloyal man, this trickster blowing hot and cold, orange and green, with one breath, who is now corruptly using his patronage of our vacant registrarship by withholding the appointment in order that, having promised the position to a gentleman in the East Riding, he may influence votes by holding out to others hopes which he has resolved to disappoint—after the election is over.

What a very remarkably honest politician is our loyal premier!

A HOTEL THIEF.

A Long List of Sufferers Through Fifteen Minutes' Depredations.

Detective Reburn last night arrested a man on a charge of being a professional hotel thief. He was brought to police headquarters, and from the number of men by whom he was charged with stealing it was evident that he was an accomplished hand at the business. He gave his name as Leavington, and refused to give his christian name, but merely stated that it began with J. Nothing that the authorities could do, would induce him to give any further information. It seems that he is one of a gang of thieves which confine their attention chiefly to hotels, and for him the police have been on the lookout for some time. When he was brought into the station he treated the officer who arrested him with the most foul language and threatened him with all sorts of ill usage when he was free. The first man to enter a charge was Edward Poole, who complained that a pair of boots had been stolen from him. Reburn bade the prisoner produce his pedal extremities, and they were adorned with the articles in question. Another man named Scott had a coat stolen. Mrs Haworth had her bracelets taken. Fred. Robinson's fur hat and vest were missing. John Riggar mourned the loss of his gloves, while the proprietor of the Windsor hotel, and which all these men had been staying, was minus a pair of fur gloves. It seems that the prisoner came to the house on Wednesday night and registered at a traveller from Picton under the name of Leavington. Yesterday morning he was absent from breakfast when all the others assembled, but about twenty minutes later he appeared on the scene and commenced to partake of his host's cheer. Some of the guests missed articles from their rooms after breakfast, and at once began to complain. So many making a noise tuned suspicion in the proper direction, but the bird had flown. Reburn, from the description given recognized his man when seen on Young street near Queen last night, and at once took him into custody.

The prisoner has served several terms in the Central, and was one of those men who told stories of how he had been inhumanly treated by Warden Massie. He is well known as a hard citizen, and has several aliases. His name is Joseph Lavington, and any cases known to hotel-keepers are wanted by the police.—Mail.

LINDSAY.

RE-OPENED.—The Post says that some time ago the ladies in connection with the Baptist Church in Lindsay set about creating a fund to repair the church. They succeeded beyond expectation, and the result is the building has been completely renewed inside. It has been re-seated, re-painted, the ceilings and walls have been calcomined, and new matting has been put down in the aisles. Mr. Inglis, who contracted for the pews, has produced a seat that is both neat and exceedingly comfortable to occupy, and Mr. Silver has done himself much credit in his department. There has already been an outley of $120, and the ladies have still a balance in hand which they intend to expend for additional lamps, etc. Last Sabbath morning the building was re-opened, when Rev. Mr. Gold, of Whitby, preached a very appropropriate sermon, which was much appreciated by the congregation. Since last spring the church has been distinguished by much financial progress. A new vestry has been completed 28x26 feet, costing about $500. Mr. Matthews kindly cancelled a debt of $2,000, thus freeing the property of all incumbrance. Certainly in view of this progress the congregation have reason to thank God and take courage.

BRADBURN'S NEW OPERA HOUSE.—This week the finishing touches are being given to the stage appointments of the new opera house, and by the end of the week the work on the room will have been completed. The hall as re-modelled is an exceedingly comfortable public room and one that it will be a pleasure to sit in. The seating capacity has been much enlarged and 600 persons can find ample accommodation. New seats of an improved design have been placed in the hall and comfortable chairs added for the reserved seats. The entrance door to the room has been raised about three feet higher than before and from this point the seats descend by easy steps to the level of the floor. The arrangement ensures a capital view of the stage from all parts of the room. The stage fittings are handsome and thoroughly complete. Twelve sets of scenery have been put in, covering almost every description of background called for by travelling theatrical companies. The sides of the stage, where in view of the audience has been handsomely decorated, and in the arrangement of the stage front provision is made to accommodate a large orchestra without trespassing on the space allotted to the reserved seats. The arrangements for the rapid handling of theatrical properties and baggage are most complete, access being had to rear of the stage and to the dressing rooms by an entrance in the rear of the hall. The dressing rooms above the stage are reached by a short staircase, leaving the space that would have been taken up by placing them at the rear of stage for other purposes. The opera house is a credit to the lessee, Mr. Bradburn, and the work of re-modelling has been well executed by Mr. J. McMasters, the efficient overseer for Mr. Bradburn. The town has now what it has badly needed for years, a bright, well-fitted, comfortable public room.

PORT HOPE.

POISONED BY MISTAKE.—The Guide says that a six-weeks-old infant, belonging to Thos. W. Hunt, lot 21, 3rd con. of Hope, was accidentally poisoned on Wednesday afternoon by a servant girl, who gave the child a teaspoonful of carbolic acid in place of Soothing Syrup. The mother had only left the child for about twenty minutes to take a drive.

A CLOSE CALL.—Wm. Rowland, sailor, came nearly losing his life Wednesday evening, in attempting to jump off the 4.45 train on the Midland while in motion, near the Walton street crossing. He fell on the hard snow and cut his face and would have rolled under the wheels of the cars, but the activity of an employee of the road who was standing near and pulled the unfortunate man out of danger. He is cured of the practice of jumping off a train while in motion.

Clear Creek Canon by Moonlight.

Returning from one of our trips over the Colorado Central through Clear Creek Canon, we had the choice of two regular trains per day for Denver. The moon was at its full, and by taking the evening train we were afforded the most sublime ride of our lives. Imagine the effect of the pale rays of the night queen as we twisted and doubled up our course in the depths of that mighty chasm. Sometimes the rushing waters and cannon shades were fairly flooded with the almost vertical rays; suddenly the darkness was deeper than before because of our abrupt change of course under the giant battlements. Now our bands of steel gleamed like silver; in an instant all was blackness and confusion. The walls, the fissures, the noisy cataract below, the stars and pine-clad summits over us seemed to dance like the figures of the kaleidoscope, so like magic was it all. Travel by moonlight here, reader, if you can, and never miss its silvery halo on either the up or down trip through Clear Creek Canon.

A Table of Remnants to select from, astonishingly low at Turnbull's.

Stray Bullets.

The mystery of stray bullets that fly into buildings from unknown quarters, is a subject of careful investigation by the police, and well it may be. These dangerous visitors come into one's office or private room without warning, and are becoming an object of terror. People do not know when or where they are safe. The deadly missiles must be propelled from air-guns, which make it next to impossible to trace them to their source. But the ownership of air-guns might be made a subject of investigation, and none should be sold without giving the name and residence, as well as the occupation, of the purchaser. The spirit that receives delight from such a practice is of the kind that set Piper to killing helpless girls and innocent children without motive, and can be described only as devilish.—Boston Star.

A Brave Clerk.

During the fire which destroyed the Eagle hotel at Grand Rapids at midnight, a man appeared at a window on the second story yelling with fear. He was told to jump a few feet but dared not. Then a fireman sprang up a ladder grabbed him, and actually had to drag him out by main strength. A Chinaman fell on one of the firemen and carried him down into the basement among the burning debris, but got out all right. The clerk, Walter Ardt, instead of saving his books like the Newhall house clerk in Milwaukee, spent his time in rushing up stairs at the peril of his life, going to each room and seeing that everyone got out, including all the servants. One sick girl he carried out in his arms. While he was carrying her out another girl, in terror, grasped him, and he had to drag her along.

Dye from Poplar.

The young growth of the poplar tree yields a dye which may be extracted as follows: The young twigs and branches are bruised and boiled for twenty minutes with a solution of alum (ten pounds of wood requiring one pound of alum), in three gallons of water. The solution is filtered hot and allowed to cool, and after standing some time is again filtered from a resinous deposit. On exposure to air and light it develops a rich gold color, and may be used directly for dyeing orange and yellow shades upon all classes of goods.—Buffalo Lumber World.

A Soap Producing Tree.

In the temperate region of Southern Chili, of which it is a native, grows a tree which promises to be an acquisition to any country where it can be acclimated. It is called the quillai tree, and belongs to the botanical family Rosacea. It grows to a large size in the ravines of the spurs of the Andes and the coast range of hills. Its value is in its bark, which contains an alkali of extraordinary saponaceous virtue, and for washing and cleansing wool or silk has no equal as a detergent which thoroughly cleanses without injury.

Worthy of Praise.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valeable medicine, and will surely cure Billousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach and Liver and Kidney Complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Exch.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Taylor & Macdonald.—6

Why Davitt Went to Gaol.

A man who guarantees that his behavior will be good in the future must have behaved badly in the past. This is the humiliating and contradictory step which the Kilmainham convicts wished to avoid in refusing to compromise with the Castle.—Montreal Post.

IT made me feel like a "Band of Music," was the rather forcible expression of an individual who was praising "Pectoria," the great remedy for Coughs and Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis. It is safe, pleasant and effectual. If you suffer, try it. For sale by all druggists and general dealers at 25 cents a bottle.

A STRANGE COMMUNICATION.

We have received in an envelope bearing the postmark "Dublin," and the name of the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin, surmounted by a Viscount's coronet, the following production. It is satisfactory to learn that we are safe on this side of the Atlantic, and that we owe this additional benefit to our great agricultural and lumbering industries:—

THE END OF THE WORLD.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF PLANET EARTH.

When Fires refuse to burn
Our God doth then appear,
Continents He will turn
Into a Hell this year.

The winds will cease to blow,
There will be Drouth and Heat;
Corn for Food will not grow,
Nor will Oats, Peas, or Wheat.

British Isles 'scape alone
An Angry Iron Rod,
On them descend the throne
Of King Jehovah-God.

Sinners who will repent
Can now obtain the keys,
Which save from punishment,
Found only on their knees.

For the purpose of obtaining a large supply of Grain, Timber, and Lumber for the British Islands, Canada and the United States will be exempted from calamities this year. J. G. SWORD.

Attempt to Murder his Wife and Children.

DETROIT, Feb. 8.—At Ann Arbor yesterday afternoon a man named Joseph Bull, who has been drinking heavily, arose from a lounge in his house, upon which he had been sleeping, seized a razor and attacked his daughter Carrie, 18 years of age. She escaped into an adjoining room, and locked the door. Mrs. Bull was sick in bed in the room where the daughter was assaulted, and entreated her husband not to injure the child, whereupon he seized and dragged her from the bed to the floor. She struggled with the infuriated man as well as she was able, attempting to gain possession of the razor, at the same time screaming for help, as did Carrie from the window. Their cries attracted the attention of ex-Policeman Feich, who rushed into the house and arrested Bull's arm just as he was about to draw the weapon across his wife's throat. Feich readily overpowered Bull and took him to gaol, where he was locked up to await the result of his wife's injuries. Both her arms were slashed in a frightful manner, but the wounds, though very serious, were not considered dangerous. While being taken to gaol Bull told Feich he had intended to kill his whole family, and then commit suicide himself. He expressed regret that he had not attacked them when they were asleep. Bull is the father of eight children, the eldest one being 21. It is thought he was insane from the excessive use of liquor when he committed the murderous assault.

The New French Premier.

Clement Armand Fallieres, the new French premier, is scarcely more than 41 years old. He was borne in Mezin, in the department of Lot-et-Garonne, Nov. 6, 1841. He studied law and was admitted to the bar of Nerac, of which city he became mayor, retaining the place up to 1878. He presented himself as a candidate for the chamber of deputies on the republican ticket in 1876, and was elected by a vote of 8,476 to 6,442 for his Bonapartist opponent in the arrondissement of Nerac. In the chamber of deputies he took his seat with the faction known as the republican left, and so on made his mark as an orator. At the general election in October, 1877, he was returned to the chamber of deputies, receiving 8,053 votes to 6,810 cast for M. Dolfus, who had been a deputy under the empire and had the support of the government. In the new chamber of deputies he cast his lot with the same faction of the republicans, and added to his reputation by a frequent display of oratorical ability of a high order. In August last he made his first appearance in an official position, being selected by Duclerc to succeed Goblet as minister of the interior, which post is, all things considered, the most difficult and influential after the premiership itself. He now reaches the highest place itself at an age almost, if not quite, unparalleled in the annals of France.

A Pleasant Experiment with Salt.

Do you want to grow salt and at the same time have an interesting, handsome ornament? The proceeding is a novel chemical experiment that may be tried by any one, says the Troy Times. Put in a goblet one tablespoonful of salt and one spoonful of bluing; fill the goblet two-thirds full of water and set it in position where it will have plenty of warmth and sunlight. In a little while sparkling crystals will commence forming on the outside of the glass, and it is both a novel and interesting sight to watch it gradually growing day by day until the outside of our goblet will be entirely covered over with beautiful white crystals. Another variation of this beautiful experiment would be to take a goblet with the base broken off and fasten it in the centre of a thin piece of board, which may be round, square or oblong. After the crystals have formed on the glass, set in on a tiny wall-bracket and place a bright holiday or birthday card in front of it; this will hide the base, on which no crystals will form. After this is done fill the goblet with flowers or dried grasses, and you will have a vase which will cost comparatively little and in reality adds to the bric-a-brac of a room. We wonder how many of the young readers of the Times can tell us how it is the crystals of salt form on the outside of the goblet?

Crows Eating Hogs.

A curious illustration of the severity of the weather out in Iowa is supplied by the Newton Journal:—One of the remarkable incidents of the present spell of severe cold weather is the fact that crows are actually feeding off the bodies of live hogs in the stock-yards in this city, and several large, fat hogs there have at this time large holes an inch or more deep around the shoulders that have been bored into them by the bills of the crows. The belief is that the crows are so nearly starved to death that they have adopted this plan. Boys have been hired to shoot the crows, which congregate in large numbers, to keep them from utterly destroying the hogs.

MR. THOMAS W. RACE, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work. The medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms.

Camping out in the pine woods has been recommended to consumptive patients, and the Rev. Dr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, mentions a remarkable cure from treatment of this nature. Every one afflicted with pulmonary disease cannot make it convenient to camp out, nor is it necessary, when all the benefits of the treatment are procurable by using Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum, a scientific preparation, which presents, in a concentrated and agreeable form, all the virtue of this nature medicine gum. As a cure for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat and Hoarseness it is invaluable. Sold by all chemists. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

About Crows.

Professor Linden said a good word the other day at Buffalo for that much persecuted bird, the common crow. The crow of America belongs to a scattered family of about two hundred species, including among them the buzzard, jay, raven and magpie. Of the genus proper to which the crow belongs, seven examples are found in the United States, the great black raven being at the head. In the wilderness about one hundred miles from Buffalo, on the shores of Lake Ontario, ravens were found. Their nests were so secluded as rarely to be discovered. So wary were the birds that Mr. Linden had found it impossible to obtain a specimen. They were reported more abundant on the Canada shore of Lake Ontario, but it was impossible to procure a specimen even there, though a liberal reward had been offered.

The crow was only preserved from annihilation by its great cunning. Even in captivity the bird displays a degree of sagacity which almost resembles human intelligence. Mr. Linden admitted that the crow could hardly be called a sweet singer; still when tamed he might safely be set down as a useful bird and a real friend of the farmer. He eats large quantities of noxious insects, and though he has a bad habit of pulling up young tender shoots of grain, it was a question whether the damage was not more than compensated by the number of larvæ of beetles thus brought to light and devoured.

FITS A Leading London Physician establishes an Office in New York for the cure of EPILEPTIC FITS. From Am. Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Ab. Meserole (late of London), who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any other living physician. His success has simply been astonishing; we have heard of cases of over 20 years' standing successfully cured by him. He has published a work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. Address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. MESEROLE, No. 96 John St., New York.

THE

PACIFIC NORTHWEST!

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1883.

Council

A regular meeting of the Town Council will be held in the Council Chamber at 7:30 o'clock on Monday evening.

◆

The Cells.

The constables accommodated five tramps with lodgings in the public cells last night. No prisoners were arrested, and there was a blank at the Police Court this morning.

◆

In St. Peter's Cathedral to-morrow evening, the Rev. Father Conway will preach a charity sermon for the benefit of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of Peterborough. A collection will be taken up. The service will commence at 7 o'clock.

◆

The annual missionary services will be held in the George Street Methodist Church on Sunday and Monday evening next. On Sunday forenoon the Rev. J. E. Sanderson, M. A., of Norwood, will deliver a sermon with special reference to missionary work, and in the evening the pulpit will be occupied by the Rev. S. P. Rose, of Orillia. On Monday evening the annual public meeting will be held in the church.

◆

The Brook Tragedy.

The following paragraph, relating to the tragedy in the Brook family in California, appeared in the San Francisco Evening Bulletin of January 29th, under the head of Oakland matters:—

> "On Saturday afternoon the arguments of council in the preliminary examination of Arthur Brook, the boy charged with the murder of his father, German Brook, were concluded. Police Judge Daniels immediately announced that the defendant was held to answer the charge of murder before the Superior Court. The magistrate refused to admit the boy to bail."

◆

"Muldoon's Pic-Nic."

Gorman's Comedy Company will appear in Bradburn's Opera House this evening in the laughable comedy, "Muldoon's Pic-Nic." The company comprises some star comedians, and they have with them the trick donkey "Paudheen." The Brockville Times says:—

> "Muldoon's Pic-Nic drew a crowded house last night. Gibson and Ryan were good in the song and dance line. Ellwood, as an impersonator of the fair sex, was the best ever seen on the Brockville stage. Miss Ward's accomplishments in her peculiar line were simply marvellous. In the Pic-Nic proper, Ryan and Gibson are well deserving of the highest commendation, Gibson keeping the house in roars of laughter."

THE MIDNIGHT MATCH.

Attempted Incendiarism—Mr. A. Hall's Warehouse Again Set on Fire.

Another dastardly attempt was made this morning to destroy by fire Mr. Adam Hall's storehouse on Bethune street. Mr. P. O'Brien, who was detained at the station until a late hour, was going home shortly after two o'clock, and discovered the fire on the east side or back part of the building. He gave the alarm to others, and the flames were extinguished without doing much damage.

The fiend who put the fire there was evidently determined to destroy the building. His plan seems to have been, according to the tracks he left, as follows:—He first went to a coach which was standing on the railway near the corner of Simcoe street, and procured some of the oily waste from the wheel box, and with this proceeded to carry out his plan. In the east wall of the frame building there was a small square hole, probably once used as a stove-pipe hole, but inside the building at this spot a brick chimney had been built. He shoved the waste in between the boards and the brick and set fire to it, and then decamped. Fortunately, however, the fire was discovered in time to prevent much damage being done, although the criminal escaped. The storehouse contained a large number of stoves and other articles, and under the building in a tank a large quantity of coal oil is stored. It is probable that had the building been burned the coal oil would have been preserved. The object of the incendiary in firing the building is difficult to guess, as there would be no opportunity for plunder. It is to be hoped that the perpetrator of the deed will be traced and severely punished as he deserves.

The Temperature.

The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a.m., 10° below zero; at noon, 22° above zero, and at 3 p.m., 26° above.

◆

No Western Mail.

The Grand Trunk mail train from the west was late to-day, and did not connect with the Midland at Port Hope, and consequently the western mail did not arrive here at noon.

◆

The East Riding.

Mr. Read's meeting, which was advertised to be held in Ashburnham on Monday evening next, has been postponed until further notice, on account of the meeting to be held in Peterborough on that evening by Mr. Carnegie.

◆

Campaign Meeting.

Mr. Carnegie will address the electors of the West Riding of Peterborough in the political questions of the day, in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday evening. Mr. Campbell is invited to be present and take part in the discussion.

◆

Personal.

Mr. Albert Mitchell, of Bradford, Pa., who left here about three years ago, is paying a visit to his friends here.

Prof. Leon Florestan, the distinguished professor of rhetoric, is registered at the Caisse House.

German's Comic Opera Company is at the Oriental Hotel.

◆

The Market.

There was a fair attendance on the market this morning. Prices ranged high. Butter was bought up quickly at 25c. and as high 27c was asked. Eggs were about the same price per dozen. Chickens and geese were dear. Wheat and oats advanced a little to-day, the quotations being, spring wheat $1.02 to $1.03, fall wheat 97c. to 99c. and oats 44c.

◆

Elocution.

Prof. Leon Florestan, the elocutionist, from Paris, France, is at the Caisse House. The professor is highly recommended by the press as an excellent reader. The subjects are chosen principally from the English classics, including writings of Shakespeare and Lytton, and from Racine's French drama. He will give an exhibition of elocution in the Oddfellows' Hall, Cluxton's Block, on Tuesday evening next.

◆

Curling.

On Friday evening two rinks from the Peterborough club went to Lakefield and played a friendly game with members of the club of that village. The game resulted in a victory for the Peterborough rinks by 52 to 21. At the conclusion of the play the visitors were entertained at a sumptuous supper at Purser's Hotel, and were treated in a handsome manner throughout by their Lakefield brethren.

◆

The Weather Probabilities.

Last night was one of the coldest of the season. To-day the weather is unchanged, and if "probs" are to be relied on, we will be favored with another twenty-four hours of cold weather. Probs. were not correct yesterday, as we were promised milder weather, which, as everyone well knows, did not reach us. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Lakes and Upper St. Lawrence,—Moderate to fresh westrerly to southerly winds; fair to clear weather; not much change in temperature.

Railway Notes.

Mr. J. D. Barnett, of Port Hope, Mechanical Superintendent of the Midland Railway, is registered at the Oriental.

The Belleville Intelligencer of Friday gives the following information in regard to the snow blockade on the Grand Junction:—

> "The train which left here yesterday morning for Madoc reached the crossing of the G. T. R., but was unable to proceed any further, owing to the snow drifts, and it lay there until this morning, when it was taken into a siding at the G. T. R. station. The morning train, which left Peterborough for this city yesterday, reached the vicinity of the crossing above named and was unable to proceed any further. The evening train from the same place managed to get to the same locality, and though pulled by two engines could advance no further. There were three dead engines there this morning. The passengers who went by the Madoc train and those who came by the train from Peterborough, were obliged to walk to the city. No trains on either branch of the Midland left here last night or this morning. The storm is the most severe known in the history of the road. The G. J. R. is badly drifted in many places, while the Madoc branch is also well provided with snow banks, some of which are six feet deep. The management are making the necessary exertions to obviate the difficulties surrounding them, but the work is one of extreme difficulty."

The 10 p. m. Midland train last night was three hours late, but the tracks have been so far cleared that the Midland and Grand Junction trains were running almost on time to-day.

Oh, What A Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will Cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup, and Whooping Cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. For sale by J D. Tully.

A SURE THING!

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. Nothing slighted,—except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcule which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar to itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widely increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

THE BROOK MURDER.

The Examination of the Boy Charged with Killing His Father.

The San Francisco Call, February 1st, contains the following reference to the sad tragedy in the Brook family in California, formerly of Peterborough:—

The preliminary examination of Arthur Brook, charged with the murder of his father, German Brook, was begun in the Police Court, Oakland, Friday. District Attorney Hall conducted the examination for the prosecution, and N. S. Wirt and ex-District Attorney Gibson appeared for the defendant. The boy Arthur, though nineteen years old, looks hardly more than fifteen years old. He is short and slight, and from his wound in the arm and his confinement in the prison is very pale. The case for the prosecution did not develop any matters other than have been reported in the Call, except that the boy left home some time ago without his father's knowledge, and that his father sent for him and had him brought back. The testimony of the homicide directly is entirely circumstantial. The defence placed on the stand witnesses to prove the good character of the defendant and that he was on good terms with his father. The examination was not finished yesterday, and will be resumed this morning.

Yesterday police officer J. B. Fields was the first witness. His testimony revealed nothing not already known and published.

Dr. E. H. Woolsey and Dr. W. B. Simonton also related facts they testified to before the Coroner's jury.

Mrs. Kate F. Thomas testified that she lives next door to the house occupied by Mr. Brook and his son. After hearing two shots, she saw from her kitchen window through the cracks in the fence a man pass from the direction of the kitchen steps of the Brook house, a few steps toward the rear of the yard, and then, turning, pass into the alley leading to the front street. The person she saw was short, and wore dark clothes and a sack coat. The coat worn by young Brook was shown the witness. She said, To the best of my knowledge that is the coat." She testified also that officer Fields asked the boy in her hearing how the affair occurred. He replied, "I don't care a ——."

At the afternoon session of the court, Mrs. Addie Weintraut, Mrs. Charlotte Nelson, Mrs. Henrietta Cordez, H. F. Bruning, A. Friedman, detective F. O. Fuller, officer Holland and others testified for the prosecution. The District Attorney announced that the case for the people was rested.

For the defence Barlow Dyer and the Messrs. Webster were called to testify to the good character of the defendant for peace and quietness.

Harry Brook, brother of defendant, testified that the relations between his father and Arthur were friendly. In cross-examination he testified that Arthur had left home some time ago without his father's knowledge, and he had gone to bring him home. The witness did not know that there had been any trouble between his father and Arthur.

On the following day the examination was continued, and the boy was committed for trial.

THE PHONEX PARK MURDER.

DUBLIN, Feb. 10.—Kavanagh, continuing his examination, said that after the men he drove to the park had alighted there, he but a nosebag on the horse. While awaiting he heard a person speak to James Carey. Delaney afterwards instructed Kavanagh to look sharp and be ready to start. Upon this he drove nearer to the waiting group, which included persons he did not know. Cavendish and Burke were approaching arm in arm. James Carey and Delaney, who had come back on the car from the place where it was waiting, jumped down and joined the group. The witness heard somebody say, "It is the tall man." Kavanagh was then ordered to go further away by some of the conspirators. As he did so he heard somebody repeat, "Mind, 'tis the tall man." As the gentlemen came along Carey or Dalaney raised a while handkerchief. While the witness was awaiting, a carman nicknamed Nowt passed, driving a passenger named Nolan towards Dublin, and some bicyclists passed. Witness thought he only saw one gentleman fall and saw the other, who had a umbrella, lying on the ground. He was so near that he heard one victim cry "Oh!" The tall man (Mr. Burke) was lying on the road after this exclamation. The other victim was standing with his umbrella in his hand, and witness afterward saw him lying on the road. The four men he had driven to the park then jumped upon his car and he drove rapidly away.

THE OHIO FLOOD.

CINCINNATTI, Feb. 11.—The river is 63 feet and 5 inches high. It has risen two inches in the past three hours. Barges are being run along Second street to relieve the wants of the people. The current on Front street is so rapid that navigation is dangerous. The suspension bridge cannot be reached except by boats. The Newport bridge is also inaccessible except by boats or barges. Suffering among the people in the flooded part of the city is unavoidable. Organized efforts to relieve them must be made soon or loss of life is inevitable. The river is falling at Marietta, but rising above there. At Magsville it is rising an inch per hour. Large quantities of whiskey, flour and other property is overflowed there. There is no news this morning from Lawrenceburg. The worst is feared, as the town is isolated.

THE NAVAL OBSERVATORY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—A letter from Prof. Otis H. Robinsion, professor of mathematics in Rochester University, to Congressman Van Voorhis, complains of the management of the Naval Observatory under Vice-Aamiral Rowen. Robinson says that inexperienced men are making worthless the observations at the expense of the faculties which trained men, long experience and honorable service would have brought to use, but are not permitted. If this goes on the observatory, which now holds a high rank among the observatories of the world, will very soon be an object of rediculs among scientific men.

MEMORIAL FROM INDIANS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—A memorial from the Creek Nation has been sent to Congress against the allotment of lands in several of the states. More than half the Indian communities that have tried the experiment, have been reduced to extreme destitution and suffered greatly increased mortality. This is said to result from the effects of the intercourse of vicious whites with the Indians.

THE MISSISSIPPI RISING.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—The people along the Lower Mississippi are uneasy about the unusually high water for this season of the year. The Mississippi is now less than six feet under high water mark and is rising rapidly. The closure of an natural outlet of the Bonnet Carre Crevasse sends down in front of the city an immense volume of water that formerly escaped through the lakes to the sea. The authorities are beginning to strengthen the levees above the city. There is a cave in the Sance, six miles above the city, which requires prompt attention to save the city from inundation in case there is a further rapid rise. The levees at Alsatia and near Delta are incomplete and these points are in danger. At the former the protection of the levee has been begun as a relief to the main work. The levee from Bedfords to Delta Madison parish is in a dangerous condition. The engineers think it will not be up in time to prevent a rise of five feet more going over the point. The leeve four miles above Boqou Sara will not stand a rise of more than three and a half feet.

FLOODS IN KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 12.—At eleven o'clock last night the river was rising two inches per hour. It is thirty-six feet in the canal. The ground floor of the houses on Water Street are inundated and the occupants have removed to the upper stories or gone out entirely. In the eastern part of the city a large sewer has broke, promising to do much damage to manufactures. The shipping part of the city is all under water. Portland is in the same condition. There has been no loss of life. Most of those forced to move out are poor people on the river front. Several distilleries are under water. The cattle there are in danger of drowning. At Frankfort last night the Kentucky river had reached thirty-four feet, and was rising a foot an hour. When the flood reaches the Ohio river there will be great danger here. A great effort is being made to prepare for the worst. The life saving service has been of inestimable advantage to the poor people caught by the flood.

HARDYIZING OFFICIAL REPORTS.

OUR readers will remember the dishonest mutilation by Mr. Hardy, the Provincial Secretary of Ontario, of an official report by an emigration agent, because the suppressed passages, though most highly calculated to induce immigration by their favourable accounts of our industrial progress, might therefore be used as an argument in favor of the Tariff Policy which has been adopted in accordance with the will of the people, but which Mr. Hardy was resolved to thwart even at the sacrifice of his personal honour and his duty to the Province whose interests he had in charge.

Mr. Hardy has now perpetrated a somewhat similar offence in a different form. This time it is not a sin of omission but of commission of which he is guilty. Under the guise of the annual official report, for which the people have to pay, of the working of the Tavern and Shop Licenses Acts for 1882, he has just issued a dishonest campaign pamphlet. It would have been bad enough to foist upon the public at their expense his campaign literature instead of an honest official report. But the matter contained in this political pamphlet is so outrageous that it would have been disgraceful to him to publish it even at his own expense. The great bulk of the work is an elaborate defense of the present working of the Crook's Act, and an unfair attempt, aided by tables of manipulated and garbled figures, to prove that the municipalities have gained financially under the present regulations, when the contrary is really the fact. Sometimes this is done by boldly falsifying the figures, sometimes by the omission of the most important data, while delusive headings framed to deceive those who are not thoroughly acquainted with the subject, suggest that a fair comparison is made when such is far from being the case.

Then again we have elaborate tables showing the political opinions of every license holder and every applicant for a license. And pray what right have Mr. Hardy and his officials to make any such impertinent inquiries into the opinions of these men? Perhaps they will next be asking and publishing in their tables, the churches which the license holders attend, what is their nationality, whether their wives wear silk dresses, and how many of their daughters help in the kitchen. Perhaps they might add another column to show how many times these Paul Prys are kicked for their impertinent intermeddling. But, besides this intrusion upon private rights, there is another aspect of this matter which is of public concern. This official investigation into the political opinions of the license holders proves the truth of the charges that these partisan officials are very improperly inquisitorial. And what if there are more Conservatives than Reformers among the license holders? If Mr. Mowat had not found this to be the case he would not have been so anxious to usurp from the municipalities the appointment of the license officials in order that he might place his most rabid partisans in a position to harrass the license holders. If they had all been Reformers there would have been no need to employ petty official tyrants to threaten and coerce them, while neglecting their duty of enforcing the law, as an official circular admits to be the case.

If, however, Mr. Hardy and his spies must needs pry into private affairs, why do not they carry their dirty work a step further, and investigate the political leanings of the owners of the licensed house? Is it because it might inconveniently disclose that good Reformers may have an interest in obtaining licenses for tenants, as otherwise they might have empty buildings or sadly reduced rents.

A PETERBOROUGH INSTITUTION.

IN another column will be found an interesting report of the proceedings at the annual meeting at Glasgow, Scotland, of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company (Limited). It is satisfactory to find that the management of the affairs of the company by the Peterborough directors and officers is so well and deservedly appreciated across the water. Such an institution is not only beneficial to its shareholders, investors and clients, but is also a credit to our town, and is calculated to spread far and wide the good repute of Peterborough.

SHELL RIVER.

That stretch of country known by the name of the Shell River, or by its more musical Indian appellation of the Essisippi district, is undoubtedly one of the most favored spots in the whole of Manitoba and the North-West; having a preponderance of good soil, plenty of wood and abundance of splendid water, while the general park-like appearance of the country, its magnificent valleys, its broad and gentle slopes with numerous well wooded bluffs and not a too great number of sloughs, or rather lakelets, make it an exceedingly desirable location for energetic and enterprising settlers. Notwithstanding the rapid strides other less favored but more "puffed" districts have made in the way of being settled the homesteads in that part, by there own intrinsic merits simply, altogether unaided by any of the colour-de-rose descriptions which are circulated broadcast about some parts, have long ago been all taken up. Nor is this all. A great many of the odd sections have also been settled on, to such an extent indeed that in some townships there are scarcely any remaining untaken, and judging from appearances there will not be a single section, odd or even, in any of its townships which will be available for incoming settlers after Spring. It is, moreover, stated, by those competent to judge, that the water power supplied by the rapidly flowing and never failing river, is second to none in the whole of the country, and is destined at no distant date to be utilized in supplying power for the many mills which are being and will be built along its banks, converting them into hives of pushing industry, and thereby forming the nuclie of thriving and populous towns. The settlers, too, are on a par with the country, being for the most part well educated, intelligent and enterprising. Russell city, which is situated about the centre of the district, is destined to become an important place, having in addition to its three stores and two hotels, a recently erected commodious and well built City Hall, in which there have already been many gathering of a private and public character. It is passing strange that such a favoured district has not long ere this been intersected by a railroad. In all probility it is owing to the fact that railroad companies have hitherto been too much guided by the colored representations before alluded to, but when the surpassing facilities of this district becomes better known there will doubtless be companies competing for the privileges of running a line through it.—Winnipeg Free Press

The Gentleman in Overalls.

He was a gentleman who wore overalls and carried a tin dipper pail. His clothes were unready-made, and his boots were not symmetrical. He said the long journey of five miles each way to and from his work was trying. "Why don't you live in the city?" "Because, soor,"—in a rich Milesian brogue—"if I lived in the city I should have to live in a tenement house. You don't know the kind of people who live there. They're a bad lot all through, generally. Sights go on no woman or child should see. I want to save my wife and children from seeing corruption, so I moved out here. Good night sorr!" And he left the car at the little cottage, whose inmates were sheltered from "corruption," and was greeted with a chorus of "Here's father," that showed that the gentlemen with the dinner pail had not lavished care without receving a return in love.—Boston Transcript.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the

WEST RIDING

OF THE

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor having seen fit to dissolve the Legislature of this Province and to issue writs for the election of a new Legislature on the shortest possible notice, I beg respectfully to solicit your votes to return me as your representative in the Assembly about to be elected.

In doing so I beg to state:—

That I am opposed to the policy of the Mowat Government whereby we are being kept out of our just territorial rights, and that, if elected, I shall do all in my power to secure for the Province the boundaries assigned to it at Confederation.

I am opposed to all ex post facto legislation and I am convinced that it is contrary to sound policy as well as justice that any man's property should be taken from him without full and adequate compensation, to be ascertained by an independent and fairly constituted tribunal.

I believe there is now on the Statute Book of this Province all or nearly all the legislation required to protect the public interests and to provide for the acquisition of non-floatable streams and improvements which may have been made thereon upon terms at once just to the lumbermen and to the owners thereof.

I am opposed to the unnecessary centralization of patronage where it can be used to influence the electorate, believing that such centralization is dangerous to the freedom of the people and calculated to produce the same evils in Canada as it has already produced in the neighboring States.

I am opposed to any Government using the power vested in them for the time being by the people to prevent a free expression of public opinion upon any subject, and especially upon a subject with which they as a Government have nothing to do, as was done by the Mowat Government and their officials in the last Dominion election in regard to the tariff policy adopted by the people.

I am opposed to the reckless and unnecessary extravagance of the Mowat Government whereby the capital of the Province is being rapidly dissipated and its ordinary expenditure increased to a point which cannot be maintained without a resort to direct taxation in one form or another.

With a view to bringing the ordinary expenditure within the ordinary income of the Province, without curtailing those expenditures which have a direct bearing upon local taxation, I shall advocate a substantial reduction in the number of the representatives of the Assembly, greater economy in the departments and generally such reforms as may be calculated to reduce those expenditures from which the people are deriving no direct advantage, believing that they are entitled to and desire the cheapest Government that suffices to regulate their affairs.

I am opposed to making the liquor traffic the shuttlecock of any political party, and will advocate and support every measure calculated to place the issue of licenses and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto in the hands of those least likely to be influenced by political considerations.

I am in favor of such a readjustment of the franchise as will give to all classes of the community that voice in the government of the country to which they are entitled and of which certain classes are now unjustly deprived by the present Government, notwithstanding that they have had ample opportunities of remedying this injustice.

The educational department under a political head not having proved a success, I shall favor a return to the non-political position which the department occupied when under the able management of the late Dr. Ryerson.

I believe that too much attention and too much money has been spent on what is called higher education and upon educational theorizing to the neglect of the three R's; that the cost of maintaining public schools—especially in the outlying districts—has been unnecessarily increased thereby, and that the people are not deriving the advantages which they should do from the large amounts annually expended nominally for educational purposes, but in too many instances to little practical advantage.

There are, no doubt, several other questions to which allusion might be made, but this address is already too long, and as my views on the public questions of the day are already pretty well known to most of you, and especially as I hope to have the opportunity, between this and polling day, of discussing the issues of the campaign with my opponent in your presence, I shall conclude by expressing the hope that my long and active connection with the public affairs of the Town and County of Peterborough, my practical knowledge of its agricultural and manufacturing interests and the manner in which I have hitherto discharged the public duties with which I have from time to time been entrusted have been such as to secure for me the hearty and active support of not only those who agree with me, but also of those electors who believe it to be the duty of a representative to try and impress his views upon his party leaders and not simply to vote as directed by them.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
JOHN CARNEGIE.

PETERBOROUGH REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT COMPANY (LIMITED).

The fourth annual general meeting of British shareholders of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company (Limited), Canada, was held on Friday, January 19th, in the offices of Messrs. Finlayson & Auld, 150 West George Street, the chief agents of the company in Great Britain. Mr. Gilbert Heron presided, and amongst the gentlemen present were—Henry Cowan, Messrs. James Wright, Wm. Mathie, George Young, Wm. Finlayson, Ross R. Auld, Robert Faulds, John Low, Joseph Fulton, Alexander M'Donald, and David R. Gordon.

The Chairman said—These annual general meetings of the British shareholders of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company (Limited), Canada, held here at the head-office of the company's agencies in this country, are, as I stated at last meeting, not statutory—that is to say, the constitution of the company does not provide for them. The head-offices of the company, where the responsible management centres, are, as you are aware, at Peterborough, Ontario, where the annual general meetings of the company are held, to which are submitted the annual reports of the directors for adoption, before being issued to the shareholders. These meetings of ours held in Glasgow are, however, highly approved of by the directors of the company and valued by its managers. They are held, as you all know, at the instance and in the interest of the British shareholders, to give them the opportunity, from time to time, of expressing their opinions on the directors' reports, and making suggestions respecting the management of the company's affairs. This, our fourth annual meeting, was not held, as on former occasions, immediately after receipt in this country of the directors' annual report of the year. That report was submitted to, and was unanimously approved and passed by, the shareholders at the annual general meeting of the company held at Peterborough, Ontario, on the 14th July. Having, about the time when we held our usual meeting here, made my co-referees aware that I would soon be going to Canada on one of my usual business trips, they considered it highly expedient to delay the meeting till my return, when I would be able to report the results of my visit to Peterborough. Persons interested in this company have the advantage of counting in the lists of its shareholders a number of gentlemen resident in Scotland and England who are large holders of its stock, and more or less personally interested in and acquainted with the province of Ontario. Some of these have occasion to visit Canada now and again on business of their own. No fewer than six of these gentlemen have thus had the opportunity of visiting Peterborough within the last four years—two of them, indeed, twice in that period—and the opportunity was taken of the last two meetings held here to lay before you reports of those visits up to the respective dates. On my visit to Peterborough in November last I had the pleasure of staying with my esteemed friend Mr. Robert Nicholls, who began business there as a merchant as far back as 1835, but who now lives in retirement, who managed for many years the first bank agency opened in that district, and it stands on record that he did not make a single bad debt for the bank during his management of it, and up till recently he was director of the Ontario Bank. He knows Peterborough and the country around it most thoroughly, and the character and the pecuniary circumstances of the farmers of the neighbouring counties, all of whom, as throughout Canada, generally own their own farms. It was chiefly due to the interest taken by this gentleman in the formation of the company in 1878 that 4,000 of its 20,000 shares of stock were reserved for issue in Great Britain, with the view of creating a sufficient interest in the company to facilitate borrowing on debenture bonds. I mention all this to help you to see that with such a friend as my adviser, and being myself known to all the directors, several of whom are my personal friends, I was placed in advantageous circumstances to put questions and make enquiries regarding the progress and prospects of the company. I was present at a full special meeting of the board of directors held on the 15th of November—the president in the chair. I had previously perused, as you will all have done, the last report of the directors for the year ending the 31st of May last. Having respect to the advantageous circumstances under which the company was incorporated, now four years ago, and the dividends paid during these years, that balance-sheet is certainly a satisfactory one. These dividends, it must be remembered, are paid not by a corporation of a speculative nature, but by one whose investments have been made hitherto in landed estates only. A return of 7 to 8 per cent. on landed securities contrasts most favourably with a return of 3 to 4 per cent. received on like investments—certainly not better—in Scotland. Objections have been taken to the smallness of the reserve carried forward. I raised this point at the said meeting of directors, and asked "if I was correct in believing that the company made its loans on the principle which guides law-agents and trustees in making investments for clients and trust-estates." The president's answer was in the affirmative—namely, that every mortgage held by the company has in itself an ample margin to cover all probable contingencies. And the thoroughness with which this policy is being carried out is apparent from the fact stated at the last general meeting of the company—"that in the four years during which the company had been doing business not a single loss has been sustained on their investments." In the face of these facts there was no urgency to form a large reserve fund, but that the same cautious policy should be followed as in the past, allowing the reserve fund to increase by small annual additions, the prospects being such as to justify the directors in continuing to pay the present dividend of 7 per cent. I next raised the question whether the opening up of Manitoba and the North-West Provinces had depreciated, or was likely to depreciate, the value of cultivated farm lands in Western Ontario. The answer was in the negative. Having visited on my recent trip, and previous to reaching Peterborough, some of the Western States of the Union, and also gone on to Winnipeg, I had endeavoured to gather information to enable me to form a judgment on this point, and the conclusion I have been led to is that the [illegible] cultivated farms in Ontario still offer inducements [illegible] special advantages [illegible] lands in the Far West, [illegible] in respect of Peterborough district especially, that properties which had recently changed hands had brought the full prices of recent years. After being present at the meeting of the directors above mentioned, I had the privilege in the evening of spending some hours in going over the mortgage ledger, with the assistance of my friend Mr. Nicholls; the vice-president, Mr. Walton; and the manager, Mr. Poussette. Having satisfied my self on all points that occurred to me as calling for any examination, I received the personal assurance of each of these gentlemen that there was not at present in the ledger one single mortgage upon which there was the slightest probability of the company sustaining any loss whatever. This I thoroughly credit myself, and although it may be exceptional in the experience of such companies, it is to me explained by the fact that the company has persistently confined its operations to its own proper neighborhood, where it is thoroughly acquainted with all the applicants for loans, and their circumstances. They have been pressed repeatedly to extend the area of their operations in Ontario, and even Manitoba has been brought before them as a most desirable field for profitable investments, but all of these have hitherto been declined, they having as yet established only one agency—namely, at Lindsay, a town some 30 miles distant, and the centre of a fine district of country, well known to the directors. A study of the figures given in the four annual reports that have now been issued will show you the steady progress made by the company and the continuously expansive character of the business they are doing. The mortgage securities, with accrued interests, reported at first balance were £76,062. This has increased to £140,988 in the fourth report, just issued, or very nearly double in this short time, and in the face of the keen competition now manifested by loan companies in Canada, some of which advance money at lower rates. This very gratifying increase of business is due, I know, chiefly to the very high esteem in which the managers of the company are held, as gentlemen of the position and character who have practically proved themselves to be sound and reliable advisers not only in legal but in financial affairs, added to which they have the able co-operation of a board of directors composed of gentlemen well known throughout that district of country not only as wealthy and occupying leading positions in the community, but as cautious and successful in business matters. You will also notice that in the first report the sterling debentures were only £4,800, whereas they have now reached £58,650 sterling as at 31st May last, which is certainly gratifying within a period of four years, and indicates the amount of public confidence attained on this side of the water and the energy and success of our esteemed agents here, Messrs. Finlayson & Auld. I have to apologize for the length of this statement. There are, however, further matters, especially respecting the working of the company's business in this country. These I must leave to be dealt with by Mr. Finlayson, who is qualified to do so, and who, having been called to visit New York and Toronto on other business, very kindly took the trouble of going on to Peterborough and visiting the head offices since I was there. I have great pleasure in now making way for him.

Mr. FINLAYSON said—When it was arranged to delay calling our annual meeting until Mr. Heron's return from Canada, I had no idea that I would also have an opportunity so soon of revisiting Peterborough. In October last I found that it was necessary for me to go to New York and Toronto on business for clients of my firm; and when I was at Toronto, being only four hours' journey from Peterborough, I went on and spent a short time there. I am glad to say that I found everything there in a satisfactory state, and was surprised to find the advance the town had made in the 18 months that had passed since my last visit. The week before I was there, Colonel Haultain, one of our directors who took a great interest in the company, died rather suddenly, and I understand that his place at the board is to be taken by Mr. George A. Cox, president of the Midland Railway of Canada. The company is very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Cox, who is one of the ablest business men of the district, and who has shown his administrative talent in raising the Midland Railway, in a very few years, from the position of being almost a bankrupt concern to that of one of the most flourishing corporations in Canada. The Midland Railway was recently amalgamated with several other railways, and the head-offices of the Amalgamated Company have been removed to Peterborough; and a new railway is being constructed from Peterborough to Toronto, which will be opened for traffic in a few months. This has all tended to raise the value of property in and around Peterborough, and so increase the security of the investments of this company. I was very pleased to find that the same cautious policy is being pursued by the board as when the company began business, and that they confine the business of the company to the districts in the neighbourhood of Peterborough, where they can ascertain with certainty as to the position of the borrowers and the securities offered to the company. There has been a very fair demand for money in Canada, and I am glad to say that I have been able to dispose of debentures sufficient to meet the demand. Since the 31st May last I find that we have received on debentures £16,175, so that the total amount of debentures is now £74,825, making, with paid-up capital of the company about £150,000, which is safely and profitably employed, being invested in first-class mortgages, yielding a good rate of interest. The first issue of debentures, amounting to £20,000, falls due on the 1st December next, and we already know that a considerable number of these debentures will be continued with the company for a further period on favourable terms. I have to report that since our last meeting the committee of the Glasgow Stock Exchange have granted our application to have the company quoted on their official list, but there have been very few transactions, as the shareholders seem to have no desire to sell their shares. I was glad to find that the company is getting the offer of most of the best loans that are being negotiated in their district. This is chiefly on account of the good repute in which the directors and managers are held, which gives borrowers confidence that they will meet with fair and honourable treatment. I feel satisfied that the affairs of the company are in a satisfactory condition, and that the care and attention that is devoted to the business of the company by the directors and managers must give the British shareholders and debenture-holders great satisfaction. I have much pleasure in moving a vote of thanks to, and confidence in, our directors and managers in Peterborough.

Mr. HENRY COWAN seconded the motion, and it was unanimously agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN having asked if there were any questions to be put,

Mr. WILLIAM MATHIE said—I don't think you will be troubled with many questions. When everything is going on well with a public company there are generally very few questions put. That is my experience. However, I think we cannot allow this meeting to pass without expressing, as I wish to do for myself and, I am sure, for all the shareholders and debenture-holders present, our gratification at the very satisfactory statements which have been made by the chairman and Mr. Finlayson. I do not know anything more conclusive of the soundness of the investments of this company than the simple fact which the chairman has given—that from the beginning of the company's operations down to the 31st of May, a period of four years, not a single farthing of money has been lost. And I am quite convinced that the position of this company and the sound principle on which its business is conducted have only to be better known in order to enhance the value of the shares, and ensure a growing demand for its debentures. I quite agree with the directors, and with the views of the chairman in regard to the question of the reserve. Looking to what our investments are made upon, and to the fact that they are amply covered, it is difficult to see how any loss can result. An individual holding a thoroughly well-secured ground-annual or heritable bond in this country would never dream of setting aside some portion of his annual interest as reserve to meet losses. If the interest is not duly paid, he has the remedy in his own hands for selling the property and paying himself principal and interest. I think that is very much the position of the mortgages of this company.

Mr. JAMES WRIGHT proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Heron for the zeal, ability and diligence he had displayed in investigating the affairs of the company on the other side. Mr. Heron by that work had done himself very great credit. He had inspired, and ought to inspire, the whole of the shareholders with the utmost confidence in the management of the company. Mr. Heron deserved the very highest thanks they could possibly bestow for the very important work he had done on their behalf. (Applause.)

Mr. HENRY COWAN suggested that Messrs. Finlayson and Auld should be included in the vote of thanks.

Mr. WRIGHT adopted this suggestion, and moved in accordance therewith.

Mr. ALEXANDER MCDONALD seconded the motion, and it was carried unanimously.

The CHAIRMAN said—For myself, I have to thank you for the compliment you have now paid me. As to Mr. Finlayson being included in the same vote of thanks, I was hoping that that duty would be left for me to propose. I can well testify to the value and influence of his firm's services in connection with the company, and of his own well-known reputation as a professional man.

Mr. FINLAYSON—I have to thank you also for the compliment you have paid my firm. It is very gratifying to Mr. Auld and myself to feel that our labours are appreciated in this manner. My firm went into the work of this company as a matter of business, and before doing so we satisfied ourselves, as well as inquiries could satisfy us, that our business reputation would not suffer anything by connection with this company. The results have amply justified all our expectations. It has been a great pleasure to me to have been able to visit the district where the company's operations are carried on. It is very satisfactory to the shareholders and to ourselves that I have seen where our money is invested, and to know that it is safely and properly invested.

The meeting then separated.—Glasgow News.

THE
PACIFIC NORTHWEST!
Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Offers the best field for emigrants—viz.: a mild, equable, and healthy climate; cheap lands of great fertility, producing all varieties of Grain, Fruit, and Grasses in wonderful abundance; an inexhaustible supply of Timber; vast Coal Fields, and other mineral deposits; cheap and quick transportation by railroads and river navigation; direct commerce with all parts of the world, owing to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean.

NO DROUTHS, NO INSECT PESTS, NO HURRICANES, WHIRLWINDS, OR OTHER DESTRUCTIVE PHENOMENA.

The lands of the Pacific Northwest show an average yield of wheat per acre largely in excess of that of any other section of the United States.

No failure of crops has ever occurred.

Oregon wheat commands a higher price than that of any other country in the Liverpool market.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

The annual public missionary meeting will be held this evening, at which clergymen from a distance will be present to address the meeting.

POLICE COURT.

ABUSING HIS WIFE.

SATURDAY, Feb. 10.—In the evening Wm. Ringer was brought before Mr. T. Menzies, J. P., and Mr. A. Rutherford, J. P., on a charge of abusing his wife, and was remanded until Tuesday.

BREACH OF THE PEACE.

MONDAY, Feb. 12.—Mr. T. Menzies, J. P., presided at the Court this morning. James Riordan was charged with committing a breach of the peace by entering and taking possession of John Newton's house. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded until Tuesday.

The Cells.

The cells had a larger population than usual since the last report. On Saturday night five tramps rested their weary limbs in them and on Sunday night four more sought shelter there.

Court of Chancery.

The spring sitting of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice will commence in Peterborough, before the Hon. the Chancellor, on Friday, the 6th of April; at Cobourg on Monday, the 2nd of April, and at Lindsay on Friday, the 10th of April.

Spring Assizes.

The spring sitting of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice will commence in Peterborough before the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas on Monday, the 26th of March; at Lindsay on Monday, the 2nd of April, and at Cobourg on Monday, the 9th of April.

The Temperature.

We inadvertently omitted to notice in our last issue that on Friday night the thermometer of the Rev. V. Clementi registered 30° below zero. The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a.m., 15° above zero; at noon, 18° above zero, and at 3 p.m., 26° above.

Methodist Union.

The voting on the basis of union adopted by the Joint Committee of the Methodist bodies still goes on. Two hundred and fifty-four Boards of the Canada Methodist Church have reported upon the basis up to Saturday. 234 favour the basis, and 20 voted against. The aggregate votes are, for the basis, 2,969; against, 492.

Smith Circuit.

The Rev. A. E. St. Dalmas, of McMaster Hall, Toronto, has accepted the call extended to him by the Smith Circuit of the Baptist Church. He will enter upon the pastoral charge in May. In the meantime the circuit is supplied by the Rev. Mr. St. Dalmas on the first Sunday in each month, by the Rev. Mr. Lamb, one Sunday in each month, and by Mr. O. G. Langford, of Peterborough, on the remaining Sundays.

The London Lottery.

The drawing in the London Masonic lottery has been completed and the list of prize tickets made public, and the holders of tickets now rest easy, since the cause of their anxiety has been removed. The lucky ticket which drew the $15,000 was not, it appears, held by Mr. Williamson, as at first announced, but by Mr. D. Porter, of Ballyduff. Mr. R. E. Wood, of Peterborough, was the fortunate holder of a ticket which drew $25, which makes about $175 drawn in this town.

The Conservative Leader.

Mr. W. R. Meredith, the leader of the Conservatives in the Provincial Legislature, passed through here this morning on his way to address the electors at Keene in the afternoon and at Campbellford in the evening. Having a short time to spend here, as he left at ten o'clock for Keene, he was met by a large number of electors and workers in the Conservative cause, who were presented to him and made his acquaintance personally. Mr. Meredith then delivered a brief, but eloquent address, laying down the platform of the Conservative party, and afterwards departed for Keene, receiving a hearty parting cheer.

Prof. Florestan's Recitation.

The recitations by Prof. Leon Florestan of Paris, from the English and French Dramatists on Tuesday evening, in the Oddfellows Hall, Cluxton's Block, is strictly private, but those of literary tastes who desire to attend it, may obtain admission by applying to Prof. Florestan at the Caisse House, and subscribing their names. This is the only way of obtaining admittance. Prof. Florestan comes highly recommended. He gave a recitation at Hamilton, of which the Spectator says:—

> "The Professor recited the fifth act of Racine's great tragedy of Phedre in French, and fifth act of Othello in English, and third act of the Lady of Lyons. Prof. Florestan chose very strong and exacting pieces for his programme, but he was fully equal to them. His facial expression and elocutionary abilities are of the highest order, and his recitations last night were magnificently finished pieces of acting."

"Muldoon's Pic-Nic."

Gorman's Comedy Company presented "Muldoon's Pic-nic" in Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday night. The entertainment consisted of an olio made up of singing, dancing and music, and the pic-nic proper. "Ellwood" was the only vocalist—a male who impersonated a female character, and did it so well as almost to defy detection. But his singing was poor, and, although tuning his voice to a female key must have been difficulty, yet one cannot see why poor singing should be praised or even entertaining because the man who sings is dressed in other than his legitimate attire. The music that Miss Isabella Ward brought out of her unique instruments deserved the applause it received, and the dancing of Jas. K. Gibson was such as is rarely seen. In his "neat song and dances" he appeared to advantage, and was loudly applauded and encored. Of the pic-nic proper perhaps the least said the better. There were parts of it that were certainly laughable and many that were tedious and uninteresting. The attempt to portray Irish character—if it was intended for such—did not succeed, and the burlesque on the Irish character was pitiful. In one respect the "pic-nic" was a pronounced success, it had a house full to the doors.

The Grain Market.

The price of wheat fell a few cents to-day. 96c. to 97c. being paid for fall, and 98c. to $1.00 for spring wheat.

A SURE THING!

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-word movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. Nothing slighted,—except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcula which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1883.

THE CANDIDATES' SPEECHES.

THERE seems to be a misapprehension in the minds of some as to the mode of nominating the candidates at this election and of conducting the proceedings on nomination day. It may be well therefore to explain that there are no nomination papers as in a Dominion election, but that the candidates are proposed and seconded in open meeting presided over by the Returning Officer, and that the candidates then address the electors.

On Tuesday, February 20th, at 12 o'clock noon, the Sheriff will therefore hold a public meeting in the Court House for the purpose of receiving propositions for candidates for the West Riding of Peterborough, and the electors of the Riding should avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing the candidates explain their views upon the questions of the day and upon the rival policies of their respective leaders.

The electors of the East Riding of Peterborough will have a similar opportunity at Norwood at the same time.

HE "BOUND HIMSELF."

THE Cobourg World devotes another column to a defense of the action of its Reform friends in regard to the Boundary Award and to attacks upon Sir John Macdonald, the REVIEW, and Conservatives in general. But, as before, this blundering advocate gives away its own case. It says:—

> "Why, Mr. Mackenzie, first provided that the award should be final and secondly bound himself to ratify it by the necessary legislation."

The italics are our contemporary's own, and really convey the whole gist of the matter. It is true that Mr. Mackenzie bound himself to ratify the award by the "necessary legislation," but he bound no one else unless it were his colleagues. He was bound to submit the award to parliament for ratification and to stand or fall with it. But he could not bind parliament to pass the legislation admitted to be necessary, nor could he bind his successors to endeavour to coerce parliament. In its wisdom and within its undoubted jurisdiction parliament has refused to ratify the award, so that this compromise has passed from the field of practical politics. There remains, what should have been adopted at first, an appeal to the Courts.

The World, as if purposely to strengthen our case, quotes orders in Council which show that the agreement between the Dominion and Provincial Administrations was for concurrent action in obtaining such legislation as might be necessary for giving effect to the conclusion arrived at by the arbitrators. Well, Messrs. Mackenzie and Mowat could not carry out this agreement any more than they have been able to carry out their agreement to compell Canadians to give all the profits of the manufactured articles they consume to foreigners. In both cases parliament and the people declined to follow the lead of the Reformers.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WE learn from the Globe that one of Mr. Mowat's most creditable deeds was the passing of the Administration of Justice Act. Well, the judges, who probably know more about the law than the Globe, are of opinion that these Acts are an absurd jumble, that they cannot understand them or even hope to live to understand them.

⁂

THE Globe informs us that the River and Streams Bill "provided full compensation to everybody whom it interfered with." Mr. Blake, perhaps a better legal authority than the Globe, has publicly declared that the bill does not provide adequate compensation.

⁂

THE Kingston British Whig, a staunch Reform journal and advocate of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, says:—

> "The Minister of Education has nothing to do with their (the teachers) engagement by the School Boards. He cannot tell at this moment what is the political faith of the scores of teachers at service in this district, and it is none of his business. His duties do not embrace an enquiry into such details."

We are glad to find that the Whig and Mr. Crooks hold such correct opinions, but Mr. Hardy differs from us and them, for he believes that one of the chief duties of himself and his partisan inspectors is to pry into the political views of the license holders.

⁂

As a minor instance of the manner in which Mr. Hardy has dishonestly manipulated figures in his campaign pamphlet under the guise of his annual official report on Liquor Licenses, we may point to the fact that by choosing periods to suit his purpose he endeavors to show that the increase in the number of licenses under the Crooks Act is only 195. From his own figures however we gather that in 1877 there were only 3,676 licenses issued, and in 1881 as many as 4,133, or a real increase of 457, besides a further addition made last year, of which he has not found it convenient as yet to give the details.

Presentation.

A pleasing event took place on Monday evening at the Bible Christain Church, Murray street. Mr. John Millar, brother of bandmaster F. W. Millar, who, for a number of years, was one of the most useful members of the choir, was presented with a valuable watch chain and a gentleman's dressing case, on the eve of his departure for the United States. Miss Jeannie Butcher read the address, which was a very appropriate and feeling one, and Miss Katie Irwin and Mr. Richardson presented the gifts. The Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, the pastor, made a short address, eulogizing Mr. Millar and expressing his deep regret at losing so useful and faithful a member both of the church and choir, and wishing him all the happiness in the future he so well deserved. The Fire Frigade Band, of which Mr. Millar was an old member, also showed their appreciation of his services in the past by presenting him with a valuable silver watch, together with an address. About eight o'clock the members met in their hall, Simcoe street, and all things being in readiness, Mr. Millar was sent for. On his arrival, Mr. John Fraser, read the address and also made the presentation on behalf of the band. He spoke of the high esteem in which Mr. Millar was always held by the band, and hoped in his new home he would find friends as dear as those whom he was leaving behind. Mr. Millar, who was taken by surprise, made a neat speech, expressing regret at parting from those who had shown him such true kindness since he came amongst them, and assuring them that he would always remember them and the happy days he had spent with the members of the Fire Brigade Band. He leaves to-night on the 6.40 train for his new home in West Point, Nebraska. We join with Mr. Millar's many friends in wishing him bon voyage.

A $10,000 Romance!

A true romance in real life recently too place in Louisville, Ky. The circumstances were these: Miss Alcene Vanderoept, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of our well known and esteemed druggist, had a well known young gentleman, also of Louisville, paying her attentions, and both being possessed of a speculative spirit and unknown to the other, purchased a $1 ticket in the commonwealth Distribution Company. It so happened that each took a half ticket with the same number, and when the drawing terminated they had drawn $5,000 each, there number having drawn the $10,000 prize. When the young gentleman called to tell his good fortune, his surprise was great to find his sweetheart was also entitled to congratulations. Of course, a wedding soon followed, for it was self-evident they were intended for each other, and the young gentleman is now the owner of a prosperous business, and at his request we refrain from giving his name also. THE EFFECTS OF THE STORM.

LONDON, Feb 13.—Port Crissie Bay, St. Mary's, is strewn with wreckage. A portion shows that a brig was dashed to pieces. It is feared that the crew was drowned. A vessel off Lowestoff has evidently foundered with all hands. There is hardly a town in England unaffected by the effects of the storm, either by flood or wind. The sodden condition of the land has prevented farmers sowing, while others had seed completely spoiled.

DISCONTENTED POLICE.

LIMERICK, Feb. 13.—Discontent among the police is renewed, and a strike is threatened.

A GLOOMY OUTLOOK.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The Times bewails farming prospects. It says the crisis in field work exists. It is water everywhere. Good sowing time is wanted, and it is surmised that much of the autumn sowing is rotten, and all Europe is in a similar condition.

THE CABINET RESIGN.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—All the members of the Cabinet resigned in consequence of the action of the Senate on the expulsion bill. The President requested them to remain in their posts for the present.

SEEKING REVENGE.

SOUTARI, Feb. 13.—Mountaineers attacked the Turkish guard house here out of revenge for the death of two comrades, and were repulsed after an obstinate fight. Twenty Turks were killed and wounded.

AMERICAN.

THE MISSISSIPPI FLOOD.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 13.—It is the opinion of those best able to judge that the Mississippi river here will rise within two feet of the great overflow of last year, when the whole country between Cairo and New Orleans was a watery waste. Many breaks in the levees down the river made last year are reported unrepaired.

STILL RISING.

STAWNEETOWN, Ill., Feb. 13.—The river is rising an inch and a quarter every hour, and the people are moving into the second stories.

SIGNS OF A RAILWAY WAR.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—The east bound freight pool is disturbed owing to the reports that some roads are taking grain freights to New York at 25 cents, a reduction of five cents. The reason assigned is the open cut from Peoria, from which point the grain is taken at twenty-eight cents, the freight rate being thirty-three.

FLOODS IN TENNESSEE.

NASHVILLE, Feb. 13.—The Cumberland River is rising here one and one-half inches per hour. It is now within fifteen feet of the highest point of last year. The water is over the low lands on the Upper Cumberland, and great damage is being done to the wheat fields and lumber along the banks. Several families in the lower parts of the city have been driven from their homes. All the low lands east of the bank for miles down the river are inundated.

TROUBLE SETTLED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—It is stated that the troubles among the Indians in the Indian Territory has been settled.

AN AWFUL SCENE.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 13.—The dam protecting the low lands in the eastern part of the city broke at midnight, letting down sixty feet of water upon twenty blocks and dwellings. The scene is described as awful. Thirty lives are reported as lost. The houses are small and are occupied by poor people.

THE OHIO FLOODS

CINCANNATTI, Feb. 13.—The extent to which business suffered is shown by the fact that only eight dollars worth of stamps were sold from the Revenue office yesterday. The sales usually amount to over forty thousand dollars daily. Fifteen thousand people are imprisoned in tenements here by the flood. Thirty thousand workmen are thrown out of regular employment. Distressing incidents here and in other inundated localities continue to be reported.

THE CRUEL WATER.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 13.—The river at eleven o'clock was sixty four feet eleven inches, and was then rising slowly. The weather is cloudy and warm. The police report no increase in crime, in consequence of the lack of gas last night. One brick dwelling fell this morning, but no lives were lost. There is much sickness among the imprisoned people in the tenement houses. Relief boats are visiting all such places, and ample means to prevent suffering is being provided. It is reported that the freight and passenger depots in Cincinnati street, L. R. R. in the western part of the city were undermined and fell into the surrounding water which is from thirty to fifty feet deep, carrying one hundred or more people with it. The depots were one story, frame.

WEST PETERBOROUGH!

ENCOURAGING CONSERVATIVE MEETING LAST NIGHT.

MOWAT'S GOVERNMENT ON TRIAL BEFORE THE TRIBUNAL OF THE PEOPLE.

A Large Audience Addressed by Mr. Carnegie—A Plea for the Government by Mr. Bertram and a Reply.

The meeting called in the interest of Mr. Carnegie's candidature, which was held in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday night, was largely attended. The electors turned out in large numbers and packed the hall.

MR. JAS. STEVENSON occupied the chair, and on taking the chair invited any person who was present for the purpose of representing Mr. Campbell to take a seat on the platform.

MR. BERTRAM said that he was present for that purpose, but he preferred to remain where he was.

THE CHAIRMAN then made a few remarks. He said that he had no confidence in the present Ontario Government, as they had pursued a policy of centralization of which he could not approve. An authority had said, "give me the education of the children and I will mould your parties," and the Ontario Government, believing in the idea, had seized upon the control of of the educational system. They had also taken from the municipalities the license patronage and they now appointed bailiffs, Division Court Clerks, Commissioners for granting licenses and License Inspectors. These things had been worried from the municipalities, and if this policy were continued there would soon be no need of municipal councils. If a Conservative Government had done those things the present Reformers would certainly have loudly condemned them. They never appoint a man to an office, no matter how insignificant the office was, unless he was a supporter of theirs. He also found fault with their railway policy. When the Ontario & Quebec Railway Company applied to the Ontario Legislature for a charter to build a railway from Toronto to Ottawa they were refused, and to get it they had to go to the Dominion Parliament. No money had been expended in this county by them, unless it was back near where Mr. Peck lived. The Reformers did not wish Mr. Carnegie to go to the legislature for fear he would be too inquisitive about their actions. It was even rumoured that Mr. Peck was to fill Mr. Wood's place as Provincial Treasurer. He hardly believed the rumor, yet he thought the Government even capable of taking Mr. Peck in. He then introduced Mr. Carnegie.

MR CARNEGIE was received with loud applause. After a few introductory remarks, he said that it was the duty of every person who sought the suffrages of the electors to publicly explain their views on the questions of the day. He did not believe in a private canvass, as every elector should unsolicited and uncoerced vote as he thought best. That had always been his position, but when a candidate's opponent made a personal canvass he was obliged to do the same, and if there were any voters whom he had been unable to see personally, he hoped that they would not vote against him on that account. In this campaign there were a number of issues to be decided. The Mowat Government appeared to wish the electors to decide chiefly on the Boundary Award question and what they termed Provincial Rights. Perhaps one object in bringing these questions forward so prominently was to hide other issues of importance. With regard to the Boundary question, it must be borne in mind that they were not now trying the Dominion Government. That was done last June, and the electors endorsed what that Government had done. The electors having approved of the action of the Dominion Parliament in refusing to ratify the award, it was not likely that they would do it inside of the next five years. It was to the interest of Ontario that this question should be settled inside of that time, but Mr. Mowat thought different and was determined to hold to the award, although it was worth nothing. Mr. Meredith took the position that the Dominion Government's proposal to refer the question to the Privy Council should be accepted. There Ontario would get full justice. He called upon Mr. Campbell's representative to show a better plan to adopt than that, and if they could not do so they should accept this one. From the time this matter first came up Sir John Macdonald had always held that it was a legal question, and that it could only be decided by the highest court in the realm. He read a resolution adopted by the Dominion Parliament in March by a large majority setting forth that the question should be referred to the Privy Council, or to the Supreme Court of Canada in the first instance, as the Ontario Government might prefer. That is the position of the Dominion Government on the question, and Mr. Meredith gives no uncertain sound on what his policy will be if the electors return a majority to support him, as in the Provincial Legislature he moved a resolution regretting that no steps had been taken by the Ontario Government to have a final settlement of the matter by referring it to the Privy Council, and placing the responsibility for the evils arising from the question not being settled on the Ontario Government. It was for Mr. Campbell's representative to show to-night a better policy than that of Mr. Meredith for settling the difficulty. The next question to which he referred was the matter of disallowance. Mr. Mowat claimed that our rights had been invaded by the disallowance of the Streams Bill. It could not be disputed that the power of veto was vested in the Dominion Government by the fathers of Confederation, with the concurrence of both political parties. Out of thirty-four bills disallowed by the Dominion Government, eighteen had been disallowed during the four and a half years of Mr. Mackenzie's reign and sixteen during the eleven years in which Sir John Macdonald had been in power, and in making up this sixteen the Streams Bill was counted twice. They had been told that Manitoba would be ranged alongside of Ontario on this question against the Dominion Government, but instead of that Province having been swept by disallowance it had been swept in the opposite direction. If the Ontario Government thought that the veto power was wrong, they should have appealed to the Imperial authorities to have it taken from the Dominion, and their failure to announce such a policy showed that they were afraid to abide by the consequences of their position. The Mowat Government was now on trial, and a more unrighteous bill had never been put on record than this Streams Bill which they had passed. Next to our rights of life and limb are our rights of private property. The Streams Bill was bad in several ways. It overrided the laws of the land, as the case which it effected was before the Courts. In undertook to state that a law which had been on the statute book for years, and had been re-enacted by Mr. Mowat, meant directly opposite to what the Courts had decided it meant. It was contrary to just legislation, as it took away private rights, and private property without compensation. It was also unnecessary. There was now a law in existance, without the Streams Bill, which would give a man in Mr. Caldwell's position all the rights any honest man should claim. This stream was not floatable, and it had been so decided by the judges. If it had been it would have been as free to anyone as the Otonabee. This bill was unnecessary and Sir John Macdonald did right to disallow it, as any man taking out timber could use a floatable stream, and the improvements on non-floatable streams could be used as he had before mentioned. The principle of the bill was contrary to the laws of equity and to the principles laid down by the Reformers themselves when in power at Ottawa. In 1874 they disallowed a land purchase act passed by the Legislature of Prince Edward Island, because it did not provide for proper arbitration, and yet Mr. Caldwell's present friends, the Mowat Government, was the tribunal which was to fix the tolls Mr. McLaren was to receive for his improvements. They refused to assent to a bill amending the land purchase act, passed by the Prince Edward Island Legislature, because it was retrospective in effect; because the case was then in course of litigation, and because it made no provision for compensation. The Streams Bill was retrospective in effect—it put a different construction on a law what the judges did; the case it effected was in course of litigation, and it made no provision for compensation. Another bill was disallowed by the Hon. E. Blake because it was wrong in principle and likely to cause a feeling of insecurity. The Streams Bill would apply to the creek which flowed through this town, and if it should become law anyone wishing to use it to float ties or other timber down it could remove all buildings which obstructed the passage—could remove Mr. Hamilton's foundry—without compensation, as the only compensation provided for was for improvements made for the purpose of making the stream floatable. Another bill, passed by the Manitoba Legislature regarding surveys, was disallowed by Mr. Blake in 1876, because in his opinion it was premature and inexpedient at that time. Had not the Manitoba Legislature as good a right to judge of that question as the Ontario Legislature of the streams question? Another Manitoba act respecting half-breeds was disallowed by Mr. Blake, especially because, in his opinion, a previous act made full provision for the half-breeds. Mr. Blake, in Ottawa, knew better than their own Legislature in Manitoba. That was the record of these gentlemen on disallowance. The Streams Bill was contrary to justice, and contrary to the interests of every man in the country. There was not a man living on Bethune street but would have preferred to have received full compensation at once from the railway running on that street, in place of receiving toll, which in some cases they had been obliged to run after, and toll was all the compensation this bill provided for. The question of patronage was also a very important one in this Province. It was the duty of every legislature to divest itself of patronage, which had caused the taking of valuable lives in the United States. But instead of doing that the Mowat Government were grasping all the patronage they could. Their own chief organ hinted that they were going to take the appointment of school trustees. In the Division Courts alone they had taken the appointment of 600 officers, and by the License Act they had increased the number of these appointments to 900. They had taken the appointment of the gaolers, and were securing all the patronage they could to reward services rendered in contests like this one. He pointed to the course of the Sanfield Macdonald Government, which had acted differently. But Mr. Mowat said that the County Judges did not appoint proper officers in the Division Court. Suppose this was sometimes the case, they had a Division Court Inspector and on his report they could dismiss an improper servant and call upon the judge to appoint another. Then it could not be said that they dismissed a man to make a place for a political friend. No Government at Toronto, whatever might be its private opinions, had the right to use the power placed in their hands to coerce the electors in the Dominion election. Yet this had been unblushingly done in the contest in June last, and Mr. Roxburgh boasted of it at Norwood. After the elections by which the Mackenzie Government had been ousted Sir Richard Cartwright boasted that with the aid of the Mowat Government they would regain their positions, and they tried to do it with the money of the people last June and failed. In the Legislature Mr. Mowat and his supporters voted down a resolution stating that it was inexpedient for the Ontario Government to assume a hostile attitude towards a policy in Dominion politics adopted by the people. He was in favor of a readjustment of the franchise, as the law as it now stands was unjust to a great many. He found no fault with the fact that the sons of farmers had been given the franchise, but it was unjust that those who had an equal right to it should be deprived of it. The Mowat Government had been in power twelve years, and in 1876 they extended the franchise to farmer's sons, but since then they had found no time to deal further with the question. The Conservative convention adopted a resolution favoring the extension of the franchise, but when the House met there was no reference to the question in the Speech from the Throne. The Grit convention assembled, and a semi-official draft of their platform contained no reference to it. At the last moment, however, they put in a resolution favoring an extension, because, as the mover said, they wished to "catch the coon," that is the young men's votes. This resolution was only brought in when they were told that many of their friends would desert them if they did not get justice. Still they introduced no measure at the late session to extend the franchise, and voted down two resolutions in favor of it. What was their policy, and to whom did they intend to extend the franchise? Was it an extension like the income vote, which had so many conditions that it was not worth a row of pins. They would not let the people know what they intended. In 1871 one of the planks in the platform of the Reform party was that no member of the Legislature should be appointed to an office in his own county, yet they had so appointed seven; and another was that no member should expend public money in his county, yet Mr. Peck and Mr. Murray had done it. What confidence, then, could be placed in their professions? Mr. Meredith moved two amendments to the Election Act last session, for the extensions and lowering of the franchise, but they burked them both by raising points of order which, of course, the Speaker sustained. With such a record no confidence would be placed in what they would do for the young men. He then read two questions which had been handed to him, which asked whether he had, when in the Legislature, voted for or against the grants to the denominational colleges, and whether they were all in the same position? He replied that he had promised the electors to support these grants and he did so to the best of his ability, and that they were all in exactly the same position. He read an extract from the Examiner of March 5th, 1868, which showed that he had opposed the discontinuance of the grants to the colleges. That was a sufficient answer to those who, for the purpose of making the electors believe that he should not be trusted, charged him with not fulfilling that promise. He resumed his seat amid applause.

MR. BERTRAM, on coming to the platform, was received with cheers. He said that he stood before them as the representative of Mr. Campbell. As to the charge of centralization in educational matters, he said that Mr. Carnegie had voted that the educational system should be under the control of a Minister. In regard to the Ontario & Quebec Charter, he said that the Ontario Government had given a charter to the Toronto & Ottawa road, and that it would have been unjust to have chartered a rival line. Mr. Campbell was not a politician, and he did not believe he ever hoped to be a politician, although Mr. Carnegie was, and he was willing that he should have the advantage it gave him. It appeared to him, from what Mr. Carnegie had said, that both parties were bidding for votes on the franchise question. The resolution moved by Mr. Meredith on that question was in amendment to a motion to go into a Committee of Supply, which constituted a vote of want of confidence. Mr. Carnegie had blamed the Mowat Government for keeping Ontario out of its territory, but he contended that the Dominion Government was responsible for that. He quoted from authorities who said that the Province reached to the Red River, and even to the Pacific Ocean. The Mowat Government and the Mackenzie Government had appointed arbitrators on the question, and agreed that the decision should be final, and he held that the present Dominion Government was bound by that agreement. The Dominion Government could not settle the matter now, as if that Government and the Ontario Government should agree to refer the question to the Privy Council, it could not be done without the consent of Manitoba. Even if it was referred to the Privy Council, perhaps its decision would not be accepted. The Province should speak unitedly in favour of the award, by electing no candidate who opposed it, and the electors of this Riding should unite in voting for Mr. Campbell, who would stand shoulder to shoulder with Mr. Mowat. If they did not receive justice they could carry their complaint to the foot of the throne. Mr. Carnegie in his address spoke of ex post facto Legislation. Perhaps many of those who read it thought it was some terrible thing. He read from two acts which he said contained ex post facto legislation, but for which Mr. Carnegie had voted. The Streams Bill did not confiscate property. If timber was to be brought down the creek in Peterborough all that would be be necessary would be to build a slide for it. The Act was simply a declaratory one, giving every one the right to float timber down streams, and it still left Mr. McLaren's improvements in his possession. The number of Acts disallowed by the Mackenzie Government made no difference, the question was, were the Acts that were disallowed proper ones? He supposed that the Manitoba Act which they disallowed infringed on Dominion rights. Were we competent to legislate for ourselves? That was the question. It was in the power of the Ontario Legislature to pass this Act, and the Dominion Government had no right to review that Legislation, although they possessed the technical power to do so. He referred to the National Policy, which the Imperial Government did not disallow, although they were unfriendly to it, as an analogous case. He read from a speech delivered by Sir John Macdonald, in which he said that Provincial Legislatures had rights which should not be interfered with, so long as they legislated on matters within their jurisdiction, and that the Dominion House should not interfere with every law passed by the Legislatures of the Provinces. There were other matters he would like to refer to, but time would not permit. These two questions, the Boundary Award and Provincial Rights, were the chief ones to be decided. He resumed his seat amid cheers.

A number of persons here left the hall, followed by the jeers of the audience that remained.

MR. CARNEGIE said that he was not to blame for Mr. Bertram not having equal time at his disposal at this meeting, as immediately after Mr. Campbell was nominated he had written to him to make arrangement for holding joint meetings at which each party would have equal time to speak, but Mr. Campbell declined to make such an arrangement. It was true that they all desired to see the late Mr. Scott succeed with the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, but at the time that the Ontario and Quebec Company applied to the Legislature for a charter the Toronto and Ottawa charter was in the hand of the Grand Trunk Railway, and when Mr. Gooderham and Mr. Hickson were summoned to Ottawa to give evidence on the point they both conveniently took sick. When the Ontario and Quebec is built, in place of being thirty miles back, we would be in as good a position as Port Hope. If an amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply implied want of confidence in the Government, then Mr. Mowat and his followers had voted want of confidence in themselves last session—perhaps the best vote they had given. He did not remember that the motion he supported in Committee on education called for the appointment of a Minister, but it did call for a closer scrutiny of the education finances. However, if he did support the appointment of a Minister of Education, he was twelve years older now and the administration of the educational affairs by Mr. Mowat's Minister had given him a great deal more light on the subject. He disbelieved in ex post facto legislation, but he could not carry in his head all the clauses in the acts passed years ago. What right, he asked, are we deprived of by the Dominion Government? These very extracts which Mr. Bertram had read gave us more territory than the award gave us. Did Mr. Bertram, as a British subject, mean to say that we would not get our just rights from the highest court in the realm? He talked of appealing to the foot of the throne, and that practically was going to the Privy Council, and if Mr. Mowat still had a majority after these elections he believed that he would then accept the Dominion Government's proposition. The Ontario Legislature passed an Act ratifying the award before it was made, but Mr. Mackenzie neglected to fulfil his agreement with Mr. Mowat and do the same. What was the use of reserving it for ratification, if they could not then approve of it or reject it? There were those thought the decision of the Privy Council would be binding, but suppose it would not, why did not the Ontario Government accept the Dominion Government's proposal and ask for legislation to make it binding? Mr. Mowat would not do that, because he knew it would be binding and he wished to keep the question open so it could be handled in the elections. The Reformers professed to look upon arbitrators' awards as sacred, but Mr. Mowat had rejected the decision of Her Majesty the Queen when he was appointed arbitrator to choose the location of the Dominion capital. According to the extracts Mr. Bertram read to-night, according to Mr. Mowat and Sir Francis Hincks, one of the arbitrators, the award did not give us our rights, and we were not afraid to go the foot of the throne and get our just rights. Why did not Mr. Bertram read the whole of Sir John Macdonald's opinion on disallowance? Sir John had said that any bill that was injurious to the people of the Dominion should be disallowed, and this bill came under that head. He read from the Streams Bill, showing that it applied to our creek in the way he had mentioned, yet it made no provision for compensation to property owners, as the only compensation at all provided for was for improvements made for the purpose of making the stream floatable. He read from the judgment delivered by the Chief Justice, showing that the bill was contrary to the law which Mr. Mowat himself had re-enacted. Timber limits had been offered for sale by the Ontario Government, and lumbermen went to purchase it, with the expectation that they would have to pay $1.50 dues. After the sale had been completed, the dues had been lowered one-half, and the Province had lost $365,000. The lands the Manitoba Act disallowed by Mr. Blake dealt with were private property, the same as the Streams Bill dealt with private property. As to the Imperial Government not disallowing the National Policy, he had no doubt the Reformers would have thrown up their hats if it had been disallowed, but the Imperial Government had not done so as a matter of expediency, although they possessed the power. He then stated if anyone wished to ask a question he would answer it.

MR. G. A. COX asked for the privilege of saying a few words, and it was granted. He said that he could defend the Government on their railway policy. The Toronto and Ottawa charter had been sold for a large sum to Mr. Gooderham, and steps had been taken to build the line, and just then the same Legislature which had chartered that road was asked to grant a charter to a rival line, and the Mowat Government did right when they refused to grant it, and he was bound to defend them for having done so. It was his desire that the workshops of the road should be located in Peterborough. He defended the arrangement with the property owners on Bethune street, who never had trouble in getting their toll since he had control of the road. He had never opposed the Toronto and Ottawa road, which he hoped to soon see completed and Peterborough on a through line from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

MR. CARNEGIE said that he had only referred to the property on Bethune street to show the difference between a cash down payment and a toll system, and at one time the property owners had to run after the toll. He was willing to give Mr. Cox credit for all that he had done, and Mr. Cox would say that he had always been willing to assist him. There was no use, however, of us shutting our eyes to the fact that the Toronto and Ottawa charter had been purchased by the Grand Trunk, and that the Ontario Government refused to grant a charter to a line that would compete with the Grand Trunk, and they were compelled to go to Ottawa to get it. If he was elected he would never try to depress one in order to raise another, and would alway try to do only what would be in the interest of the people. He believed pretty much in free trade in railways. We had to thank those Bleus whom the Reformers are always denouncing for a charter for a rival line to the Grand Trunk. He had always done his best for the interests of Peterborough, and would continue to do so whether they elected him or not. He had the influence of the Grit officials against him, and the influence of prospective officials, for the best office in the county was dangled before the eyes of expectant persons, who solicited votes on the ground that it would enable them to secure it. He had other influences against him, but he asked the electors to cast their votes in the interest of the country. He again resumed his seat amid cheers.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman and loud cheers were given for the Queen and Mr. Carnegie. Three cheers were proposed for Mr. Campbell, but they were faintly given and dwindled out on the third.

The meeting then broke up.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the

WEST RIDING

OF THE

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor having seen fit to dissolve the Legislature of this Province and to issue writs for the election of a new Legislature on the shortest possible notice, I beg respectfully to solicit your votes to return me as your representative in the Assembly about to be elected.

In doing so I beg to state:—

That I am opposed to the policy of the Mowat Government whereby we are being kept out of our just territorial rights, and that, if elected, I shall do all in my power to secure for the Province the boundaries assigned to it at Confederation.

I am opposed to all ex post facto legislation and I am convinced that it is contrary to sound policy as well as justice that any man's property should be taken from him without full and adequate compensation, to be ascertained by an independent and fairly constituted tribunal.

I believe there is now on the Statute Book of this Province all or nearly all the legislation required to protect the public interests and to provide for the acquisition of non-floatable streams and improvements which may have been made thereon upon terms at once just to the lumbermen and to the owners thereof.

I am opposed to the unnecessary centralization of patronage where it can be used to influence the electorate, believing that such centralization is dangerous to the freedom of the people and calculated to produce the same evils in Canada as it has already produced in the neighboring States.

I am opposed to any Government using the power vested in them for the time being by the people to prevent a free expression of public opinion upon any subject, and especially upon a subject with which they as a Government have nothing to do, as was done by the Mowat Government and their officials in the last Dominion election in regard to the tariff policy adopted by the people.

I am opposed to the reckless and unnecessary extravagance of the Mowat Government whereby the capital of the Province is being rapidly dissipated and its ordinary expenditure increased to a point which cannot be maintained without a resort to direct taxation in one form or another.

With a view to bringing the ordinary expenditure within the ordinary income of the Province, without curtailing those expenditures which have a direct bearing upon local taxation, I shall advocate a substantial reduction in the number of the representatives of the Assembly, greater economy in the departments and generally such reforms as may be calculated to reduce those expenditures from which the people are deriving no direct advantage, believing that they are entitled to and desire the cheapest Government that suffices to regulate their affairs.

I am opposed to making the liquor traffic the shuttlecock of any political party, and will advocate and support every measure calculated to place the issue of licenses and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto in the hands of those least likely to be influenced by political considerations.

I am in favor of such a readjustment of the franchise as will give to all classes of the community that voice in the government of the country to which they are entitled and of which certain classes are now unjustly deprived by the present Government, notwithstanding that they have had ample opportunities of remedying this injustice.

The educational department under a political head not having proved a success, I shall favor a return to the non-political position which the department occupied when under the able management of the late Dr. Ryerson.

I believe that too much attention and too much money has been spent on what is called higher education and upon educational theorizing to the neglect of the three R's; that the cost of maintaining public schools—especially in the outlying districts—has been unnecessarily increased thereby, and that the people are not deriving the advantages which they should do from the large amounts annually expended nominally for educational purposes, but in too many instances to little practical advantage.

There are, no doubt, several other questions to which allusion might be made, but this address is already too long, and as my views on the public questions of the day are already pretty well known to most of you, and especially as I hope to have the opportunity, between this and polling day, of discussing the issues of the campaign with my opponent in your presence, I shall conclude by expressing the hope that my long and active connection with the public affairs of the Town and County of Peterborough, my practical knowledge of its agricultural and manufacturing interests and the manner in which I have hitherto discharged the public duties with which I have from time to time been entrusted have been such as to secure for me the hearty and active support of not only those who agree with me, but also of those electors who believe it to be the duty of a representative to try and impress his views upon his party leaders and not simply to vote as directed by them.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

Peterborough, February 5th, 1883.

BRADLAUGH'S proposed demonstration at the opening of Parliament promises to result in a great exhibition of his strength among the masses. Grave fears of serious disturbances are entertained. If the Conservative leaders are silent he will be allowed to take the oath when he presents himself at the table of the House.

THE cause of death. It is known almost to a certainty that in fatal diseases the individual dies either by the brain, heart or lungs. They free the system from all impurities; cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. In large bottles at 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Camping out in the pine woods has been recommended to consumptive patients, and the Rev. Dr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, mentions a remarkable cure from treatment of this nature. Every one afflicted with pulmonary disease cannot make it convenient to camp out, nor is it necessary, when all the benefits of the treatment are procurable by using Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum, a scientific preparation, which presents, in a concentrated and agreeable form, all the virtue of this nature medicine gum. As a cure for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat and Hoarseness it is invaluable. Sold by all chemists. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

An immense area of very fertile Railroad and Government Lands, within easy reach of the trunk lines of the Northern Pacific R.R., the Oregon Railway & Navigation, and the Oregon & California RR. Co's and their numerous branches in the great Valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries, are now offered for sale at Low Prices, and on Easy Terms, or open to pre-emption and Homestead Entry.

The great movement of population to the Columbia region now in progress will be enormously increased by the completion of the Northern Pacific RR. and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's systems. This renders certain a rapid increase in the value of Lands now open to purchase or to entry under the United States Land Laws.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1883.

Personal.

Mr. D. Henthorn returned on Monday night from Manitoba.

The Cells.

Two tramps lodged in the cells last night and had the place to themselves.

The Grain Market.

Fall wheat is quoted to-day at 95 cents per bushel, and spring wheat at from 95 cents to $1.00.

A Literary Soiree.

This evening Prof. Leon Florestan, of Paris, France, will give recitations from the English and French dramatic writings in the Odd fellows Hall, Cluxton's Block. Those who attend, judging from the notices Prof. Florestan has received from the press, will enjoy a rare literary treat.

Missionary Meeting.

The annual missionary meeting was held in George Street Methodist Church on Monday night. Prof. Campbell occupied the chair, and eloquent and convincing addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Bishop, of Reach, and the Rev. Mr. Shorey, of Belleville. The annual report was read by the Rev. Mr. Shaw, and good music was provided by the choir of the church. The meeting was fairly attended and was a successful one.

A Valuable Car Load.

A car load of clover seed containing 740 bushels was shipped yesterday from Peterborough to England, the cost of which with the bags was over $6,300. Would it not be well if farmers would turn their attention more to growing this article? It pays them a better profit than any other crop; the demand is always good and it sells readily at good prices. The shipper of this car shipped twelve or fourteen cars last year, and this year, owing to the partial failure of the Canadian crop, has been shipping largely from the States. He says Canadian clover is better than the American, being bold, plump, purple seed. It is gratifying to know that we have such large dealers in Peterborough, making it one of the best markets in Canada for the sale of produce. The transactions of one of our merchants last year exceeded considerably over half a million of dollars, and he is only one of the large dealers and shippers in Peterborough.

IF YOU WANT large fresh oysters dished up in good style, go to T. Darcy's Restaurant and Oyster Parlour.

The Temperature.

The Rev. V. Clementi's thermometer registered 12½° below zero last night. The thermometer at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's registered as follows to-day:—At 8 a. m., 4° above zero; at noon, 28° above zero, and at 3 p. m., 28° above.

The Weather Probabilities.

This morning was foggy and cold and to-day is clear and fine. The weather probabilities for this district for the following 24 hours, as reported from Toronto at 1 a. m. to-day, by the Great North western Telegraph Company, are as follows:—Fair to clear, moderate south-westerly to south-easterly winds; mild weather; during to-day a general thaw will probably set in throughout southern Ontario.

Mr. Meredith at Keene.

Mr. W. R. Meredith was accompanied from Peterborough to Keene by Dr. McCrea and Messrs. C. W Sawers, J. O'Meara and H. Croft. He arrived at Keene shortly after noon, and [illegible] received at the Victoria Hotel by a la[illegible]ber of gentlemen. After dinner h[illegible] an address in the Town [illegible] large audience of the representa[illegible] the district, speaking for upwards [illegible] and a half and explaining the policy of [illegible]tion. He was warmly received by a [illegible] audience. Mr. Meredith then proceeded to Campbellford, being accompanied to Hastings by Mr. C. W. Sawers, where he was met by a deputation from Campbellford.

FROM ALL OVER.

A FARMER named Moran has been murdered at Stokestown, Roscommon county.

THE insurgent Bheels have been completely routed by British forces near Ali Rajpur.

THE Nihilists are again springing into prominence and threaten by some terrible demonstration to prevent the coronation of the Czar.

THE Western Union Telegraph Company on Saturday secured a lease for ninety-nine years of the Montreal Union company's lines, etc.

A MAN supposed to have been connected with the Phœnix Park murders was arrested at Swansea, Wales, on the arrival of the Dublin steamer.

ONE OF OUR BEST CITIZENS would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and that it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. For sale by John McKee, druggist.

A SERVANT of Lynch, Deputy-Lieutenant of Barna, was shot in the head from behind a wall to-day while unharnessing a horse, after bringing Lynch's family home from church. The assassin escaped.

SMITH'S GERMAN WORM REMEDY.—R. Morrison, of the Dominion Electrotype Foundry, 507 Craig Street, Montreal, says one dose of Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy removed 13 large worms from his child 4 years old.

A REFEREE in a football match in England, recently, was beaten by partisans of a club against whom he had ruled, and Bell's Life realizes that "the position of a referee is not an enviable one."

LITTLE BY LITTLE.—The constant dropping of water will wear away even the hardest stone. So the constant irritation of a cough will so wear upon the lungs as to induce incurable Consumption. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will cure the worst cough, speedily and effectually.

TRINITY COLLEGE, Dublin, through Rev. Dr. Houghton, who visited Montreal during the American Science Association's meetings, has presented McGill University with copies of all the works issued from the press of the distinguished Irish university.

WALTER LINTON, of Waterloo, writes that Hagyard's Yellow Oil has done great good in his family, his wife being cured of Callouse lumps that other medicines failed to remove, he he also states that a neighbor was promptly relieved of Rheumatism by the same remedy.

EARL DUFFERIN is reported to have written a despatch to the Foreign Office pointing out that Egypt is absolutely incapable of self-government, and if British troops remain there until the natives are taught to govern themselves, the country may be regarded as temporarily annexed.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate

IN DYSPEPSIA.

Francis H. Atkins, A. A. Surgeon, U. S. A., says: "For dyspepsia, whether in the lean or corpulent, in nervous debility and in night sweats of consumption, it has commonly given speedy benefit, and some of my army friends are quite enthusiastic about it."

Answer This Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitaliser, guaranteed to cure them. For sale by D. J. Tully

MR. THOMAS W. RACE, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell Recorder, writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Billiousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work. The medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms.

A SURE THING!

Clothing again! Well, it's about the most interesting topic we can talk of just now. It's the season when clothing is most needed, and the season we must sell it, so you see it interests us both. Our stock of Clothing for this time of year is large, our assortment unusually complete, facts of great advantage to buyers, and of some advantage to us, as it enables us the better to suit you. We want to hurry the out-ward movement of our stock and consequently will give a decent discount to prompt cash buyers. This reduction is made solely with a view to working off in proper season our immense Stock, and not because the goods are in any respect undesirable. Our clothing is built of strong serviceable fabrics, well and carefully made, and with trimming warranted to wear. Every style of goods from plain and sturdy to the most elegant. Nothing slighted,—except our profits.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An EXTERNAL MEANS of CURING SKIN DISEASES.—There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferer for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalcule which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produce a clear, healthy natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d.

SULPHOLINE LOTION, a FLUID peculiar in itself, is the most potent enemy to all Skin Disorders. Nothing like Sulpholine has ever before been produced, nor is there anything else in the least degree comparable for its Healthy Action on the Human Skin.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—The first idea of Sulpholine was taken from a prescription of the late Dr. Startin, and every year it is used adds more and more favourably to its widly increasing reputation. Anyone, however deeply and hopelessly afflicted with Skin Disease, should apply Sulpholine as quickly as possible. In two or three days the effect will become apparent in a diminished appearance of the malady, a growing tendency to fade away, and complete obliteration of the eruption.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—BOTTLES CONTAINING NEARLY HALF A PINT.—SOLD BY CHEMISTS EVERYWHERE. Made in London, Eng.

Is a specific remedy for neuralgia, ague, indigestion, fevers of every kind, chest affections, and in wasting diseases, scrofulous tendencies, &c. The whole frame is greatly invigorated by Pepper's Tonic, the mental faculties brightened, the constitution greatly strengthened, and a return to robust health certain. Bottles, 32 doses, 4s. 6d.; next size, 11s. Sold by chemists everywhere. The name of J. Pepper, Bedford Laboratory, London, must be on the label. There is no Tonic so certain in effect as Pepper's Quinine and Iron. It is strongly recommended to residents in India and the Colonies, and should always be kept ready for use in every case of fever or febrile condition.

TARAXACUM and PODOPHYLLIN.—Prepared only by J. Pepper, London. This Fluid combination, extracted from medicinal roots, is now used instead of blue pill and calomel for the cure of dyspepsia, biliousness, and all symptoms of congestion of the liver, which are generally pain beneath the shoulders, head-ache, drowsiness, no appetite, furred tongue, disagreeable taste in the morning, giddiness, disturbance of the stomach, and feeling of general depression. It sets the sluggish liver in motion, very slightly acts on the bowels, giving a sense of health and comfort within 24 hours. It is the safest medicine. Taraxacum and Podophyllin is a fluid made only by J. PEPPER, Bedford Laboratory, London, whose name is on every label. Bottles, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6. Sold by all Chemists. A most valuable and essential medicine for India, Australia, the Cape, and Colonies generally.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE BALL ROLLING.—On Friday evening, the 9th February, according to announcement, Mr. Carnegie addressed a large meeting, considering the state of the roads, in our Town Hall, on the questions of the day, Mr. Thos. Telford occupying the chair. After a few preliminary remarks, Mr. Carnegie took square at the Boundary question, giving a plain and interesting statement from the first stage of its existence to the present complication between the Dominion and Provincial Governments, showing the stand Sir John Macdonald always took on the subject. In discussing the Streams Bill, he explained thoroughly and lucidly the nature of the case in all its bearings, showing that the statute books already contained an act giving all necessary power for any company to use any artificial works for the purpose of floating timber on paying sufficient sums for such improvements. He also gave a sketch of the finances of Ontario, and the lumbering policy of the Government. According to arrangements, Mr. John Bertram was allowed one hour to reply on behalf of Mr. Campbell. On the Boundary Award he told the same old story which has been often repeated, and failing to make a point against Sir John A. Macdonald. Mr. Meredith also received a touch of the brush for, as was alleged, changing front in compliance with orders from Ottawa. On the Streams Bill a very lame attempt was made to justify the Government in taking private property, but he forgot to tell us Mr. McLaren had been sustained in the Supreme Court. He did not come in contact with our license system, knowing well that had the commissioners been appointed by our municipal representatives we would not have had the license forced upon us in 1881 in spite of the people. Mr. Carnegie, in again answering Mr. Bertram, showed the necessity of getting those questions finally settled, which could only be done by returning the Opposition to power. After giving three cheers for the Queen, the two candidates, Mr. Bertram and the chairman, the meeting quietly dispersed.

Worth $3,000,000, but Dead at 39.

George W. Perkins, who died recently, was the youngest bank president in New York, being thirty-nine years of age at his death. He was the controlling spirit in the brilliant Richmond and Danville campaign of two years ago, and upon the inauguration of the Georgia Pacific scheme sold his Danville stock and bought heavily in the new company. He was a strong believer in Southern investments. There were four Perkins brothers, all of whom were bankers. Their home was Athens, Pa., and they came to New York poor, but thrifty and energetic, and each amassed a fortune. Mr. Perkins' early death is a type of many such in New York. He worked himself to death, and when his system was broken took rest in spasms of travel. He leaves a fortune of about $3,000,000, but that don't compensate for dying at thirty-nine.

THE NEW SALT FIELD.

BUFFALO, Feb. 13.—An evidence of the faith that salt men have in the newly discovered salt district at Warsaw is the fact that Mr. Guinlock, of Goderich, Ont., a salt producer whose plant there is valued at $70,000, has carefully examined the Warsaw territory and bought a tract on the eastern side of the valley near the State Line railroad, and expects to devote his attention to the manufacture in Warsaw. He will employ 70 men and turn out 500 barrels daily. The following comparative statement showing the number of gallons of brine required to make one bushel of salt in the various centres of salt production will prove of general interest: Sea water, 300 to 350; St. Catharines, Ont., 120; Zanesville, O., 95; Grand River, Ark, 80; Zanawha, W. THE MICHIGAN SENATOR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The Times' Detroit, despatch says that in the ballot for United States Senator yesterday, Ferry lacked fourteen votes of the choice. There was a good deal of supposed excitement before and during the balloting. Edward Ferry, the Senator's brother, has published a long attempt to explain the firm's business difficulties, but it is not received satisfactorily. Ex-Governor Baldwin lent the firm twenty thousand dollars in 1877, for which a deed of Chicago property was given as security with the request that it be withheld from record. This was done and the loan has been carried ever since. Now another deed covering the same property has been put upon record. Edward says this is attributable to forgetfulness and there was no design to deprive Baldwin of the security. The protested notes of the firm are on the increase. Members of the Legislature are investigating the allegations as to the management of the firm's business.

THE FLOOD IN CINCINNATI.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 14.—Additional floods were this morning caused by the fact that the river, after falling to 64 feet and 10¾ inches, began to rise under the influence of the steady hard rain. The rain advanced from the west and extended this morning as far as Pittsburgh. Unless it stops speedily there is no hope against a flood, while there are the gravest fears. The rain seriously embarrasses the work of the relief committee. Soup-houses will be opened to-day in various parts of the city. Bishop Elder has ordered all the Catholic churches open to accommodate the homeless and asks the churches to send contributions. Many cases of extreme destitution are reported. In some cases the frantic cries of the starving children for food are heartrending. The bakeries which are not inundated are pressed to their fullest capacity.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1883.

HARD UP.

MR. BERTRAM made a desperate attempt on Monday evening to fix upon Mr. Carnegie the charge of inconsistency, in the matter of his past and present position with regard to the Educational Department and ex post facto legislation.

Well here are the facts upon which Mr. Bertram rests his charge:—

During the session of 1870-1 Mr. Carnegie was a member of the Public Accounts Committee, whose report presented to the House contained the following clause:—

13. Your committee are of opinion that, in order to secure a more efficient control over the expenditure of moneys through the Educational office, that office should be made directly responsible to some member of the Government."

Which the logical and fairminded and chivalrous Mr. Bertram claims is a direct contradiction to the following paragraph in Mr. Carnegie's address:—

"The educational department under a political head not having proved a success, I shall favor a return to the non-political position which the department occupied when under the able management of the late Dr. Ryerson."

In the second place he read from the journals of 1868-9 the following motion made by Mr. Blake on the motion to adopt the report of the committee of the whole on an act to alter the law of dower and against which Mr. Carnegie voted, viz:

"That the reports be not now received, but that it be referred back to a committee of the whole, with instructions to amend the said bill by expunging so much thereof as destroys the right of dower in cases in which dower is now by law recoverable."

The reader who is familiar with Mr. Bertram's platform tactics will not be much surprised to learn that the bill against which this amendment was directed contains the following section:—

"24. All actions of dower which shall be pending at the time this act shall come into force, may be continued and carried on to judgment in like manner as if this act had not been passed."

Not very expost facto that, is it?"

THE ORGANIZED HYPOCRICY.

The Peterborough Grit organ has the following:—

"If there is any instance, which does not come under the cognizance of the committee, of an elector being approached with proposal of bribery, the party so insulted is requested to communicate with the President of the association."

We are reminded of Mr. Montague Tigg, who said, "Sir, after the manner in which you have treated me, I trust you will not insult me with less than half a crown!" Again we read:—

"The Reform party of this riding are bound, in view of the active part taken in this election by the Dominion Government, to see that bribery, intimidation, and corrupt practices are reduced to a minimum."

Doesn't this sound familiar:—"Come along John and put down bribery and corruption; we have lots of money."—Mail.

TRICKY MR. MOWAT.

THE Toronto Telegram, a professedly independent journal, but with decided leaning towards the Mowat administration, says:—

"It is not likely that there will be any announcement made in regard to the vacant portfolios in the Mowat Ministry until after the elections. The philosophy of the thing is this: if the portfolios are filled before the election there will be disappointment in several constituencies and rejoicing only in the favored ones, whereas if half-a-dozen aspirants go to half-a-dozen constituencies, each of these constituencies will expect that it will get a cabinet minister. It will therefore be seen that more good is done the Government by holding back the appointments than by making them. There are tricks in all trades."

Who Marry the People?

Statistics are out showing beyond any doubt that the Old Church is yet the church of the people of England. The marriages last year were performed as follows: by Roman Catholic priests, 1247; by registrars, 2,499; by Dissenters, 1,229; by the Church of England, 26,737; that is, out of every 100 marriages more than 48 took place in the Old Church.—Dominion Churchman.

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents a week.

THE MIDLAND HARBOR.

The Mail's Ottawa correspondent contains the following:—

"A deputation, consisting of the Hon. Mr. Bowell, Messrs. Williams (South Victoria), Cochrane, McCarthy, Burnham, Hilliard and Dundas, had an audience on Monday with the Minister of Public Works, asking for a grant to assist in completing the works now in progress in Midland harbor.

"Petitions from the Midland Railway, from the village of Midland, and other municipalities, praying for assistance, has been received by the Minister. The subject was introduced by Mr. Dundas, member for South Victoria, who presented the following interesting figures respecting the expenditure made by the Midland Railway on that harbor, and the estimate of the amount required to complete the works; also as to the trade of that port, which originated only two years ago, and has since obtained wonderful proportions:—

Cost of elevator	$140,000
Cost of wharves	90,000
Total	$230,000

"This expenditure was made without any assistance of any kind, either from Government or municipality. It is estimated that there will be required to finish the improvements in the harbor, now in progress, about $60,000, and to assist in these improvements the Midland railway ask for an appropriation. The quantity of grain passing over Midland harbor for the fourteen months ending November, 1882, was, inward, 2,598,183 bushels; outward, 150,000; total, 2,748,183 bushels, besides a very large quantity of merchandise. The Customs revenue collected at the port of Midland during the season of 1882, the first year the port was opened, was $16,000. The whole business has originated and developed by the Midland Railway, and it is expected will largely be increased. The deputation was cordially received by Sir Hector Langevin, who promised to give the subject the fullest consideration."

DR. WIGGINS' STORM.

The Professor on His Storm Which Did Not Come—A Great Burden Off His Mind—The Great March Storm Not to be so Bad After All.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—Your corresponded interviewed Dr. Wiggins this morning in reference to the storm of unusual severity which he predicted for yesterday, but which did not come to time. The Doctor said the storm did not pass over this continent in its greatest strength for the following reason: The astronomers' day begins at 12 o'clock noon on the London meridian, which the calendar day begins at 12 o'clock night. In the coming storm he calculated that the western hemisphere would at a certain moment be turned toward the planetary forces which would cause the storm, but unluckily he took the astronomers' day for the calendar's, which he discovered at twelve o'clock last night. This accounts for the storm not being experienced. Its greatest force was in the vicinity of Australia. Branches of the storm were severe on the parallel of central New York, Ontario and north of this latitude. He said he was the only meteorologist in the world who ever predicted a great future storm and this is the only occasion he found necessary to rise and explain. Though he regretted the mistake he was relieved of a great burden as hundreds would have become insane with fear had it occurred in anticipation of the March storm. He has now foreseen that the March storm will be very disappointing to the public because at its inception it will be but a few degrees wide and will require some days to complete its course.—Witness.

Innovations at a Gipsy Marriage.

The rising generation of gipsies in England are improving in one branch of knowledge, at all events, whatever Mr. George Smith may say to the contrary. A few days ago a wedding took place between two of these wanderers at a Cheshire church, and the description given of the costumes worn by the bride and bridesmaid—there was only one interesting damsel in attendance—leaves no doubt that gipsy taste in dress is accommodating itself to the spirit of the age. The bride wore a dark green gown, made a la mode, and her raven locks were crowned with a wreath of golden ivy leaves. But, to suit gipsy requirements, she also sported a white lace apron instead of a veil, and carried a coquettish little cap above the golden wreath. The bridesmaid was even more gorgeously adorned, her dress being composed of peacock-blue velveteen, and her head decked out with pink chrysanthemums. It is not related that any sunflowers or lillies were used, but, now that gipsydom has learnt to appreciate peacock-blue, all the rest of the æsthetic paraphernalia may be expected to receive Romany patronage. The very fact that this wedding took place at a parish church shows that the Bohemian nature is undergoing metamorphosis.

Another Lizard.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 9.—A short time before Christmas a niece of Mr. Dunbar, living on York street, while drinking from a water works tap, felt something pass down her throat. She could not imagine what it was, but in the course of a day or two began to experience great pain, and medical aid had to be summoned. The doctor decided she had swallowed a fish or something of the kind, which had passed through the pipes from the reservoir, and treated the patient accordingly. Under this treatment, in the course of a few days, she recovered so far as to be able to go about as usual, without experiencing any trouble. This continued until Tuesday last, when she threw up a lizard, about four inches long. She has now completely recovered, and is quite ready to laugh at the unpleasant experience through which she has passed. A neighbor named Reed received a fish from the same source a few days ago, but was fortunate enough to get it in a pail of water, and now keeps it as trophy.

Arabi's Family.

The Cairo correspondent of the Daily Chronicle states that members of Arabi Pacha's family who still remain in Egypt are in a perfectly destitute condition. They live in daily expectation of being ejected from their homes and Egyptian territory, and have been threatened that this step will be carried into effect. Up to the present the family have, through a feeling of pride, refused all friendly aid, but unless substantial help is forthcoming they must suffer from actual want. Some of them state that they are quite willing to proceed to England or anywhere else where they could feel assured of protection. Those who were appointed to protect the interests of Arabi's relatives are distrusted by them, while the Egyptian troops, who act as sentries, are continually interfering with the movements of the family and rendering life generally as unpleasant as it can possibly be under such circumstances.

A REMINISCENCE OF TRAVEL.

"A travelling man has many queer experiences," said W. D. Franklin the other evening at the Abbott House while conversing with some gentlemen. The speaker was a young man with a fine, intelligent face—a man well known in this State from his active efforts in behalf of the Continental Collection Union of Cincinnati, of which he is connected. "I have just been reading in this paper," continued Mr. Franklin, tapping a copy of the Kansas City Times, "an article on a popular remedy, which recalls a reminiscence of Kentucky travel. I think it was last fall that I was going from Lebanon to Springfield, Kentucky, in a stage coach, and I was glad of an opportunity to talk to one of the passengers, a very pretty and intelligent young lady. You know how soon persons become acquainted under such circumstances and grow communicative. We were not exceptions to the rule. I do not rember how the subject of rheumatism came to be mentioned, but we found ourselves talking about it quite seriously. Before dropping the subject, which is by no means the most agreeable in a stage coach on a cold autumn day, the lady told me of a most remarkable cure wrought by the Great German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, about which everybody in this Western country seems to be going crazy. She stated that her sister was a great sufferer from rheumatism and despaired of getting well. Physicians had exhausted their skill and medicine in treating her. Seeing the advertisement of St. Jacobs Oil in the papers, she thought it might help her. So she commenced to use it with some faint hope of obtaining relief, but scarcely expected a cure. She received relief immediately after commencing to use the Oil, and was finally cured. And now," added Mr. Franklin, "I see that the remedy is curing all the horses in Cole's Circus, so that it must be a specific for pain both in man and beast. It certainly has obtained great popularity, for I meet with its devotees wherever I go."

A man who sometimes contributes articles for the press was sitting in the company and participated in the conversation which followed the above statement upon the merits of St. Jacobs Oil. Subsequently the writer mentioned the German Remedy in the presence of S. J. Lambert, proprietor of the Abbott House, and received the prompt information from that gentleman that St. Jacobs Oil was the best rheumatic specific. "It has cured myself and wife," said Mr. Lambert, "of rheumatism. We both had rheumatism—inflammatory rheumatism, too—and had it bad. I believed in the remedy which every one was praising and used it. I have ever since been glad that I did so, for both myself and my wife realized speedy relief and cure. The St. Jacobs Oil is a splendid curative power, in short, it is just the best of liniments."
